

No. 17-1351

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT

INTERNATIONAL REFUGEE ASSISTANCE PROJECT, et al.,

Plaintiffs-Appellees,
v.

DONALD J. TRUMP, President of the United States, et al.,

Defendants-Appellants.

On Appeal from the U.S. District Court
For the District of Maryland, Southern Division
8:17-cv-00361-TDC

CORRECTED BRIEF OF FORMER NATIONAL SECURITY OFFICIALS AS AMICI CURIAE IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF-APPELLEES AND AGAINST A STAY PENDING APPEAL

Harold Hongju Koh
Hope Metcalf
RULE OF LAW CLINIC
Yale Law School
127 Wall Street, P.O. Box 208215
New Haven, CT 06520-8215

Jonathan M. Freiman
Tahlia Townsend
WIGGIN AND DANA LLP
265 Church Street
P.O. Box 1832
New Haven, CT 06508-1832

William J. Murphy
John J. Connolly
ZUCKERMAN SPAEDER LLP
100 E. Pratt St., Suite 2440
Baltimore, Maryland 21202

Counsel for Amici Curiae

TABLE OF CONTENTS

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES	ii
INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE.....	1
ARGUMENT	2
I. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER CANNOT BE JUSTIFIED ON NATIONAL SECURITY OR FOREIGN POLICY GROUNDS	3
A. There is no national security or foreign policy basis for suspending entry of aliens from the six named countries.	5
B. The suspension of refugee admissions is not justified by national security or foreign policy concerns.	13
II. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER’S OVERBREADTH HARMS OUR NATIONAL SECURITY AND FOREIGN POLICY INTERESTS.....	16
A. The Order is of unprecedented scope.....	16
B. The Order will do serious damage to our national security and foreign policy interests.....	17
1. The Order will endanger U.S. troops in the field.....	17
2. The Order will disrupt essential counterterrorism, foreign policy, and national security partnerships.	18
3. The Order will hinder domestic law enforcement efforts.	19
4. The Order will have a devastating humanitarian impact.	20
5. The Order will cause economic damage to American citizens and residents.....	21
III. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER PERPETUATES THE BASIC STRUCTURAL FLAWS OF THE ORIGINAL ILL-CONCEIVED, POORLY IMPLEMENTED AND ILL-EXPLAINED ORDER..	22
CONCLUSION.....	27
APPENDIX: LIST OF AMICI

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases

Aziz v. Trump , No. 1:17-cv-00116-LMB-TCB, __ F.Supp.3d __, 2017 WL 580855 (E.D. Va. Feb. 13, 2017)	7
U.S. v. Fordice , 505 U.S. 717 (1992)	22, 23
Vill. Of Arlington Heights v. Metro. Hous. Dev. Corp. , 429 U.S. 252 (1977)	22
Washington v. Trump , No. 17-35105, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 526497, slip op. (9th Cir. Feb. 9, 2017).....	7, 21

Statutes

8 U.S.C. § 1182	24
8 U.S.C. § 1187	12

Regulations

Exec. Order No. 11,030, 27 Fed. Reg. 5,847 (Jun. 19, 1962)	26
Exec. Order No. 12,324, 46 Fed. Reg. 48,109 (Sept. 29, 1981).....	17
Exec. Order No. 12,807, 57 Fed. Reg. 23,133 (May 24, 1992).....	17
Exec. Order No. 13,694, 80 Fed. Reg. 18,077 (Apr. 1, 2015).....	17
Exec. Order No. 13,726, 81 Fed. Reg. 23,559 (Apr. 19, 2016).....	17
Exec. Order No. 13,780, 82 Fed. Reg. 13,209 (Mar. 6, 2017)	4
Exec. Order No. 13,769, 82 Fed. Reg. 8,977 (Jan. 27, 2017).....	3

Other Authorities

Adams Nager, et al., The Demographics of Innovation in the United States , Information Technology & Innovation Foundation (Feb. 2016).....	22
Alex Nowrasteh, Little National Security Benefit to Trump’s Executive Order on Immigration , CATO at Liberty (Jan. 25, 2017)	5, 14

Alex Nowrasteh, Terrorism and Immigration: A Risk Analysis , Cato Institute (Sept. 13, 2016)	6, 13
Alex Nowrasteh, 42 Percent of 'Terrorism-Related' Convictions Aren't for Terrorism , Cato Institute (Mar. 6, 2017)	7
Amy Pope, The Screening Process for Refugee Entry into the United States (Nov. 20, 2015)	14
Andorra Bruno, Iraqi and Afghan Special Immigrant Visa Programs , Cong. Research Serv. (2016)	11
Andorra Bruno, Syrian Refugee Admissions and Resettlement in the United States: In Brief , Cong. Research Serv. (2006)	15
Annex of Statistical Information, Country Reports on Terrorism (June 2015)	8
Br. for Technology Companies and Other Businesses as Amici Curiae in Support of Appellees, Washington v. Trump , No. 17-35105, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 526497 (9th Cir. Feb. 9, 2017)	21
Carl J. Bon Tempo, Americans at the Gate: The United States and Refugees during the Cold War 1 (2008)	28
Central Intelligence Agency, 11 September 2001 Hijackers	6
Edward Alden, The Closing of the American Border 104-06 (2008)	24
Evan Perez et al., Inside the Confusion of the Trump Executive Order and Travel Ban , CNN (Jan. 30, 2017)	25, 26
Felicia Schwartz & Ben Kesling, Countries Under U.S. Entry Ban Aren't Main Sources of Terror Attacks , The Wall St. J. (Jan. 29, 2017)	6
Geneva Sands et al., Officials Aim to Clarify Impact on Dual Nationals From Trump's Immigration Executive Order , ABC News (Feb. 1, 2017)	26
George Washington University Program on Extremism, ISIS in America: From Retweets to Raqqa 6 (Dec. 2015)	6
Henry B. Hogue, Cong. Research Serv., RS22979, Presidential Transition Act: Provisions and Funding (2016)	24

Joby Warrick, Jihadist Groups Hail Trump’s Travel Ban as a Victory , Wash. Post (Jan. 29 2017)	20
Jon Finan, Sorry, Mr. President: The Obama Administration Did Nothing Similar to Your Immigration Ban , Foreign Policy (Jan. 30, 2017)	11
Jonathan Allen & Brendan O’Brien, How Trump’s Abrupt Immigration Ban Sowed Confusion at Airports, Agencies , Reuters (Jan. 29, 2017).....	25, 26
Kevin Liptak, Travel Ban Remains Sticking Point in Trump Calls with US Allies , CNN (Feb. 9, 2017)	18
Kristina Cooke & Joseph Ax, U.S. Officials Say American Muslims Do Report Extremist Threats , Reuters (Jun. 16, 2016)	19
Martha Nussbaum et al., White House Creates Confusion About Future of Trump’s Travel Ban , Politico (Feb. 21, 2017)	4, 27
Memorandum from Stuart Levey, Assoc. Deputy Att’y Gen., to Dan Levin, Counsel to the Att’y Gen., & David Ayres, Dep’t of Justice Chief of Staff (Oct. 3, 2001)	24
Michael D. Shear & Ron Nixon, How Trump’s Rush to Enact an Immigration Ban Unleashed Global Chaos , N.Y. Times (Jan. 29, 2017)	25, 26, 27
Michael V. Hayden, Former CIA Chief: Trump’s Travel Ban Hurts American Spies – and America , Wash. Post (Feb. 5, 2017)	19
Molly Redden, Trump Powers “Will not be Questioned” on Immigration, Senior Official Says , The Guardian (Feb. 12, 2007).....	7
Muslim Public Affairs Council, Data on Post-9/11 Terrorism in the United States (Jun. 2012)	19
Nora Ellingsten, It’s Not Foreigners Who Are Plotting Here: What the Data Really Show , Lawfare (Feb. 7, 2017)	6
Patrick O’Neill, How Academics Are Helping Cybersecurity Students Overcome Trump’s Immigration Order , Cyberscoop (Jan. 30, 2017)	22
Peter Bergen et al., Terrorism in America After 9/11 , New America Foundation	6

