v.

MARCUS L. WELTON,
Defendant-Appellant.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Western District of Wisconsin.

No. 08-CR-39-BBC-01
Barbara B. Crabb, Judge.

Order

Our most recent decision in this criminal prosecution remanded to the district court for reconsideration in light of United States v. Corner, 598 F.3d 411 (7th Cir. 2010) (en banc).

On remand, the district judge reduced Welton's sentence from 188 to 151 months' imprisonment, adjusting for the crack-powder ratio in the Sentencing

* This successive appeal has been submitted to the original panel under Operating Procedure 6(b). After examining the briefs and the record, we have concluded that oral argument is unnecessary. See Fed. R. App. P. 34(a); Cir. R. 34(f).

Guidelines. Welton has taken another appeal. His lawyer has filed an Anders brief, observing that the district court carried out this court's instructions and that the reduced sentence cannot plausibly be contested as unreasonably high. Welton was notified of counsel's position but has not used his opportunity, see Circuit Rule 51, to respond.

Counsel's evaluation of the appeal is accurate. The only issue is how (if at all) to adjust the sentence in light of the discretion recognized by Corner. The district judge used that discretion, and an attack on the 151-month term would be frivolous. Counsel's motion to withdraw is granted, and the appeal is dismissed as frivolous.
