Benna Ruth Solomon
TO: Richard D. Bernstein

The cover of your amicus brief states your position on the motion for stay pending appeal but does not identify whether the brief supports affirmance or reversal.

Under Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(4), the cover of an amicus brief must indicate whether the brief supports affirmance or reversal. In addition, the court will not entertain multiple amicus briefs from the same amicus during its initial consideration of the case on the merits.

Please file your corrected amicus brief within the time frame established by the court's March 23, 2017, order - amicus briefs on behalf of plaintiffs supporting affirmance must be filed by April 19, 2017. The corrected brief may address both the motion for stay and the merits but may not exceed 6,500 words and must comply with Fed. R. App. P. (a)(1)-(4).
