SEAN F. MCAVOY, CLERK

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

GLENNDA GENTLE,

Plaintiff,

v.

WAL-MART ASSOCIATES INC., a foreign corporation,

Defendant.

No. 2:18-cv-00325-SMJ

ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR SETTLEMENT APPROVAL AND
MOTION TO SEAL

Before the Court, without oral argument, are the parties' Joint Motion to Approve Settlement and Dismiss Case with Prejudice, ECF No. 19, and Joint Motion to File Confidential Settlement Agreement Under Seal for Purposes of Court Approval of Settlement, ECF No. 20. The parties seek the Court's approval of a negotiated settlement resolving Plaintiff's claims under the Fair Labor Standards Act ("FLSA") and request the settlement agreement be sealed. The parties have, however, failed to put forth a specific factual basis establishing either that the proposed settlement is fair and consistent with the FLSA's purposes or that a compelling need for confidentiality outweighs the public's interest in transparency in the judicial process. Accordingly, the Court denies both motions.

ORDER DENYING MOTION FOR SETTLEMENT APPROVAL AND
MOTION TO SEAL - 1

1 A. The Court cannot approve the proposed settlement agreement

2 The parties first seek judicial approval of a settlement resolving Plaintiff's 3 FLSA claims. ECF No. 19. Plaintiff sued Defendant Wal-Mart Associates, Inc.
4 ("Walmart") more than a year ago, seeking damages under the FLSA for Walmart's 5 allegedly willful failure to compensate her for hours worked, as well as for breach 6 of contract. See generally ECF No. 1. After Walmart filed an answer and the Court 7 held a scheduling conference, the case remained dormant for nearly ten months. See 8 ECF Nos. 8, 16. The parties now move for judicial approval of their negotiated 9 settlement, by which Plaintiff agrees to dismiss all claims against Walmart with 10 prejudice in exchange for a sum of $19,000. See ECF No. 19 at 1–2; ECF No. 21 at 11 2–3.

12 The FLSA is intended to protect workers from "substandard wages and 13 oppressive working hours" by giving employees a private federal cause of action to 14 recover back wages. See Lynn's Food Stores, Inc. v. United States, 679 F.2d 1350, 15 1352 (11th Cir. 1982) (quoting Barrentine v. Arkansas-Best Freight System, 450 16 U.S. 728 (1981)). To ensure the FLSA's objectives are not undermined by the 17 "often great inequalities in bargaining power between employers and employees," 18 the Court must scrutinize any proposed settlement of an employee's FLSA claims 19 for fairness. Id. In doing so, the Court's task is to determine if the settlement 20 constitutes a "fair and reasonable resolution of a bona fide dispute over FLSA

1 provisions.” Id. at 1355. Although the standards against which the Court evaluates 2 a proposed settlement have not been clearly announced in the Ninth Circuit, two 3 aspects of the analysis are clear.

4 First, before approving a proposed settlement, the Court must determine 5 whether a bona fide dispute in fact exists—that is, whether the parties genuinely 6 contest “the existence and extent of” the Defendant’s FLSA liability. Ambrosino v.
7 Home Depot U.S.A, Inc., No. 11CV1319 L MDD, 2014 WL 1671489, at *1 (S.D.
8 Cal. Apr. 28, 2014). To do so, the parties must provide the Court with a fundamental 9 understanding of the issues in the case. As one district court explained, 10 The parties’ motion (or presentation at a hearing) must describe the 11 nature of the dispute (for example, a disagreement over coverage, 12 exemption, or computation of hours worked or rate of pay) resolved by 13 the compromise. Parties wishing to compromise a coverage or 14 exemption issue must describe the employer’s business and the type of 15 work performed by the employee. The employer should articulate the 16 reasons for disputing the employee’s right to a minimum wage or 17 overtime, and the employee must articulate the reasons justifying his entitlement to the disputed wages. If the parties dispute the computation of wages owed, the parties must provide each party’s estimate of the number of hours worked and the applicable wage. In any circumstance, the district court must ensure the bona fides of the dispute; implementation of the FLSA is frustrated if an employer can extract a disproportionate discount on FLSA wages in exchange for an attenuated defense to payment.

18 Dees v. Hydradry, Inc., 706 F. Supp. 2d 1227, 1241–42 (M.D. Fla. 2010).

19 Once the Court is satisfied that the parties intend by the proposed settlement 20 to resolve a genuine dispute regarding the Defendant’s liability, it proceeds to 1 determine if the proposed settlement is fair and reasonable. Lynn's Food Stores, 2 Inc., 679 F.3d at 1355. "In reviewing a private FLSA settlement, the court's 3 obligation is not to act as caretaker but as gatekeeper; it must ensure that private 4 FLSA settlements are appropriate given the FLSA's purposes and that such 5 settlements do not undermine the Act's purposes." Goudie v. Cable Commc'ns, Inc., 6 No. CV 08-507-AC, 2009 WL 88336, at *1 (D. Or. Jan. 12, 2009). Courts adopt a 7 "totality of the circumstances" approach by which they consider, among other 8 relevant factors,

9 (1) [T]he plaintiff's range of possible recovery; (2) the stage of 10 proceedings and amount of discovery completed; (3) the seriousness of 11 the litigation risks faced by the parties; (4) the scope of any release 12 provision in the settlement agreement; (5) the experience and views of 13 counsel and the opinion of participating plaintiffs; and (6) the 14 possibility of fraud or collusion.

15 Selk v. Pioneers Mem'l Healthcare Dist., 159 F. Supp. 3d 1164, 1173 (S.D. Cal.
16 2016) (collecting cases). Ultimately, the Court may only approve a settlement which 17 has the "overall effect [] to vindicate, rather than frustrate, the purposes of the 18 FLSA." Id.

