Judge.

ORDER

Richard Goodwin filed a motion under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 seeking to vacate his sentence under the Armed Career Criminal Act. 18 U.S.C. § 924(e). In 2003 a jury found Goodwin guilty of possessing a firearm as a felon. See id. § 922(g)(1). At sentencing the district court pointed to three previous felony convictions and sentenced him as a career offender to 235 months' imprisonment. See id. § 924(e)(1). Goodwin appealed, and we affirmed the conviction but remanded for the district court to consider only whether it would have imposed the same sentence in light of United States v. Booker, 543 U.S. 220

* After examining the briefs and record, we have concluded that oral argument is unnecessary. Thus, the appeal is submitted on the briefs and record. See FED. R. APP. P. 34(a)(2)(C).

(2005). The district court said on remand that it would have imposed the same sentence, and we affirmed. United States v. Goodwin, 173 F. App'x 506 (7th Cir. 2006).

In 2013 Goodwin filed a motion under § 2255 asserting violations of his Fifth and Sixth Amendment rights when the court relied on the three prior felony convictions to sentence him as a career offender without having a jury find the fact of the convictions beyond a reasonable doubt. See Alleyne v. United States, 133 S. Ct. 2151 (2013). The district court denied his motion, concluding that under Almendarez-Torres v. United States, felonies that form the basis for a § 924(e)(1) sentence enhancement need not be found by a jury. 523 U.S. 224 (1998). A few days later the judge issued a certificate of appealability.

On appeal Goodwin concedes that Almendarez-Torres forecloses his argument, and so he seeks merely to preserve the issue for review in the Supreme Court. We have many times stated that the rule announced in Almendarez-Torres was not changed by Alleyne and remains good law. See United States v. Long, 748 F.3d 322, 329 (7th Cir. 2014); United States v. Johnson, 743 F.3d 1110, 1111 (7th Cir. 2014); United States v. Boyce, 742 F.3d 792, 799 (7th Cir. 2014). We are bound by Almendarez-Torres and leave to the Supreme Court whether to revisit that decision.

AFFIRMED.
