9 Nathan Sterling Mason,
10 Plaintiff,

No. CV-17-08098-PCT-DGC (MHB)

ORDER

11 v.

12 Charles L Ryan, et al.,
13 Defendants.
14

15 Plaintiff Nathan Sterling Mason, who is confined in the Arizona State Prison 16 Complex-Lewis, Barchey Unit, in Buckeye, Arizona, brought this pro se civil rights action
17 under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 against Arizona Department of Corrections (ADC) Director
18 Charles L. Ryan; Correctional Officer Joshua Baese; Corizon, LLC; and Nurse Practitioner 19 (NP) Andreas Thude. (Doc. 46.) Plaintiff alleged Eighth Amendment failure-to-protect 20 and medical care claims. (Id.) There are multiple motions pending in this matter, including 21 three separate summary judgment motions, a motion for injunctive relief, and various 22 miscellaneous motions. This Order addresses Ryan and Baese's Motion for Summary 23 Judgment, which relates to the failure-to-protect claims. (Doc. 225.) Mason's Motion for 24 Partial Summary Judgment (Doc. 239), Corizon and Thude's Cross-Motion for Summary
25 Judgment (Doc. 257), and Mason's Motion for Preliminary Injunction (Doc. 303), Motion 26 for Expedited Ruling (Doc. 326), and February 13, 2019 Motion for Court Order (Doc.
27 329) all concern Mason's medical care claims and will be addressed separately. In this 28 Order, the Court also addresses Mason's January 7, 2019 Motion for Court Order (Doc.

1 324).¹ The Court will grant in part and deny in part Ryan and Baese’s Motion for Summary
2 Judgment and will deny Mason’s Motion for Court Order.

3 I. Background

4 In Counts One and Two of his First Amended Complaint, Mason set forth Eighth 5 Amendment failure-to-protect claims against Ryan and Baese in their individual capacities.
6 (Doc. 46 at 3.) Mason alleged that Baese failed to respond reasonably to a known risk of 7 harm to Mason’s safety and that Ryan implemented an unconstitutional policy governing 8 protective custody (PC) and that the policy caused Mason injury. (Id. at 3–8.) Mason 9 alleged that every time he requested PC placement for safety reasons, he was placed “in 10 the hole” and subjected to unconstitutional conditions of confinement, and then he was 11 repeatedly placed back on general population yards where he was subjected to a substantial 12 risk of harm. (Id. at 6–8.) Mason also asserted an Eighth Amendment claim against Ryan 13 in his official capacity based on the alleged unlawful PC policy. (Id. at 6.) In Count Three, 14 Mason alleged Eighth Amendment medical care claims against Corizon and Thude for the 15 delay and denial of adequate medical care to treat Mason’s spinal/neck injury and chronic 16 pain. (Id. at 9–13.)

17 Ryan and Baese move for summary judgment as to the failure-to-protect claims in 18 Counts One and Two on the grounds that (1) Baese acted reasonably to a potential threat 19 to Mason’s safety, (2) Ryan was not personally involved in any of Mason’s PC reviews, 20 (3) the PC policy is constitutional, (4) Mason lacks standing to seek injunctive relief, and 21 (5) Baese is entitled to qualified immunity. (Doc. 225.)²

22 II. Mason’s Motion for Court Order

23 This case is part of the Prisoner Electronic Filing Program. Mason’s documents are 24 filed electronically, and designated prison staff print and deliver to Mason Notices of 25 _____

26 ¹ There are also a number of motions before the Magistrate Judge: Mason’s Motion in 27 Limine/Motion to Strike (Doc. 284); Mason’s Motion to Appoint an Independent Expert 28 Witness (Doc. 304); Mason’s Motion for Sanctions (Doc. 308); and Mason’s Motion to Compel (Doc. 310). These motions will be addressed separately.

²The Court issued an Order with the Notice required under Rand v. Rowland, 154 F.3d 952, 960 (9th Cir. 1998) (en banc), which informed Mason of the summary judgment requirements under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56. (Doc. 229.)

1 Electronic Filing (NEFs) and Orders and documents filed in this case. (See Doc. 29, 2 General Order 14-17.) On January 7, 2019, Mason filed his Motion for Court Order, which 3 states that he has been receiving NEFs and Court Orders up to three weeks late, which may 4 cause him to miss filing deadlines. (Doc. 324.) Mason requests that the Court issue an 5 Order directing ADC to deliver NEFs and Court Orders within 48 hours of filing. (Id.)

6 Defendants filed a Response in which they explain that the ADC policy is to deliver 7 NEFs and Court Orders within 48 hours, but the Correctional Officer who normally 8 delivers these filings was on leave for the last two weeks in December 2018, and that 9 Officer's replacement was unable to access the filings. (Doc. 325 at 1–2.) The Response 10 notes that only two Orders were entered in this action during that time frame, both were 11 delivered to Mason upon the Officer's return to work, and neither imposed any deadline or 12 obligation. (Id. at 2.) Defendants state that the delay in deliveries was unintentional, steps 13 have been taken to correct the problem, and Mason's ability to litigate this action was not 14 impeded. (Id.)

15 There is no sworn statement attached to Defendants' Response to support the factual 16 contentions. (See id.) Specifically, there is no declaration from an ADC official with 17 personal knowledge of the prison's NEF delivery procedure, the reasons for delays, and 18 the prison's response to the problem. Counsel's assertions are not evidence. Nonetheless, 19 in failing to file a reply memorandum in support of his Motion for Court Order, Mason 20 does not refute that the delay in delivery of NEFs was temporary or that the delay in 21 receiving two Court Orders did not cause him to miss any deadlines. Mason has not filed 22 any subsequent notices regarding further problems or delays with deliveries of NEFs and 23 Court Orders. Accordingly, his Motion for Court Order will be denied without prejudice.

24 Any delays in the delivery of NEFs and Court documents is concerning, and 25 Defendants are reminded of ADC's obligation to comply with General Order 14-17 and its 26 requirements governing service of documents on prisoners.

27 III. Summary Judgment

28 A. Governing Standard

1 A court must grant summary judgment “if the movant shows that there is no genuine 2 dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.”
3 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a); see also Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322–23 (1986). The 4 movant bears the initial responsibility of presenting the basis for its motion and identifying 5 those portions of the record, together with affidavits, if any, that it believes demonstrate 6 the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323.

7 If the movant fails to carry its initial burden of production, the nonmovant need not 8 produce anything. Nissan Fire & Marine Ins. Co., Ltd. v. Fritz Co., Inc., 210 F.3d 1099, 9 1102–03 (9th Cir. 2000). But if the movant meets its initial responsibility, the burden then 10 shifts to the nonmovant to demonstrate the existence of a factual dispute and that the fact 11 in contention is material, i.e., a fact that might affect the outcome of the suit under the 12 governing law, and that the dispute is genuine, i.e., the evidence is such that a reasonable 13 jury could return a verdict for the nonmovant. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 250; see Triton 14 Energy Corp. v. Square D. Co., 68 F.3d 1216, 1221 (9th Cir. 1995). The nonmovant need 15 not establish a material issue of fact conclusively in its favor, First Nat’l Bank of Ariz. v.
16 Cities Serv. Co., 391 U.S. 253, 288–89 (1968); however, it must “come forward with 17 specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co., 18 Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 587 (1986) (internal citation omitted); see Fed.
19 R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1).

20 At summary judgment, the judge’s function is not to weigh the evidence and 21 determine the truth but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Anderson, 22 477 U.S. at 249. In its analysis, the court does not make credibility determinations; it must 23 believe the nonmovant’s evidence and draw all inferences in the nonmovant’s favor. Id. at 24 255; Soremekun v. Thrifty Payless, Inc., 509 F.3d 978, 984 (9th Cir. 2007). The court need 25 consider only the cited materials, but it may consider any other materials in the record.
26 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(3). Further, where the nonmovant is pro se, the court must consider 27 as evidence in opposition to summary judgment all of the pro se litigant’s contentions that 28 are based on personal knowledge and that are set forth in verified pleadings and motions.