Rebecca Savransky, Iraq Parliament Approves ‘Reciprocity Measure’ In Trump Immigration Ban’s Wake , The Hill (Jan. 30, 2017)	18
Refugee Processing Center, Interactive Reporting, Admissions and Arrivals	11
Sabrina Siddiqui, Trump Signs ‘Extreme Vetting’ Executive Order for People Entering the US , The Guardian (Jan. 27, 2017)	6
Stephanie Ott, What Happens to Iraqis who Worked with the U.S. military , Al Jazeera (Feb. 1, 2017)	18
Ten Years After 9/11: Preventing Terrorist Travel, Hearing Before the United States S. Comm. on Homeland Sec. and Governmental Affairs , 112th Cong. 522 (2011) (written statements of Rand Beers and Janice L. Jacobs)	11
The Security of U.S. Visa Programs: Hearing Before the S. Comm on Homeland Sec. & Governmental Affairs , 114th Cong. (2016) (written statements of David Donahue and Sarah R. Saldaña)	9
The White House, Visa Waiver Program Enhancements (Nov. 30, 2015)	11
Thomas R. Eldridge, et. al., 9/11 and Terrorist Travel: A Staff Report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States (2004)	24
U.S. Dep’t of Homeland Security, DHS Announces Further Travel Restrictions for the Visa Waiver Program (Feb. 18, 2016)	11, 12
U.S. Dep’t of Homeland Security, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (Dec. 3, 2015)	15
U.S. Dep’t of Commerce, Department of Commerce Releases October Travel and Tourism Expenditures (Dec. 15, 2016)	21
U.S. Dep’t of State et al, Report to the Congress, Proposed Refugee Admissions for Fiscal Year 2016 (2016)	18
U.S. Dep’t of State, U.S. Refugee Resettlement Processing for Iraqi and Syrian Beneficiaries of an Approved I-130 Petition (Mar. 11, 2016)	16
U.S. Dep’t of State, The Refugee Processing and Screening System	5, 15
U.S. Dep’t of State, U.S. Refugee Admissions Program FAQs	14, 15

U.S. Dep’t of State, Visa Waiver Program	12
U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, Resettlement	16
Urban Justice Center, International Refugee Assistance Project, IRAP Stands With Iraqi Allies of the United States Affected by Executive Order (Feb. 1, 2017)	18
William Glaberson & Helene Cooper, Obama’s Plan to Close Prison at Guantánamo May Take Year , N.Y. Times (Jan. 12, 2009).....	24

INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE*

Amici curiae are former national security, foreign policy, intelligence, and other public officials who have worked on pressing security matters in the U.S. government. A number of amici have worked at senior levels in administrations of both political parties. Amici have collectively devoted decades to combatting the various terrorist threats that the United States faces in an increasingly dangerous and dynamic world. Amici have held the highest security clearances. A significant number were current on active intelligence regarding credible terrorist threat streams directed against the United States as recently as one week before the issuance of the original January 27, 2017 Executive Order on “Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States” (“January 27 Order”), and weeks before the new March 6, 2017 Executive Order bearing the same title (“March 6 Order”).

On February 16, 2017, amici filed an amicus brief in Darweesh v. Trump in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York, expressing their view that the January 27 Order “cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy

* Pursuant to Local Rule 27(a), counsel for amici certify that counsel for the other parties have been informed and consent to the filing of this brief. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 27(a)(4)(E), counsel for amici certify that: (i) no party’s counsel authored this brief in whole or in part; (ii) no party or party’s counsel contributed money intended to fund the preparation or submission of this brief; and (iii) no person, other than amici and their counsel, contributed money intended to fund the preparation or submission of this brief.

grounds” and “would undermine the security of the United States.” Amici have reached the same conclusion about the March 6 Order, which presents and preserves the same core problems as its predecessor. Amici all agree that the United States faces real threats from terrorist networks and must take all prudent and effective steps to combat them, including the appropriate vetting of travelers to the United States. Amici nevertheless do not believe that risk merits the blanket and counterproductive bans on entry into the United States established by the Orders, either in its original form or as revised.

ARGUMENT

The March 6 Executive Order serves no persuasive national security or foreign policy purpose.

Left in place, the Order will do long-term damage to our national security and foreign policy interests. It will endanger troops in the field, and disrupt key counterterrorism and national security partnerships. It will aid the propaganda effort of the Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (“ISIL”) and support its recruitment message. By feeding the narrative that the United States is at war with Islam, the Order will impair relationships with the very Muslim communities that law enforcement professionals rely on to address the threat of terrorism. And it will have a damaging humanitarian and economic impact.

Indeed, the March 6 Order preserves the same problematic features of the January 27 Order that were outlined in the original brief filed by many of the same amici in Darweesh. The March 6 Order continues to impose a blanket ban on entry from the listed countries that cannot be justified on national security or foreign policy grounds. The March 6 Order continues to depart from the particularized review based on credible intelligence-based threats that has been a core premise of our border security efforts across decades of administrations led by Presidents from both parties. And rebranding a proposal first advertised as a “Muslim Ban” as “Protecting the Nation from Foreign Terrorist Entry into the United States” did not disguise the January 27 Order’s discriminatory intent, or make it necessary, effective or faithful to America’s Constitution, laws, and values. The few changes that were introduced in the March 6 Order do not cure this discriminatory intent, or suddenly provide a persuasive basis for the Order on national security or foreign policy grounds.

I. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER CANNOT BE JUSTIFIED ON NATIONAL SECURITY OR FOREIGN POLICY GROUNDS.

On January 27, 2017, President Donald Trump signed an executive order imposing a number of suspensions on the entry of non-citizens into the United States.¹ The President’s stated goals for the Order were to “protect[] the nation from foreign terrorist entry into the United States” and to “ensure that those approved for admission do not intend to harm Americans and that they have no ties to terrorism.”² On March 6, 2017, following weeks of litigation, the Administration issued a revised version of the Executive Order.³ This March 6 Order revokes the January 27, 2017 Order and makes several changes to that Order, including exempting green card holders and valid visa holders from the immigration restrictions and removing Iraq from the list of excluded countries. However, the Order continues to suspend travel from the listed countries for 90 days from its effective date. The Order continues to suspend refugee admissions for 120 days.⁴ And in the words of a senior advisor to President Trump, the Order still aims to guarantee the “same basic policy outcome.”⁵

¹ Exec. Order No. 13,769, 82 Fed. Reg. 8,977 (Jan. 27, 2017).

