11 OPINION AND DECISION
12 AFTER RECONSIDERATION
13 (EN BANC)

14 On April 3, 2006, the Appeals Board granted reconsideration of the January 12, 2006
15 Conclusion of Law and Finding of Fact, wherein the workers' compensation administrative law 16 judge ("WCJ") concluded that the revised permanent disability rating schedule adopted on 17 January 1, 2005, pursuant to Labor Code section 4660,<sup>1</sup> is applicable only to injuries occurring on 18 or after that date, and that the permanent disability rating schedule previously in effect applies to 19 all injuries which occur prior to January 1, 2005.

20 Defendant, Republic Indemnity Company of America ("defendant"), filed a petition for 21 reconsideration challenging the WCJ's interpretation of section 4660(d). Defendant contends the 22 proper interpretation of this provision requires that the revised permanent disability rating 23 schedule be applied to all claims pending after the effective date of the rating schedule unless one 24 of the exceptions in section 4660(d) applies. Defendant argues that the WCJ's interpretation 25 delays the implementation of the revised permanent disability rating schedule, and thus is in 26 conflict with the legislative declaration of emergency intending to immediately implement the 27 revised permanent disability rating schedule, and is in conflict with the clear and ambiguous statutory language. Alternatively, defendant seeks the removal of this matter to the Appeals Board

1 under section 5310, asserting that it will suffer significant prejudice and irreparable harm if it is 2 required to litigate basic issues of liability for compensation under what it contends is an 3 erroneous interpretation of the law.

4 The Appeals Board granted reconsideration in this matter to allow time to study the record 5 and applicable law.<sup>2</sup> Because of the important legal issue presented as to the meaning and 6 application of Senate Bill (SB) 899 (Stats. 2004, ch. 34) enacted April 19, 2004, with regard to the 7 applicability of the revised permanent disability rating schedule, and in order to secure uniformity
8 of decision in the future, the Chairman of the Appeals Board, upon a majority vote of its members, 9 assigned this case to the Appeals Board as a whole for an en banc decision. (Lab. Code, §115.)<sup>3</sup>

10 Based on our review of the relevant statutory and case law, we hold that the revised 11 permanent disability rating schedule, adopted by the Administrative Director of the Division of 12 Worker's Compensation, effective January 1, 2005, applies to injuries occurring on or after that 13 date, and that in cases of injury occurring prior to January 1, 2005, the revised permanent disability

16 <sup>2</sup> A petition for reconsideration is properly taken only from a "final" order, decision, or award. (Lab. Code, §§ 17 5900(a), 5902, 5903.) Ordinarily, a "final" order is a non-interlocutory decision which determines a substantive right 18 or liability. (Maranian v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1068, 1075 [65 Cal.Comp.Cases 650];
Rymer v. Hagler (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 1171, 1180; Safeway Stores, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Pointer)
(1980) 104 Cal.App.3d 528, 534-535 [45 Cal.Comp.Cases 410]; Kaiser Foundation Hospitals v. Workers' Comp.
Appeals Bd. (Kramer) (1978) 82 Cal.App.3d 39, 45 [43 Cal.Comp.Cases 661].)

19 Under limited circumstances, however, an interim WCAB decision may be deemed a "final" order if it 20 determines a "threshold" issue. (Maranian, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th 1068, 1073-1081; Graham v. Workers' Comp.
Appeals Bd. (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 499, 503 [54 Cal.Comp.Cases 160]; Kosowski v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd.
21 (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 632, 636 [50 Cal.Comp.Cases 427]; Pointer, supra, 104 Cal.App.3d at pp. 532-535.) A 22 "threshold" issue has variously been described as "a substantial issue fundamental to the ... claim for benefits," "an 23 issue critical to the claim for benefits," or "an issue that is basic to the establishment of the ... right[] to benefits."
(Maranian, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1070, 1075, 1078.) If a WCAB decision resolves a "threshold" issue, then it is a "final" decision, whether or not all issues are resolved or there is an ultimate decision on the right to benefits.
(Rea v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Milbauer) (2005) 127 Cal.App.4th 625, 642 [70 Cal.Comp.Cases 312]; Wal-
Mart Stores, Inc. v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (Garcia) (2003) 112 Cal.App.4th 1435, 1438, fn. 2 [68
Cal.Comp.Cases 1575]; Maranian, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at p. 1075.)

