FEDERAL REGULATIONS

DEP'T OF THE ARMY, ARMY REGULATION 601-210 12
DEP'T OF THE ARMY, ARMY REGULATION 611-1 6

1 TO ALL PARTIES AND TO THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD:

2 Pursuant to Local Rule 7-19, plaintiff Log Cabin Republicans (“Plaintiff”)
3 hereby applies ex parte for an order compelling Defendants United States of America
4 and Robert M. Gates, Secretary of Defense (“Defendants”) to comply with Plaintiff’s 5 Notice of Deposition of USA and Robert M. Gates pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil 6 Procedure 30(b)(6) (the “Notice”). Plaintiff submits that cause exists to grant the 7 relief requested herein because Defendants have failed to produce a witness in 8 response to the Notice, and with the discovery deadline fast approaching, little time is 9 left to complete the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) deposition. As such, 10 Plaintiff seeks immediate relief from this Court and, accordingly, seeks this relief ex 11 parte.

12 Pursuant to Local Rule 7-19, Log Cabin Republicans has provided notice of 13 this ex parte application to opposing counsel, as set forth in the accompanying 14 Declaration of Patrick Hunnius, and asked opposing counsel whether they would 15 oppose the application. As of the time of this filing, counsel for Plaintiff had not 16 received a response.

17 This application is based on this ex parte application, the accompanying 18 memorandum of points and authorities, the accompanying Declaration of Patrick 19 Hunnius, all pleadings, records, and files in this action, and such evidence and 20 argument that may be presented at any hearing on this application.

2 I.

3 INTRODUCTION

4 This case challenges the constitutionality of the so-called “Don’t Ask, Don’t 5 Tell, Don’t Pursue” policy (the “Policy”), codified as federal law in Title 10, Section 6 654 of the United States Code, entitled “Policy Concerning Homosexuality in the 7 Armed Forces,” as well any Department of Defense regulations promulgated 8 pursuant to Title 10, Section 654 of the United States Code.

9 On December 21, 2009, Plaintiff served on Defendants a 30(b)(6) Notice of 10 Deposition (“Notice”) to be taken on January 25, 2010 at the offices of Plaintiff’s 11 counsel in Washington, D.C. Declaration of Patrick Hunnius, ¶ 2. A copy of the 12 Notice is attached hereto as Exhibit “A.” The Notice described a variety of topics 13 relevant to the general application of Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell (the “Policy”), the 14 application of the Policy to different groups within the United States Armed Forces, 15 and the effects of the application of the Policy. Id.

16 Notwithstanding the clear relevance of these and the other testimony topics 17 and without first seeking a protective order or any other relief from their obligations 18 to produce a witness Defendants did not produce a deponent on the date of the 19 deposition.¹ Thereafter, on January 29, 2010, Defendants sent Plaintiff a letter 20 objecting to Plaintiff’s Notice, in its entirety. A copy of the letter from Defendants is 21 attached hereto as Exhibit “B.” Defendants proposed no alternative date for the 22 deposition and made it clear they refused to designate a witness to testify on any 23 subjects listed in the Notice.

26 ¹ Several days before the scheduled deposition, Plaintiff asked Defendants to confirm 27 they would be producing a witness. Defendants responded that they had not received 28 Plaintiff’s Notice. Plaintiff immediately sent a copy of the previously served Notice by email.

1 The parties met and conferred telephonically on February 9, 2010, but were 2 unable to reach a satisfactory conclusion. Hunnius Decl., at ¶ 4. On February 11, 3 2010, Plaintiff sent Defendants a letter suggesting a briefing schedule that would 4 ensure that the parties’ dispute regarding the Notice could be heard by the Court 5 before the discovery cutoff. Id. at ¶ 5. A copy of the letter is attached hereto as 6 Exhibit “C.” Plaintiff asked that Defendants respond to the proposed briefing 7 schedule by February 17 in order – assuming Defendants agreed – to allow the 8 parties to notify the Court of the briefing schedule. Id. Defendants never responded, 9 thereby preventing Plaintiff from being able to proceed by a joint stipulation on the 10 matter as contemplated by Local Rule 37-2.1. Id.²

11 Defendants’ obstructionism in objecting wholesale to the discovery and 12 refusing to cooperate by agreeing to a briefing schedule have resulted in there being 13 insufficient time to have this motion heard on regular notice before the discovery 14 cutoff of March 15, 2010. Defendants have failed to respond to the Notice, and it is 15 integral to Plaintiff’s case that Plaintiff depose Defendants. For the reasons set forth 16 below, Plaintiff therefore requests that this Court order Defendants to produce a 17 deponent or deponents responsive to Plaintiff’s Notice.