1 Jones v. Blanas, 393 F.3d 918, 923 (9th Cir. 2004); see Schroeder v. McDonald, 55 F.3d
2 454, 460 (9th Cir. 1995) (verified complaint may be used as an affidavit opposing summary 3 judgment if it is based on personal knowledge and sets forth specific facts admissible in 4 evidence).

5 B. Evidentiary Issues

6 1. Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment

7 In support of their Motion, Defendants cite to the declaration of Marlene Coffey, an 8 Associate Deputy Warden and the PC Administrator. (Doc. 226 ¶ 1, citing Doc. 161, Ex.
9 A, Coffey Decl. ¶ 1 (Doc. 161-1 at 1).) Coffey avers that her declaration is based on her 10 personal knowledge and a review of Mason's PC file and computerized Adult Inmate 11 Management System (AIMS) file. (Doc. 161, Ex. 1, Coffey Decl. ¶ 2.) The PC review 12 process is outlined in Department Order 805, Protective Custody, and it requires that for 13 each PC request and review, there must be documentation in the prisoner's AIMS file and 14 numerous PC forms completed at each step in the process. These PC documents are kept 15 in the prisoner's PC file. (Id., Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.02, 1.1.4, 805.04, 1.4.1 (Doc. 161-1 16 at 13, 16).)³ According to Coffey, Mason requested PC placement and has gone through 17 the PC process seven times since 2010. (Id., Ex. 1, Coffey Decl. ¶¶ 29–33.) But there are 18 no documents from Mason's AIMS file or PC file attached to Coffey's declaration, nor do 19 Defendants cite to where in the record the relevant documents can be found. (See id.; Doc.
20 226.)

21 Defendants also cite to the declaration of Baese, who was involved in Mason's PC 22 reviews initiated on December 21 and 23, 2015. (Doc. 226 ¶¶ 47–86, citing Doc. 226, Ex.
23 B, Baese Decl. (Doc. 226-1 at 4).) Baese avers that his declaration is based on his personal 24 knowledge and a review of ADC's records pertaining to Mason. (Id., Ex. B, Baese Decl.
25 ¶ 2.) There are only a few PC forms attached to Baese's declaration. (See Doc. 226-1 at 26 ³ The forms that must be completed in a PC review include the Information Report form;

27 the PC Placement/Review Request form; the PC Inmate Statement form; the Unit 28 Administrator PC Review form; the PC Interview Assessment form; the PC Security Initial Interview form; the PC Investigative Summary form; and any additional supporting documents such as disciplinary reports and Criminal Investigation Unit reports. (Doc.
161, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.04, 1.4.1 (Doc. 69-1 at 45).)

1 10–17; Doc. 228 at 2, 7.) Defendants do not cite to where in the record relevant AIMS 2 documentation or the other PC forms may be found.

3 Defendants’ failure to submit the PC documents supporting Coffey and Baese’s 4 declarations is troubling because the information provided in those documents relates 5 directly to the elements of Mason’s failure-to-protect claim. More importantly, the Court 6 expressly reminded Defendants that they were required to submit unredacted copies of the 7 relevant PC file documents in support of a summary judgment motion. (Doc. 167 at 8.)
8 In failing to attach the relevant documents or otherwise cite to that part of the record where 9 the documents may be found, Defendants fail to comply with Rule 56(c)(1)(A). Under this 10 Rule, “[a] party asserting that a fact cannot be or is genuinely disputed must support the 11 assertion by[] citing to particular parts of materials in the record.” Fed. R. Civ. P.
12 56(c)(1)(A). “Materials that are not yet in the record—including materials referred to in 13 an affidavit or declaration—must be placed in the record.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56, advisory 14 comm. note to 2010 amendments.

15 Courts have routinely held that “that when a party refers to documentary evidence 16 as the source of a factual allegation in an affidavit or declaration, the party must attach the 17 relevant documents to the affidavit or declaration.” Sapiano v. Millenium Entm’t, LLC, 18 CV 12-8122 PSG (MAN), 2013 WL 12120262, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 14, 2013) (citing 19 Ninth Circuit cases and district court cases within the Ninth Circuit); see Sch. Dist. No. 1J 20 v. ACandS, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1261 (9th Cir. 1993) (upholding the district court’s exclusion 21 of affidavits that failed to attached contract documents that were referred to within the 22 affidavits). Because the party moving for summary judgment must satisfy its initial burden 23 by citing to evidence in the record in support of its factual assertions, the nonmovant’s 24 failure to specifically object to a declaration statement or asserted fact is of no moment.
25 See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1)(A); Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323.

26 The Court will consider only those statements in Coffey and Baese’s declarations 27 that are made on personal knowledge or that are properly supported by PC forms and AIMS 28 documentation cited to in the record.

2. Mason’s Response

Mason argues that Defendants’ Motion for Summary Judgment must be denied because Ryan failed to comply with the Court’s prior Order directing Defendants to allow Mason access to 18 seized documents and, consequently, he cannot present facts essential to oppose the Motion. (Doc. 236.) Mason supports his Response with a declaration in which he avers that Defendants provided him access to only 8 of the 18 documents, and that Defendants have redacted or altered material information in numerous documents. (Id.) In their Reply, Defendants contend that Mason fails to specify in his declaration how any redacted information would preclude summary judgment in this matter. (Doc. 239 at 5.)

Mason’s response is construed as a request under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56(d) to deny Defendant’s Motion. Rule 56(d) provides a device for litigants to avoid summary judgment when they cannot present facts or they require additional time to obtain evidence. The Rule empowers the Court to deny a pending motion for summary judgment if “a nonmovant shows by affidavit or declaration that, for specified reasons, it cannot present facts essential to justify its opposition[.]” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(d). A Rule 56(d) affidavit or declaration must identify “the specific facts that further discovery would reveal, and explain why those facts would preclude summary judgment.” Tatum v. City and Cnty. of San Francisco, 441 F.3d 1090, 1100 (9th Cir. 2006).

As set forth below, in failing to submit the relevant PC documents, Defendants fail to demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material fact regarding their liability for Eighth Amendment violations. Thus, Mason’s Rule 56(d) request to deny summary judgment will be denied as moot.

IV. Relevant Facts⁴

⁴ In their Reply, Defendants argue that because Mason failed to set forth a separate, opposing statement of facts as required under Local Rule of Civil Procedure 56.1(b), the Court should deem all the asserted facts in their Separate Statement of Facts as admitted and grant summary judgment on this basis. (Doc. 238 at 1–3.) As stated above, the Court can consider only those asserted facts that are properly supported by materials cited to in the record. This requirement applies even if Mason does not dispute an asserted fact. See

1 A. Protective Custody Review Process

2 PC status provides housing that is segregated from the general prison population to 3 safeguard prisoners with legitimate protection needs. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, Department 4 Order (DO) 805, Protective Custody (Doc. 161-1 at 11).) Under DO 805, the policy 5 governing PC, a request for PC placement initiates a PC review process, which is 6 comprised of seven stages: (1) identification; (2) initial PC review by the Shift 7 Commander; (3) informal review by the Deputy Warden or designee; (4) formal review; 8 (5) recommendation by the Deputy Warden or designee; (6) review and final decision by 9 the PC Administrator or PC Committee; and (7) prisoner appeal and review by the Security 10 Operations Administrator or designee. (Doc. 226 ¶ 9.) Each step of the PC review process 11 is documented. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.02, 1.1.4 (Doc. 161-1 at 13).) The 12 policy identifies seven forms that must be completed in each PC review process, and the 13 policy also requires that any other relevant documentation be included in the PC file. (Id., 14 DO §§ 805.04, 1.4.1 (Doc. 161-1 at 16); see supra n.3.)

