prison and three years of supervised release. Her counsel has filed a brief under Anders v. California, 386 U.S. 738 (1967), challenging the district court's application of a two-level enhancement under U.S.S.G. § 3B1.1(c) for Torres-Resendiz's aggravating role in the offense.

The district court did not clearly err in assessing the enhancement. See United States v. Gutierrez, 757 F.3d 785, 789 (8th Cir. 2014) (standard of review). At sentencing, the government presented testimony and other evidence establishing that, for two months, Torres-Resendiz received weekly or bi-weekly shipments of large quantities of methamphetamine from a supplier, and instructed others to wire the drug proceeds, which showed that she directed large quantities of drugs and drug proceeds; exercised control over others; and acted as a "key link" between supplier and distributor. See U.S.S.G. § 3B1.1, comment. (n.4) (relevant factors); United States v. Johnson, 619 F.3d 910, 921 (8th Cir. 2010).

Having reviewed the record pursuant to Penson v. Ohio, 488 U.S. 75 (1988), we find no nonfrivolous issues. Accordingly, the judgment is affirmed.
