MOTION DATE 11/30/2022

MOTION SEQ. NO. 001

DECISION + ORDER ON MOTION

The following e-filed documents, listed by NYSCEF document number (Motion 001) 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57

were read on this motion for ATTORNEY - FEES.

The underlying action arises out of plaintiff Elizabeth Saunders’s November 25, 2019 trip and fall within the apartment building located at 228 West 62nd Street, New York, New York (NYSCEF Doc. No. 16 [Kuller Aff. at ¶9]). Brett Kuller, while employed as an associate attorney at C&N, referred this matter to C&N and represented plaintiff in connection with this action from its commencement (Id. at ¶12). During the pendency of this action, C&N terminated Kuller’s employment over disagreements about the firm’s COVID-19 office protocols (Id. at ¶¶13-16). Kuller then formed his own firm—the Law Offices of Brett Kuller, P.C. (“BKPC”)—and plaintiff subsequently elected to substitute BKPC as her counsel of record in place of C&N (Id. at ¶18).

Pursuant to a stipulation dated April 15, 2021, C&N asserted a charging lien against any settlement or judgment obtained in this action, the value of which to be determined upon the conclusion of this action in the event the fee dispute could not be resolved by agreement (NYSCEF Doc. No. 22). BKPC subsequently partnered with Ramy Joudah to form Joudeh & Kuller, LLP (“J&K”), which continued to handle plaintiff’s case (Id. at ¶25).

On January 27, 2022, this action settled for $150,000 (Id.).

J&K now moves, by order to show cause, for an order, pursuant to Judiciary Law §475, directing a hearing to determine the value of Chopra & Nocerino, LLP’s (“C&N”) charging lien on any recovery in this action which, J&K argues, should be limited to no more than five percent of the contingency fee.

C&N opposes J&K’s motion, arguing that it is premature as J&K may be barred from obtaining any compensation for services rendered in plaintiff’s action in light of Joudeh’s December 1, 2022 guilty plea to federal criminal charges involving marijuana distribution and potential disbarment. C&N also requests the Court stay any such hearing pending the resolution of C&N’s civil action against, inter alia, J&K, Joudeh, and Kuller, entitled Chopra & Nocerino, LLP v Ramy H. Joudeh, Brett L. Kuller et al., in Supreme Court of New York, Nassau County under index number 613134/2021 (the “Nassau County Action”) in which C&N asserts claims against Joudeh and Kuller for, inter alia, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of loyalty, unfair competition, and unjust enrichment based upon allegations that Joudeh and Kuller stole the contents of C&N’s server and used this information to start a competing law firm, diverting forty-six cases of C&N’s cases, including the instant action (See NYSCEF Doc. No. 31). C&N argues that a stay is appropriate because, should it prevail on these claims in the Nassau County Action, J&K would not be entitled to any portion of the contingency fee earned in the instant action¹.

¹ C&N argues that J&K’s motion is procedurally defective because a Joshua Ram—a former partner of J&K, a defendant in the Nassau Action, and, at one point, an attorney of record in the instant action—was never served with the instant motion. However, J&K e-filed the instant motion and Ram was therefore notified of the instant motion through NYSCEF (See 22 NYCRR §202.5-b[f][2][ii]; see also, Jones v City of New York, 2015 NY Slip Op 30927[U], *5 [Sup Ct, NY County 2015])

For the reasons set forth below, J&K's motion is granted.

DISCUSSION

Judiciary Law §475 provides that

[f]rom the commencement of an action, special or other proceeding in any court or before any state, municipal or federal department, except a department of labor, or the service of an answer containing a counterclaim, or the initiation of any means of alternative dispute resolution including, but not limited to, mediation or arbitration, or the provision of services in a settlement negotiation at any stage of the dispute, the attorney who appears for a party has a lien upon his or her client's cause of action, claim or counterclaim, which attaches to a verdict, report, determination, decision, award, settlement, judgment or final order in his or her client's favor, and the proceeds thereof in whatever hands they may come; and the lien cannot be affected by any settlement between the parties before or after judgment, final order or determination. The court upon the petition of the client or attorney may determine and enforce the lien.

In this case, there is no dispute that C&N has asserted a valid charging lien. However, to the extent that the parties dispute the value of C&N's charging lien, J&K's motion is granted and this matter is to be set down for a hearing before a Special Referee to determine the value of C&N's fee measured by a percentage of the contingency "based on [C&N's] proportionate share of the work performed on the whole case" (Cohen v Grainger, Tesoriero & Bell, 81 NY2d 655, 658-659 [1993]) and upon consideration of "relevant factors including the amount of time spent by the attorneys on the case, the nature and quality of the work performed and the relative contributions of counsel toward achieving the outcome" (Rosado v Alhati, 109 AD3d 753, 753 [1st Dept 2013]; see also Bd. of Mgrs. of the Boro Park Vil.-Phase I Condominium v Boro Park Townhouse Assoc., 284 AD2d 237, 237 [1st Dept 2001]).

C&N's arguments in opposition are unavailing. As an initial matter, the Court rejects C&N's argument that Joudeh's guilty plea to federal criminal charges and potential disbarment impedes resolution of the instant fee dispute. "A lawyer forfeits his entire fee due to misconduct only where the misconduct relates to the representation for which the fees are sought" (Decolator, Cohen & DiPrisco, LLP v Lysaght, Lysaght & Kramer, P.C., 304 AD2d 86, 91 [1st Dept 2003] [law firm did not forfeit right to attorneys' fees for services rendered in negligence action despite its principal shareholders being convicted of federal racketeering charges]), which is not the case here. Moreover, even a future disbarment would not prevent J&K from seeking its percentage of the contingency fee based on services performed prior to the disbarment (See Id.).

Neither is it appropriate to stay such a hearing until the conclusion of the Nassau Action. C&N's argument that the conclusion of that action may moot the need for such a hearing is belied by the order of Justice Jerome C. Murphy in the Nassau County Action, in which he expressly directed that since it appears likely that Plaintiff and Defendants, may both have a contested interest in the future fees concerning these 46 cases, that the attorney/law firm defendants are to place into an escrow account, or an attorney trust account, the disputed portion, of any fees that each claim to be entitled to and if the lawyers cannot agree in writing on the appropriate and ethical allocation of attorney fees, the lawyers are to, if required seek arbitration, or if not required to seek arbitration, to make a motion to the judge assigned to each case to get their fees allocated and paid (NYSCEF Doc. No. 33 [emphasis added]). As such, the hearing sought here will in no way conflict with the Nassau County Action but is, in fact, entirely consonant with that action.

Accordingly, it is

This constitutes the decision and order of the Court.