24 We conclude that the issue of whether or not the revised permanent disability schedule applies here is a 25 "threshold" issue that is "fundamental," "critical," and "basic" to Aldi's claim for permanent disability benefits.
Therefore, we will treat the WCJ's decision as a "final" order (although, had we deemed it a "non-final" order, we could have considered the order on removal in any event). Accordingly, we will not address defendant's petition for removal.

27 <sup>3</sup> The Appeals Board's en banc decisions are binding precedent on all Appeals Board panels and WCJ's. (Cal.
Code Regs., tit. 8, §10341; Gee v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Board (2002) 96 Cal.App.4th 1418, 1425, fn. 6 [67
Cal.Comp.Cases 236, 239, fn. 6]; see also Govt. Code, §11425.60(b).)

1 rating schedule applies, unless one of the exceptions delineated in the third sentence of section 2 4660(d) is present. We return this matter to the WCJ to consider in the first instance whether any 3 exception to the application of the revised permanent disability rating schedule is present based 4 upon the facts of this case.

5 Background

6 At a hearing on January 6, 2006, the parties stipulated that applicant, Elizabeth Aldi, while 7 employed as a legal secretary by Carr, McClellan, Ingersoll, Thompson & Horn, during a 8 cumulative period ending November 18, 2002, sustained an industrial cumulative trauma injury to 9 her neck and upper extremities. The parties agreed to submit a single issue for decision at the 10 hearing, which was framed as: “Whether the permanent disability rating schedule adopted by the 11 Administrative Director of the Division of Worker’s Compensation as of January 1, 2005 is 12 applicable to the injury in this case or whether the rating schedule in effect prior to January 1, 13 2005 is applicable.” The parties agreed to defer all other issues. In its verified petition for 14 reconsideration, defendant asserts that none of the exceptions to the application of the revised 15 permanent disability rating schedule are present. (See Petition, p. 3, ll. 2-9.) Applicant, in her 16 answer to the defendant’s petition, however, contends that even if we reject the WCJ’s conclusion 17 of law, she is still entitled to have her permanent disability rated according to the old schedule 18 because the initial payment of temporary disability in 2003 triggered the requirement that 19 defendant give notice under section 4061, which is one of the exceptions in section 4660(d).

20 The WCJ issued his determination on January 12, 2006, and cogently set forth his analysis
21 of the issues and the justification for his decision in his Opinion on Decision, from which we quote 22 at length.

23 “The Statutory Scheme for Determining the Extent of 24 Permanent Disabilities

25 “The statutory scheme for determining the extent of injured workers’ 26 permanent disability is set forth in Labor Code sections 4658 and 27 4660. The latter statute, as amended by SB 899 effective April 19, 2004 (Stats. 2004, ch 34.), provides as follows:

1 'a) In determining the percentages of permanent disability, 2 account shall be taken of the nature of the physical injury or 3 disfigurement, the occupation of the injured employee, and his or 4 her age at the time of the injury, consideration being given to an 5 employee's diminished future earning capacity.

6 '(b)(1) For purposes of this section, the 'nature of the physical 7 injury or disfigurement' shall incorporate the descriptions and 8 measurements of physical impairments and the corresponding 9 percentages of impairments published in the American Medical 10 Association (AMA) Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent 11 Impairment (5th Edition).