24 ² Plaintiff provided notice of this Application via email on March 4, 2010. Hunnius 25 Decl., ¶9. On March 5, 2010, Defendants informed Plaintiff by letter that it opposes 26 the Application and claimed – for the first time and without any evidence – that 27 Defendants’ had “agreed” to the briefing schedule proposed by Plaintiff. Id., Ex. D.
28 Plaintiff asked Defendants to explain when and where they had communicated their “agreement” to the proposed briefing schedule. Id., Ex. E. Defendants’ response confirms that they never did. See id., Ex. F.

1 II.

2 GOOD CAUSE EXISTS FOR THE COURT TO COMPEL DEFENDANTS
3 TO COMPLY WITH PLAINTIFF'S NOTICE

4 1. Defendants' Objections Are Untimely and Do Not Excuse Their Failure to 5 Appear

6 Defendants are obliged, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(6) 7 to designate and produce a witness to testify regarding the topics delineated in the 8 Notice. It is undisputed (and self-evident) that: (1) the Notice was properly issued 9 and served; and (2) Defendants did not seek a protective order regarding the Notice 10 and were not otherwise relieved from their obligation to produce a witness.

11 A party properly noticed under Rule 30(b)(6) may not fail to appear for its 12 deposition. Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(d); Henry v. Gill Industries, Inc., 983 F.2d 943, 947
13 (9th Cir. 1993); Hilao v. Estate of Marcos, 103 F.3d 762, 764-765 (9th Cir. 1996).
14 Unless a protective order has been applied for, the fact that the notice of deposition is 15 objectionable does not excuse the failure to appear. New England Carpenters Health 16 Benefits Fund v. First Databank, Inc., 242 F.R.D. 164, 166 (D. Ma. 2007). Plaintiff's 17 Notice was served on December 21, 2009; the Notice scheduled Defendants' 18 deposition for January 25, 2010, giving Defendants more than 30 days to produce a 19 deponent. However, Defendants failed to produce a deponent; indeed, they did not 20 respond to Plaintiff until January 29, 2010 – four days after the scheduled deposition.

21 While a party may object to the deposition, “the examination still proceeds; the 22 testimony is taken subject to any objection.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(c)(2). If Defendants 23 wish to object to Plaintiff's questioning, they may do so at the deposition after they 24 have produced a responsive deponent or deponents.

25 2. Defendants' Professed Lack of Knowledge on the Relevant Topics Does 26 Not Excuse Their Failure to Appear

27 Throughout their objections, Defendants claim that they have no knowledge of 28 several topics identified by Plaintiff, and assert that their lack of knowledge excuses

1 their failure to designate a witness. For example, paragraph 6 of the Notice seeks 2 “[r]eports, studies, or analyses conducted by or on behalf of Defendants relating to 3 the experience of the armed forces of nations other than the United States with 4 military service by individuals with a homosexual orientation or by individuals who 5 engage in homosexual conduct [. . .].” Defendants demur by saying they have 6 conducted no such report. Defendants’ objection is non-responsive; moreover, it is 7 irrelevant.

8 If Defendants plan on relying solely on the congressionally-alleged evidence 9 underlying the Policy to support the constitutionality of the Policy, then testimony 10 relating to that evidence – if there is any – is relevant and discoverable in a Rule 11 30(b)(6) deposition. Even if the deponent can identify no evidence in support of the 12 Congressional findings cited by the statute, then Defendants’ lack of evidence or 13 knowledge is also relevant as to whether the Policy is arbitrary and capricious, or 14 motivated solely by animus. See 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A); FCC v. National Citizens 15 Committee for Broadcasting, 436 U.S. 775, 790 (1978); Romer v. Evans, 517 U.S.
16 620, 632 (1996). Defendants must therefore produce a deponent, even one who will 17 testify to Defendants’ lack of knowledge or evidence on the relevant topics.

