ORDER

1. The Court is making its way through the summary judgment papers. Oral argument would be helpful. We'll start there at the May 19th hearing.

Fifteen minutes per party. The Court modifies its Order, No 156: though everyone is welcome, only one lawyer per party needs to attend the hearing. We'll turn to trial-related issues after discussing the potentially dispositive motions.

2. The parties' notices listing the under seal filings are helpful. The Court requests an updated notice from each party that covers all its filings.

3. Given the many papers already received, trial briefs are optional, not required. Nothing already argued needs to be repeated. No responding trial briefs are needed.

So Ordered.