12 '(2) For purposes of this section, an employee's diminished 13 future earning capacity shall be a numeric formula based on 14 empirical data and findings that aggregate the average 15 percentage of long-term loss of income resulting from each type 16 of injury for similarly situated employees. The administrative 17 director shall formulate the adjusted rating schedule based on 18 empirical data and findings from the Evaluation of California's 19 Permanent Disability Rating Schedule, Interim Report 20 (December 2003), prepared by the RAND Institute for Civil 21 Justice, and upon data from additional empirical studies.

22 '(c) The administrative director shall amend the schedule for the 23 determination of the percentage of permanent disability in 24 accordance with this section at least once every five years. This 25 schedule shall be available for public inspection and, without 26 formal introduction in evidence, shall be prima facie evidence of 27 the percentage of permanent disability to be attributed to each injury covered by the schedule.

28 '(d) The schedule shall promote consistency, uniformity, and 29 objectivity. The schedule and any amendment thereto or revision 30 thereof shall apply prospectively and shall apply to and govern
31 only those permanent disabilities that result from compensable 32 injuries received or occurring on and after the effective date of 33 the adoption of the schedule, amendment or revision, as the fact 34 may be. For compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005, 35 the schedule as revised pursuant to changes made in legislation
36 enacted during the 2003-04 Regular and Extraordinary Sessions 37 shall apply to the determination of permanent disabilities when 38 there has been either no comprehensive medical-legal report or 39 no report by a treating physician indicating the existence of 40 permanent disability, or when the employer is not required to 41 provide the notice required by Section 4061 to the injured 42 worker.

43 '(e) On or before January 1, 2005, the administrative director 44 shall adopt regulations to implement the changes made to this 45 section by the act that added this subdivision.' [Italics added.] 46

1 “The provisions in Labor Code section 4660 which govern which 2 rating schedule is applicable to a particular case are the second and 3 third sentences of subdivision (d) and subdivision (e).

4 “The second sentence of subdivision (d) sets forth the general
5 principle that a revised rating schedule is only applicable to injuries 6 that occur after the revision. The principle embodied in that sentence 7 has long been part of Labor Code section 4660 and was essentially 8 unmodified by SB 899 (Statutes 2004, ch. 34.)

9 “The third sentence in subdivision (d) provides that ‘[f]or 10 compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005, the schedule as 11 revised pursuant to changes made in legislation enacted during the 12 2003-04 Regular and Extraordinary Sessions shall apply to the 13 determination of permanent disabilities when there has been either 14 no comprehensive medical-legal report or no report by a treating 15 physician indicating the existence of permanent disability, or when 16 the employer is not required to provide the notice required by 17 Section 4061 to the injured worker.’ [Italics added.]

18 “Three Interpretations of Subdivision (d) of Labor Code Section 19 4660

20 “There are three possible interpretations of the second and third 21 sentences in subdivision (d). First, the third sentence can be 22 interpreted as directly contradictory to the second sentence. That is, 23 the second sentence provides that a revised rating schedule applies 24 only to injuries occurring after the revision but the third sentence 25 provides that if at least one of three criteria are not met, then the 26 revised rating schedule is applicable to injuries occurring before the 27 revised rating schedule was adopted on January 1, 2005. Thus, each sentence negates the other.

“A second interpretation of the second and third sentences of subdivision (d) is that the third sentence provides an implied exception to the general principle set forth in the second sentence.
That is, a revision to the rating schedule applies only to injuries occurring after the revision, except that the revision to the rating schedule mandated by SB 899 permits the revised schedule to apply to injuries occurring prior to the adoption of the revised schedule on January 1, 2005, if none of the criteria stated in the third sentence are met. Thus, the second sentence, which sets forth a universal rule, is impliedly, but not expressly, subjected to an exception specified in the third sentence.

