1 Plaintiff Southern California Institute of Law ("Law School" or "plaintiff") 2 respectfully submits this memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the 3 motion filed by TCS Education System ("TCS") to dismiss plaintiff's Complaint for 4 Injunctive Relief and Damages, filed on October 25, 2010 ("Complaint").

5 I. INTRODUCTION

6 This action arises out of the blatantly anticompetitive conduct of TCS, a 7 multi-million dollar corporation engaged in the rapid acquisition of schools and 8 colleges in California and elsewhere. Plaintiff is a small, State-accredited, evening 9 law school with a twenty-five year history of serving working class adults in the tri-10 county area of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties. Lured by the 11 prospect of increasing its outreach to an underserved population of future law 12 students, the plaintiff provided defendants with unfettered access to its Dean, faculty 13 and confidential files in an effort to complete an acquisition transaction with TCS.
14 Instead, the defendants misappropriated plaintiff's most guarded secrets and 15 information in violation of a binding confidentiality agreement and secretly used the 16 information to affiliate with the plaintiff's sole competitor in the region. Armed with 17 the stolen information, the defendants recently announced their "deal" which is 18 calculated to kill off competition in the region, destroy the plaintiff's business and 19 increase tuition costs. Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief and damages.

20 Rather than address the Complaint's well-pled allegations, TCS 21 mischaracterizes the case as one involving a jilted seller crying sour grapes over the 22 loss of a potential sale. A fair reading of the Complaint establishes that TCS was 23 contractually and legally obligated to refrain from using the plaintiff's vital, 24 confidential information to facilitate its affiliation with plaintiff's competitor. The 25 Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Agreement ("NDA") at the center of this case 26 was prepared by TCS and is anything but a "plain vanilla" NDA as TCS would have 27 the Court believe. Memorandum of Points and Authorities in Support of Defendant 28 TCS Education System's Motion to Dismiss, filed December 23, 2010 ((TCS

1 Mem."), p. 1.¹ The preamble to the NDA states that the Law School was to provide 2 "access to proprietary, trade secret and confidential information..., which may 3 include, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, strategies and strategic 4 plans, business opportunities, business plans, financial reports, statements and 5 projections, trade names and marks, documents, programs, techniques, know-how, 6 and specifications...." Complaint ¶ 15. The NDA referred to the collective of the 7 confidential and proprietary information, both orally conveyed and in documentary 8 form, as "Information". Id. The Information was to remain the property of the Law
9 School and used solely for the purpose of "facilitating a transaction" between TCS 10 and the Law School which the NDA referred to as "the 'Relationship'". Id. TCS, its 11 employees and agents were commanded "not to use, reproduce, or directly or 12 indirectly disclose or allow access to the [I]nformation except as required to 13 facilitate the Relationship." Id. (emphasis added). To alleviate any lingering 14 concerns the Law School might have regarding the release of its Information to TCS, 15 the NDA took the extraordinary step of mandating that:
16 "[TCS] shall protect the confidentiality of the Information from the date of its receipt 17 hereunder with at least the same diligence and care as would be required of [TCS] 18 if it were a fiduciary of the [Law School], that is the utmost good faith and care for 19 the interests of the [Law School]." Id. (emphasis added).

20 TCS faithfully promised that it would not use the Information the Law School 21 provided to "pursu[e] business opportunities or other arrangements or endeavors of 22 any kind" in violation of the NDA. Id. ¶ 18. This non-competition covenant is 23 proper because, inter alia, it is intended to prevent TCS from competing with the 24 Law School after receiving the school's confidential Information. Id. Paragraph 5 of 25 the NDA obligates TCS upon termination of the "Relationship" to "promptly 26

27 ¹ A copy of the NDA is attached to the Complaint as Exhibit 1.
28

1 destroy" the Information and "certify" its destruction to the Law School. Id. ¶ 26.
2 The NDA is governed by California law and "continue[s] until such time as any 3 Information received by [TCS] hereunder is returned to the [Law School] or 4 destroyed." Id. ¶ 18. TCS has neither destroyed nor returned the Information the 5 Law School provided. Id. ¶¶ 26 and 44.