As former U.S. officials responsible for the national security and foreign relations of the United States in multiple presidential administrations, amici have devoted their careers to the safety and welfare of the American people. Yet the March Order continues to bear no rational relation to the President’s stated aim of protecting the nation from foreign terrorism. It targets countries whose nationals

² Id.

³ Exec. Order 13,780, 82 Fed. Reg. 13,209 (Mar. 6, 2017).

⁴ A redlined comparison of the two Orders can be found at: http://aclum.org/wp-content/uploads/2017/03/2017_1_27-Muslim-Ban-EO-Word-VS.-2017_3_06-Muslim-Ban-EO.pdf.

⁵ Matthew Nussbaum et al., White House Creates Confusion About Future of Trump’s Travel Ban, Politico (Feb. 21, 2017).

have committed no lethal terrorist attacks on U.S. soil in the last forty years. It suspends the entry of refugees—the vast majority of whom are vulnerable women and children⁶—when in the modern era of screening, no refugee has ever killed a U.S. citizen in a terrorist attack in the United States.⁷

Even now, weeks after the signing of the original January 27 Order, Respondents have supplied no persuasive information that would justify such a categorical ban, even in this revised form. They make no showing that our immigration system has suffered from inadequate consideration of national origin or religious affiliation, and identify no flaw in the current individualized vetting procedures—developed by national security officials across several presidential administrations in response to particular threats identified by U.S. intelligence.

A. There is no national security or foreign policy basis for suspending entry of aliens from the six named countries.

No legitimate national security purpose is served by the Order’s blanket ban on entry into the United States of nationals of Syria, Sudan, Iran, Somalia, Libya, and Yemen.

⁶ U.S. Dep’t of State, The Refugee Processing and Screening System, <https://www.state.gov/documents/organization/266671.pdf>.

⁷ Alex Nowrasteh, Little National Security Benefit to Trump’s Executive Order on Immigration, CATO at Liberty (Jan. 25, 2017) [hereinafter “Nowrasteh Jan. 2017”]

First, not a single American has died in a terrorist attack on U.S. soil at the hands of citizens of these six nations in the last forty years.⁸ The January Order opened with a reference to the September 11, 2001 attacks, and White House officials have since pointed to those attacks as justification for its restrictions.⁹ But none of the September 11 hijackers were citizens of the six targeted countries.¹⁰ In fact, multiple studies show that the overwhelming majority of individuals who were charged with—or who died in the course of committing—terrorist-related crimes inside the United States since September 11 have been U.S. citizens or legal permanent residents.¹¹

⁸ Id.

⁹ Jan. 27 Order §1; Sabrina Siddiqui, Trump Signs ‘Extreme Vetting’ Executive Order for People Entering the US, The Guardian (Jan. 27, 2017).

¹⁰ Central Intelligence Agency, 11 September 2001 Hijackers, https://www.cia.gov/news-information/speeches-testimony/2002/DCI_18_June_testimony_new.pdf.

¹¹ See Peter Bergen et al., Terrorism in America After 9/11, New America Foundation, www.newamerica.org/in-depth/terrorism-in-america/; George Washington University Program on Extremism, ISIS in America: From Retweets to Raqqa 6 (Dec. 2015), <https://cchs.gwu.edu/isis-in-america>; Nora Ellingsten, It’s Not Foreigners Who Are Plotting Here: What the Data Really Show, Lawfare (Feb. 7, 2017); see also Felicia Schwartz & Ben Kesling, Countries Under U.S. Entry Ban Aren’t Main Sources of Terror Attacks, The Wall St. J. (Jan. 29, 2017); Alex Nowrasteh, Terrorism and Immigration: A Risk Analysis, Cato Institute (Sept. 13, 2016) [hereinafter “Nowrasteh Sept. 2016”].

The U.S. government provided no evidence to the contrary in its initial January 27 Order.¹² The March 6 Order now offers the assertion that “[s]ince 2001, hundreds of persons born abroad have been convicted of terrorism-related crimes in the United States.” The Order does not actually cite any support for this statement. But a similar set of data—relied on by White House officials in recent weeks to justify the initial January 27 Order—has been widely criticized for its definition of terrorism-related offenses, among other issues.¹³

Second, Respondents have identified no persuasive basis for believing that a heightened or particularized future threat has suddenly arisen from the six named countries. The January 27 Order was unable to muster any such explanation at all. The March 6 Order offers a series of excerpts from the 2015 Department of State Country Reports on Terrorism and elsewhere, describing how these nations are home to violent extremist groups, and do not cooperate in U.S. counterterrorism efforts. However, the Country Reports only once again confirm the imprecision of the country bans in the Order: They point out, for example, that more than 55 percent of all terrorist attacks in 2015 took place in only five countries (Iraq, ¹² See Washington v. Trump, No. 17-35105, __ F.3d __ at 26, 2017 WL 526497, slip op. (9th Cir. Feb. 9, 2017); Aziz v. Trump, No. 1:17-cv-00116-LMB-TCB, __ F.Supp.3d __ at 6, 2017 WL 580855 (E.D. Va. Feb. 13, 2017).

¹³ See, e.g., Molly Redden, Trump Powers “Will Not be Questioned” on Immigration, Senior Official Says, The Guardian (Feb. 12, 2017); Nowarasteh Jan. 2017, supra note 7; Alex Nowrasteh, 42 Percent of ‘Terrorism-Related’ Convictions Aren’t for Terrorism, Cato Institute (Mar. 6, 2017).

Afghanistan, Pakistan, India and Nigeria), none of which are subject to the travel ban.¹⁴ At any rate, the Order does not plausibly make the case that the threat has recently increased from these areas of the globe such that a sudden country-based ban is needed, or that a suspension of travel will lead to improved counter-terrorism efforts or information sharing with these countries. And as we explain later, there is actually ample reason to believe the Order will compromise our security programs.

The only other evidence cited by the Order for this proposition is a pair of anecdotal cases in which individuals who were originally refugees from the listed countries were later sentenced for terrorism-related crimes. But, one of those cases involved terror activities undertaken before the individual came to the United States, not acts on U.S. soil, and the current procedures already have been fully reviewed and revised to address the issues raised by that entry.¹⁵ The other individual was unable to execute on his plans at all, and in any event was admitted as a small child, and so it is difficult to see how a suspension of travel to improve the vetting process would have affected his entry, since he was radicalized here in the United States. And of course, the mere mention of these two cases hardly refutes the multiple, careful analyses cited earlier showing that they are very much the exception rather than the rule.¹⁶

¹⁴ Annex of Statistical Information, Country Reports on Terrorism 2015 (June 2016).

¹⁵ See infra discussion at page 10.

A number of amici were current on active intelligence concerning all credible terrorist threat streams directed against the United States as of January 20, 2017. They know of no specific threat that would have justified the January 27 ban on travel from these six countries. And amici are unaware of any new national security basis for a ban on six of those countries that might suddenly have surfaced in the weeks between that Order and the more recent March 6 ban.

Third, Respondents have identified no flaw in existing procedures that would justify the bans in the Order. Since the September 11, 2001 attacks, the United States has developed a rigorous system of security vetting, leveraging the full capabilities of the law enforcement and intelligence communities. This vetting system is applied to travelers not once, but multiple times, and it is continually re-evaluated to ensure its effectiveness. Successive administrations have strengthened the vetting process through robust information-sharing and data integration. This approach allows the government to identify potential terrorists without resorting to blanket bans.¹⁷

¹⁶ See supra note 11.