1 “A third interpretation of the second and third sentences of 2 subdivision (d) requires consideration of subdivision (e) as well.
3 Subdivision (e) provides as follows: “On or before January 1, 2005, 4 the administrative director shall adopt regulations to implement the 5 changes made to this section by the act that added this subdivision.” 6 [Italics added.] Subdivision (e) thus contemplates that the 7 Administrative Director might have adopted a revised rating 8 schedule at some time after the enactment of SB 899 on April 19, 9 2004, but prior to January 1, 2005, but could not adopt the revised 10 schedule any later than January 1, 2005. If the Administrative 11 Director had adopted the revised rating schedule earlier than January 12 1, 2005, then there would have been many injuries which occurred in 13 2004, after the effective date of the revised rating schedule. The third 14 sentence could have been intended to provide a rule for determining 15 which of those injuries occurring after the rating schedule was 16 revised but before the end of 2004, would be ratable under the 17 revised rating schedule. Under that interpretation, the third sentence 18 would be entirely consistent with the second sentence, and not an 19 implied exception, because the revised rating schedule would be in 20 effect and would only apply to injuries occurring after it took effect.
21 Since the revised rating schedule was not actually adopted by the 22 Administrative Director until January 1, 2005, however, the third 23 sentence would now be moot.

14 “Thus, under the third interpretation, the third sentence is in 15 harmony with the second sentence, rather than being directly 16 contradictory to the second sentence (i.e., the first interpretation) or 17 an implied exception to the longstanding principle stated in the 18 second sentence (i.e., the second interpretation.)”

18 The WCJ concluded that the third interpretation was correct and held “that as a matter of 19 law, injuries occurring prior to January 1, 2005, are ratable only under the old rating schedule.” He 20 concluded that only this interpretation harmonizes the second and third sentences in section 4660, 21 and gives effect to each word, while the first interpretation which finds these sentences in conflict 22 violates the rule that an interpretation should harmonize the language of the statute. He also 23 concluded that the second interpretation violated proper statutory construction “because the 24 Legislature could easily have made the third sentence an express exception to the second sentence 25 if it had intended to do so. The second sentence admits of no exceptions to the principle stated.
26 Inferring that the third sentence is intended to be an exception to the second sentence negates the 27 plain meaning of the second sentence.”

1 “Thus, I conclude that the Legislature intended that the third 2 sentence of subdivision (d) would be controlling for injuries 3 occurring before 2005 only if the Administrative Director had 4 adopted the revised rating schedule before the end of 2004. Since the Administrative Director did not adopt the revised rating schedule until January 1, 2005, the third sentence is moot.”

5 Discussion

6 I.

7 In construing a statute, the Appeals Board’s fundamental purpose is to determine and 8 effectuate the Legislature’s intent. (DuBois v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (1993) 5 Cal.4th 382, 9 387 [58 Cal.Comp.Cases 286, 289]; Nickelsberg v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (1991) 54 Cal.3d
10 288, 294 [56 Cal.Comp.Cases 476, 480]; Moyer v. Workmen’s Comp. Appeals Bd. (1973) 10 11 Cal.3d 222, 230 [38 Cal.Comp.Cases 652, 657].) Thus, the WCAB’s first task is to look to the 12 language of the statute itself. (Ibid.) The best indicator of legislative intent is the clear, 13 unambiguous, and plain meaning of the statutory language. (DuBois v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals 14 Bd., supra, 5 Cal.4th at pp. 387-388 [58 Cal.Comp.Cases at p. 289]; Gaytan v. Workers’ Comp.
15 Appeals Bd. (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 200, 214 [68 Cal.Comp.Cases 693, 702]; Boehm &
16 Associates v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (Lopez) (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 513, 516 [64
17 Cal.Comp.Cases 1350, 1351].) When the statutory language is clear and unambiguous, there is no 18 room for interpretation and the WCAB must simply enforce the statute according to its plain terms.
19 (DuBois v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd., supra, 5 Cal.4th at p. 387 [58 Cal.Comp.Cases at p.
20 289]; Atlantic Richfield Co. v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (Arvizu) (1982) 31 Cal.3d 715, 726
21 [47 Cal.Comp.Cases 500, 508].)

