Act); 1982 (property rights of citizens); and 1983 (civil action for deprivation of rights). After de novo review, see Carter v. Huterson, 831 F.3d 1104, 1107 (8th Cir. 2016) (standard of review for grant of motion to dismiss for failure to state claim), we conclude that the district court did not abuse its discretion when it dismissed with prejudice all of Daniels's claims against the defendants, see Wright v. Anthony, 733 F.2d 575, 577 (8th Cir. 1984) (where complaint on its face showed that no cause of action could be stated against defendants and dismissal with leave to amend would serve no useful purpose, court clearly was acting within its discretion in dismissing complaint with prejudice).

The judgment is affirmed. See 8th Cir. R. 47B.