18 3. Testimony Regarding the Application of the Policy to Women is Relevant 19 to the Purported Rational Basis of the Policy

20 Defendants must provide testimony regarding the application of the Policy to 21 women and other service members not permitted to hold a combat Military 22 Occupation Specialty (“MOS”) because that testimony is relevant to the purported 23 rational basis of the Policy: to sustain unit cohesion in combat. See DEP’T OF THE 24 ARMY, ARMY REGULATION 611-1, at 1-1 (1997), available at 25 http://www.army.mil/USAPA/epubs/pdf/r611_1.pdf [hereinafter ARMY REGULATION 26 611-1].

27 The primary purpose of the armed forces, as identified by the Policy, is to 28 prepare for and to prevail in combat should the need arise. 10 U.S.C. § 654. The

1 Policy presupposes that success in combat requires military units that are 2 characterized by high morale, good order and discipline, and unit cohesion. Id. To 3 the extent that Defendants allege that gay and lesbian individuals who volunteer to 4 defend their country are an impediment to their comrades' discipline in combat, 5 Plaintiff seeks discovery regarding service members subject to the Policy who do not 6 and/or are not permitted to engage in combat.

7 The testimony would be relevant as to whether a rational nexus exists between 8 the government's interest in combat unit cohesion and the exclusion of gays and 9 lesbians from non-combat positions. Testimony showing that the Policy led to a 10 proportionally higher number of discharges from combat units than it did from non-11 combat units might demonstrate the existence of that nexus. Conversely, testimony 12 showing the opposite may tend to disprove the existence of that nexus. In either 13 case, the testimony is directly relevant to the rational basis at issue; Defendants, 14 therefore, must produce a witness to provide that testimony.

15 4. Defendants' Burden of Proof at Trial Does Not Excuse Their Failure to 16 Appear

17 Defendants also rely on Philips v. Perry, 106 F.3d 1420 (9th Cir. 1997), to 18 justify their refusal to produce a witness. Their reliance is mistaken for three reasons.
19 First, as this Court pointed out, "Philips discusses equal protection concerns, not 20 substantive due process," as is relevant here. Order re Mot. To Dismiss at 17, June 9, 21 2009, Dkt. No. 83. Second, Philips speaks to the government's burden of proof in 22 the rational review of a statute; it does not refer to the government's responsibilities 23 to provide witnesses during the discovery process. Philips, 106 F.3d at 1425.
24 Finally, the holding in Philips was arguably limited by Lawrence v. Texas, 539 U.S.
25 558 (2003), and is inapposite as authority now under any circumstance.

26 Defendants' argument conflates the burden of proof at trial with the different 27 question of what is an appropriate subject for discovery before trial. Parties may 28 obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's

1 claim or defense. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Relevant information need not be 2 admissible at the trial if the discovery appears reasonably calculated to lead to the 3 discovery of admissible evidence. Id. Here, Plaintiff seeks testimony relating to the 4 evidence – if there is any – in support of the Policy, and relating to the application of 5 the Policy. Defendants’ obligation to provide this witness is not affected by their 6 burden of proof at trial. Therefore, Defendants must produce a deponent to provide 7 the testimony sought by Plaintiff.

8 5. The Testimony Sought Relates to Information Known or Reasonably 9 Available to the Government

10 Defendants object to Plaintiff’s Notice on the grounds that the paragraphs 6, 7, 11 11, 15, and 16 – reports, studies and polls relating to the Policy, as well as the names 12 of the individuals responsible for administering the policy – are not known or 13 reasonably available to the government. As is detailed below, this is patently untrue; 14 Defendants have demonstrated that they have information on many of these topics 15 within their control through their responses to Plaintiff’s first set of requests for 16 production of documents, which include studies of foreign militaries and internal 17 studies of U.S. military personnel policies. See, e.g., Dec. of Patrick Hunnius.
18 Defendants cannot credibly claim that this knowledge is not reasonably available to 19 them.

20 a. Defendants’ Hyper-semantic Objections Ignore the Topics Identified in 21 the Notice

22 Defendants specifically object first to Paragraph 6, which identifies:

23 Reports, studies or analyses conducted by or on behalf of Defendants 24 relating to the experience of the armed forces of nations other than the 25 United States with military service by individuals with a homosexual 26 orientation or by individuals who engage in homosexual conduct, including the consideration or evaluation of such service by those foreign states or their armed forces.