22 When construing any particular statutory provision, however, we may also consider it in 23 light of the entire statutory scheme of which it is part and harmonize it with related statutes, to the 24 extent possible. (Chevron U.S.A., Inc. v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (Steele) (1999) 19 Cal.4th 25 1182, 1194 [64 Cal.Comp.Cases 1]; DuBois v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd., supra, 5 Cal.4th at p.
26 388.) Further, meaning must be given to every word or phrase, if possible, so as not to render any 27 portion of the statutory language mere surplusage. (Hassan v. Mercy American River Hosp. (2003)

1 31 Cal.4th 709, 716; Moyer v. Workmen’s Comp. Appeals Bd., supra, 10 Cal.3d at p. 230.)

2 II.

3 We hold that section 4660(d) requires that the revised permanent disability rating schedule
4 be applied to injuries arising on or after the January 1, 2005 effective date of the rating schedule, 5 subject to the specified exceptions for “compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005 . . .”
6 The prior rating schedule may only be used to rate permanent disabilities arising from 7 compensable injuries that occurred prior to January 1, 2005, where one of the exceptions described 8 in the third sentence of section 4660(d) has been established. If none of the specified exceptions is 9 established, the revised permanent disability rating schedule applies to injuries occurring before its 10 January 1, 2005 effective date.<sup>4</sup>

11 The second sentence of section 4660(d) expressly provides for the prospective application 12 of the revised rating schedule to “compensable injuries received or occurring on and after the 13 effective date of the adoption of the schedule, amendment or revision, as the fact may be.” This is 14 consistent with the long established principle that revised permanent disability rating schedules do 15 not apply to injuries which occur prior to their adoption. A comparison of the prior version of this 16 language in former section 4660(c) with the language in the second sentence, requiring that a 17 revision of the rating schedule would apply prospectively, demonstrates that it was not an element 18 added by the reform legislation for this revised rating schedule. The prospective application 19 language in current section 4660(d) states:

21 “The schedule and any amendment thereto or revision thereof shall 22 apply prospectively and shall apply to and govern only those 23 permanent disabilities that result from compensable injuries received 24 or occurring on and after the effective date of the adoption of the 25 schedule, amendment or revision, as the fact may be.”

26
27 <sup>4</sup> The right to workers’ compensation benefits is wholly statutory and, therefore, a legislative amendment or repeal of a statutory right may be applied to matters that were pending prior to the amendment or repeal. (McCarthy v.
Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (2006) 135 Cal.App.4th 1230, 1236-1237 [71 Cal.Comp.Cases 16]; Rio Linda Union
School Dist. v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (Scheftner) (2005) 131 Cal.App.4th 517, 527-528 [70 Cal.Comp.Cases 999]; Kleemann v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 127 Cal.App.4th 274, 283 & fns. 17-21 [70 Cal.Comp.Cases 133]; Abney v. Aera Energy (2004) 69 Cal.Comp.Cases 1552, 1558-1559 (Appeals Board en banc).)

1 This language was essentially carried forward verbatim from former section 4660(c), which 2 provided:

3 “Any such schedule and any amendment thereto or revision thereof 4 shall apply prospectively and shall apply to and govern only those 5 permanent disabilities which result from compensable injuries
6 received or occurring on and after the effective date of the adoption 7 of such schedule, amendment or revision as the fact may be.”

8 This prospective application language has been part of section 4660 since 1951. (Stats. 1951, ch.
9 1683, § 1, p. 3880; Stats. 1965, ch. 1513, § 91, p. 3579; Stats. 1993, ch. 121, § 53.) As discussed 10 below, it is the third sentence of section 4660(d) that is new and was specifically crafted for the 11 revised rating schedule.

