"The story was basically about a guy who lands in St Barth, gets off the plane, is immediately told that there's been a nuclear holocaust in the rest of the world, and he looks at his family and says 'We can't go back.'"

--Richard Prince

Gagosian Gallery is pleased to announce "Canal Zone," an exhibition of new paintings by Richard Prince.

Following his burlesque dialogues with the art of De Kooning, Picasso, and Naughty Nurse pulp fiction, Prince has turned to his own biographical roots for inspiration. The Panama Canal Zone, where he was born, was, until 1979, a political enclave of the U.S., part-colonial company enclave and part-socialist government, purportedly dominated by virulent separatist racism. In his characteristic manner, Prince has transformed the former reality of his birthplace into a fictive space: "Canal Zone" provides an anarchic tropical scenario in which extreme emanations of the (white American male) id - fleshy female pin-ups, Rastafarians with massive dreadlocks, electric guitars, and virile black bodies - run riot.

Aside from their "storyboard" looks and their ability to absorb information based on Prince's original "pitch," what is evidently new in these paintings is the way they are, literally, "put together," like provisional magazine lay-outs.

Some images, scanned from originals, are printed directly onto the base canvas; others are "dragged on," using a primitive collage technique whereby printed figures are roughly cut out, then the backs of those figures painted and pasted directly onto the base canvas with a squeegee so that the excess paint squirts out on and around the image. On top of this are violently suggestive swipes and drips of livid paint and scribbles of oil-stick crayon which, together with the comic, abstract sign-features that mask each figure's face, add to the powerful push-pull between degree and effect. This has become a completely new way for Prince to make a painting, where much of what shows up on the surface is incidental to the process.

Thomas More's Utopia of 1518 described a fictional island in the Atlantic Ocean that possessed a seemingly perfect socio-political-legal system. Since then, the term has been used both for intentional communities attempting to create ideal societies and ideals that are impossible to achieve. Prince's island and its unfettered imaginings that vacillate between humorous delinquency and Sadetan excess, is a rather more carnivalesque response to the original concept. "Canal Zone," this orgiastic, post-nuclear, new order for civilization as we once knew it, takes its place among other great modern visions of the apocalypse, from Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness and Pablo Picasso's Guernica, to The Beatles' "Helter Skelter" and Michel Houellebecq's prophetic Platform

Richard Prince was born in 1949 in the Panama Canal Zone and lives and works in upstate New York. His work has been the subject of major exhibitions, including the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York; the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art; Museum Boijmans van Beuningen, Rotterdam; Museum für Gegenwartskunst, Basel; Kunstmuseum Wolfsburg; Serpentine Gallery, London (2008). A retrospective survey opened at the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in 2007 and traveled to The Walker Art Center, Minneapolis in 2008.

Richard Prince was born in 1949 in the Panama Canal Zone and lives and works in upstate New York. Mining images from mass media, advertising and entertainment since the late seventies, Prince has redefined the concepts of authorship, ownership, and aura. Applying his understanding of the complex transactions of representation to the making of art, he evolved a unique signature filled with echoes of other signatures yet that is unquestionably his own. An avid collector and perceptive chronicler of American subcultures and vernaculars and their role in the construction of American identity, he has probed the depths of racism, sexism, and psychosis in mainstream humor; the mythical status of cowboys, bikers, customized cars, and celebrities; and most recently, the push-pull allure of pulp fiction and soft porn, producing such unlikely icons as the highly coveted Nurse paintings.

Re: Demand to Cease and Desist from Unauthorized Use, Exhibition and Distribution of Copyrighted Work

Dear Sirs:

We represent Patrick Cariou, the owner of the photographic works covered by Copyright Registration No. VA0001301506 issued November 5, 2001 and which have been published as part of a photography book entitled Yes Rasta. The current exhibition at the Gagosian Gallery, entitled Canal Zone, contains approximately twenty-two paintings by Richard Prince which incorporate unauthorized uses of Mr. Cariou's registered copyrighted work. Among the infringing works on display in the Gagosian Gallery are various untitled works, as well as, but not limited to, works entitled Back to the Garden, Ile de France, Djuna Barnes, etc., Tales of Brave Ulysses, On the Beach, and Inquisition. A book of the paintings in the Canal Zone exhibition, containing unauthorized reproductions of Mr. Cariou's copyrighted work, has been published by the Gagosian Gallery and is currently being distributed by Rizzoli International Publications. Unauthorized copies of Mr. Cariou's work have been used in newspaper advertisements for the Canal Zone exhibition, including in The Art Newspaper. Neither Mr. Prince, nor the Gagosian Gallery, nor Rizzoli International Publications ever asked for or received permission to use Mr. Cariou's copyrighted works.

Accordingly, each of you is violating Mr. Cariou's exclusive rights under the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. §§ 106 and 501, and is therefore infringing Mr. Cariou's rights.

Demand is hereby made that each of you:

1. Cease and desist from continuing to exhibit or distribute Mr. Prince's artwork containing unauthorized reproductions of Mr. Cariou's copyrighted work.
2. Remove all unauthorized reproductions of Mr. Cariou's copyrighted work from Mr. Prince's artwork.
3. Deliver or destroy all remaining copies of the exhibition book containing Mr. Prince's artwork that is being distributed by Rizzoli International Publications.
4. Identify all of Mr. Prince's artwork containing unauthorized reproductions of Mr. Cariou's copyrighted work and the current location of each of such work.

Please be aware that remedies for copyright infringement include, but are not limited to, an award of the copyright owner's actual damages and any additional profits of the infringers, or statutory damages, as well as costs and attorney's fees, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. §§ 504 and 505. Further, due to the apparent willful nature of this infringement, additional statutory damages are available to our client.

We request a response from you or your attorneys not later than Monday, December 15, 2008.

Very truly,

Daniel J. Brooks
