

STATE OF MAINE
CUMBERLAND, ss

SUPERIOR COURT
Docket No.: CR-15-7258

APR 20 2016

STATE OF MAINE

Plaintiff,

v.

STEVE M. RICCI

Defendant

ORDER

This matter came before the court on Defendant's motion for change of venue pursuant to M.R.U. Crim. P. 21(b)(1). For the following reasons, Defendant's motion to denied without prejudice.

The Defendant is charged with two counts of Criminal Threatening with a Dangerous Weapon, a class C offense. The Defendant is a resident of Portland, and according to counsel has an extensive criminal record, much of which has been well covered by various print, digital, and television media outlets. Counsel further asserts that this media coverage, both in its breadth and regularity over a course of years has had the effect of vilifying him to Cumberland County residents such that prejudice to him should be presumed and a change of venue ordered.

Defendant offered six exhibits during the brief hearing on his motion, which are exemplars of various examples of the media coverage dedicated to Defendant's historical alleged transgressions. However, affirmative Google searches for "Steven Ricci Portland, Maine" (Exh. 1) does not represent the type of passive but extensive and pervasive media coverage about the pending charges that the rule regarding change of venue because of pre-trial publicity envisions. First, none of the exhibits pertain to Defendant's current charge. Second, the fortuity that a Defendant has historically been the subject of media coverage for other alleged offenses that might be learned through active investigation is not enough, standing alone, to constitute presumed prejudice. Moreover, the modern reality that online newspaper readers may post their opinions under the "reader comments" section does not fundamentally alter the analysis at least as it pertains to whether this constitutes "presumed prejudice."

Counsel suggested that there has been one published news article about Defendant's current charge. Although that article was not admitted into evidence, even accepting it as true, that is not enough to constitute the type of invidious pre-trial coverage upon which a court could reasonably presume prejudice to the Defendant. There is a valuable and important intellectual distinction between pre-trial publicity for the current charge and historical publicity that the Defendant may have been subjected to in the near or distant past regarding unrelated charges.

The court therefore denies Defendant's motion without prejudice, recognizing that if it comes to pass that it is not possible to select an impartial jury, actual prejudice will have been demonstrated and a change of venue warranted. The focus of determining actual prejudice, of course, is "the impartiality of the available panel members," and not whether jurors are ignorant of the facts and issues involved. State v. Chesnel, 1999 ME 120, P6, 734 A.2d 1131, 1134.

Defendant's motion for change of venue is denied without prejudice.

The Clerk is directed to enter this Order on the unified criminal docket by reference pursuant to Maine Rule of Unified Criminal Procedure 53(a).