15 During the first stage—the identification process—a prisoner makes a written or 16 verbal request for PC, and a staff member immediately isolates the prisoner in a safe area 17 and notifies the Shift Commander. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1 DO §§ 805.01 1.1, 1.2.) The 18 Shift Commander documents the PC request on an Information Report, and the prisoner 19 completes a PC Inmate Statement to identify information concerning his request. (Id., DO 20 §§ 805.01, 1.3.) The Shift Commander attempts to resolve the prisoner’s concerns, which 21 may involve changing cell block or bed assignments, adding prisoners to a Do Not House

22
23 Rule 56(c)(1)(A); Nissan Fire, 210 F.3d at 1103 (if the party moving for summary 24 judgment does not meet its initial burden of production, the nonmovant need not respond; 25 “[n]o defense to an insufficient showing is required”) (quoting Adickes v. S.H. Kress &
26 Co., 398 U.S. 144, 161 (1970)). Further, because Mason is proceeding pro se, the Court 27 must avoid applying summary judgment rules strictly. Thomas v. Ponder, 611 F.3d 1144, 28 1150 (9th Cir. 2010) (courts must “construe liberally motions papers and pleadings filed by pro se inmates and . . . avoid applying summary judgment rules strictly”); Karim-Panahi
v. L.A. Police Dep’t, 839 F.2d 621, 623 (9th Cir. 1988). As mentioned, Mason’s verified pleadings and motions must be considered as evidence in opposition to summary judgment.
See Jones, 393 F.3d at 923. The Court therefore declines to grant summary judgment to Defendants based on Mason’s failure to comply with Local Rule 56.1(b), and will consider the facts set forth in Mason’s verified pleadings and motions to the extent that they establish disputes with Defendants’ asserted facts.

1 With (DNHW) list, or mediation. (Id., DO §§ 805.01, 1.3.2.) At this stage, prison officials 2 must take steps to protect a prisoner even if the prisoner does not acknowledge that a threat 3 exists. Thus, when officials have information suggesting there may be a threat to a 4 prisoner's safety, the prisoner must be isolated as provided for in this section of DO 805.
5 (Id., DO §§ 805.01, 1.4.)

6 If there is no resolution, the PC process moves to the second stage—the initial PC 7 review. (Id., DO §§ 805.01, 1.3.2.2.) In this stage, the Shift Commander moves the 8 prisoner to a Detention Unit, immediately refers the prisoner to Mental Health Services for 9 evaluation, and places a hold on the prisoner's AIMS file. (Id., DO §§ 805.02 1.1, 1.1.1, 10 1.1.2, 1.1.3.) The Shift Commander must document each of these steps in AIMS. (Id., DO 11 §§ 805.02, 1.1.4.) The Shift Commander interviews the prisoner using the PC Security 12 Initial Interview form, and then places the Information Report form, the Inmate Statement 13 form, and the PC Placement/Review Request and PC Security Initial Interview forms with 14 the PC packet and forwards all of the material to the Deputy Warden for the third stage.
15 (Id., DO §§ 805.2 1.1.5, 1.1.6.)

16 During the third stage—informal review—the Deputy Warden or designee 17 examines the documentation to determine if transfer to another general population location 18 would resolve the issue or if the PC review process needs to continue. (Id., DO §§ 805.03, 19 1.1.) If it is determined that a complete PC review is required, or if the prisoner is unwilling 20 to agree that movement to another general population yard would resolve the issue, the 21 Deputy Warden documents the reasons on the Unit Administrator PC Review form and 22 forwards all documents to the Correctional Officer IV. (Id., DO §§ 805.03, 1.3.)

23 In the fourth stage—the formal review—the Correctional Officer IV must track the 24 entire PC process using the PC Tracking forms. (Id., DO §§ 805.04, 1.1.) When a prisoner 25 is formally placed in the PC review process, mental health staff must be notified
26 immediately and the prisoner is evaluated within 24 hours. (Id., DO §§ 805.04 1.2, 1.2.1.)
27 The Correctional Officer IV and the Special Security Unit review the case and gather 28

1 pertinent facts to determine if any specific circumstances are present. (Id., DO § 805.04.)⁵
2 The results are documented on the PC Interview Assessment form and the PC Investigative 3 Summary Report, and all information is forwarded to the Deputy Warden or designee for 4 review and evaluation. (Id., DO §§ 805.04, 1.4.)

5 If at any time the prisoner requests to terminate the PC process and return to the 6 unit, a PC Inmate Statement form must be completed, the Deputy Warden or designee must 7 review the prisoner's request and determine if the prisoner should return to the unit, and, if 8 the prisoner can return, the Deputy Warden must ensure the PC Inmate Statement form and 9 the Unit Administrator PC Review form are completed and placed in the PC file. (Id., DO 10 §§ 805.04, 1.8.)

11 The fifth stage involves the Deputy Warden's recommendation for PC placement, 12 alternative placement to another unit, or denial. (Id., DO §§ 805.04, 1.4–1.5.1.) This 13 recommendation is made on the PC Decision Worksheet and PC Placement Review 14 Request form, which are then forwarded to the PC Administrator or PC Committee for 15 review. (Id., DO §§ 805.05, 1.1.)

16 During the sixth stage of the PC process—review and final decision—the case is 17 reviewed, and a final decision is made by the PC Administrator or the PC Committee. (Id., 18 DO §§ 805.06 1.2, 1.2.2.) If this decision is different from the Deputy Warden's 19 recommendation, there must be a written explanation for the decision. (Id., DO §§ 805.06, 20 1.3.)⁶

22 ⁵ The policy identifies the following specific circumstances that must be considered: record 23 of being physically assaulted; reputation of being an informant or trial witness; record of 24 being threatened, verbally abused, or harassed; record of being sexually assaulted or 25 harassed; threats by a gang; former criminal justice officials; convicted of a crime 26 repugnant to the prison population; physical size, build, or age; identified as gay or 27 transgender; unspecified or generalized threat or fear or repeated PC requests; an incident 28 that triggered the request; identification of prisoners who assaulted or threatened the prisoner requesting PC; specific noticeable marks consistent with an altercation; when and where an altercation occurred; medical treatment offered; photographs of injury or weapon; and any other relevant information. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.04, 1.3.1.1– 1.3.1.17.)

⁶ Defendants assert that the final decision is made not by a single individual, but by the PC Committee (Doc. 226 ¶ 24). But the PC policy expressly states that the PC Administrator or the PC Committee shall make the final decision. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.06, 1.2, 1.2.2.)

1 The PC process ends here, unless the prisoner pursues an appeal—the seventh stage.
2 A prisoner may appeal the decision to the Security Operations Administrator, who makes 3 the final decision on the appeal. (Id., DO §§ 805.07, 1.1–1.2)

4 B. Mason’s PC Requests

5 Mason first requested PC placement on November 20, 2010. (Doc. 46 at 3.) Mason 6 avers that upon his request, he was put into administrative segregation. (Id. at 6.) While 7 in administrative segregation, his telephone calls and commissary privileges were 8 restricted and he was denied contact visits. (Id.) Also, his recreation opportunities were 9 limited to a cage with no access to equipment, and he was barred from participating in 10 programming, education classes, and religious services. (Id.) Mason further avers that he 11 was subjected to property restrictions while in administrative segregation, and he was 12 barred from any employment. (Id.) There are no PC forms or any documentation in the 13 record related to this November 2010 PC request and the subsequent PC review. Mason’s 14 request for PC was denied, and he was transferred to a different yard. (Id. at 3, 5.)

15 Mason’s second PC request was made on April 20, 2011. (Id.) Mason was again 16 placed in administration segregation with the above restrictions. (Id. at 6.) There are no 17 PC forms or any documentation in the record related to this PC request and the subsequent 18 PC review. The PC request was denied, and Mason was transferred to a different yard.
19 (Id. at 3, 5.)