19 The Court cannot approve the parties' proposed settlement on the record 20 before it. The parties contend that "[b]ased on the contested nature of this litigation and the quality of the settlement, this Court should conclude that this Agreement is a reasonable resolution of a bona fide dispute." ECF No. 19 at 2. This threadbare

1 recital is insufficient. See Ambrosino, 2014 WL 1671489, at *2 (“The parties claims 2 are conclusory, and not supported by any evidence or analysis.”).

3 To begin, the Court cannot determine whether the proposed settlement will 4 resolve a bona fide dispute over Defendant’s FLSA liability. See Ambrosino, 2014 5 WL 1671489 at *1. More basically, the Court cannot even adequately discern the 6 nature of the dispute itself—the parties’ motion does no more than declare that 7 Plaintiff’s claims are premised on the FLSA and that Defendant “disputes [her] 8 claims and contends that [she] was fully compensated for all work performed.” ECF 9 No. 19 at 1. This perfunctory statement of the issues fails to sketch even the basics 10 of the parties’ contentions or the extent of Defendant’s potential liability. See Dees, 11 706 F. Supp. 2d at 1241–42. Without more, the Court cannot tell whether a genuine 12 dispute exists, and therefore cannot approve the proposed settlement. Lynn’s Food 13 Stores, Inc., 679 F.3d at 1355.

14 Even if the Court could advance to evaluating the settlement’s overall 15 fairness, the parties’ motion is also inadequate in that respect. The parties appear to 16 contend the Court may approve their agreement simply by examining “the quality 17 of the settlement.” Id. But they provide the Court with nothing by which to assess 18 that asserted quality. The Court can discern only the proposed settlement amount—19

1 $19,000¹—and ancillary, boilerplate settlement terms such as a general release of 2 Plaintiff’s claims, confidentiality provisions, etc. See ECF No. 21. The settlement 3 agreement is not self-evidently fair. And the parties’ motion for settlement approval 4 is silent as to Plaintiff’s range of possible recovery, the risks she would face at trial, 5 the scope of discovery to this point and the extent to which that discovery supports 6 or undermines Plaintiff’s claims. See Selk, 159 F. Supp. 3d at 1173. Accordingly, 7 as the motion is drafted, the Court is unable to conclude that the proposed settlement 8 is fair.

9 B. The parties fail to establish that sealing is justified

10 The parties also request the Court seal their proposed settlement agreement, 11 ECF No. 21. See ECF No. 20. Absent justification to the contrary, there is a general 12 presumption in favor of public access to the records of judicial proceedings. Nixon 13 v. Warner Commc’ns, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 597 (1978). The party requesting a 14 document be filed under seal must therefore provide “‘compelling reasons 15 supported by specific factual findings’ . . . that outweigh the general history of 16 access and the public policies favoring disclosure.” Kamakana v. City & Cty. of 17

18 ¹ Even with what detail the parties provide, the Court is concerned by the fact that 19 the parties’ agreement allocates only half of the total settlement to Plaintiff herself, 20 with the other half going to her counsel. See ECF No. 21 at 2; see also Kerzich v.
Cty. of Tuolumne, 335 F. Supp. 3d 1179, 1189 (E.D. Cal. 2018) (finding an “award of attorneys’ fees [] is excessive and renders the settlement unfair.”). If the parties renew their request for judicial approval of the proposed settlement on the same terms, they should be sure to explain why this allocation of settlement funds is fair.

1 Honolulu, 447 F.3d 1172, 1178–79 (9th Cir. 2006) (quoting Foltz v. State Farm
2 Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1135 (9th Cir. 2003)) (internal citations 3 omitted).

4 Although the presumption of public access generally does not apply to 5 settlement agreements, the requirement for judicial approval under the FLSA has 6 led most district courts to decline to seal FLSA settlement agreements. See Duran 7 v. Hershey Co., No. 14-CV-01184-RS, 2015 WL 4945931, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Aug.
8 10, 2015) (“While some district courts have indeed permitted FLSA settlement 9 agreements to be filed under seal, those decisions are generally threadbare and 10 uniformly fail to acknowledge the considerable body of law counseling against 11 sealing.”); see also Bernstein v. Target Stores, Inc., No. 13-CV-01018 NC, 2013 12 WL 5807581, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 28, 2013) (collecting cases).

13 The proposed settlement agreement contains the details of the parties’ 14 settlement, which both agree should remain confidential. ECF No. 21. They 15 generally contend that sealing of settlement agreements promotes the “amicable 16 resolution of disputes,” but this is no doubt the case in nearly all disputes.
17 ECF No. 20 at 4. The parties also contend that the “public interest in disclosure of 18 the terms of this settlement, if any, is minimal because this is a private settlement 19 reached exclusively between Plaintiff and Walmart.” Id. But this, too, is generally 20 true of all civil litigation, and fails to accord proper deference to the public’s interest

1 in the transparency of the judicial process. See Nixon, 435 U.S. at 597. In sum, the 2 parties fail to point to “compelling reasons supported by specific factual findings”
3 outweighing the presumption against sealing. Foltz, 331 F.3d at 1135. The motion 4 is therefore denied.

5 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

6 1. The parties’ Joint Motion to Approve Settlement and Dismiss Case
7 with Prejudice, ECF No. 19, is DENIED.

8 2. The parties’ Joint Motion to File Confidential Settlement Agreement 9 Under Seal for Purposes of Court Approval of Settlement, ECF No.
10 20, is DENIED.

11 A. The Clerk’s Office shall UNSEAL the document located at 12 ECF No. 21.

13 IT IS SO ORDERED. The Clerk’s Office is directed to enter this Order and 14 provide copies to all counsel.

15 DATED this 23rd day of December 2019.
