IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

Miguel Galvan,

Plaintiff,

v.

Union Insurance Company, et al.,

Defendants.

No. CV-22-01480-PHX-JJT
ORDER

At issue is Defendant Union Insurance Company’s Motion to Dismiss for Failure to State a Claim (Doc. 10, MTD). Plaintiff Miguel Galvan filed a Response (Doc. 13, Resp.) to which Defendant filed a Reply (Doc. 14, Reply). The Court has reviewed the parties’ briefs and finds this matter appropriate for decision without oral argument. See LRCiv 7.2(f). For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants in part Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss with leave to amend the First Amended Complaint if Plaintiff can cure the deficiencies noted (Doc. 8, FAC).

I. BACKGROUND

In the FAC, the operative pleading,<sup>1</sup> Plaintiff alleges the following facts. Plaintiff held a Union policy which included Uninsured/Underinsured Motorist (UIM) Coverage of $1,000,000.00 per accident. (FAC ¶ 10.) Plaintiff’s premiums were paid in full. (FAC ¶ 10.) On or about July 27, 2020, a third-party driver, Jeffrey Taylor, collided with the driver’s side of Plaintiff’s vehicle. (FAC ¶ 11.) To compensate for Plaintiff’s injuries, <sup>1</sup> Plaintiff filed the FAC on September 12, 2022, twelve days after Defendant removed the case from state court.

1 Taylor’s insurer, Root Insurance Company, paid Plaintiff the insured’s liability policy limit
2 of $15,000.00. (FAC ¶ 16.) Plaintiff alleges his medical expenses alone totaled $41,238.89
3 and he is left with a deficit of $17,092.74.<sup>2</sup> (FAC ¶¶ 16, 19.)

4 To cover the deficit, Plaintiff filed a UIM claim with Defendant, his insurance
5 provider. (FAC ¶ 17.) On July 21, 2021, Defendant offered Plaintiff $27,132.00 to settle 6 the claim, and Plaintiff responded by requesting a breakdown of the offer. (FAC ¶ 18.)
7 Plaintiff states that he received a response without the requested breakdown on August 13, 8 2021 and thereafter signed medical authorizations for Defendant. (FAC ¶¶ 21, 22.) Plaintiff
9 alleges continuous delay after this point, waiting for Defendant to procure medical records
10 and respond to the initial inquiry into the settlement offer. (FAC ¶¶ 22–25.) In April 2022, 11 the parties communicated regarding a deposition, examination under oath, and independent 12 medical evaluation. (FAC ¶¶ 26–28.) Defendant conducted the examination under oath in 13 May 2022, but the medical evaluation was never scheduled. (FAC ¶¶ 30, 31.)

14 Plaintiff has not yet been compensated under his UIM coverage. (FAC ¶ 36.) In the 15 FAC, Plaintiff alleges breach of contract (Count 1), breach of the duty of good faith and 16 fair dealing (Count 2), unfair trade practices under A.R.S. § 20-442 (Count 3), and unfair 17 claim settlement practices under A.R.S. § 20-461 (Count 4). Defendant now moves to 18 dismiss the Complaint in its entirety under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). (MTD 19 at 3.)

20 II. LEGAL STANDARD

21 Rule 12(b)(6) is designed to “test[] the legal sufficiency of a claim.” Navarro v.
22 Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). A dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) for failure to 23 state a claim can be based on either: (1) the lack of a cognizable legal theory; or (2) the 24 absence of sufficient factual allegations to support a cognizable legal theory. Balistreri v.
25 Pacifica Police Dep’t, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1990). When analyzing a complaint for 26 failure to state a claim, the well-pled factual allegations are taken as true and construed in 27 the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Cousins v. Lockyer, 568 F.3d 1063, 1067

28 <sup>2</sup> As Defendant has noted, Plaintiff’s calculation of the deficit owed does not add up with the expenses incurred. However, these are costs to be determined in discovery.

1 (9th Cir. 2009). A plaintiff must allege “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is 2 plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). “A claim has 3 facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the 4 reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v.
5 Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556). “The plausibility 6 standard is not akin to a ‘probability requirement,’ but it asks for more than a sheer 7 possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.” Id.

8 “While a complaint attacked by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion does not need detailed 9 factual allegations, a plaintiff’s obligation to provide the grounds of his entitlement to relief 10 requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a 11 cause of action will not do.” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 (cleaned up and citations omitted).
12 Legal conclusions couched as factual allegations are not entitled to the assumption of truth
13 and therefore are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. Iqbal, 14 556 U.S. at 679–80. However, “a well-pleaded complaint may proceed even if it strikes a 15 savvy judge that actual proof of those facts is improbable, and that ‘recovery is very remote 16 and unlikely.’” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556 (quoting Scheuer v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 236 17 (1974)).