12 The language contained in the second sentence, without separately considering the 13 qualifying language in the third sentence, would require that the revised schedule be applied 14 prospectively only to cases where there are “permanent disabilities that result from compensable 15 injuries received or occurring on and after the effective date of the adoption of the [revised] 16 schedule . . .” Nevertheless, the addition of the third sentence of section 4660(d) provides a clear 17 and specific exception to the general rule of prospective application as stated in the second 18 sentence, and mandates the application of the revised rating schedule to injuries occurring before 19 January 1, 2005, in specified instances. That is, the third sentence unambiguously states “for 20 compensable claims arising before January 1, 2005 the schedule as revised . . . shall apply to the 21 determination of permanent disabilities” if none of the specified exceptions have been met.
22 (Emphasis added.) Thus, for all pending cases involving injuries occurring prior to January 1, 23 2005, the revised schedule must be applied unless one of the listed exceptions has been 24 established. Only in those cases where it can be established that at least one of the listed 25 exceptions exists would the prior rating schedule still apply.<sup>5</sup>

27 ///

---

<sup>5</sup> We do not address at this time when and how the exceptions in the third sentence of section 4660(d) apply.

1 III.

2 We are not persuaded by the WCJ's conclusion that the Legislature intended that the 3 revised rating schedule would not apply retroactively to injuries occurring prior to the effective 4 date of the revised schedule. The WCJ's interpretation does not follow the requirement of statutory 5 interpretation that meaning be given to every word or phrase and to not "render any portion of the 6 statutory language mere surplusage." The conclusion that the Legislature intended the third 7 sentence, and the exceptions to the retroactive application set forth therein, to be moot because the 8 Administrative Director did not adopt a revised rating schedule before January 1, 2005, does not 9 harmonize the statutory language. Rather, it nullifies a central condition for the application of the 10 revised rating schedule as mandated by the statute. In the absence of clear language to indicate the 11 legislative intent to condition the applicability of the retroactive exceptions upon the adoption of a 12 revised schedule prior to January 1, 2005, we cannot adopt such an interpretation.

13 Contrary to the WCJ's interpretation, there is no inconsistency between the second and 14 third sentence. The second sentence carries forward the prospective application language that has 15 been present for many years. The third sentence delineates which injuries occurring before January 16 1, 2005 are subject to the revised rating schedule, and which are to be rated according to the prior 17 rating schedule. These sentences may be harmonized whether the revised rating schedule became 18 effective on January 1, 2005 or became effective at some earlier date in 2004.

19 Relying solely upon the presence of section 4660(e), which instructs the Administrative 20 Director to adopt regulations to implement the revised rating schedule no later than January 1, 21 2005, is not an adequate basis to nullify the statutory language that applies the revised rating 22 schedule retroactively to certain specified cases. Had the revised schedule become effective prior 23 to January 1, 2005, as permitted under section 4660(e), it would have been possible to determine 24 whether the revised schedule applied to the rating of permanent disabilities for any injury prior to 25 January 1, 2005. For example, had the revised schedule been adopted on October 1, 2004, and the 26 injury occurred on October 4, 2004 (i.e. a compensable claim prior to January 1, 2005), the 27 exceptions in the third sentence would have been reviewed to determine whether the old schedule

1 or the revised schedule would apply. Similarly, if the effective date of the schedule had been 2 October 1, 2004, and the date of injury was August 15, 2004 (i.e. a compensable claim prior to 3 January 1, 2005), the exceptions for the class of cases prior to January 1, 2005, again would have 4 been looked at to determine which schedule would apply. Therefore, the effective date of the 5 revised schedule is irrelevant in determining the class of cases to which the exceptions may apply.

6 Furthermore, this interpretation of the application of the revised permanent disability rating 7 schedule is most consistent with the urgency clause in section 49<sup>6</sup> of SB 899, which provides that 8 the reform Act shall go into effect immediately. This interpretation is also consistent with the 9 construction of section 4660 arrived at by the Administrative Director. In Rule 9805 (Cal. Code 10 Regs., tit. 8, §9805), the Administrative Director indicates that the prospective application 11 language is circumscribed by the limited retroactivity provided in the third sentence. Rule 9805 12 provides:

13 “The method for the determination of percentages of permanent 14 disability is set forth in the Schedule for Rating Permanent 15 Disabilities, which has been adopted by the Administrative Director 16 effective January 1, 2005, and which is hereby incorporated by 17 reference in its entirety as though it were set forth below. The 18 schedule adopts and incorporates the American Medical Association 19 (AMA) Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment 5th Edition. The schedule shall be effective for dates of injury on or after January 1, 2005 and for dates of injury prior to January 1, 2005, in accordance with subdivision (d) of Labor Code section 4660, and it shall be amended at least once every five years.” (Italics added.)