6 As summarized further below, the Complaint pleads in rich factual detail the 7 circumstances giving rise to the TCS negotiation and execution of the NDA (¶¶ 13-8 19), the precise Information wrongfully obtained (¶¶ 20-22), the harm that the 9 plaintiff sustained (¶¶ 27, 30-36) , the anticompetitive effects that TCS's improper 10 affiliation will have on law school education in the region (¶¶ 34-36 and 81-83) and 11 the contractual, common law and statutory claims arising out of the alleged 12 wrongdoing (¶¶ 41-97). Plainly, TCS's assault on the Complaint is unjustified and 13 its motion to dismiss should be denied.

14 II. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

15 Prior to 1986, Santa Barbara & Ventura Colleges of Law ("COL") was the 16 only law school in the tri-county region spanning San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, 17 and Ventura Counties. Complaint ¶8. At that time, the only other State Bar 18 accredited schools were miles away in either Monterey or Malibu. Id. Neither of 19 these options made sense for working adults, many of whom were single parents. Id.
20 Like the Law School, COL offers a part-time evening curriculum leading to a J.D.
21 and is State Bar accredited. Id. Neither the Law School nor COL is ABA 22 accredited. Id. In addition, neither school has accreditation from the Western 23 Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC"). *Id.*² Without these accreditations,

24
25 ² Voluntary, non-governmental, institutional accreditation, as practiced by WASC 26 and other regional commissions, is a unique characteristic of American education.
27 Id. ¶10. Accreditation is granted at the completion of a peer review process, and 28 assures the educational community, the general public, and other organizations that an accredited institution has met high standards of quality and effectiveness. Id.

1 neither the Law School nor COL can offer students federally funded loans. Id. The 2 chief reasons why these other accreditations cannot be sought and obtained is the 3 lack of financial and human resources that would allow the Law School or COL to 4 meet basic eligibility criteria. Id. ¶¶ 8-11.

5 Over the past twenty-five years, the Law School and COL have competed for 6 students and faculty. Id. ¶12. COL is much larger than the Law School and has 7 approximately 250 students, thirty-seven faculty members and an administrative 8 staff of nine. Id. By contrast, the Law School has approximately one hundred 9 students, thirty-one part-time faculty members and an administrative staff consisting 10 of a Dean, Vice-Dean and Registrar. Id. ¶ 4. In spite of the fact that COL is larger 11 and has more resources, the Law School established a strong presence in the tri-12 county region because of its willingness to keep tuition costs low while maintaining 13 a strong faculty and academic program. Id. ¶12.³ This commitment has allowed 14 many current and past students to afford to earn a law degree. Id. The Law School 15 has enrolled a number of students who transferred in good academic standing from 16 COL, citing the strong program and lower tuition costs as key factors. Id.

17 In mid-September 2009, Dean Stanislaus Pulle of the Law School was 18 approached by defendant David J. Figuli ("Figuli") and one George R. Haynes 19 ("Haynes"), the former Vice President of Academic Affairs for the Santa Barbara 20 Graduate Institute of Psychology (the "Institute"), regarding a potential acquisition 21 by TCS. Id. ¶13. The Institute had just become affiliated with TCS, and Haynes 22

23 While no institution in the United States is required to seek accreditation, it is highly 24 coveted both in terms of institutional stature and the ability to qualify students for 25 federally funded student loans under Title IV of the Higher Education Act. Id.

26 ³ The Law School maintains one of the lowest tuition rates among law schools in the 27 state. Id. ¶3. Tuition rates are currently $350 per unit whereas many comparable 28 law schools charge in the range of $800 or more per unit. Id. COL charges $450 per unit. Id.

