Biography

Peter Calamari has 30 plus years of experience representing clients in complex commercial litigation particularly in the financial services industry. Over the years he has been involved in some of the most significant international disputes of our generation. Most recently, he has represented the extraordinary commissioner of Parmalat in his effort to recover amounts for the Parmalat bankruptcy estate. He also has represented parties in the Enron litigation, the Holocaust litigation, the Banco Ambrosiano collapse, the BCCI collapse, the Drexel collapse and the EF Hutton check kiting scandal. He has also been involved in numerous employment disputes and is one of the leading experts in New York on trade secret litigation in the context of employee raiding lawsuits.

He is a magna cum laude graduate of Fordham Law School and a frequent writer and lecturer. Between 2000 and 2004, he was a managing director at Credit Suisse, assisting in various administrative functions at the most senior level. In that capacity he helped organize a new division specializing in hedge funds, private equity and alternate capital investments.

Notable Representations

We represent HSH Nordbank in a case against UBS AG based upon fraud in connection with the issuance and management of a $3 billion reference pool of collateral in the North Street 4 CDO.

We represent hedge funds in matters against CDO arrangers and underwriters based on fraud and misrepresentations in connection with CDOs and credit default swaps.

We represent major banks in investigations and any follow-up litigation regarding investments in super senior AAA-rated tranches of SF-CDOs that deteriorated far more rapidly than comparable transactions based on comparable collateral.

Obtained a 2.1 billion settlement in connection with claims asserted against bank defendants involving the issuance of 2.4 billion in Enron Credit linked notes.

Representing Dr. Enrico Bondi, Extraordinary Commissioner of Parmalat S.P.A in three separate $10 billion lawsuits arising out of the largest bankruptcy in European history against various financial institutions and accounting firms, for aiding and abetting Parmalat's insiders in the commission of massive fraud and for auditor malfeasance. We obtained a $150 million settlement against Deloitte & Touche's Italian arm.

Representing an independent asset management and structured finance firm in connection with a series of claims in the insurance premium financing business.

Obtained dismissals of numerous securities litigations on behalf of defendants in the Drexel and EF Hutton litigation.