18 III. ANALYSIS

19 A. Count 1: Breach of Contract

20 In the FAC, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant failed to pay him (FAC ¶ 36) and “failed 21 to honor its obligation under the insurance policy” by unfairly evaluating the claim and 22 causing needless delay in its resolution (FAC ¶ 44). Defendant argues that Plaintiff has not 23 pleaded sufficient facts to show damages, especially since Defendant made him a 24 settlement offer. (MTD at 5.) However, an inquiry into the sufficiency of Defendant’s offer 25 goes beyond the analysis required at this stage.

26 Under Arizona law, a breach of contract claim requires a plaintiff to show (1) a 27 contract, (2) a breach, and (3) damages. Thunderbird Metallurgical, Inc. v. Ariz. Testing 28 Lab, 423 P.2d 124, 126 (Ariz. 1967). Plaintiff has alleged the existence of a contract: the

1 valid insurance policy. Plaintiff has also set forth facts to plead a breach—namely, that 2 Defendant owed Plaintiff compensation under the policy and paid him nothing. The 3 damages are the deficit Plaintiff claims Defendant owes him. Plaintiff has pleaded 4 sufficient facts that, if true, would prove liability. The Court will not dismiss Count 1.

5 B. Count 2: Breach of Duty of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

6 Second, Plaintiff contends that Defendant has breached the implied covenant of 7 good faith and fair dealing. Every contract implies a duty of good faith. Restatement 8 (Second) of Contracts § 205 (1981). In insurance contracts, good faith means “more than 9 the company’s bare promise to pay certain claims when forced to do so; implicit in the 10 contract and the relationship is the insurer’s obligation to play fairly with its insured.”
11 Rawlings v. Apodaca, 726 P.2d 565, 570 (Ariz. 1986). Plaintiff claims that Defendant 12 breached this covenant by failing to fairly evaluate the claim in the initial offer, fairly 13 compensate Plaintiff, or answer Plaintiff’s inquiries, delaying the settlement of the claim.
14 (FAC ¶¶ 53–56.)

15 Defendant first argues that it did not act in bad faith because it offered to fully 16 compensate Plaintiff for the damages he is entitled to and demanded.<sup>3</sup> (MTD at 7–9.) However, 17 Plaintiff has pleaded sufficient facts to establish that Defendant acted in bad faith if true; 18 additional facts about the Defendant’s offer fall outside the scope of a motion to dismiss.

19 Defendant also argues that Plaintiff has inadequately pleaded damages resulting 20 from the Defendant’s alleged bad faith. (MTD at 8.) Indeed, Plaintiff only alleges that 21 Defendant’s bad faith conduct caused him “anxiety, worry, mental and emotional distress, 22 fear, feelings of hopelessness, insecurity, and other damages to be proven at trial.” (FAC 23 ¶ 60.) A complaint does not “suffice if it tenders ‘naked assertions’ devoid of ‘further 24 factual enhancement.’” Iqbal, 129 S. Ct. at 1949 (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 557).

25 _____
26 <sup>3</sup> Defendant asks the Court to take judicial notice of the Demand (MTD Ex. A), arguing 27 that it is an integral part of the Complaint. (MTD at 2 n.1.) In assessing a motion to dismiss, 28 the Court may take judicial notice of an extrinsic document when “the document’s authenticity is not contested, and the plaintiff’s complaint necessarily relies on the document.” Spina v. Maricopa Ctny. Dep’t of Transp., 2007 WL 4168438, at *2 (D. Ariz Nov. 20, 2007). Here, the allegations do not rest on the Demand or Offer. Therefore, the Court declines to take judicial notice of the Demand.

1 Defendant is correct that these statements are too conclusory to lead to the plausible
2 inference that Plaintiff is entitled to relief. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2). But because Plaintiff
3 may be able to cure this defect in the FAC by amendment, the Court will grant Plaintiff 4 leave to amend. See Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127–30 (9th Cir. 2000).

