UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

v.)	WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS (Doc. 1)

)	BE FILED WITHIN TWENTY DAYS

Petitioner is a state prisoner proceeding through counsel with a petition for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254. On March 11, 2010, Petitioner filed the instant petition for writ of habeas corpus. (Doc. 1). On March 24, 2010, the Court ordered Respondent to file a response to the petition. (Doc. 5). On July 6, 2010, Respondent filed the Answer. (Doc. 12). On July 13, 2010, Petitioner filed his Traverse. (Doc. 15).

Petitioner challenges the California court decisions upholding a September 2, 2008, decision of the California Board of Parole Hearings (“BPH”). Petitioner claims the California courts unreasonably determined that there was some evidence that he posed a current risk of danger to the public if released on parole and that the BPH’s decision was arbitrary and was not based on “some evidence” in the record.

1 I. Preliminary Screening of the Petition.

2 Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases allows a district court to dismiss a petition
3 if it “plainly appears from the face of the petition and any exhibits annexed to it that the petitioner is 4 not entitled to relief in the district court” Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases.
5 The Court must summarily dismiss a petition “[i]f it plainly appears from the petition and any 6 attached exhibits that the petitioner is not entitled to relief in the district court....” Habeas Rule 4;
7 O’Bremski v. Maass, 915 F.2d 418, 420 (9th Cir. 1990); see also Hendricks v. Vasquez, 908 F.2d 490
8 (9th cir. 1990). Habeas Rule 2(c) requires that a petition (1) specify all grounds of relief available to 9 the Petitioner; (2) state the facts supporting each ground; and (3) state the relief requested. Notice 10 pleading is not sufficient; rather, the petition must state facts that point to a real possibility of 11 constitutional error. Rule 4, Advisory Committee Notes, 1976 Adoption; O’Bremski, 915 F.2d at 12 420. Allegations in a petition that are vague, conclusory, or palpably incredible are subject to 13 summary dismissal. Hendricks, 908 F.2d at 491.

14 Further, the Advisory Committee Notes to Rule 8 indicate that the Court may dismiss a 15 petition for writ of habeas corpus, either on its own motion under Rule 4, pursuant to the 16 respondent’s motion to dismiss, or after an answer to the petition has been filed. Advisory 17 Committee Notes to Habeas Rule 8, 1976 Adoption; see Herbst v. Cook, 260 F.3d 1039 (9th 18 Cir.2001).

19 II. Failure to State a Claim Cognizable Under Federal Habeas Corpus

20 On April 24, 1996, Congress enacted the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 21 1996 (AEDPA). The AEDPA imposes various requirements on all petitions for writ of habeas
22 corpus filed after the date of its enactment. Lindh v. Murphy, 521 U.S. 320, 117 S.Ct. 2059, 2063
23 (1997); Jeffries v. Wood, 114 F.3d 1484, 1499 (9th Cir. 1997) (en banc), cert. denied, 118 S.Ct. 586
24 (1997). The instant petition was filed on March 11, 2010, and thus, it is subject to the provisions of 25 the AEDPA.

26 Here, Petitioner alleges that he is an inmate of the California Department of Corrections and 27 Rehabilitation who is serving a sentence of 25 years-to-life imposed in the Kings County Superior
28 Court after Petitioner’s 1987 conviction for first degree murder. (Doc. 1, p. 18). Petitioner does not

1 challenge either his conviction or sentence; rather, Petitioner challenges the September 2, 2008
2 decision of the BPH finding him unsuitable for parole][the decision of the Governor of the State of 3 California rescinding the BPH’s earlier finding that Petitioner was suitable for parole].

4 Petitioner raises the following grounds for relief: (1) the BPH decision is not supported by 5 “some evidence,” as required under California law; and (2) the facts of the commitment offense
6 alone do not constitute some evidence of current dangerousness. (Doc. 1, pp. 22-39).

7 A. Substantive Due Process Claims And California’s “Some Evidence” Standard

8 As discussed more fully below, the claims in the petition sound exclusively in substantive 9 federal due process and therefore are not cognizable in these proceedings.