¹⁷ See, e.g., The Security of U.S. Visa Programs: Hearing Before the S. Comm. on Homeland Sec. & Governmental Affairs, 114th Cong. (2016) (written statements of Respondents offer no reason to move abruptly to a national origin-based ban, when the United States already has such a tested system of individualized vetting, developed and implemented by national security professionals across the government. In fact, information continues to surface that confirms that country-based bans are the wrong approach. For instance, since the initial Order was issued in January, a document surfaced from within the Department of Homeland Security itself, prepared in response to a request from the new Administration. The document confirms that “country of citizenship is unlikely to be a reliable indicator of potential terrorist activity.”¹⁸

Finally, the Order cannot be defended as a mere continuation of recent U.S. counterterrorism policy. Because threat streams constantly evolve, amici sought continually to improve vetting when serving as national security officials. That effort included reviews in 2011 and 2015-16, when the U.S. government acted in response to particular threats identified by intelligence sources. In 2011, after receiving derogatory information regarding two Iraqi nationals who had entered the United States as refugees, the U.S. government undertook an extensive David Donahue and Sarah R. Saldaña), <https://www.hsgac.senate.gov/hearings/the-security-of-us-visa-programs>.

¹⁸ Citizenship Likely an Unreliable Indicator of Terrorist Threat to the United States [hereinafter “Citizenship Unlikely”], available at <https://assets.documentcloud.org/documents/3474730/DHS-intelligence-document-on-President-Donald.pdf>.

interagency review of its vetting system. The flow of refugees from Iraq slowed during the pendency of the review,¹⁹ and upon completion of the review, the U.S. government implemented new, stronger security procedures in areas of identified vulnerability.²⁰

Likewise, in late 2015 and early 2016, in response to the emerging threat posed by ISIL, the U.S. government took several steps to strengthen the Visa Waiver Program, which allows citizens from thirty-eight approved countries to travel to the United States without first obtaining a visa. President Obama introduced a series of new measures to enhance security screenings and traveler risk assessments in the program and bolster our relationship with partner countries.²¹ Around the same time, President Obama signed into law a statute that ¹⁹ Refugee Processing Center, Interactive Reporting, http://ireports.wrapsnet.org/Interactive-Reporting/EnumType/Report?ItemPath=/rpt_WebArrivalsReports/MX%20-%20Arrivals%20by%20Nationality%20and%20Religion; Jon Finan, Sorry, Mr. President: The Obama Administration Did Nothing Similar to Your Immigration Ban, Foreign Policy (Jan. 30, 2017).

²⁰ Ten Years After 9/11: Preventing Terrorist Travel, Hearing Before the United States S. Comm. on Homeland Sec. and Governmental Affairs, 112th Cong. 522 (2011) (written statements of Rand Beers and Janice L. Jacobs), <https://www.hsgac.senate.gov/hearings/ten-years-after-9/11-preventing-terrorist-travel>; Andorra Bruno, Iraqi and Afghan Special Immigrant Visa Programs, Cong. Research Serv., 14 (2016).

²¹ The White House, Visa Waiver Program Enhancements (Nov. 30, 2015), <https://obamawhitehouse.archives.gov/the-press-office/2015/11/30/fact-sheet-visa-waiver-program-enhancements>; U.S. Dep't of Homeland Security, DHS Announces Further Travel Restrictions for the Visa Waiver Program (Feb. 18, 2016), removed from the Visa Waiver Program those nationals of existing Visa Waiver Program countries who: (1) had been present in Iraq, Syria, Iran or Sudan after March 1, 2011, or (2) were dual nationals of one of those four countries.²² Several months later, the Secretary of Homeland Security—acting under the new statute and in consultation with the Director of National Intelligence and the Secretary of State—expanded the list of four countries to include Yemen, Libya and Somalia.²³

Contrary to Respondents’ claims, these previous reforms provide no justification for a blanket, group-based ban on the entry of nationals from these six countries. The enhancement of security in the refugee system allowed for more searching, individualized vetting of travelers, the opposite of the categorical ban in this Order. Similarly, the reforms to the Visa Waiver Program did not automatically bar anyone—including nationals of any country—from travel to the United States. The affected individuals were simply required to obtain individually-vetted visas before entering the United States, just as nationals from <https://www.dhs.gov/news/2016/02/18/dhs-announces-further-travel-restrictions-visa-waiver-program>.

²² 8 U.S.C. § 1187; U.S. Dep’t of State, Visa Waiver Program, <https://travel.state.gov/content/visas/en/visit/visa-waiver-program.html>.

²³ The exemptions for Yemen, Libya and Somalia only applied to those who had traveled to or been present in one of those countries, not dual nationals. U.S. Dep’t of Homeland Security, supra note 20.

the more than 150 other nations not currently part of the Visa Waiver Programs must do.

To keep our country safe from terrorist threats, the U.S. government must gather all credible evidence about growing threat streams—including through the best available intelligence—to thwart those threats before they ripen. Through the years, national security-based immigration restrictions have: (1) responded to specific, credible threats based on individualized information, (2) rested on the best available intelligence, and (3) been subject to thorough interagency legal and policy review. The present Order does not rest on such tailored grounds, but rather on (1) generalized bans, (2) that are not supported by any new intelligence that Respondents have cited or of which amici are aware, and (3) were not vetted through careful interagency legal and policy review.

B. The suspension of refugee admissions is not justified by national security or foreign policy concerns.

The March 6 Order’s 120-day ban on refugee admissions serves no national security or foreign policy purpose. Amici know of no factual basis for Respondents’ claim that refugees pose a particular security threat to the United States that would justify the Order’s categorical bans.

From 1975 to the end of 2015, over three million refugees have been admitted to the United States. According to a recent study, only three have killed people in terrorist attacks on U.S. soil.²⁴ All three were Cuban refugees, who murdered three people in two attacks in the 1970s. Critically, these refugees were admitted and carried out their crimes before the creation of the modern refugee vetting system in 1980.²⁵ No refugee has killed an American in a terrorist attack in the United States since that system was put in place.²⁶ According to the study, over that same period, only twenty refugees were convicted of any terrorism-related crimes on U.S. soil at all.²⁷

In fact, refugees already receive the most thorough vetting of any travelers to the United States.²⁸ Refugee candidates are vetted recurrently throughout the resettlement process, as “pending applications continue to be checked against terrorist databases, to ensure new, relevant terrorism information has not come to light.”²⁹ By the time refugees referred by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (“UNHCR”) are approved for resettlement in the United States, they have been reviewed not only by UNHCR but also by the National ²⁴ Nowrasteh Sept. 2016, supra note 11.

²⁵ Id.

²⁶ Id.

²⁷ Id. (“The chance of an American being murdered in a terrorist attack caused by a refugee is 1 in 3.64 billion per year”); see also Nowrasteh Jan. 2017, supra note 7.

²⁸ U.S. Dep’t of State, U.S. Refugee Admissions Program FAQs, <https://www.state.gov/j/prm/releases/factsheets/2017/266447.htm>.

²⁹ Amy Pope, The Screening Process for Refugee Entry into the United States (Nov. 20, 2015), <https://obamawhitehouse.archives.gov/blog/2015/11/20/infographic-screening-process-refugee-entry-united-states>.