27 Defendants respond by claiming that “[t]he Department of Defense has not 28 conducted its own independent study of the experience of other nations regarding gay

1 and lesbian service members and their military service.” Even assuming the veracity 2 of Defendants’ claims, their objection is orthogonal to the topic identified. However, 3 Plaintiff seeks “[r]eports, studies or analyses conducted by or on behalf of 4 Defendants.” To say that Defendants have not conducted their own independent 5 study ignores the issue of whether studies were made by 3rd parties on behalf of the 6 DOD. Such reports, prepared for the Department of Defense, clearly exist.

7 Indeed, the 1993 RAND Report, which includes a study of foreign militaries’ 8 homosexual personnel policies, written by the RAND Corporation on behalf of the 9 DOD and already produced by Defendants in their responses to Plaintiff’s first set of 10 requests for production of documents proves conclusively that Defendants have the 11 requisite knowledge sought by Plaintiff. Moreover, Defendants have admitted 12 publicly that they have information from foreign governments regarding the open 13 service by gay and lesbian individuals. U.S. Congress. Senate Armed Services 14 Committee. “Testimony Regarding DOD ‘Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell’ Policy, As 15 Delivered by Secretary of Defense, Robert M. Gates and Adm. Mike Mullen, 16 chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.” (Date 2/2/10). Text from Joint Chiefs of Staff 17 Official Web Site. Available at <http://www.jcs.mil/speech.aspx?id=1322>; Accessed 18 3/3/10. Defendants’ claim that they have no information to disclose is patently untrue.

19 Defendants next object to Paragraph 7, which identifies “[r]eports, research, or 20 analysis concerning United States Armed Forces personnel and homosexual conduct 21 or homosexual orientation commissioned, requested, or received by Defendants.” 22 Defendants’ objection is based on the assertion that the “Department of Defense has 23 not conducted or commissioned such a ‘report, research, or analysis.’” Their 24 assertion is false; such studies were included in, inter alia, the RAND Report, 25 received by Defendants in 1993 and produced by Defendants in their responses to 26 Plaintiff’s first set of requests for production of documents. Moreover, Defendants 27 have publicly admitted their awareness of studies and polls regarding the Policy.
28 Plaintiff clearly has the right to depose at least one witness with knowledge of the 1 reports in DOD's possession.

2 Defendants' objection regarding Paragraph 15 is similarly misguided.
3 Defendants claim that they cannot produce a witness regarding "polls conducted by 4 or on behalf of the Defendants measuring public opinion regarding service by gay 5 and lesbian individuals" because they conducted no such study. However, 6 communications referenced by Defendants themselves, produced by Defendants in 7 this case, show that such polls are conducted by the United States Armed Forces.³
8 Defendants' claim that they conducted no relevant polls is completely untrue.

9 b. At Least Two Federal Employees are Nominally Familiar with All 10 Topics Described in Log Cabin Republican's Notice of Deposition

11 Defendants' failure to identify a deponent is especially troublesome given that 12 Log Cabin Republicans can themselves identify at least two staff employees of the 13 United States Senate – Jonathan D. Clark and Gerald Leeling – who are described by 14 their employers as "Majority Professional Staff Members for Military Personnel 15 Issues – Homosexual Conduct Policy." U.S. Congress. U.S. Senate Armed Services
16 Committee Staff Listing, http://armed-services.senate.gov/SASC%20STAFF

18 Defendants are without sufficient knowledge to provide even one witness regarding

[Dec. of P. Hunnius, Ex. A]

1 the DOD's homosexual conduct policy is, at best, disingenuous.

2 c. Defendants Cannot Escape Responsibility for Producing a Witness by 3 Vacillating on the Identity of that Witness

4 Defendants also object to Paragraph 11, calling for the designation of a witness 5 to testify about “[t]he recruiting and hiring policies of private contractor corporations 6 employed since 2002 by the United States in Iraq or Afghanistan, specifically 7 relating to any non-discrimination policies or guidelines as to those policies.”

8 Defendants claim that the Notice is “vague,” asserting that “[i]t is unclear whether 9 the Notice calls for the designation of a Government Officer or agent to testify.”

10 Again, Defendants’ objection sidesteps the actual testimony called for in the Notice.

11 Plaintiff does not state a preference between government officers or agents because 12 the distinction is irrelevant. Plaintiff is entitled to depose the person most 13 knowledgeable regarding the Notice – whomever the government determines,

14 whether officer or agent. Again, Defendants’ evasions do not excuse them from their 15 responsibility to comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. They must 16 produce a deponent – whether officer or agent – to testify on the topic noticed.