10 The basic scope of habeas corpus is prescribed by statute. Subsection (c) of Section 2241 of 11 Title 28 of the United States Code provides that habeas corpus shall not extend to a prisoner unless
12 he is “in custody in violation of the Constitution.” 28 U.S.C. § 2254(a) states that the federal courts 13 shall entertain a petition for writ of habeas corpus only on the ground that the petitioner “is in 14 custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States. 28 U.S.C. §§
15 2254(a), 2241(c)(3); Williams v. Taylor, 529 U.S. 362, 375 n. 7, 120 S.Ct. 1495 (2000); Wilson v.
16 Corcoran, 562 U.S. ___, 131 S.Ct. 13, 16 (2010); see also, Rule 1 to the Rules Governing Section
17 2254 Cases in the United States District Court. The Supreme Court has held that “the essence of 18 habeas corpus is an attack by a person in custody upon the legality of that custody . . .” Preiser v.
19 Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 475, 484 (1973). Furthermore, in order to succeed in a petition pursuant to 28
20 U.S.C. § 2254, Petitioner must demonstrate that the adjudication of his claim in state court resulted 21 in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established
22 Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States; or resulted in a decision that 23 was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the 24 State court proceeding. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1), (2).

25 Because California’s statutory parole scheme guarantees that prisoners will not be denied
26 parole absent some evidence of present dangerousness, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has held 27 that California law creates a liberty interest in parole that may be enforced under the Due Process
28 Clause. Hayward v. Marshall, 602 F.3d 546, 561-563 (9th Cir.2010); Pearson v. Muntz, 606 F.3d

1 606, 608-609 (9th Cir. 2010); Cooke v. Solis, 606 F.3d 1206, 1213 (2010), rev'd, Swarthout v.
2 Cooke, ___ U.S. ___, ___ S.Ct. ___, 2011 WL 197627 (Jan. 24, 2011). The Ninth Circuit instructed
3 reviewing federal district courts to determine whether California's application of California's "some 4 evidence" rule was unreasonable or was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light
5 of the evidence. Hayward v. Marshall, 603 F.3d at 563; Pearson v. Muntz, 606 F.3d at 608.

6 On January 24, 2011, the Supreme Court issued a per curiam opinion in Swarthout v. Cooke,
7 562 U.S. ___, ___ S.Ct. ___, 2011 WL 197627 (No. 10-133, Jan. 24, 2011). In that decision, the 8 United States Supreme Court characterized as reasonable the decision of the Court of Appeals for the 9 Ninth Circuit that California law creates a liberty interest in parole protected by the Fourteenth
10 Amendment's Due Process Clause, which in turn requires fair procedures with respect to the liberty
11 interest. Swarthout, 2011 WL 197627, *2.

12 However, the procedures required for a parole determination are the minimal requirements
13 set forth in Greenholtz v. Inmates of Neb. Penal and Correctional Complex, 442 U.S. 1, 12, 99 S.Ct.
14 2100 (1979).¹ Swarthout v. Cooke, 2011 WL 197627, *2. In Swarthout, the Court rejected inmates'
15 claims that they were denied a liberty interest because there was an absence of "some evidence" to 16 support the decision to deny parole. In doing so, the High Court stated as follows:

17 There is no right under the Federal Constitution to be conditionally released before the 18 expiration of a valid sentence, and the States are under no duty to offer parole to their 19 prisoners. (Citation omitted.) When, however, a State creates a liberty interest, the Due 20 Process Clause requires fair procedures for its vindication—and federal courts will review the 21 application of those constitutionally required procedures. In the context of parole, we have 22 held that the procedures requires are minimal. In Greenholtz, we found that a prisoner
23 subject to a parole statute similar to California's received adequate process when he was 24 allowed an opportunity to be heard and was provided a statement of the reasons why parole
25 was denied. (Citation omitted.)

22 Swarthout, 2011 WL 197627, *2.

23 The Court concluded that the petitioners had received the due process to which they were 24 due:

25 They were allowed to speak at their parole hearings and to contest the evidence against them,

27 ¹ In Greenholtz, the Court held that a formal hearing is not required with respect to a decision concerning granting 28 or denying discretionary parole and that due process is sufficient to permit the inmate to have an opportunity to be heard and to be given a statement of reasons for the decision made. Id. at 15-16. The decision maker is not required to state the evidence relied upon in coming to the decision. Id.