Counterterrorism Center, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Defense, the Department of State and the U.S. intelligence community more broadly.³⁰

The refugee vetting process is also reviewed and strengthened on an ongoing basis in response to particular threats.³¹ For Syrian applicants, the Department of Homeland Security recently added a layer of enhanced review that involves collaboration between the Refugee, Asylum, and International Operations Directorate and the Fraud Detection and National Security Directorate. Among other measures, this review provided additional, intelligence-driven support to refugee adjudicators that U.S. officials could then use to more precisely question refugees during their security interviews.³² Respondents allege no specific information about any vetting step omitted by current procedures.

While the United States' own individualized vetting process is the most important step, additional considerations make the U.S. refugee system difficult for terrorists to exploit. Under current vetting procedures, refugees often wait eighteen ³⁰ U.S. Dep't of State, supra note 28.

³¹ U.S. Dep't of Homeland Security, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (Dec. 3, 2015), https://www.uscis.gov/sites/default/files/USCIS/Refugee%2C%20Asylum%2C%20and%20Int%271%20Ops/Refugee_Security_Screening_Fact_Sheet.pdf.

³² U.S. Dep't of State, supra note 6; Andorra Bruno, Syrian Refugee Admissions and Resettlement in the United States: In Brief, Cong. Research Serv., 4-5 (2016).

to twenty-four months to be cleared for entry into the United States.³³ Further, of all refugees determined by the UNHCR to be eligible for resettlement, less than one percent were resettled in any country at all in 2015,³⁴ meaning that a would-be terrorist posing as a refugee has very little chance of being resettled anywhere, let alone the United States. Finally, the UNHCR resettlement program places refugees in dozens of countries, and refugees do not decide where they are resettled or which country accepts them, meaning that the odds of any individual refugee being settled into the United States in particular are exceedingly low.

II. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER'S OVERBREADTH HARMS OUR NATIONAL SECURITY AND FOREIGN POLICY INTERESTS.

The March 6 Order's overreach will do lasting harm to the national security and foreign policy interests of the United States.

A. The Order is of unprecedented scope.

We know of no case where a President has invoked authority under the Immigration and Nationality Act to suspend admission of such a sweeping class of people. Even after the September 11 attacks, the U.S. government did not invoke the provisions of law cited by the Administration to broadly bar entrants based on nationality, national origin or religious affiliation. Across the decades, executive orders under the Immigration and Nationality Act usually have targeted specific government officials,³⁵ undocumented immigrants³⁶ or individuals whose personalized screenings indicated that they posed a national security risk.³⁷ And above all, no example in the modern era even approaches the sheer breadth of this Order, which with one stroke of the pen bans more than 180 million people in six separate countries from traveling to the United States based solely on their national origin.

³³ U.S. Dep't of State, U.S. Refugee Resettlement Processing for Iraqi and Syrian Beneficiaries of an Approved I-130 Petition (Mar. 11, 2016), <https://www.state.gov/j/prm/releases/factsheets/2016/254649.htm>.

³⁴ U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, Resettlement, <http://www.unhcr.org/en-us/resettlement.html>.

B. The Order will do serious damage to our national security and foreign policy interests.

The Order will harm the interests of the United States in a number of respects.

1. The Order will endanger U.S. troops in the field.

The Order will affect interpreters and others who have assisted our troops at great risk to their own lives. While Iraq has been removed from the list of banned countries, the Order halts the entire U.S. Refugee Assistance Program for 120 days for all countries. This pause will affect tens of thousands of individuals who ³⁵ See, e.g., Proclamation No. 6958, 61 Fed. Reg. 60,007 (Nov. 22, 1996).

³⁶ See, e.g., Exec. Order No. 12,807, 57 Fed. Reg. 23,133 (May 24, 1992); Exec. Order No. 12,324, 46 Fed. Reg. 48,109 (Sept. 29, 1981).

³⁷ See, e.g., Exec. Order No. 13,726, 81 Fed. Reg. 23,559 (Apr. 19, 2016); Exec. Order No. 13,694, 80 Fed. Reg. 18,077 (Apr. 1, 2015).

assisted the United States and who are waiting for admission under the already backlogged “Priority 2” program.³⁸ By discouraging future assistance and cooperation from these and other affected military allies and partners, the Order will jeopardize the safety and effectiveness of our Service Members.³⁹

2. The Order will disrupt essential counterterrorism, foreign policy, and national security partnerships.

The Order will disrupt key counterterrorism, foreign policy, and national security partnerships that are critical to our country’s efforts to address the threat posed by terrorist groups such as ISIL. The Order has already sparked intense international criticism and alienated U.S. allies and partners. Countries in the Middle East expressed disapproval and even threatened and engaged in reciprocity in response to the January 27 Order, jeopardizing years of diplomatic outreach.⁴⁰ We can certainly anticipate a similar reaction to the current order, if it is permitted to go into effect.

³⁸ The “Priority 2” program provides an alternative to the now closed Special Immigrant Visa program.

³⁹ U.S. Dep’t of State et al., Report to the Congress, Proposed Refugee Admissions for Fiscal Year 2016, at 57 (2016); Stephanie Ott, What Happens to Iraqis who Worked with the U.S. military, Al Jazeera (Feb. 1, 2017); Urban Justice Center, International Refugee Assistance Project, IRAP Stands With Iraqi Allies of the United States Affected by Executive Order (Feb. 1, 2017).

⁴⁰ Rebecca Savransky, Iraq Parliament Approves ‘Reciprocity Measure’ In Trump Immigration Ban’s Wake, The Hill (Jan. 30, 2017); The Guardian, UN says Trump’s revised travel ban will worsen plight of refugees (Mar. 7, 2017); Kevin Liptak, Travel Ban Remains Sticking Point in Trump Calls with US Allies, CNN (Feb. 9, 2017).

The Order will also endanger U.S. intelligence sources in the field. For up-to-date information, our intelligence officers often rely on human sources in some of the countries listed. The Order breaches faith with those very sources, who have risked much or all to keep Americans safe—and whom our officers had promised to protect.⁴¹ Finally, by suspending visas, this Order halts the collection of important intelligence that occurs during visa screening processes, information that can be used to recruit agents and identify regional trends of instability.⁴²

3. The Order will hinder domestic law enforcement efforts.

Domestic law enforcement relies heavily on partnerships with American Muslim communities to fight homegrown terrorism.⁴³ One report found that in the years since September 11, 2001, Muslim communities have helped U.S. security officials prevent nearly two out of every five Al-Qaeda plots threatening the United States.⁴⁴ By alienating Muslim-American communities in the United States, the Order will harm our efforts to enlist their aid in identifying radicalized ⁴¹ Michael V. Hayden, Former CIA Chief: Trump's Travel Ban Hurts American Spies – and America, Wash. Post (Feb. 5, 2017).

⁴² This process is particularly important in countries like Iran and Libya, where internal conflict or lack of diplomatic ties limit on-the-ground intelligence collection.

⁴³ Kristina Cooke & Joseph Ax, U.S. Officials Say American Muslims Do Report Extremist Threats, Reuters (Jun. 16, 2016).