1 made the introduction. Id. Figuli, a Colorado-based attorney, stated that he had 2 extensive background in strategic acquisitions in the education sector and that, 3 through defendant Higher Education Group, Figuli's company, he was identifying 4 suitable acquisition candidates and structuring transactions for TCS. Id. ¶¶ 6, 7 and 5 13. Figuli and Haynes explained that TCS was interested in acquiring a California 6 law school. Id. ¶13. The Law School was encouraged by the prospect of an 7 acquisition with TCS because it would facilitate WASC accreditation, increase 8 enrollment, establish new programs, extend educational opportunities to foreign 9 students and leverage existing resources, such as using one or both of the school's 10 campuses for daytime programs. Id. ¶14.⁴

11 On September 24, 2009, the Law School and TCS entered into the NDA. Id.
12 ¶16. Figuli and TCS led the Law School to believe that TCS would be its strong ally 13 and enable the Law School to compete against the larger, and better funded, COL.

15 ⁴ Dean Pulle represented to Figuli and Haynes that an integral part of the school's 16 mission was to serve low and moderate income working adults and keep the total 17 cost of the J.D. program in the range of $30,000.00 over the course of the typical 18 four year term. Id. ¶15. Further, Dean Pulle emphasized the commitment by the 19 Law School's Board of Directors and faculty to reduce law school earnings if 20 necessary to ensure that the program would remain affordable and accessible. Id.
21 Dean Pulle made it clear to Figuli and Haynes that the Law School was not 22 interested in an affiliation if that would change the school's core mission or values, 23 which included a focus on rigorous academic standards. Id. As proof of the 24 success of its approach, Dean Pulle emphasized the Law School's increasing profile 25 in the community as a high quality law degree program, its outstanding faculty and 26 Board members and the many notable keynote speakers at its graduation 27 ceremonies. Id. Among the past keynote speakers at the Law School's 28 commencement ceremonies were Justices of the California Supreme Court and Court of Appeal, former State Attorney General Bill Lockyer, Kenneth A. Starr, presiding judges of the local Superior Courts in Santa Barbara and Ventura, and members of the California legislature. Id. ¶4. This year's keynote speaker is California Supreme Court Chief Justice Tani Cantil-Sakauye. Id.

1 Id. ¶19. The manner in which an alliance with TCS would enable the Law School to 2 grow and successfully compete with COL was discussed in great detail during 3 September, October and November 2009. Id. At no point during any of these 4 discussions did Figuli or TCS suggest that the price the Law School had proposed 5 was unreasonable or unacceptable. Id. Instead, the discussions focused on 6 marketing strategies, addition of new degree programs, initiation of Internet based 7 instruction, WASC-accreditation and the corresponding ability to offer federally 8 funded tuition loans to attract new students and other plans. Id. In addition, issues 9 of governance, structures of control, methods of securing expanded accreditation, 10 and curriculum expansion were addressed. Id.

11 Confident that it was working toward an acquisition, in early October 2009, 12 the Law School released its most guarded Information to the defendants. Id. ¶20.
13 Among the documents that Dean Pulle and the Law School's Board of Directors 14 prepared and released was a document entitled "Acquisition Profile and Initial 15 Strategy For Regional Accreditation" dated October 1, 2009 ("Acquisition Profile").
16 Id. The Acquisition Profile set forth the Law School's plans and strategy, 17 competitive challenges, financial affairs, cash flows, debts, faculty matters, 18 contractual obligations, capital stock structure and its proposed terms for the sale of 19 the Law School, including what the Dean and the Law School's Board of Directors 20 perceived as a fair price for the shares of common stock held by the Law School's 21 shareholders. *Id.*⁵ Many of the documents provided to defendants are ones that are

22
23 ⁵ In addition, pursuant to TCS's due diligence requests, the Law School provided 24 defendants with the following documents: (a) The Law School's By-Laws; (b) 25 Stockholder ledgers; (c) Minutes of the Law School's Board of Director meetings; 26 (d) The Dean's Annual Report to the Law School's Board of Directors with detailed 27 enrollment data for three years; (e) An analysis of the Law School's financial 28 condition with reference to the school's rent payments, cash on hand, ownership interests, and structure of administrative and faculty compensation (including actual dollar amounts); (f) The Law School's Balance Sheet, including beginning and

1 treated as confidential by the State Bar of California Committee of Bar Examiners 2 ("CBE"), including the Law School's financial records and personal information 3 about instructors. Accredited Law School Rules, Rules of the State Bar of 4 California, Title 4, Div. 2 (January 1, 2009) ("Rules"), Rule 4.108.