20 Mason’s third PC request was made on July 3, 2011. (Id.) Mason was placed into 21 administrative segregation with the attendant restrictions. (Id. at 6.) There are no PC forms 22 or any documentation in the record related to this PC request and the subsequent PC review.
23 The PC request was denied, and Mason was transferred to a different yard. (Id. at 3, 5.)

24 Mason made a fourth request for PC placement on September 19, 2011. (Id.) He 25 was placed in administrative segregation with the attendant restrictions. (Id. at 6.) There 26 are no PC forms or any documentation in the record related to this PC request and the 27 subsequent PC review. The PC request was denied, and Mason was transferred to a 28 different yard. (Id. at 3, 5.)

1 The time Mason spent in administrative segregation after each PC request amounted 2 to more than a year. (Doc. 46 at 3, 5–6.) Mason avers that after one of his PC requests, 3 Special Security Unit Staff, Associate Deputy Warden Bowman, and Correctional Officer 4 IV Morales all recommended PC placement, but the PC Administrator denied PC and 5 Mason was sent to another yard. (Id. at 5.)

6 Mason made another PC request sometime in 2015, and this request was also denied.
7 (Doc. 226-1 at 17; Doc. 46 at 4.)⁷

8 On December 21, 2015, while Mason was housed in the Kaibab Unit, a prison 9 employee discovered an anonymous note in the Kaibab mailbox stating:

10 Mason’s brother has told on the hood an[d] now if I don’t stab and kill him I 11 will be killed myself[.] Please get him off the yard so I don’t have to[.] They 12 know his brother is in PC and can’t be touched[.] This is not a joke just check it out.

13 (Doc. 226 ¶¶ 48–49.) This note was given to Baese to review and investigate. (Id. ¶ 56.)
14 That same day, Baese isolated and interviewed Mason, and, during the interview, learned 15 of Mason’s prior requests for protection. (Doc. 46 at 3; Doc. 226-1 at 6, Baese Decl. ¶¶ 15– 16 17.) Mason was given the option to request PC, but he would have to endure indefinite 17 time in detention pending the PC review. (Doc. 46 at 4.) Because he did not want to spend 18 another six months in “the hole” with restrictions, and in light of the denials of every prior 19 PC request, Mason felt that any further PC request would be handled the same way and be 20 denied. (Id. at 4–5.) Mason therefore completed and signed a PC Inmate Statement form, 21 in which he wrote that he had no issues at the Winslow Complex or the Kaibab Unit, that 22 he did not fear for his safety, and that he wanted to stay in general population at the 23 Winslow Complex. (Doc. 226-1 at 13.) He added that “if someone attempts to take my 24

25 ⁷ Defendants assert that Mason made a PC request on July 13, 2015, but they fail to cite to 26 any competent evidence documenting it. (Doc. 226 ¶ 38.) In a PC Inmate Statement form 27 completed in December 2015, Mason wrote that he had requested PC five times before he 28 did so again in December 2015, and in his First Amended Complaint, Mason indicated that he had requested PC at least five times before his December 2015 request. (Doc. 226-1 at 17; Doc. 46 at 4.) Thus, although there are no forms or documents pertaining to a July 2015 PC request in the record, the parties do not dispute that there were at least five PC requests and denials prior to December 2015.

1 life I will do the same to them.” (Id.)

2 Baese then completed an Information Report form dated December 21, 2015, which 3 documented that the anonymous letter referenced Mason and a threat against him based on 4 his brother giving up information regarding the Security Threat Group (STG) Aryan 5 Brotherhood at another unit. (Doc. 228, Attach. 3 (Doc. 228 at 2).) Baese wrote that he 6 interviewed Mason and obtained a written statement that, despite this information, Mason 7 wanted to stay on the Kaibab Unit. (Id.) On this same Information Report form, in the 8 section titled “Comments/Action Taken,” it is documented that “I/M [inmate Mason] 9 placed in DO 805 process.” (Id.)⁸

10 The next day, December 22, 2015, Baese and another officer conducted a search of 11 Mason’s cell and found a weapon made from a four-inch piece of steel with a sharpened 12 point. (Doc. 226-1, Baese Decl. ¶¶ 30–32; Doc. 228 at 5.) The weapon was seized and 13 Mason was charged with felony weapon possession. (Doc. 226, Baese Decl. ¶¶ 34–35; 14 Doc. 228 at 4–5.)

15 Later on December 22, 2015, Mason was assaulted by two prisoners who did not 16 live in Mason’s pod. (Doc. 46 at 3.) Mason suffered a spine injury, which has caused 17 chronic, debilitating pain and loss of mobility. (Id. at 3–4.)

18 The next day, December 23, 2015, Baese conducted a follow-up interview with 19 Mason. (Doc. 226-1, Baese Decl. ¶ 37; Doc. 228 at 7.) Mason informed Baese that he had 20 been assaulted because of his brother’s bad standing with the Aryan Brotherhood. (Id.) 21 Baese observed superficial marks on Mason that were consistent with a physical 22 altercation, but he did not observe significant injuries. (Doc. 226-1, Baese Decl. ¶ 42.)
23 Mason completed and signed a PC Inmate Statement form, dated December 23, 2015, 24 which stated that he had been warned of a letter that said his life was in danger, but that 25 because he had previously requested PC five times and was denied, he signed a PC waiver 26 to go back to the yard where he immediately manufactured a knife to protect himself. (Doc.

27 _____
28 ⁸ Defendants do not explain why this PC form states that Mason was placed in the DO 805 process even though he was returned to the Unit and, according to Defendants, no DO 805 review process was initiated. (See Doc. 228 at 2; Doc. ¶¶ 70–71.)

1 226-1 at 17.) Mason wrote that he was jumped by prisoners the next day. (Id.) He wrote
2 that he has five Aryan Brotherhood members on his DNHW list, that his brother is in PC, 3 and that he fears for his life after being assaulted and is therefore requesting PC. (Id.)

4 Baese completed an Information Report form, dated December 23, 2015, which 5 documented Mason's claim that he was assaulted and his request for protection and to get 6 off the yard. (Doc. 228 at 7.) In the section of the form titled "Comments/Action Taken," 7 Baese wrote "full review." (Id.) There are no other PC forms related to the December 23, 8 2015 PC review in the record, but the PC request was later denied. (See Doc. 46 at 3.)

9 Mason requested PC again on March 4, 2016. (Id.) There are no PC forms or any 10 documentation in the record related to this request and the subsequent PC review.

11 V. Discussion

12 A. Eighth Amendment Standard

13 The Eighth Amendment requires prison officials to protect prisoners from violence 14 at the hands of other prisoners because "being violently assaulted in prison is simply not 15 part of the penalty that criminal offenders pay for their offenses against society." Farmer, 16 511 U.S. at 833–34; Clem v. Lomeli, 566 F.3d 1177, 1181 (9th Cir. 2009). To prevail on a 17 failure-to-protect claim, a plaintiff must present facts that satisfy a two-part test: (1) that 18 the alleged deprivation is, objectively, sufficiently serious, and (2) that the official is, 19 subjectively, deliberately indifferent to the inmate's safety. Id. at 834. Thus, there is an 20 objective and subjective component to an actionable Eighth Amendment violation.
21 Clement v. Gomez, 298 F.3d 898, 904 (9th Cir. 2002).

