PER CURIAM:

Sedric Rashad Marion appeals his 180-month prison sentence after pleading guilty to possession of a firearm and ammunition by a felon in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(1). The district court determined that he was an armed career criminal based on his four prior North Carolina felony convictions for breaking and entering. On appeal, he contends that the district court erred in holding that the offense of North Carolina breaking and entering is a violent felony under the Armed Career Criminal Act (ACCA). We affirm.

“Whether an offense constitutes a ‘violent felony’ and thus qualifies as a predicate conviction for purposes of ACCA is a question of law that we review de novo.” United States v. Allred, 942 F.3d 641, 647 (4th Cir. 2019) (citation omitted). In United States v. Mungro, we “conclude[d] that N.C. Gen. Stat. § 14-54(a), as interpreted by the North Carolina Supreme Court, sweeps no more broadly than the generic elements of burglary” and “therefore qualifies as an ACCA predicate offense under 18 U.S.C. § 924(e)(2)(B)(ii).” United States v. Mungro, 754 F.3d 267, 272 (4th Cir. 2014). In United States v. Dodge, we reaffirmed our “prior holding in Mungro that a conviction under N.C. Gen. Stat. § 14-54(a) qualifies as an ACCA predicate conviction under 18 U.S.C. § 924(e)(2)(B)(ii).” United States v. Dodge, 963 F.3d 379, 383-85 (4th Cir. 2020). We therefore conclude the district court did not err in sentencing Marion as an armed career criminal in this case.

Accordingly, we affirm the district court's judgment. We dispense with oral argument because the facts and legal contentions are adequately presented in the materials before the court and argument would not aid the decisional process.
