Plaintiff(s),)

ORDER

vs.)

The court has before it defendant’s motion to dismiss Counts 1 and 3 of plaintiffs’ amended complaint (doc. 20), plaintiffs’ response (doc. 25), defendant’s reply (doc. 28), plaintiffs’ motion for leave to file a second amended complaint (doc. 24), defendant’s response (doc. 30), plaintiffs’ reply (doc. 31), defendant’s motion for leave to file an additional response (doc. 32), the proposed additional response (doc. 33), and plaintiffs’ response (doc. 34).

23

Plaintiffs filed this action on January 14, 2013, and amended their complaint on April 30, 2013 (doc. 6). The first amended complaint (“FAC”) alleges that in late June, 2010, defendant notified plaintiffs that it was closing a railroad crossing that plaintiffs had been using for ingress and egress to their property (the “Crossing”). The FAC consists of five counts: (1) prescriptive easement to use the Crossing for ingress and egress; (2) right-of-way easement; (3) private right of necessity under A.R.S. §§ 12-1201 and 12-1202, et seq.; (4)

28

1 easement by common law necessity; and (5) injunctive relief. On June 3, 2013, plaintiffs
2 filed a motion to amend their complaint a second time. Defendant seeks to dismiss Counts
3 1 and 3 of the FAC, and opposes plaintiffs' motion to amend.

4 As an initial matter, we grant defendant's motion for leave to file an additional 5 response to plaintiffs' motion to amend (doc. 32). We construe plaintiffs' response to 6 defendant's motion (doc. 34) as a reply to defendant's additional response.

7 I

8 Defendant moves to dismiss Counts 1 and 3 of the FAC pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6),
9 Fed. R. Civ. P., on the grounds that plaintiffs have failed to state a claim upon which relief
10 can be granted. When considering a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6), Fed. R.
11 Civ. P., "a court must construe the complaint in the light most favorable to the plaintiff and 12 must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true." Shwarz v. United States, 234 F.3d
13 428, 435 (9th Cir. 2000). To survive a motion to dismiss, the complaint must contain
14 "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556
15 U.S. 663, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 1940, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (citation omitted). Dismissal may 16 be "based on the lack of a cognizable legal theory or the absence of sufficient facts alleged 17 under a cognizable legal theory." Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep't, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th 18 Cir. 1990).

19 In Count 1 of the FAC plaintiff seeks a prescriptive easement to use the Crossing.
20 Defendant argues that Count 1 must be dismissed because in Tumacacori Mission Land
21 Development, Ltd. v. Union Pacific Railroad Company, the Arizona Court of Appeals held 22 that under Article XV, §10 of the Arizona Constitution, "a private party may not obtain a
23 prescriptive easement over a railway." 228 Ariz. 100, 263 P.3d 649 (2011). We are not
24 bound by rulings of the intermediate appellate courts in Arizona. On matters of state law,
25 such as the creation of an easement, we are bound by definitive rulings of the Arizona
26 Supreme Court. Vestar Development II, LLC v. General Dynamics Corp., 249 F.3d 958, 27 960 (9th Cir. 2001) ("When interpreting state law, federal courts are bound by decisions of 28

1 that A.R.S. § 12-542(3) governs Counts 6 and 7 of the SAC, but counter that the alleged
2 nuisance is continuing, and thus the statute of limitations did not begin to run in June 2010.

3 In Arizona, a nuisance is continuing “if it is one which can be abated, but the 4 defendant has failed continuously to abate it.” Pinkerton v. Pritchard, 71 Ariz. 117, 126, 223
5 P.2d 933, 939 (1950). Where a nuisance is continuing in its nature, the statute of limitations
6 does not run from the date the tort begins. Garcia v. Sumrall, 58 Ariz. 526, 533, 121 P.2d
7 640, 643 (1942). “[T]he action may be brought at any time within two years of the last 8 trespass . . . and damages may be recovered for all of the statutory period prior to the 9 commencement of the action.” Id.

10 Count 6 of the SAC alleges that defendant is creating a nuisance and trespassing on 11 plaintiffs’ rights by placing barriers and a moat on both sides of the Crossing. Plaintiffs also 12 allege that they have demanded that defendant abate obstruction of the Crossing, but it has 13 refused to do so. Taking plaintiffs’ allegations as true for purposes of the motion to amend,
14 we find defendant’s actions constitute a continuing trespass. Therefore, the statute of 15 limitations on the nuisance claim did not begin to run in June 2010. Plaintiffs timely brought 16 Count 6 within two years of the last trespass.

17 Count 7 of the SAC alleges that defendant’s actions intentionally interfered with 18 plaintiffs’ business relationships. In Arizona, tort liability may be imposed on a defendant
19 who intentionally or improperly interferes with a party’s business relationships. Snow v.
20 Western Sav. & Loan Ass’n, 152 Ariz. 27, 33, 730 P.2d 204, 211 (1986). Tort claims are 21 governed by a two year statute of limitations. See A.R.S. § 12–542. “[A] tort claim accrues 22 when a plaintiff knows, or through the exercise of reasonable diligence should know, of the 23 defendant's wrongful conduct.” Taylor v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 185 Ariz. 174,
24 177, 913 P.2d 1092, 1095 (1996). It is undisputed that in June 2010 plaintiffs received notice
25 that defendant was permanently closing the Crossing. At that point, plaintiffs knew or should 26 have known that defendant’s conduct would affect their business. Therefore, the intentional
27 interference claim began to accrue in June 2010. Because plaintiffs did not file their 28

1 complaint until January 2013 (six months after the two-year statute of limitations expired),
2 Count 7 is time-barred pursuant to A.R.S. § 12-542.

4 IT IS ORDERED DENYING defendant's motion to dismiss Counts 1 and 3 (doc.

9 GRANTING amendments to Counts 2, 4, 5, and 6, and DENYING amendments to and 10 dismissing Count 7. The claims remaining in this action are Counts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the 11 Second Amended Complaint.