22 Under the objective prong, "[w]hat is necessary to show sufficient harm for the 23 purposes of the Cruel and Unusual Punishment Clause depends on the claim at issue."
24 Hudson v. McMillian, 503 U.S. 1, 8 (1992). For a failure to protect claim, the prisoner 25 must show that he was placed into conditions that posed a substantial risk of serious harm.
26 Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834 (quoting Wilson v. Seiter, 501 U.S. 294, 298 (1991)). A prisoner 27 need not wait until he is actually assaulted to bring an Eighth Amendment claim, see 28 Farmer, 511 U.S. at 845, but "[g]eneral intimidation, harassment, and nonspecific threats

1 . . . do not demonstrate a constitutionally intolerable risk of harm.” Chandler v. Amsberry, 2 No. 3:08-CV-00962-SI, 2014 WL 1323048, at *7 (D. Or. March 28, 2014) (citing cases).

3 The subjective prong requires “more than ordinary lack of due care for the prisoner’s 4 interest or safety.” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 835 (quotation omitted). To prove deliberate 5 indifference, a plaintiff must show that the official knew of and disregarded an excessive 6 risk to inmate safety; the official must both be aware of facts from which the inference 7 could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious harm exists, and the official must also draw 8 the inference. Id. at 837. But the plaintiff need not show that the defendant acted or failed 9 to act believing that harm would actually befall the inmate. “[I]t is enough that the official 10 acted or failed to act despite his knowledge of a substantial risk of serious harm.” Id. at 11 842. To prove knowledge of the risk, the plaintiff may rely on circumstantial evidence. In 12 fact, the very obviousness of the risk may be sufficient to establish knowledge. Id.

13 Prison officials who actually knew of a substantial risk to inmate health or safety 14 may be found free from liability if they responded reasonably to the risk, even if the harm 15 ultimately was not averted. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 844. Prison officials do not escape 16 liability, however, if the evidence shows that that they “merely refused to verify underlying 17 facts that [they] strongly suspected to be true, or declined to confirm inferences of risk that 18 [they] strongly suspected to exist.” Id. at 843 n.8.

1 B. Defendant Baese

2 1. Objective Prong

3 Defendants do not present any argument regarding the objective prong. Instead, 4 they acknowledge that Baese treated the anonymous letter about Mason as a legitimate 5 threat. (Doc. 225 at 11.) In addition to the letter showing a specific threat to Mason, the 6 record indicates that there were other circumstances present that are identified in DO 805
7 policy as relevant to the PC consideration. Specifically, Mason’s brother had a reputation 8 as an informant, Mason had a record of being threatened as evidenced by his DNHW list, 9 the threats came from a verified STG, and Mason had repeated PC requests denied. (Doc.
10 161-1, DO §§ 805.04, 1.3.1.2, 1.3.1.3, 1.3.1.5, 1.3.1.10.) At the least, there is a question 11 of fact whether Mason was exposed to a substantial risk of serious harm in general 12 population in December 2015.

13 2. Subjective Prong

14 The initial inquiry in the deliberate indifference analysis is whether Baese was 15 aware of facts from which the inference could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious 16 harm existed. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 837. Baese states in his declaration that he received the 17 anonymous note threatening Mason; that such notes are taken seriously; and that as part of 18 his investigation into the threat, he reviewed Mason’s PC file and was aware of Mason’s 19 prior PC requests and that Mason had received alternate placement to remove him from 20 risks at other units. (Doc. 226-1, Baese Decl. ¶¶ 3, 9, 11, 15–16.) This evidence 21 demonstrates that Baese was aware of the substantial risk of serious harm to Mason.

22 Next, the Court considers Baese’s response to the risk of substantial harm. Farmer, 23 511 U.S. at 837. Defendants argue that Baese acted reasonably because he treated the note 24 seriously, he reviewed Mason’s PC file, he isolated and interviewed Mason, and he 25 afforded Mason the opportunity to request PC and be immediately placed in protective 26 detention. (Doc. 225 at 11.) Defendants contend that DO 805 does not provide for 27 involuntary PC, that the prisoner must initiate the PC process, and that Baese acted 28 reasonably because he gave Mason the opportunity to request PC in light of the anonymous

1 threat against him. (Doc. 225 at 11.) But Defendants' contention conflicts with that portion 2 of DO 805 directing prison officials to act to protect a prisoner even when the prisoner does 3 not acknowledge that a threat exists. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.01, 1.4.) In such 4 circumstances, when a prison official "has information suggesting there may be a threat to 5 the inmate's safety, the inmate shall be isolated as outlined" in the policy. (Id.) The 6 anonymous note clearly suggested a threat to Mason's safety. Baese avers that he reviewed 7 Mason's PC file, but because Defendants fail to proffer the PC file, there is a question of 8 fact whether the information it contained, combined with the anonymous note, put Baese
9 on notice of a substantial threat to Mason's safety that required he be isolated and protected 10 even though Mason refused to acknowledge the threat.

11 Defendants also rely on that portion of DO 805 providing that if at any time a 12 prisoner requests to terminate the PC review process and return to the unit, a PC Inmate 13 Statement form is to be completed. (Id.) Defendants contend that Mason completed and 14 signed a PC Inmate Statement confirming he wanted to stay in general population and did 15 not fear for his safety, and that Baese therefore acted reasonably when he left Mason in 16 general population. (Id.) The relevant section of DO 805 specifically states that if a 17 prisoner seeks to terminate the PC review process he must complete a PC Inmate Statement 18 and the Deputy Warden or designee makes the decision whether to return the prisoner to 19 the unit. (Doc. 161-1, Attach. 1, DO §§ 805.04, 1.8 (Doc. 161-1 at 17).) Upon the Deputy 20 Warden's decision to return the prisoner to the unit, both the PC Inmate Statement form 21 and the Unit Administrator PC Review form must be entered into the PC file. (Id.) Here, 22 there is no evidence or even a claim that Baese, who was a Special Security Unit 23 Correctional Officer II, was acting as the Deputy Warden's designee when he made the 24 decision to return Mason to general population and to terminate the PC review process.
25 (See Doc. 226-1 at 4, Baese Decl. ¶ 1.) Also, Defendants do not submit the PC file or, 26 specifically, the Unit Administrator PC Review form that was required to be completed 27 and placed in the PC file when the decision was made to return Mason to the Unit.

28 On this limited record, there are genuine issues of material fact whether Baese acted

1 reasonably when he refused to protect Mason despite the threat to Mason’s safety, and 2 whether he acted reasonably when he terminated the PC process and returned Mason to 3 general population without a decision by the Deputy Warden and proper documentation 4 from the Unit Administrator.

5 3. Qualified Immunity

6 Defendants assert that Baese is entitled to qualified immunity. (Doc. 225 at 17.)
7 Government officials enjoy qualified immunity from civil damages unless their conduct 8 violates “clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person 9 would have known.” Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982). In deciding if 10 qualified immunity applies, the Court must determine: (1) whether the facts alleged show 11 the defendant’ s conduct violated a constitutional right; and (2) whether that right was 12 clearly established at the time of the violation. Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223, 230– 13 32, 235–36 (2009) (courts may address either prong first depending on the circumstances 14 in the particular case). In the qualified immunity analysis, the court must consider all 15 disputed facts in the light most favorable to the nonmovant. Isayeva v. Sacramento 16 Sheriff’s Dep’t, 872 F.3d 938, 946 (9th Cir. 2017).

