MEMORANDUM*

On Petition for Review of an Order of the Board of Immigration Appeals

Submitted June 26, 2017

Before: PAEZ, BEA, and MURGUIA, Circuit Judges.

Rodrigue Boundji Efalesma, native and citizen of the Democratic Republic of Congo, petitions for review of the Board of Immigration Appeals' order dismissing his appeal from an immigration judge's decision denying his application for asylum, withholding of removal, and relief under the Convention Against Torture

* This disposition is not appropriate for publication and is not precedent except as provided by Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3.

 The panel unanimously concludes this case is suitable for decision without oral argument. See Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2).

(“CAT”). We have jurisdiction under 8 U.S.C. § 1252. We review for substantial evidence the agency’s factual findings, applying the standards governing adverse credibility determinations created by the REAL ID Act, Shrestha v. Holder, 590 F.3d 1034, 1039-40 (9th Cir. 2010), and we deny the petition for review.

Substantial evidence supports the agency’s adverse credibility determination based on inconsistencies as to the circumstances of Efalesa’s father’s disappearance and whether he remained missing, details of the alleged attack against Efalesa, and when Efalesa believed his father was in danger. See id. at 1046-47 (although inconsistencies no longer need to “go to the heart” of the claim under the REAL ID Act, where an inconsistency does go to the heart of the claim, “it doubtless is of great weight”). Efalesa’s explanations do not compel a contrary result. See Lata v. INS, 204 F.3d 1241, 1245 (9th Cir. 2000). In the absence of credible testimony, in this case, Efalesa’s asylum and withholding of removal claims fail. See Farah v. Ashcroft, 348 F.3d 1153, 1156 (9th Cir. 2003).

Efalesa’s CAT claim also fails because it is based on the same testimony the agency found not credible, and Efalesa does not point to any evidence that compels the conclusion that it is more likely than not he would be tortured if returned to the Democratic Republic of Congo. See id. at 1156-57.

Efalema's motion to adopt the opening brief (Docket Entry No. 28) is granted.

PETITION FOR REVIEW DENIED.