⁴⁴ Muslim Public Affairs Council, Data on Post-9/11 Terrorism in the United States (Jun. 2012), <http://www.mpac.org/assets/docs/publications/MPAC-Post-911-Terrorism-Data.pdf>.

individuals who might launch attacks of the kind recently seen in San Bernardino and Orlando.

The Order's disparate impact on Muslim travelers and immigrants also feeds ISIL's propaganda narrative and sends the wrong message to the Muslim community at home and abroad: that the U.S. government is at war with them based on their religion. Less than a day after President Trump signed the January 27 Order, jihadist groups began citing its contents in recruiting messages online.⁴⁵ The revised Order may even endanger Christian communities overseas, by handing ISIL a recruiting tool and propaganda victory that spreads their message that the United States is engaged in a religious war.

4. The Order will have a devastating humanitarian impact.

The Order will have a devastating humanitarian impact. First and foremost, the Order will disrupt the travel of men, women and children who have been victimized by actual terrorists. Next, tens of thousands of other travelers today face deep uncertainty about whether they may travel to or from the United States for reasons including medical treatment, study or scholarly exchange, funerals or other pressing family reasons. While the Order allows the Secretaries of State and Homeland Security to admit travelers from targeted countries on a case-by-case basis, in our experience it would be unrealistic for these overburdened agencies to apply such procedures to every one of the thousands of affected individuals with urgent and compelling needs to travel. Finally, closing our borders to refugees who otherwise would have had the opportunity to resettle in the United States will keep them in dangerous conditions and shift the burden to overstretched allies who are currently accepting far more than their fair share of refugees.

⁴⁵ Joby Warrick, Jihadist Groups Hail Trump's Travel Ban as a Victory, Wash. Post (Jan. 29 2017).

5. The Order will cause economic damage to American citizens and residents.

Finally, the Order will affect many foreign travelers who annually inject hundreds of billions of dollars into the U.S. economy, supporting well over a million U.S. jobs.⁴⁶ Since the initial Order was issued, dozens of affected companies have noted the damaging impact the travel ban can be expected to have on strategic economic sectors including defense, technology, and medicine.⁴⁷ About a third of U.S. innovators were born outside the United States, and their scientific and technological innovations have contributed to making our nation and the world safe.⁴⁸ The harm caused by the ban to the economic dynamism of our country will carry long-term negative and serious consequences for our national security.

⁴⁶ U.S. Dep't of Commerce, Department of Commerce Releases October Travel and Tourism Expenditures (Dec. 15, 2016), <http://trade.gov/press/press-releases/2016/department-of-commerce-releases-october-travel-tourism-expenditures-121516.asp>.

⁴⁷ See, e.g., Br. for Technology Companies and Other Businesses as Amici Curiae in Support of Appellees, Washington v. Trump, No. 17-35105, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 526497 (9th Cir. Feb. 9, 2017).

III. THE REVISED EXECUTIVE ORDER PERPETUATES THE BASIC STRUCTURAL FLAWS OF THE ORIGINAL ILL-CONCEIVED, POORLY IMPLEMENTED AND ILL-EXPLAINED ORDER.

The Supreme Court has observed that “[d]epartures from the normal procedural sequence . . . might afford evidence that improper purposes are playing a role” in government action. Vill. Of Arlington Heights v. Metro. Hous. Dev. Corp., 429 U.S. 252, 267 (1977). What is more, this evidence cannot be cured by a later-in-time order that preserves the essential features of the first. See U.S. v. Fordice, 505 U.S. 717 (1992) (holding that Mississippi’s re-classification of its state colleges and universities in ways that were facially neutral but perpetuated racial segregation continued to violate Brown v. Board of Education); Vill. Of Arlington Heights, 429 U.S. at 267 (noting that the “specific sequence of events leading up the challenged decision also may shed some light on the decisionmaker's purposes").

⁴⁸ Adams Nager, et al., The Demographics of Innovation in the United States, Information Technology & Innovation Foundation 29 (Feb. 2016), <http://www2.itif.org/2016-demographics-of-innovation.pdf>. Iran’s universities, for example, have produced an “inordinate amount of intellectual talent in computer science and cybersecurity.” These scientists are drawn to universities in the United States, where their research is then used by entities such as the Office of Naval Research and DARPA. Patrick O’Neill, How Academics Are Helping Cybersecurity Students Overcome Trump’s Immigration Order, Cyberscoop (Jan. 30, 2017), <https://www.cyberscoop.com/trump-immigration-ban-cybersecurity-iran-protests/>.

In this situation, the process that produced the January 27 Order departed from the traditional national security policy-making process, with little to no consultation or scrutiny across the Departments of State, Justice, Homeland Security or the Intelligence Community. And while further thought no doubt went into the March 6 Order, on its face it seems clear that that order was carefully structured to mimic the old ban as closely as possible. As Justice Thomas explained in U.S. v. Fordice, "if a policy remains in force, without adequate justification and despite tainted roots and segregative effect, it appears clear – clear enough to presume conclusively – that the State has failed to disprove discriminatory intent." Fordice, 505 U.S. at 747 (Thomas, J., concurring).

In every recent administration, Presidents considering a change to immigration policy have followed an interagency review process that allows security professionals to ensure that all relevant uncertainties are addressed by policy and legal experts, appropriate preparations are made for implementation, and any potential risks are effectively mitigated. Before recommendations are submitted to the President, the National Security Council oversees a legal and policy process that typically includes the following important components: a review by the career professionals in institutions of the U.S. government charged with implementing an order; a review by the career lawyers in those institutions to ensure legality and consistency in interpretation; and a senior policy review across all relevant agencies, including Deputies and Principals at the cabinet level.⁴⁹

This practice of interagency deliberation has been followed even—and especially—in times of national emergency in order to set temporary exclusions or establish criteria for admission to the United States. In the immediate aftermath of the September 11, 2001 attacks, when the Bush Administration considered whether the President should invoke 8 U.S.C. § 1182(f) to bar certain immigrants or take other actions to secure the border, officials engaged in consultations across the national security agencies to arrive at a decision.⁵⁰ The reexamination of the vetting system in 2011⁵¹ and the security reforms to the Visa Waiver Program in 2015-16⁵² reflect similar interagency consultation.

⁴⁹ This is no less true of executive orders issued at the start of a new presidency. See, e.g., Henry B. Hogue, Cong. Research Serv., Presidential Transition Act: Provisions and Funding (2016); William Glaberson & Helene Cooper, Obama's Plan to Close Prison at Guantánamo May Take Year, N.Y. Times (Jan. 12, 2009).

⁵⁰ Edward Alden, The Closing of the American Border 104-06 (2008); Thomas R. Eldridge, et al., 9/11 and Terrorist Travel: A Staff Report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States 151-54 (2004); Memorandum from Stuart Levey, Assoc. Deputy Att'y Gen., to Dan Levin, Counsel to the Att'y Gen., & David Ayres, Dep't of Justice Chief of Staff (Oct. 3, 2001).

⁵¹ Jon Finan, supra note 19.

⁵² See supra notes 21-23 and surrounding text.