1 were afforded access to their records in advance, and were notified as to the reasons why
2 parole was denied...

3 That should have been the beginning and the end of the federal habeas courts' inquiry into 4 whether [the petitioners] received due process.

5 Swarthout, 2011 WL 197627, *3. The Court went on to expressly point out that California's "some 6 evidence" rule is not a substantive federal requirement, and correct application of the State's "some 7 evidence" standard is not required by the federal Due Process Clause. Id. at *3. The Supreme Court
8 emphasized that "the responsibility for assuring that the constitutionally adequate procedures
9 governing California's parole system are properly applied rests with California courts, and is no part 10 of the Ninth Circuit's business." Id.

11 Swarthout forecloses any claim premised upon California's "some evidence" rule because 12 this Court cannot entertain substantive due process claims related to a state's application of its own
13 laws. Here, the two claims in the petition sound exclusively in substantive due process and are 14 therefore foreclosed from federal habeas review by Swarthout. Review of the record for "some 15 evidence," or for a "nexus" between present dangerousness and certain indicia, or for the BPH's
16 exclusive reliance upon the unchanging circumstances of the commitment offense to support denial
17 of parole, are simply not within the ambit of this Court's habeas review under 28 U.S.C. § 2254.
18 Accordingly, the petition should be summarily dismissed.

19 Moreover, to the extent that the claims in the petition rest solely on state law, they are not 20 cognizable on federal habeas corpus. Federal habeas relief is not available to retry a state issue that 21 does not rise to the level of a federal constitutional violation. Wilson v. Corcoran, 562 U.S. ___, 131
22 S.Ct. 13, 16 (2010); Estelle v. McGuire, 502 U.S. 62, 67-68, 112 S.Ct. 475 (1991). Alleged errors in 23 the application of state law are not cognizable in federal habeas corpus. Souch v. Schiavo, 289 F.3d
24 616, 623 (9th Cir. 2002). Indeed, federal courts are bound by state court rulings on questions of state
25 law. Oxborrow v. Eikenberry, 877 F.2d 1395, 1399 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 942 (1989).

26 B. Procedural Due Process

27 Petitioner has neither claimed nor established a violation of his federal right to procedural 28 due process. In the petition, Petitioner has included a transcript of the BPH hearing . (Doc. 1, Ex. B,

1 p. 47 et seq.). From that transcript, it is clear that Petitioner was present at the BPH hearing (id.),
2 that he had an opportunity to be heard (e.g., id., p. 91 et seq.), that he was represented by counsel
3 who also attended the hearing and argued on Petitioner’s behalf (id., p. 81 et seq.), and that Petitioner
4 received a statement of the Board’s reasons for denying parole. (Doc. 1, Ex. B, pp. 138-144).

5 According to the Supreme Court, this is “the beginning and the end of the federal habeas
6 courts’ inquiry into whether [the prisoner] received due process.” Swarthout, 2011 WL 197627.
7 “The Constitution does not require more [process].” Greenholtz, 442 U.S. at 16. Therefore, the 8 instant petition does not present cognizable claims for relief and should be summarily dismissed.

9 RECOMMENDATION

10 For the foregoing reasons, the Court HEREBY RECOMMENDS that the instant petition for 11 writ of habeas corpus (Doc. 1), be SUMMARILY DISMISSED for failure to state a claim upon 12 which federal habeas relief can be granted.

13 This Findings and Recommendation is submitted to the United States District Court Judge
14 assigned to this case, pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. section 636 (b)(1)(B) and Rule 304 of 15 the Local Rules of Practice for the United States District Court, Eastern District of California.
16 Within twenty (20) days after being served with a copy, any party may file written objections with 17 the court and serve a copy on all parties. Such a document should be captioned “Objections to 18 Magistrate Judge’s Findings and Recommendation.” Replies to the objections shall be served and 19 filed within ten (10) court days (plus three days if served by mail) after service of the objections.
20 The Court will then review the Magistrate Judge’s ruling pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636 (b)(1)(C). The 21 parties are advised that failure to file objections within the specified time may waive the right to 22 appeal the District Court’s order. Martinez v. Ylst, 951 F.2d 1153 (9th Cir. 1991).

24 IT IS SO ORDERED.
