PER CURIAM:

Michael A. Scott appeals the district court's orders granting the Appellees' motion to dismiss, dismissing his complaint for failing to state a claim, denying his motion for reconsideration and ordering a prefiling injunction. We have reviewed the record and the district court's orders and affirm the dismissal for the reasons cited by the district court. See Scott v. US Bank NA, No. 2:09-cv-00516-RAJ-DEM (E.D. Va. Sept. 23, 2010; Oct. 14, 2011; Feb. 17, 2012). We review the court's decision to impose a prefiling injunction for abuse of discretion. See Cromer v. Kraft Foods N. Am., Inc., 390 F.3d 812, 817 (4th Cir. 2004). We agree with the district court that Scott has a history of filing vexatious, repetitious and frivolous lawsuits that impose a considerable burden on the court. Accordingly, we conclude that the prefiling injunction is not overbroad and that the court did not abuse its discretion.

We affirm the district court's orders. We grant Scott's motion to exceed the length limitations for informal briefs. We dispense with oral argument because the facts and legal contentions are adequately presented in the materials before the court and argument would not aid the decisional process.