17 For a right to be clearly established there does not have to be a case directly on point, 18 but ““existing precedent must have placed the statutory or constitutional question beyond 19 debate.”” White v. Pauly, 137 S. Ct. 548, 551 (2017) (quoting Mullenix v. Luna, 136 S. Ct.
20 305, 308 (2017)). Clearly established law “must be particularized to the facts of the case,” 21 and “should not be defined at a high level of generality.” White, 137 S. Ct. at 552 (quotation 22 and citation omitted). A right is clearly established when case law has been “earlier 23 developed in such a concrete and factually defined context to make it obvious to all 24 reasonable government actors, in the defendant’s place, that what he is doing violates 25 federal law.” Shafer v. Cnty. of Santa Barbara, 868 F.3d 1110, 1117 (9th Cir. 2017) (citing 26 White, 137 S. Ct. at 551). Once the right at issue is defined, the court must then “identify 27 a case where an officer acting under similar circumstances as [the defendant] was held to 28 have violated” that right. Id. If there is no such case, then the right was not clearly

1 established. See id. at 1117–18. “This is not to say that an official action is protected by 2 qualified immunity unless the very action in question has previously been held unlawful,
3 but it is to say that in the light of pre-existing law the unlawfulness must be apparent.”
4 Hope v. Pelzer, 536 U.S. 730, 739 (2002) (internal citations omitted). “The Supreme Court 5 has made clear that ‘officials can still be on notice that their conduct violates established
6 law even in novel factual circumstances.’” Mattos v. Agarano, 661 F.3d 433, 442 (9th 7 Cir.2011) (quoting Hope, 536 U.S. at 741).

8 Here, the Court has already determined that there are triable issues of fact whether 9 Baese violated Mason’s Eighth Amendment rights. Qualified immunity therefore turns on 10 the second prong—whether the right at issue was clearly established such that Baese would 11 have known that his conduct was unlawful. See Saucier v. Katz, 533 U.S. 194, 201 (2001).

12 Defendants do not present any argument going to this second prong. Instead, they 13 assert that Baese is entitled to qualified immunity because he did nothing other than follow 14 the procedures set forth in the DO 805 policy, he had no notice that his actions were 15 unconstitutional, and it was reasonable for him to conclude that his actions complied with 16 the policy and the law. (Doc. 225 at 17.) As discussed, there is a question of fact whether 17 Baese’s decision not to protect Mason and to return Mason to general population complied 18 with the DO 805 policy. Due to Defendants’ failure to submit Mason’s PC file, the 19 evidence is insufficient to support that Baese responded reasonably to a threat to Mason’s 20 safety.

21 Moreover, as early as 1994, it was clearly established that “prison officials have a 22 duty . . . to protect prisoners from violence at the hands of other prisoners,” and that prison 23 officials violate the Eighth Amendment when they disregard a known risk to an inmate’s 24 safety. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 833–34. Since 1996, the Ninth Circuit held that “prison 25 officials’ duty to take reasonable measures to protect inmates from violence at the hands 26 of other prisoners was clearly established” and that failure to respond to a known, credible 27 threat to a prisoner’s safety violates the prisoner’s Eighth Amendment rights. Robinson v.
28 Prunty, 249 F.3d 862, 866 (9th Cir. 2001); see Berg v. Kincheloe, 794 F.2d 457, 460–61

1 (9th Cir. 1986.)

2 In short, Defendants fail to establish that Baese is entitled to qualified immunity, 3 and summary judgment will be denied as to the claim against Baese.

4 C. Ryan

5 1. Supervisory Liability

6 A supervisor may be liable in his individual capacity under § 1983 “if there exists 7 either (1) his or her personal involvement in the constitutional deprivation, or (2) a 8 sufficient causal connection between the supervisor’s wrongful conduct and the 9 constitutional violation.” Starr v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202 (9th Cir 2011) (quoting Hansen v.
10 Black, 885 F.2d 642, 646 (9th Cir. 1989)). Supervisory liability is direct liability, which 11 requires the plaintiff to show that the supervisor breached a duty to the plaintiff that was 12 the proximate cause of his injury. Redman v. Warden of San Diego, 942 F.2d 1435, 1447
13 (9th Cir.1991) (en banc), abrogated on other grounds by Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834 (citation 14 omitted). “The law clearly allows actions against supervisors under section 1983 as long 15 as a sufficient causal connection is present and the plaintiff was deprived under color of 16 law of a federally secured right.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted). A causal 17 connection can be “an affirmative link” between a constitutional deprivation and “the 18 adoption of any plan or policy by [a supervisor,] express or otherwise showing [his or her] 19 authorization or approval of such misconduct.” Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 371 (1976).
20 In other words, a supervisor can be liable for creating policies and procedures that violated 21 a plaintiff’s constitutional rights. Hydrick v. Hunter, 669 F.3d 937, 942 (9th Cir. 2012).
22 The “sufficient causal connection” may be shown by evidence that the supervisor 23 “implement[ed] a policy so deficient that the policy ‘itself is a repudiation of constitutional 24 rights[.]’” Hansen v. Black, 885 F.2d 642, 646 (9th Cir. 1989) (citation omitted). This 25 type of claim against a supervisor does not fail on a state of mind requirement such as 26 intent, knowledge, or deliberate indifference. “Advancing a policy that requires 27 subordinates to commit constitutional violations is always enough for § 1983 liability, no 28 matter what the required mental state, so long as the policy proximately causes the harm—

1 that is, so long as the plaintiff's constitutional injury in fact occurs pursuant to the policy."
2 OSU Student Alliance v. Ray, 699 F.3d 1053, 1076 (9th Cir. 2012).

3 2. Analysis

4 Defendants argue that Mason fails to state a claim against Ryan; that Ryan cannot 5 be liable because he does not have any personal involvement with the PC process; and that 6 Mason's claim arises out of an alleged assault that occurred only after he refused to 7 participate in the PC review process in December 2015, showing that the PC policy did not 8 cause an injury. (Id. at 12–13.) These arguments are unavailing. The Court already 9 determined at screening that Mason sufficiently stated an Eighth Amendment claim against 10 Ryan in his individual capacity. (Doc. 47.) And overt personal participation in the PC
11 process is not required for supervisory liability under § 1983. Redman, 942 F.2d at 1446 12 (overt personal participation not required for supervisor liability).

13 In arguing that Mason's claim arises solely out of the events in December 2015, and 14 that Mason's claims stemming from earlier PC requests are time barred, Defendants 15 misconstrue the claim against Ryan. (Doc. 225 at 13–14, citing Hai Van Le v. Ariz. Dep't 16 of Corr., No CV 11-0744-PHX-RCB (ECV), 2013 WL 4874453 (D. Ariz. Sept. 12, 2013).)
17 In his First Amended Complaint, Mason did not allege a separate Eighth Amendment claim 18 for each instance he was denied PC placement. (See Doc. 46 at 3, 6.) Cf. Hai Van Le, 2013 19 WL 4874453, at *8 (finding that the plaintiff's claims challenging the 2005, 2006, and 20 2007 PC determinations were time barred). Rather, Mason alleged that Ryan implemented 21 a policy—DO 805—that violated his constitutional rights in two ways: (1) it required 22 Mason to house in detention where he was subjected to unlawful conditions of 23 confinement, and (2) despite evidence of threats against Mason, application of the PC
24 policy resulted in repeated denials of PC placement and transfers to general population 25 yards where Mason continually faced a risk of substantial harm. (Doc. 46 at 3–8.) As 26 stated, a supervisor may be liable if he implements a policy so deficient that it inflicts
27 constitutional injury. Hanson, 855 F.2d at 646.⁹

28 ⁹ The claims in Hai Van Le, on which Defendants rely, were not based on supervisory or direct liability for implementation of a deficient policy. See 2013 WL 4874453, at *8.