5 Although the confidential nature of the foregoing documents is apparent, the 6 importance of Dean Pulle's imprimatur on the materials and his frank discussion of 7 everything he, the Board and faculty had considered -- past, present and future -- 8 cannot be overstated. Id. ¶21. For example, the documents related to the school's 9 most recent CBE inspection report are perhaps a law school's most sensitive and 10 guarded Information. Id. While less detailed, the Law School's annual registration 11 filing with the State Bar also covers many of the same topics. Id. These documents 12 lay out, line by line, in elaborate detail, all the strengths and weaknesses (both real 13 and perceived) of the Law School's operation, and give insight into an accrediting 14 body's opinion on all facets of the school from basic curriculum to the governing 15 Board's discharge of its solemn duties to the school's various constituencies. Id.

18 ending balances for the past three years, and the taxes paid on the school's revenues; 19 (g) Budgets and Profit & Loss Statements for 2009; (h) Independent CPA 20 Compilation Reports for fiscal years 2005, 2006, 2007 and 2008; (i) U.S. corporate 21 tax returns for three years for 2007, 2008, and 2009; (j) A report of cash balances as 22 of August 31, 2010; (k) A marketing plan, including a pricing and competition 23 analysis; (l) A detailed description of the Dean's Compensation Package, including 24 his retirement plan; (m) Wage and salary information for staff and faculty; (n) 25 Employee contracts, including sample faculty contracts; (o) Personnel files and 26 personal academic biographies on faculty and administrative staff; (p) Faculty and 27 Student Policy Manuals; (q) The Law School's real estate leases; (r) State Bar 28 Inspection Reports, including the Law School's responses to the comments made by the inspectors and follow-up correspondence with the State Bar; and (s) Comprehensive State Bar annual registration filings that covered academic standing of all students, a report on drop-out rates, a budget for a library acquisition, faculty grading charts, a self-study completed by the Law School. Id. ¶20.

1 The materials include the Law School's responses to those inquiries, addressing all 2 of the State Bar's compliments, criticisms and recommendations. Id.

3 On November 17, 2009, Dean Pulle met with Figuli, Haynes and a TCS senior 4 executive. Id. ¶¶23-24. As part of meeting, the group toured the Law School's 5 campuses, met with the Vice Dean and even a local Santa Barbara realtor regarding 6 the potential purchase of the campus building. Id. During those discussions, the 7 parties addressed the reconfiguration of the Law School's Board of Directors, the 8 establishment of Joint Advisory Boards, and the hiring of additional faculty and new 9 law deans, among other topics. Id. The gist of those discussions indicated that an 10 acquisition of the Law School by TCS was imminent. Id. At the conclusion of the 11 meeting, the TCS executive stated that he expected that TCS would make an offer 12 no later than mid-December 2009. Id.

13 The Law School did not receive any communication from TCS in December 14 2009. Id. ¶25. On January 21, 2010, Dean Pulle sent an e-mail to Figuli, with 15 copies to Haynes and the TCS executive, requesting a "status report" on the process 16 toward an acquisition. Id. A few hours later, on January 22, 2010, Figuli e-mailed 17 Dean Pulle stating that TCS believed that because it could not offer an acquisition 18 price that would be acceptable to the Law School, it was not interested in an 19 acquisition "at this time." Id. (emphasis added). Prior to Figuli's e-mail, no one 20 connected with TCS suggested that the Law School's proposed price was 21 unacceptable or that TCS could not afford to pay. Id. ¶26. The last phrase in 22 Figuli's e-mail that TCS would pass on the opportunity "at this time" left open the 23 possibility that it might still consider the acquisition in the future. Id. Dean Pulle 24 conveyed that impression to his Board and certain faculty who had been involved in 25 the negotiations. Id. This inference is further bolstered by the fact that paragraph 5 26 of the NDA obligates TCS upon termination of the "Relationship" to "promptly 27 destroy" the Information and "certify" its destruction to the Law School. Id. As 28

1 stated above, the Law School's documentary Information was neither destroyed nor 2 returned and no certification of its destruction has been provided.

