PER CURIAM:

Dave Andrae Taylor appeals the district court's order construing his second 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) (2012) motion for a sentence reduction under Amendment 782 to the Guidelines as a motion to reconsider and denying it sua sponte for lack of jurisdiction, citing United States v. Goodwyn, 596 F.3d 233, 235-36 (4th Cir. 2010) (holding that no provision authorizes a district court to reconsider its order on a § 3582 motion). We affirmed for the reasons stated by the district court. Taylor has now filed a petition for panel rehearing and rehearing en banc. Upon review, we grant Taylor's petition for panel rehearing.

After the district court denied Taylor's motion to reconsider, this court determined that the prohibition against "§ 3582(c)(2)-based motions for reconsideration" is not jurisdictional and, thus, is "waived when the government failed to assert it below." United States v. May, 855 F.3d 271, 274 (4th Cir. 2017), cert. denied, ___ S. Ct. ___, No. 17-142, 2017 WL 3219499 (U.S. Oct. 2, 2017). Accordingly, the district court did not lack authority to entertain Taylor's motion to reconsider.

Though aware that Taylor was eligible for a sentence reduction under Amendment 782, the district court denied Taylor's initial request for that relief as a matter of discretion. In his motion to reconsider, Taylor claimed that a prison infraction cited by the district court in its original order denying his § 3582(c)(2) motion has since been expunged. Because, under May, the district court had authority to consider Taylor's motion to reconsider, we vacate the district court's order and remand this matter to the district court so that it may reconsider Taylor's request for a sentence reduction under Amendment 782. We dispense with oral argument because the facts and legal contentions are adequately presented in the materials before this court and argument would not aid the decisional process.

VACATED AND REMANDED