The process that produced the January 27 Order departed sharply from this standard practice. We know of no process underway before January 20, 2017 to change current immigration vetting procedures. According to extensive reporting, Respondents followed no such process in producing the January 27 Order.⁵³ Nor, apparently, did the White House consult officials from any of the seven agencies tasked with enforcing immigration laws, much less the congressional committees and subcommittees that oversee them. There is every indication that that Order received little, if any, advance scrutiny by the Departments of State, Justice, Homeland Security or the intelligence community.⁵⁴

As telling, the January 27 Order was apparently issued without interagency legal process. In recent history, administrations of both political parties have followed a protocol of submitting proposed Orders to the Attorney General, the ⁵³ The Secretary of Homeland Security reportedly received his first full briefing as the President signed the January 27 Order. Michael D. Shear & Ron Nixon, How Trump's Rush to Enact an Immigration Ban Unleashed Global Chaos, N.Y. Times (Jan. 29, 2017). The Secretary of Defense was neither consulted during the drafting of the order nor given an opportunity to provide input. Evan Perez et al., Inside the Confusion of the Trump Executive Order and Travel Ban, CNN (Jan. 30, 2017). Most State Department officials reportedly first heard of the Order through the media. Jonathan Allen & Brendan O'Brien, How Trump's Abrupt Immigration Ban Sowed Confusion at Airports, Agencies, Reuters (Jan. 29, 2017).

⁵⁴ Customs and border officials reported that their superiors could not provide clear guidance about the new policy. Shear & Nixon, supra note 53; see also Allen & O'Brien, supra note 53 (quoting CBP chief of passenger operations at John F. Kennedy International Airport declaring, "[w]e are as much in the dark as everybody else.").

Justice Department’s Office of Legal Counsel (“OLC”) and all other agency legal offices involved with enforcing the law.⁵⁵ Legal review by multiple agencies helps to identify potentially unforeseen legal implications of an order, determines the lawfulness of the proposed action, and analyzes whether the proposed language has established legal meaning that can be interpreted consistently with other laws and regulations. Here, the White House reportedly never asked the Department of Homeland Security for legal review in advance of the Order being promulgated, so “[t]he Department . . . was left making a legal analysis on the order after [President] Trump signed it.”⁵⁶ Unsurprisingly, the January 27 Order contained numerous ambiguities and inconsistencies that immediately caused confusion, forcing implementing agencies to improvise and the White House to reverse itself at least once.⁵⁷

Although the White House apparently brought more agencies into the fold in the days leading up to the March 6 Order, whatever process took place after January 27, 2017 plainly was meant to preserve the same structure, substance and purpose of the original flawed executive order. Indeed, White House political ⁵⁵ See, e.g., Exec. Order No. 11,030, 27 Fed. Reg. 5,847 (Jun. 19, 1962).

⁵⁶ Perez et al., supra note 53; Shear & Nixon, supra note 53.

⁵⁷ Allen & O’Brien, supra note 53; Geneva Sands et al., Officials Aim to Clarify Impact on Dual Nationals From Trump’s Immigration Executive Order, ABC News (Feb. 1, 2017).

advisor Stephen Miller admitted that the March 6 Order would reflect “mostly minor technical differences,” and achieve “the same basic policy outcome for the country,” statements that were echoed by other senior officials.⁵⁸

Ultimately, there continues to be scant evidence that the country-based approach that is maintained in this Order emerged from the considered perspective of national security experts from across multiple affected agencies. In fact, a document that recently surfaced from the Department of Homeland Security shows just the opposite. When DHS officials were asked by the new administration to identify the terrorist threat from the listed countries, they reached two critical conclusions: that citizenship is likely an unreliable indicator of terrorist threat, and that few of the listed countries are home to terrorist groups that threaten the west.⁵⁹ To this moment, the Administration has yet to explain how the country-based bans established here work effectively to forestall terrorist threats or why there are not more narrowly tailored measures available to address our country's national security concerns.

CONCLUSION

Ours is a nation of immigrants, committed to the faith that we are all equal under the law and that we abhor discrimination, whether based on race, religion, ⁵⁸ Matthew Nussbaum et al., supra note 5.

⁵⁹ Citizenship Unlikely, supra note 18.

sex, or national origin. As government officials, amici sought diligently to protect our country, even while maintaining an immigration system free from intentional discrimination, a system that applies no religious tests and that measures individuals by their merits, not by stereotypes of countries or groups.

Unjustified blanket bans of certain countries or classes of people are beneath the dignity of the nation and Constitution that amici took oaths to protect. Although our nation was founded by immigrants fleeing religious persecution, the Order discriminates based on religion. Although our Constitution enshrines the principle that all are equal under the law, the Order discriminates on the basis of national origin. And although the United States accepted over four million refugees in the decades after World War II,⁶⁰ the Order willfully ignores the greatest refugee crisis since that time.

Allowing the March 6 Order to take effect would wreak havoc on our nation's security and deeply held American values and would threaten innocent lives. Blocking the Order while the underlying legal issues are being adjudicated would not jeopardize national security. It would simply preserve the status quo ante, still subjecting travelers to all the rigorous legal vetting processes that are currently in place.

⁶⁰ Carl J. Bon Tempo, Americans at the Gate: The United States and Refugees during the Cold War 1 (2008).

For all of these reasons, amici support the Plaintiffs in seeking to block the March 6 Order from going into effect.

Respectfully Submitted,

Dated April 13, 2017

/s/ Jonathan M. Freiman

Harold Hongju Koh
Hope Metcalf
RULE OF LAW CLINIC
Yale Law School
127 Wall Street, P.O. Box 208215
New Haven, CT 06520-8215
harold.koh@yale.edu
hope.metcalf@yale.edu
203-432-4932

Jonathan M. Freiman
Tahlia Townsend
WIGGIN AND DANA LLP
265 Church Street
P.O. Box 1832
New Haven, CT 06508-1832
jfreiman@wiggin.com
ttownsend@wiggin.com
203-498-4584

William J. Murphy
John J. Connolly
ZUCKERMAN SPAEDER LLP
100 E. Pratt St., Suite 2440
Baltimore, Maryland 21202
jconnolly@zuckerman.com
wmurphy@zuckerman.com
410-332-0444

*Counsel for Amici Curiae

* We are grateful to Phil Spector, Danieli Evans, Clare Ryan, and the student members of the Yale Law School Rule of Law Clinic—Benjamin Alter, Colleen Culbertson, Idriss Fofana, Alexandra Mahler-Haug, Abigail Olson, Aisha Saad, Mitzi Steiner, Aleksandr Sverdlik, Beatrice Walton, Emily Wanger, Zoe Weinberg, Tianyi Xin, and Nathaniel Zelinsky—for their contributions to this submission. Yale Law School’s Rule of Law Clinic is organized separately from the school’s Jerome N. Frank Legal Services Organization, one of the counsel for Petitioners in a separate challenge to the initial executive order. The views expressed by Yale Law School’s legal clinics are not necessarily those of the Yale Law School.

APPENDIX: LIST OF AMICI

1. Madeleine K. Albright served as Secretary of State from 1997 to 2001. A refugee and naturalized American citizen, she served as U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations from 1993 to 1997. She has also been a member of the Central Intelligence Agency External Advisory Board since 2009 and of the Defense Policy Board since 2011, in which capacities she has received assessments of threats facing the United States.

2. John R. Allen served as Special Presidential Envoy for the Global Coalition to Counter ISIL from 2014 to 2015. Previously, he served as Commander of the International Security Assistance Force and U.S. Forces Afghanistan.

3. Jeremy Bash served as Chief of Staff at the U.S. Department of Defense from 2011 to 2013, and as Chief of Staff at the Central Intelligence Agency from 2009 to 2011.

