Appeal from United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri - St. Joseph

Submitted: November 6, 2018

[Unpublished]

Before LOKEN, BENTON, and SHEPHERD, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM.

Missouri prisoner Samuel Taylor, while confined at Crossroads Correctional Center, filed a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 complaint against prison officials, dentists, and a court official, claiming that defendants delayed necessary dental treatment, deprived him of property, denied him a premium-pay prison job, issued false disciplinary charges with no meaningful hearing, denied him court access, and exposed him to unsanitary conditions, all in retaliation for his redress of grievances, and all as part of a conspiracy. The district court¹ dismissed some claims before service of process and granted defendants' motions for summary judgment as to the remaining claims. Following careful de novo review of the record and Taylor's arguments on appeal, we affirm the district court's challenged rulings for the reasons stated in its orders. We also find no abuse of discretion in the district court's ruling on Taylor's motion to compel. The judgment is affirmed. See 8th Cir. Rule 47B.

¹The Honorable Nanette K. Laughrey, United States District Judge for the Western District of Missouri.