1 Defendants maintain that Ryan is not liable for consequences of the DO 805 policy 2 because he delegated the responsibilities of the policy to the PC Committee. (Doc. 225 at 3 12; Doc. 226-1, Ryan Decl. ¶ 4.) Under state law, however, Ryan is responsible for ADC 4 policies, which would include the DO 805 policy. See Ariz. Rev. Stat. § 41-1604(A)(1).
5 In delegating his responsibilities to subordinates, Ryan retained a duty to ensure that those 6 to whom he delegated responsibility for PC reviews performed the reviews appropriately.
7 See Estate of Gonzales v. Hickman, No. ED CV 05-660 MMM (RCx), 2007 WL 3237727,
8 at *9 n.55 (C.D. Cal. May 30, 2007) (“a supervisor cannot take solace from the mere fact 9 that he had delegated responsibility for the challenged action to lower echelon employees”)
10 (quoting Lupo v. Voinovich, 235 F. Supp. 2d 782, 794 (S.D. Ohio 2002)); see Ariz. Rev.
11 Stat. § 41-1604(B)(1)(d) (the director may delegate functions or duties “that the director 12 believes can be competently, efficiently and properly performed”). Because Defendants 13 fail to submit Mason’s PC file, there is no competent evidence to show that Mason’s PC 14 reviews were performed appropriately and competently. Consequently, there are genuine 15 issues of material fact whether Ryan properly delegated his responsibilities under the DO 16 805 policy and whether Ryan breached his duty to Mason. See Redman, 942 F.2d at 1446– 17 48 (triable issue of fact whether sheriff, who was “required by statute to take charge of and 18 keep the county jail and the prisoners in it,” was liable as a supervisor under § 1983 for 19 acquiescing in a deficient policy that was moving force behind the plaintiff’s constitutional 20 injury); see also Taylor v. Mich. Dep’t of Corrs., 69 F.3d 76, 80–81 (6th Cir. 1995) 21 (material factual dispute whether defendant warden properly discharged his duty to review 22 and approve all transfers and ensure safety of vulnerable inmates).

23 On its face, the DO 805 policy appears lawful. Mason alleges, however, that his PC 24 requests were repeatedly denied without any legitimate basis and contrary to 25 recommendations for PC placement, and despite policy provisions that require 26 documentation and consideration of particular circumstances that indicate a risk to a 27 prisoner’s safety and that require a formal recommendation by the Deputy Warden. (See 28 Doc. 46 at 5, 7–8; Doc. 161-1, Attach. DO §§ 805.04, 1.3.1, 805.05.) Mason claims that,

1 in practice, the PC policy reviews were inadequate and mishandled and, as a result, he was 2 repeatedly forced back onto general populations yards where he was subject to a substantial 3 risk of harm and feared for his life, and where he was ultimately attacked and seriously
4 injured by other prisoners. (Doc. 46 at 3–8.) See Baze v. Rees, 553 U.S. 35, 50 (2008) 5 (“subjecting individuals to a risk of future harm—not simply actually inflicting pain—can 6 qualify as cruel and unusual punishment”). Because Defendants fail to submit the PC file, 7 there is a material factual dispute whether the PC policy reviews were inadequate and 8 improper and whether Mason suffered a constitutional injury pursuant to the DO 805 policy 9 for which Ryan was responsible. See OSU Student Alliance, 699 F.3d at 1076.

10 Mason also alleges that, pursuant to the DO 805 policy, upon each request for PC 11 placement, he was forced into detention, exposed to unconstitutional conditions of 12 confinement, and subjected to these conditions for significant periods of time. (Doc. 46 at 13 3–8.) He states that he spent over a year in administrative segregation, where he was locked 14 down 24 hours a day, except for 6 hours a week for exercise inside a cage; he was denied 15 contact visits, religious programming and services, and work opportunities; and he was 16 subjected to telephone, property, and commissary restrictions. (Id. at 4–6.) According to 17 Mason, each time he was moved to a general population yard he was forced to choose 18 between requesting PC placement and suffering unconstitutional conditions of 19 confinement or staying on the yard and facing a substantial risk of harm from other 20 prisoners. (Id. at 7–8.)

21 Defendants argue that prisoners in the PC review process are transferred to the 22 detention units for their own protection, and that this type of administrative segregation—23 even when restrictive—is not unconstitutional. (Doc. 225 at 13–14.)¹⁰ Defendants submit 24 no competent evidence to refute that the conditions in detention were as Mason describes.
25 But they maintain that none of the alleged conditions or restrictions deprived Mason of the 26 minimal civilized measure of life’s necessities. (Id. at 15.)

27 ¹⁰ Defendants concede that Mason spent over a year in detention. (Doc. 225 at 14.) They 28 assert that Mason spent a combined total of 436 days in detention over the course of two incarcerations, but they do not submit any documentary evidence to establish the dates of Mason’s incarcerations or his days in detention. (Doc. 226 ¶ 33.)

1 Many of the conditions alleged by Mason concern restrictions, but not complete 2 bans, on certain activities. He claims that he was limited to non-contact visits, but not that 3 he was completely denied visits. (Doc. 46 at 6.) See Keenan v. Hall, 83 F.3d a1083, 1092
4 (9th Cir. 1996) (affirming summary judgment on claims that the plaintiff was denied 5 contact visits with his lawyer and denied visits from persons other than immediate family 6 members). Mason alleges that his telephone calls were limited, but not that he was 7 completely denied telephone access. (Id.) See Keenan, 83 F.3d at 1092 (affirming 8 summary judgment as to telephone access claim where there were no allegations that denial 9 of telephone access was total or that access was denied for emergency or legal calls). And 10 he alleges that his property and commissary privileges were restricted, but not completely 11 denied, and he was still able to obtain hygiene products. (Doc. 46 at 5.) Thus, even when 12 taking the above allegations as true, they are insufficient to implicate constitutional 13 protections. Mason’s allegations regarding the denial of outdoor exercise and access to 14 religious services, however, are more serious.

15 The Ninth Circuit has stated that “regular outdoor exercise is extremely important 16 to the psychological and physical well being of the inmates.” Spain v. Procnier, 600 F.2d 17 189, 199 (9th Cir. 1979) (holding that prisoners in long-term and continuous segregation 18 must be provided regular outdoor exercise unless “inclement weather, unusual 19 circumstances, or disciplinary needs” make it impossible). Thus, deprivation of outdoor 20 exercise violates the Eighth Amendment rights of prisoners confined to long-term 21 segregation. Id. “Although exercise is ‘one of the basic human necessities protected by 22 the Eighth Amendment’ . . . a temporary denial of outdoor exercise with no medical effects 23 is not a substantial deprivation.” May v. Baldwin, 109 F.3d 557, 565 (9th Cir. 1997) 24 (twenty-two days insufficient to establish Eighth Amendment violation) (quoting LeMaire 25 v. Maass, 12 F.3d 1444, 1457 (9th Cir.1993)). But deprivations of access to outdoor 26 exercise for six weeks or more have been found sufficient to implicate the Eighth 27 Amendment. See Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1133 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc); Allen v.
28 Sakai, 48 F.3d 1082, 1087–88 & n.5 (9th Cir 1994) (objective component met where the

1 plaintiff was segregated for six weeks and permitted out of his cell only weekly for 2 exercise). In Keenan v. Hall, the plaintiff was placed in administrative segregation for six 3 months and he alleged that his exercise was restricted to a 10' by 12' room. 83 F.3d at 4 1090. The defendants admitted that the plaintiff's exercise was restricted to an 8' by 21' by 5 16' space with a roof, three concrete walls, and a fourth wall of perforated steel. Id. The 6 Ninth Circuit determined that these facts were sufficient to support an Eighth Amendment
7 claim for denial of outdoor exercise. Id. at 1190, 1195 (reversing grant of summary 8 judgment as to the plaintiff's Eighth Amendment exercise claim).

9 Mason alleges that when he was in administrative segregation for more than a year,
10 his exercise was limited to a "10-foot cage" that lacked any equipment. (Doc. 46 at 5–6.)
11 These facts are sufficient to support an Eighth Amendment exercise claim. It follows that 12 because this exercise restriction was part of the detention imposed pursuant to the DO 805 13 policy, the constitutional deprivation is linked to a policy that Ryan implemented and for 14 which he was responsible.