4. Rand Beers served as Deputy Homeland Security Advisor to the President of the United States from 2014 to 2015.

5. Daniel Benjamin served as Ambassador-at-Large for Counterterrorism at the U.S. State Department from 2009 to 2012.

6. Antony Blinken served as Deputy Secretary of State from 2015 to January 20, 2017. He also served as Deputy National Security Advisor to the President of the United States from 2013 to 2015.

7. R. Nicholas Burns served as Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs from 2005 to 2008. He previously served as U.S. Ambassador to NATO and as U.S. Ambassador to Greece.

8. William J. Burns served as Deputy Secretary of State from 2011 to 2014. He previously served as Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs from 2008 to 2011, as U.S. Ambassador to Russia from 2005 to 2008, as Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs from 2001 to 2005, and as U.S. Ambassador to Jordan from 1998 to 2001.

9. James Clapper served as U.S. Director of National Intelligence from 2010 to January 20, 2017.

10. David S. Cohen served as Under Secretary of the Treasury for Terrorism and Financial Intelligence from 2011 to 2015 and as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency from 2015 to January 20, 2017.

11. Eliot A. Cohen served as Counselor of the U.S. Department of State from 2007 to 2009.

12. Ryan Crocker served as U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan from 2011 to 2012, U.S. Ambassador to Iraq from 2007 to 2009, U.S. Ambassador to Pakistan from 2004 to 2007, U.S. Ambassador to Syria from 1998 to 2001, U.S. Ambassador to Kuwait from 1994 to 1997, and U.S. Ambassador to Lebanon from 1990 to 1993.

13. Daniel Feldman served as U.S. Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan from 2014 to 2015, Deputy U.S. Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan from 2009 to 2014, and previously Director for Multilateral and Humanitarian Affairs at the National Security Council.

14. Jonathan Finer served as Chief of Staff to the Secretary of State from 2015 until January 20, 2017, and Director of the Policy Planning Staff at the U.S. State Department from 2016 until January 20, 2017.

15. Michèle Flournoy served as Under Secretary of Defense for Policy from 2009 to 2013.

16. Robert S. Ford served as U.S. Ambassador to Syria from 2011 to 2014, as Deputy Ambassador to Iraq from 2009 to 2010, and as U.S. Ambassador to Algeria from 2006 to 2008.

17. Suzy George served as Deputy Assistant to the President and Chief of Staff and Executive Secretary to the National Security Council from 2014 to 2017.

18. Phil Gordon served as Special Assistant to the President and White House Coordinator for the Middle East, North Africa and the Gulf from 2013 to 2015, and Assistant Secretary of State for European and Eurasian Affairs from 2009 to 2013.

19. Avril D. Haines served as Deputy National Security Advisor to the President of the United States from 2015 to January 20, 2017. From 2013 to 2015, she served as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

20. General (ret.) Michael V. Hayden, USAF, served as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency from 2006 to 2009. From 1995 to 2005, he served as Director of the National Security Agency.

21. Christopher R. Hill served as Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs from 2005 to 2009. He also served as U.S. Ambassador to Macedonia, Poland, the Republic of Korea, and Iraq.

22. John F. Kerry served as Secretary of State from 2013 to January 20, 2017.

23. Prem Kumar served as Senior Director for the Middle East and North Africa on the National Security Council staff of the White House from 2013 to 2015.

24. Marcel Lettre served as Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence from 2015 to 2017.

25. Sen. Richard Lugar served as U.S. Senator for Indiana from 1977 to 2013, and as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations from 1985 to 1987 and 2003 to 2007, and as ranking member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations from 2007 to 2013.

26. John E. McLaughlin served as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency from 2000 to 2004 and as Acting Director in 2004. His duties included briefing President-elect Bill Clinton and President George W. Bush.

27. Lisa O. Monaco served as Assistant to the President for Homeland Security and Counterterrorism and Deputy National Security Advisor from 2013 to January 20, 2017.

28. Janet A. Napolitano served as Secretary of Homeland Security from 2009 to 2013.

29. James C. O'Brien served as Special Presidential Envoy for Hostage Affairs from 2015 to January 20, 2017. He served in the State Department from 1989 to 2001, including as Principal Deputy Director of Policy Planning and as Special Presidential Envoy for the Balkans.

30. Matthew G. Olsen served as Director of the National Counterterrorism Center from 2011 to 2014.

31. Leon E. Panetta served as Secretary of Defense from 2011 to 2013. From 2009 to 2011, he served as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

32. Jeffrey Prescott served as Special Assistant to the President and Senior Director for Iran, Iraq, Syria and the Gulf States from 2015 to 2017.

33. Samantha J. Power served as U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations from 2013 to January 20, 2017. From 2009 to 2013, she served as Senior Director for Multilateral and Human Rights on the National Security Council.

34. Susan E. Rice served as U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations from 2009 to 2013 and as National Security Advisor from 2013 to January 20, 2017.

35. Anne C. Richard served as Assistant Secretary of State for Population, Refugees and Migration from 2012 to January 20, 2017.

36. Eric P. Schwartz served as Assistant Secretary of State for Population, Refugees and Migration from 2009 to 2011. From 1993 to 2001, he was responsible for refugee and humanitarian issues on the National Security Council, ultimately serving as Special Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs and Senior Director for Multilateral and Humanitarian Affairs.

37. Wendy R. Sherman served as Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs from 2011 to 2015.

38. Vikram Singh served as Deputy Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan from 2010 to 2011 and as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Southeast Asia from 2012 to 2014.

39. James B. Steinberg served as Deputy National Security Adviser from 1996 to 2000 and as Deputy Secretary of State from 2009 to 2011.

40. Jake Sullivan served as National Security Adviser to the Vice President from 2013 to 2014. From 2011 to 2013, he served as Director of the Policy Planning Staff at the U.S. State Department.

41. William Wechsler served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Special Operations and Combating Terrorism at the U.S. Department of Defense from 2012 to 2015.

42. Samuel M. Witten served as Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Population, Refugees, and Migration from 2007 to 2010. From 2001 to 2007, he served as Deputy Legal Adviser at the State Department.

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE

I hereby certify that the foregoing Brief complies with the type-volume limitation of Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(5) because it contains 6,471 words excluding the parts exempted by Fed. R. App. P. 32(f). This Motion complies with the typeface and the type style requirements of Fed. R. 32(a)(5) because this brief has been prepared in a proportionally spaced typeface using Word 14-point Times New Roman typeface.

/s/ Jonathan M. Freiman
Jonathan M. Freiman
WIGGIN AND DANA LLP
265 Church Street
P.O. Box 1832
New Haven, CT 06508-1832
203-498-4584

Counsel for Amici Curiae

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on April 13, 2017, I electronically filed the foregoing with the Clerk of the court for the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit using the appellate CM/ECF system.

I certify that I am a registered CM/ECF user and that all parties have registered CM/ECF users and that service will be accomplished by the appellate CM/ECF system.

Dated April 13, 2017

Respectfully Submitted,

/s/ Jonathan M. Freiman

Jonathan M. Freiman

Tahlia Townsend

WIGGIN AND DANA LLP

265 Church Street, P.O. Box 1832

New Haven, CT 06508-1832

203-498-4584

Counsel for Amici Curiae