3 It may reasonably be inferred that defendants approached COL during the 4 time they were engaged in discussions with the Law School or soon thereafter, but 5 concealed their wrongful intent from the plaintiff. Id. ¶28. This inference is 6 supported by the large gap in time between the November 17, 2009 meeting and 7 Figuli's January 22, 2010 e-mail sent only hours after Dean Pulle inquired about why
8 he had not heard anything further from TCS. Id. COL's Website confirms that TCS 9 approached COL regarding the possible affiliation. Id. The defendants further 10 admit in documents on their Websites that COL and TCS obtained approval from the 11 CBE for their affiliation in July 2010. Id. It takes a month or more to obtain such 12 approval. Id. When one considers the time needed to conduct due diligence and 13 negotiate their affiliation, it is reasonable to infer that defendants' initial contact with 14 COL occurred contemporaneously with or soon after their discussions with the Law 15 School. Id. The misuse of the Law School's Information is likewise apparent from 16 these facts because defendants were bound to act with the highest of fiduciary 17 standards toward the Plaintiff. Id. citing NDA ¶2. Having gained access to 18 plaintiff's Information, the NDA restricted the defendants from using the 19 Information other than to "facilitat[e] a transaction" with the plaintiff and effectively 20 barred defendants from becoming the Law School's competitor because to do so 21 would violate their contractual and fiduciary obligations. Id.

22 The Law School first learned of defendants' wrongful conduct through news 23 reports on or about September 22, 2010. Id. ¶30. The press release, dated 24 September 21, 2010, jointly published by TCS and COL and carried on their 25 respective Websites and by various news services, including Reuters and the Pacific
26 Coast Business Times, confirmed that TCS and COL entered into an affiliation 27 agreement effective October 1, 2010. Id. Referring to COL as "the Central Coast's 28 preeminent law school," the press release confirms that under its new leadership,

1 COL, using TCS's expertise in regulatory affairs, plans to seek WASC accreditation 2 which will bring access to federal student financial aid programs. Id. In the 3 September 21, 2010, press release, COL Dean Heather Georgakis, is quoted as 4 saying, "This affiliation will strengthen the law school and its long-term growth 5 potential by adding new resources, generating economies of scale and creating new 6 opportunities for law- related education." Id. Among the "new opportunities" 7 planned by TCS and COL are adding online courses, additional law programs (as 8 may be allowed by the State Bar), multi-disciplinary and joint programs in other 9 disciplines within the expertise of TCS's affiliates, and access to advanced 10 educational technology and academic support. Id. ¶¶30-31. As part of the 11 agreement, TCS will also provide administrative and student support services, 12 marketing assistance, accounting and human resources. Id.

13 Until now, the Law School has successfully competed with rival COL by 14 keeping its tuition low and offering what many view as the superior legal education.
15 Id. ¶31. With TCS's vast resources, including its marketing savvy, the Law School
16 has no chance of continuing to differentiate itself successfully. Id. TCS and COL 17 have already begun marketing the affiliation as major advantage on their Websites 18 and at Open Houses being held at COL's campuses. *Id.*⁶

19 With the combined resources of COL and TCS, it will be much more difficult, 20 if not impossible, for the small Law School to compete. Id. ¶33. With its present 21

22 ⁶ COL's rivalry with the Law School is both long-lived and often intense. Id. ¶32.
23 At an Open House held on October 19, 2010, COL's Assistant Dean Barbara Doyle
24 emphatically discouraged prospective law students from attending the Law School 25 exclaiming, "Oh no, no, no, that's our competitor, don't go there!" Id. Assistant 26 Dean Doyle's presentation focused on the "advantages" of attending COL from the 27 perspective of cost and the relative value of the anticipated education, based in part 28 on TCS's affiliation, and argued that COL compared favorably to several other California law schools. Id. Notably absent from her presentation was any comparison to the Law School. Id.

