North Carolina paid tribute to former coach Dean Smith by running his Four Corners offense in the Tar Heels' first offensive possession against Georgia Tech on Saturday.

In Four Corners, one player dribbles the ball while four others run to the corners of the half court.

Smith passed away earlier this month at age 83. He compiled 879 wins, two national titles and 17 ACC regular season championships over 36 seasons.

North Carolina went on to rout the Yellow Jackets, 89-60.