15 Summary judgment will be denied as to the claim against Ryan based on his 16 implementation and enforcement of a policy that caused Mason to suffer a constitutional 17 injury.¹¹

18 D. Official Capacity Claim Against Ryan

19 Ryan may be liable in his official capacity for prospective injunctive relief from a 20 continuing or impending state action that violates Mason's constitutional rights if Mason 21 demonstrates that "the entity itself is a 'moving force' behind the deprivation." Kentucky

22
23 ¹¹ A prisoner has a First Amendment right to be free from rules that prohibit his right to 24 free exercise of religion. O'Lone v. Estate of Shabazz, 482 U.S. 342, 348 (1987). This 25 right can be limited to achieve legitimate correctional goals or to maintain institutional 26 security. Id. Mason alleges that during his time in detention he was barred from attending 27 religious programs and services. (Doc. 46 at 6.) Defendants do not argue that there were 28 legitimate penological reasons for denying Mason access to religious services. But Defendants do assert that since his incarceration in 2015 Mason has not designated a religious preference and is therefore not eligible to participate in religious programming.
(Doc. 225 at 15, citing Doc. 226 ¶ 95.) In support, Defendants cite the declaration of Chaplain Stephen Kingsland, who avers that his declaration is based on his personal knowledge and a review of ADC records for Mason. (Doc. 161-2 at 1, Kingsland Decl. ¶¶ 1–2.) The Court finds this evidence sufficient to defeat Mason's First Amendment religious exercise claim.

1 v. Graham, 473 U.S. 159, 166 (1985). In this type of claim, ‘the entity’s policy or custom
2 must have played a part in the violation of federal law.’” Hafer v. Melo, 502 U.S. 21, 25
3 (1991) (quoting Graham, 473 U.S. at 166); see also Berry v. Baca, 379 F.3d 764, 767 (9th 4 Cir. 2004). But § 1983 does not authorize an official capacity suit for money damages.
5 Will v. Michigan Dep’t of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 71 (1989). Rather, a plaintiff may 6 seek only prospective relief against a defendant in his official capacity for a “continuing 7 violation of federal law.” Green v. Mansour, 474 U.S. 64, 68 (1985); O’Shea v. Littleton, 8 414 U.S. 488, 495–96 (1974).

9 Defendants argue that Mason lacks standing to seek injunctive relief as to his 10 failure-to-protect claims because he was approved for PC status and transferred to PC 11 housing in 2016, and there is no continuing violation or immediate threat of injury. (Doc.
12 225 at 15.) Defendants fail to submit any competent evidence to establish Mason’s current 13 housing status. (See id., citing Doc. 226 ¶ 66.) But notably, in his First Amended 14 Complaint, Mason does not request injunctive relief in the form of PC housing. Thus, it 15 appears that he was, in fact, already in PC status when he filed his amended pleading. (Doc.
16 46 at 14–15.) Instead, Mason requests an injunction ordering that non-ADC personnel 17 process prisoner grievances and that the DO 805 policy be reformed so that prisoners are 18 granted PC status upon request. (Id.)¹²

19 Mason’s request concerning the processing of prisoner grievances is unrelated to 20 his Eighth Amendment failure-to-protect claim. The Court cannot issue the requested 21 relief. See Pac. Radiation Oncology, LLC v. Queen’s Med. Center, 810 F.3d 631, 636 (9th 22 Cir. 2015) (“[w]hen a plaintiff seeks injunctive relief based on claims not pled in the 23 complaint, the court does not have the authority to issue an injunction”).

24 Mason’s request for an order that the DO 805 policy be reformed is construed as a 25 request for declaratory relief. Mason may only maintain an official capacity suit against 26 Ryan to the extent he seeks prospective injunctive relief for an ongoing violation. He

27 28 ¹² Mason’s request for an injunction ordering Defendants to provide prescribed medical treatment is related to his medical care claim in Count Three and will be addressed separately. (Doc. 46 at 15.)

1 cannot maintain such a suit to obtain a declaration that the PC policy violated his rights in 2 the past. See Puerto Rico Aqueduct v. Metcalf & Eddy, Inc., 506 U.S. 139, 146 (1993) (the 3 exception to Eleventh Amendment immunity “applies only to prospective relief, [it] does 4 not permit judgments against state officers declaring that they violated federal law in the 5 past”). Because he did not request PC housing, and the record indicates that he is already 6 in PC housing, Mason cannot show an ongoing violation related to his failure-to-protect 7 claim. For this reason, and absent any valid request for prospective injunctive relief related 8 to the failure-to-protect claims, Ryan is entitled to summary judgment as to the official 9 capacity claim raised in Counts One and Two.

10 VI. Successive Summary Judgment Motion

11 A district court has discretion to permit successive motions for summary judgment.
12 Hoffman v. Tonnemacher, 593 F.3d 908, 911–12 (9th Cir. 2010). A successive summary 13 judgment motion is particularly appropriate when there is an expanded factual record. Id.
14 at 911. As set forth above, absent the PC file documents, the factual record in this matter 15 is severely lacking. All the relevant PC file documents were available to Defendants at the 16 time they filed their Motion for Summary Judgment, and, as mentioned, they were 17 reminded of the need to submit these documents in support of a summary judgment motion.
18 (Doc. 167 at 8.) Thus, allowing Defendants to file a second summary judgment motion 19 when they did not succeed after their own failure to submit relevant evidence would give 20 them a second bite at the apple, thereby prejudicing Mason, a pro se prisoner litigant. See 21 Nguyen v. United States, 792 F.2d 1500, 1503 (9th Cir. 1986) (noting that the value of 22 summary judgment would be diminished if a party could amend the issues to be decided in 23 the same case after that party lost on summary judgment); Doherty v. Portland Cmty.
24 College, CV-99-1375-ST, 2000 WL 33200560, at *3 (D. Or. Nov. 15, 2000) (denying the 25 plaintiff’s motion for leave to file second summary judgment motion because it “would 26 unduly prejudice [the defendant] and unfairly give [the plaintiff] the proverbial second bite 27 at the apple”). The Court is loath to set a new summary judgment deadline in these 28 circumstances.

1 At the same time, Mason’s PC file would constitute an expanded factual record and 2 could be dispositive of the Eighth Amendment claims in Counts One and Two. At the 3 least, proper summary judgment briefing with the PC file documents will serve to flesh out 4 the relevant facts and narrow the issues prior to trial. The Court will therefore set a new 5 deadline for filing dispositive motions. No extensions to this deadline will be entertained.

6 The Court previously found Defendants’ redactions to PC documents to be improper 7 and concerning. (Doc. 167 at 7.) Defendants are reminded that to satisfy their evidentiary 8 burden on a successive summary judgment motion, they must submit unredacted copies of 9 the PC documents. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1)(A). Documentary evidence is to be filed 10 under seal without redactions. Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2(d). Further, Mason must be permitted 11 to view unredacted copies of any and all documents on which Defendants rely in support 12 of summary judgment. Defendants must make arrangements for Mason to review the 13 documents as needed if he is not permitted to keep them in his cell.

14 IT IS ORDERED:

15 (1) The reference is withdrawn as to Defendants Ryan and Baese’s Motion for 16 Summary Judgment (Doc. 225) and Plaintiff’s Motion for Court Order (Doc. 324).

17 (2) Plaintiff’s Motion for Court Order (Doc. 324) is denied.

18 (3) Plaintiff’s request under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56(d) to deny the 19 Motion for Summary Judgment (within Doc. 236) is denied.

20 (4) Defendants Ryan and Baese’s Motion for Summary Judgment (Doc. 225) is 21 granted in part and denied in part as follows:

22 (a) the Motion is granted as to the official capacity claim against Ryan 23 in Counts One and Two; and 24 (b) the Motion is otherwise denied.

25 (5) Within 45 days from the date of this Order, the parties may file new summary
26 judgment motions as to the remaining individual capacity claims against Ryan and Baese 27 in Counts One and Two. Absent extraordinary circumstances, no extensions to this 28 deadline will be permitted.