1 resources, the Law School cannot possibly offer the services promised by COL to 2 current and prospective students or match TCS's likely administrative and 3 technological innovations. Id. Not only is TCS-COL wealthy and resource rich, 4 they are armed with the Law School's misappropriated Information and best strategic 5 thinking of its deans, faculty and Board placing the Law School at a distinct 6 competitive disadvantage. Id. ¶34. To the extent the Law School's confidences reveal 7 strengths, TCS and COL can now use the information to emulate the Law School's 8 strengths. Id. To the extent the misappropriated Information reveals the Law 9 School's weaknesses, they can direct their efforts at exploiting those weaknesses. Id.
10 Additionally, by unlawfully using its market power, TCS is in a position to poach on 11 current and future students of the Law School through the promise of federally 12 funded tuition loans. Id. This is even more of a threat in light of the current tight 13 credit market. *Id.*⁷

14 By contrast, had TCS sought to compete fairly, even with its wealth and 15 resources, it would be a relatively weak competitor if it were to try and start a law 16 school on its own. Id. ¶35. The barriers to entry in California for new law schools 17 are considerable, including the likelihood of a decade or more of effort to achieve 18 State Bar accreditation. Id. Prior to contacting the Law School, TCS supported 19 certain affiliated colleges and graduate schools in the fields of psychology, health 20 and human services and education. Id. ¶5. TCS did not have a prior affiliation with 21 a law school and, accordingly, did not have an expertise in operating a law school.
22 Id. California has extensive regulatory requirements for accredited law schools. In

25 ⁷ Any actual or perceived inability of the Law School to financially support itself 26 would place the Law School out of compliance with CBE's financial requirements.
27 See Rule 4.160(K) and CBE Guidelines for Accredited law School Rules 10.1 and 28 10.2 (August 28, 2009). Among other things, the Rule and Guidelines mandate that a law school maintain adequate present and anticipated financial resources to support its programs and operations.

1 addition to the lesser status accorded unaccredited schools, first year students are 2 required to take and pass the "Baby Bar" (formally, the "First Year Law Students' 3 Examination-FYLSX") before they can move ahead in school. Id. ¶35. The pass 4 rate on this exam is usually only 10 to 15 percent which can be devastating 5 financially to a new law school given the high attrition rate. Id. This is the main 6 reason why TCS sought to acquire an existing school -- a key point Figuli and other 7 TCS representatives discussed with Dean Pulle. Id.

8 The Law School has competed successfully with COL for many years and 9 welcomes increased opportunities for all students, particularly those who might 10 benefit from access to student loans and improvements in the educational process.
11 Id. ¶36. But the law should not condone wrongdoing even if the wrongdoing may 12 create social good for some. Id. To do otherwise is Machiavellian. As a result of 13 defendants' wrongdoing, the Law School will lose the ability to compete, suffer a 14 downturn in its enrollment and may go out of business. Id. Working class students 15 and the Law School's dedicated faculty and administrative staff will all fall victim to 16 defendants' misconduct masquerading as "social impact" and progress. Id.

17 III. ARGUMENT

18 A. Legal Standard Applicable To A Motion To Dismiss

19 A complaint will survive a motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P.
20 12(b)(6) when it contains "sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a claim 21 to relief that is plausible on its face." A claim has facial plausibility when the 22 plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference 23 that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S. Ct.
24 1937, 1949 (2009); Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 556, 570 (2007). This 25 does not impose a probability requirement at the pleading stage, but instead simply 26 calls for enough facts to raise a reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal 27 evidence of the necessary element. Id. In ruling on a motion to dismiss, courts view 28 all allegations in the complaint in the light most favorable to the non-moving party

1 and accept all material allegations-as well as any reasonable inferences to be drawn 2 from them-as true. William O. Gilley Enters., Inc. v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 588
3 F.3d 659, 662 (9thCir. 2009) (per curiam); Broam v. Bogan, 320 F.3d 1023, 1028 4 (9th Cir. 2003).⁸ Overall, motions to dismiss for failure to state a claim are 5 “disfavored” and should only be granted in “extraordinary” cases. Catch Curve, Inc.
6 v. Venali, Inc., 519 F. Supp. 2d 1028, 1034 (C.D. Cal. 2007).