5 In the FAC, Plaintiff also prays for punitive damages. (FAC ¶ 61.) Plaintiff alleges 6 that Defendant acted with an evil mind— that is, with conscious disregard for Plaintiff’s 7 rights and intent to harm Plaintiff. (FAC ¶ 61.) Punitive damages are recoverable when 8 “defendant’s motives are shown to be so improper, or its conduct so oppressive, 9 outrageous, or intolerable that such an ‘evil mind’ may be inferred.” Rawlings, 726 P.2d at 10 578–79 (citing Restatement (Second) of Torts § 908(2)). “Even if the defendant’s conduct 11 was not outrageous, a jury may infer evil mind if defendant deliberately continued his 12 actions despite the inevitable or highly probable harm that would follow.” Gurule v. Illinois 13 Mut. Life and Cas. Co., 734 P.2d 85, 87 (Ariz. 1987) (citations omitted).

14 Defendant argues that Plaintiff has not pleaded sufficient facts to establish that it 15 acted with the requisite evil mind. (MTD at 8.) The Court agrees. While Plaintiff has 16 pleaded facts that plausibly show a breach of the duty of good faith, the facts do not allow 17 the Court to draw a reasonable inference that Defendant acted with an evil mind. The 18 conduct alleged does not appear so outrageous, oppressive, or intolerable to reflect intent 19 to harm or even conscious disregard, or that Defendant acted against some highly probable 20 harm. Plaintiff will again have leave to amend if he can cure this defect. See Lopez, 203
21 F.3d at 1127–30.

22 C. Count 3: Unfair Trade Practices

23 Next, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant has engaged in unfair trade practices in 24 violation of A.R.S. § 20-442, which prohibits certain unfair or deceptive acts in the 25 business of insurance. (FAC ¶ 66.) Plaintiff states that Defendant has delayed the case to a 26 degree that constitutes this kind of unfair practice. (FAC ¶ 68.) In its Motion, Defendant 27 argues that Plaintiff’s allegations of “needless delay” do not constitute an unfair trade
28 practice under the statute. (MTD at 11.)

1 The Court agrees that Plaintiff has not demonstrated a legally cognizable theory 2 behind this claim or provided any authority to show the alleged delay constitutes an unfair
3 trade practice under A.R.S. § 20-442. Without any supporting legal authority, the Court
4 cannot conclude Plaintiff's claim is viable. The Court also notes that Plaintiff's descriptions 5 of the delay are very similar to the facts alleging bad faith, and this claim therefore appears 6 redundant.<sup>4</sup> For these reasons, the Court will dismiss Count 3 with prejudice.

7 D. Count 4: Unfair Claim Settlement Practices

8 Finally, Plaintiff alleges unfair claim settlement practices under A.R.S. § 20-461.
9 Plaintiff contends that by failing to communicate, delaying resolution of the claim in 10 procuring medical records and scheduling a medical evaluation, refusing to elaborate on 11 the investigation, and failing to pay Plaintiff the benefits owed, Defendant has violated the 12 statute. (FAC ¶¶ 74–77.) A.R.S. § 20-461 outlines actions that violate the law if 13 implemented as general business practice. Defendant argues that this statute does not create 14 a private cause of action and, in fact, explicitly rejects one. (MTD at 12.)

15 Defendant is correct. The statute states: “Nothing contained in this section is 16 intended to provide any private right or cause of action to or on behalf of any insured or 17 uninsured resident or nonresident of this state. It is, however, the specific intent of this 18 section to provide solely an administrative remedy . . . .” A.R.S. § 20-461(D). Arizona case 19 law confirms that “[t]he Act states that its provisions do not create a private right or cause 20 of action. The legislative intent for enacting the Act is stated to provide ‘solely an 21 administrative remedy’ for any violation of the Act or any rule related to the Act.”
22 Melancon v. USAA Cas. Ins. Co., 849 P.2d 1374, 1377 (Ariz. Ct. App. 1992). Therefore, 23 Plaintiff's claim is not based on a cognizable legal theory.<sup>5</sup> The Court will dismiss Count 24 4 with prejudice.

25 _____
26 <sup>4</sup> Moreover, Plaintiff failed to address Defendant's arguments on this point in the Response
27 brief, thereby conceding the claim. See Jenkins v. Cnty. of Riverside, 298 F.3d 1093, 1095 28 n.4 (9th Cir. 2005) (“Jenkins abandoned her other two claims by not raising them in opposition to the County's motion for summary judgment.”).

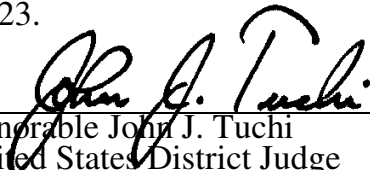

<sup>5</sup> Again, Plaintiff failed to address Defendant's arguments on this point. See Jenkins, 281
F.3d at 1095 n.4.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED granting in part and denying in part Defendant's Motion to Dismiss (Doc. 10). Counts 3 and 4 are dismissed with prejudice.