17 d. Defendants Are the United States, and Are Required to Comply With 18 Discovery Regardless of Which Federal Department or Agency
19 Controls the Relevant Information

20 Defendants further claim that they do not need to produce a witness responsive 21 to Paragraph 16, calling for a witness to testify about the “fiscal impact of the policy,

22 including any studies, reports, research, or analysis regarding the expenses associated 23 with the policy, and the costs of recruiting additional personnel to replace service

24 members discharged pursuant to the Policy.” Their reasoning follows: “As you

25 know, the Government Accountability Office provided estimated costs in 2005, but 26 that Office is an arm of Congress, not an Executive Branch agency.” To the extent

27 that Defendants are claiming that they are only responsible for producing information

28 held by the Department of Defense, or that Plaintiff seeks information exclusively

1 from the Department of Defense, Defendants are mistaken. Plaintiff asserts its right
2 to propound discovery requests on any agency or department of the United States, a 3 named defendant.

4 Agency and department structure does not exempt information from discovery
5 requests propounded upon the United States; where the federal government is a party 6 to the suit, information controlled by any agency is considered within the possession 7 of the United States. See Harvey Aluminum, Inc., v. National Labor Relations 8 Board, 335 F.2d 749, (9th Cir. 1964) (“In a criminal prosecution the Department of 9 Justice would scarcely be heard to say that it was not required to produce statements 10 otherwise within the rule simply because the documents rested in the hands of 11 another federal agency, . . . and though the Board may not be able to compel them to 12 produce documents in their possession, the President or, if need be, the courts, may 13 do so.”). Thus, Defendants cannot claim that they are not obligated to produce 14 information or witnesses in the control of the Government Accountability Office.
15 The Government Accountability Office is a department of the United States, and 16 Defendants must produce a deponent from that department if that person has 17 knowledge of the topic noticed.

18 6. Testimony Regarding Enlistment Waivers is Clearly Relevant

19 Defendants claim that they do not have to produce a witness to provide 20 testimony regarding enlistment waivers because that testimony is irrelevant.
21 Defendants are mistaken. Military waivers are relevant to the purported rational 22 basis of the policy: discipline.

23 Defendants assert that success in combat requires military units that are 24 characterized by high morale, good order and discipline. Plaintiff seeks testimony on 25 the change in U.S. Army personnel policy promulgated since the invasions of Iraq 26 and Afghanistan that permit felons to join the U.S. Army. See DEP’T OF THE ARMY, 27 ARMY REGULATION 601-210, at 4-27 (2007), available at 28 http://www.army.mil/usapa/epubs/pdf/r601_210.pdf [hereinafter ARMY REGULATION

1 601-210]. The recruitment of felons and the waiver of their offenses – previously 2 unwaivable – relate directly to the issue of whether “discipline” is a pretext to 3 exclude law-abiding gay and lesbian service members from joining the United States 4 Armed Forces. Because the topic is relevant to Defendants’ purported rational basis, 5 Defendants must produce a witness to provide testimony on that topic.

6 7. Defendants Must Provide a Witness Because a Deposition is an 7 Appropriate Method to Obtain the Evidence Sought by Plaintiff

8 Defendants object to Paragraph 17, which seeks to identify the person(s) 9 responsible for administering the policy. Defendants’ reason is that “such matters 10 can be more readily addressed through alternative, less burdensome forms of 11 discovery,” including interrogatories. Plaintiff disagrees; Defendants objection is 12 improper for two reasons.

13 First, this is not a valid objection. If the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 14 intended an alternative to deposition for convenience, it would have provided for 15 one. See, e.g., Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(d) (permitting parties to submit business records in 16 lieu of answers to interrogatories where the burden of gleaning the answer from the 17 documents is substantially the same for either party).

18 Second, this objection lacks credibility. It took longer for Defendants’ counsel 19 to formulate and send a response to Plaintiff’s Notice than it would have for a 20 30(b)(6) deponent to respond.

21 For all the reasons described above, Plaintiff asks the Court to order 22 Defendants to produce as many deponents as necessary to respond to Plaintiff’s 23 Notice of Deposition.