23 <sup>6</sup> Section 49 of SB 899 provides: “This act is an urgency statute necessary for the immediate preservation of 24 the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Article IV of the Constitution and shall go into immediate 25 effect. The facts constituting the necessity are: In order to provide relief to the state from the effects of the current 26 workers’ compensation crisis at the earliest possible time, it is necessary for this act to take effect immediately.”
27 (Stats. 2004, ch. 34, § 49; see also Green v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd. (2005) 127 Cal.App.4th 1426, 1441 [70 Cal.Comp.Cases 294] (observing that section 49 reflects “the Legislature’s intent to solve the [workers’ compensation] crisis as quickly as possible by bringing as many cases as possible under the umbrella of the new law.”); Abney v. Aera Energy, supra, 69 Cal.Comp.Cases at pp. 1557-1558; see generally McCarthy v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd., supra, 135 Cal.App.4th at p. 1235; Rio Linda Union School Dist. v. Workers’ Comp. Appeals Bd.

IV.

2 Applying this interpretation of section 4660(d) to the instant case, where the applicant
3 sustained an injury to her neck and upper extremities over the cumulative period ending November 4 18, 2002, the revised schedule will apply to the rating of her permanent disability, unless one of 5 the exceptions provided in the third sentence is established. Applicant's injury occurred prior to 6 January 1, 2005, and thus falls within the class of cases to which the revised rating schedule may 7 or may not apply, depending on whether one of the exceptions exists. While defendant asserts that 8 none of the exceptions which trigger the use of the prior rating schedule are present, applicant 9 argues in its answer to the defendant's petition that one of the exceptions is applicable in this case.
10 Applicant asserts that the section 4061 notice exception was met when defendant commenced 11 payment of temporary disability benefits in November of 2003, arguing that the initial payment of 12 temporary disability mandates the subsequent section 4061 notice that such benefits are being 13 terminated. As this issue was first raised in applicant's answer and not at the hearing on January 6, 14 2006, it must be addressed in the first instance at the trial level. Therefore, we return the matter to 15 the WCJ for further proceedings and decision on this issue.

16 For the reasons set forth above, we reverse the determination reached by the WCJ, that "the 17 permanent disability rating schedule in effect prior to the adoption of the revised rating schedule
18 on January 1, 2005, is applicable to calculating permanent disability caused by applicant's injury 19 herein." We amend the Conclusions of Law and Finding of Fact to find the revised permanent 20 disability rating schedule applies to the rating of permanent disability for injuries occurring prior 21 to the January 1, 2005 effective date of the revised rating schedule, unless applicant can establish 22 that one of the exceptions set forth in the third sentence of section 4660(d) is applicable. We return 23 this matter to the WCJ to make a determination on this and all remaining issues.

1 For the foregoing reasons,

2 IT IS ORDERED that, as our Decision After Reconsideration, the Conclusions of Law 3 and Finding of Fact issued January 12, 2006, is RESCINDED and the following is 4 SUBSTITUTED therefor:

5 Conclusion of Law

6 The revised permanent disability rating schedule mandated by Labor Code section 4660, 7 and adopted by the Administrative Director effective January 1, 2005, is applicable to pending
8 cases where the injury occurred before January 1, 2005, when there has been either no 9 comprehensive medical-legal report or no report by a treating physician indicating the existence of 10 permanent disability, or when the employer is not required to provide the notice required by 11 section 4061 to the injured worker.
