Appeal from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas
USDC No. 1:12-CR-18-10

---

Before WIENER, SOUTHWICK, and DUNCAN, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:*

Efren Raul Villarreal appeals the denial of his 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(1)(A) motion for compassionate release from the 157-month prison sentence imposed following his guilty-plea conviction of conspiracy to possess with the intent to distribute 500 grams or more of methamphetamine and 50 grams of more of methamphetamine actual. See 21 U.S.C. §§ 841(a)(1), (b)(1)(A), 846. According to Villarreal, because he has hypertension, diabetes, and has had a cancerous melanoma removed, he is particularly at risk for serious illness if infected with the Covid-19 virus.

We review the district court's denial of Villarreal's § 3582(c)(1)(A)(i) motion for abuse of discretion. United States v. Chambliss, 948 F.3d 691, 693 (5th Cir. 2020). In the order denying relief, the district court expressly acknowledged Villarreal's medical conditions and treatment, the relevant policy statements of the Sentencing Guidelines, the conditions created by the COVID-19 pandemic within the Bureau of Prisons, and the sentencing factors of 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). See § 3582(c)(1)(A); Chambliss, 948 F.3d at 692.

In response to Villarreal's appeal, the Government raises the issue of whether Villarreal has Type 1 or Type 2 diabetes and asserts that, when a prisoner has Type 2 diabetes, the Government generally will agree that the prisoner has presented an extraordinary and compelling reason for compassionate release under the statute and relevant guideline policy statement. Villarreal, in response, asserts that he has Type 2 diabetes. The record does not include documentary evidence of the specific type of diabetes that Villarreal has. Because this court does not consider new evidence on appeal or facts that were not before the district court at the time of its decision, and because the Government acknowledges the relevance and strong persuasive value of this particular evidence, we VACATE the judgment of the district court and REMAND for further proceedings. We express no opinion on the disposition of Villarreal's motion on remand.
