
The “officially released” date that appears near the beginning of each opinion is the date the opinion will be published in the Connecticut Law Journal or the date it was released as a slip opinion. The operative date for the beginning of all time periods for filing postopinion motions and petitions for certification is the “officially released” date appearing in the opinion. In no event will any such motions be accepted before the “officially released” date.

All opinions are subject to modification and technical correction prior to official publication in the Connecticut Reports and Connecticut Appellate Reports. In the event of discrepancies between the electronic version of an opinion and the print version appearing in the Connecticut Law Journal and subsequently in the Connecticut Reports or Connecticut Appellate Reports, the latest print version is to be considered authoritative.

ZARELLA, J., concurring. I concur in the judgment of this court and join the majority opinion for the reasons stated therein. My conclusion would be different, however, if we had been asked to revisit the basis for our decision in Ciarlelli v. Hamden, 299 Conn. 265, 8 A.3d 1093 (2010); see id., 301 (Zarella, J., concurring); and if I was convinced that the reliance interests were not sufficient to require this court to follow that precedent. See State v. Peeler, 321 Conn. 375, 469, 140 A.3d 811 (2016) (Zarella, J., dissenting).