7 B. The Breach of Fiduciary Duty Claim Is Properly Alleged

8 TCS is alleged to have obligated itself to a discrete set of fiduciary duties by 9 entering into the NDA. TCS breached those duties by: (a) keeping the Law School's 10 confidential Information in its possession and refusing to certify the destruction of 11 the Information; (b) misusing the Information, documentary and otherwise, to 12 compare the Law School to COL, facilitate its affiliation transaction with COL and 13 obtain an unfair competitive advantage over the plaintiff; (c) failing to protect the 14 confidentiality of the Information in at least the same manner as a fiduciary of the 15 Law School would do; and (e) violating its covenant not to compete against the Law 16 School by using the Information it obtained pursuant to the NDA to pursue an 17 affiliation with COL. Complaint ¶¶44, 53 and 56. In arguing for dismissal of this 18 claim, TCS asks the Court to determine that TCS did not owe any fiduciary 19

20 ⁸ In addition, Rule 12(b) motions must be considered in light of Federal Rule of 21 Civil Procedure 8(a) which only requires that a complaint contain a “short and plain 22 statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Twombly 23 expressly rejected the notion that a heightened pleading standard applies in antitrust 24 cases (550 U.S at 569, n.14), and Iqbal made clear that Rule 8's pleading standard 25 applies with the same level of rigor in all civil actions. 129 S. Ct. at 1953. See also 26 Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A., 534 U.S. 506, 512-13 (2002); Leatherman v. Tarrant

28 Charles Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice & Procedure § 1221 (3d
ed. 2004) (noting that Rule 8's pleading standard applies with the same degree of rigor “in every case, regardless of its size, complexity, or the numbers of parties that may be involved).

1 responsibility to the Law School because the NDA obligated TCS to use the Law 2 School's Information only as "if it were a fiduciary' of plaintiff." TCS Mem. at 5.
3 TCS split hairs so finely that the clause and its plain meaning are obscured. Such an 4 unreasonable construction runs afoul of applicable law. Cal. Civ. Code §1641("[t]he 5 whole of a contract is to be taken together, so as to give effect to every part, if 6 reasonably practicable, each clause helping to interpret the other."); City of El Caion 7 v. El Caion Police Officers' Assn., 49 Cal. App. 4th 64, 71 (1996) ("If possible, the 8 court should give effect to every provision. An interpretation which renders part of 9 the instrument to be surplusage should be avoided."); see also Boghos v. Certain 10 Underwriters at Lloyd's of London, 36 Cal. 4th 495, 503 (2005); Cal. Civ. Code 11 §1644 ("The words of a contract are to be understood in their ordinary and popular 12 sense....").

13 The primary case TCS relies on acknowledges that a party to a contract may 14 subject itself to fiduciary responsibility. TCS Mem. at 6 citing First Citizens 15 Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Worthen Bank & Trust Co., N.A. 919 F.2d 510, 514 16 (9th Cir. 1990) (holding that "in the context of loan participation agreements among 17 sophisticated lending institutions...fiduciary relationships should not be inferred 18 absent unequivocal contractual language..."). First Citizens discussed and cited 19 with approval Women's Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Nevada Nat'l Bank, 811 F.2d 20 1255, 1258 (9th Cir. 1987). In Woman's Fed., the defendant made the virtually 21 identical argument that TCS makes, namely that the reference to a fiduciary 22 obligation in the contract was "superfluous, and that it did not impose any 23 enforceable duties." The court rejected the argument holding: "NNB voluntarily 24 entered a contract that called for it to act 'as a trustee with fiduciary duties' toward 25 WOFED. It cannot argue now that this language has no meaning." Id.

26 Next, TCS incorrectly argues that plaintiff somehow waived any fiduciary 27 right by agreeing that TCS could pursue "business opportunities or other 28 arrangements or endeavors of any kind so long as the terms and provisions of this

1 [NDA] are maintained inviolate." TCS Mem. at 6-7 (emphasis in original). The 2 clause explicitly restricts TCS's right to pursue other opportunities, etc. to ones that 3 do not violate the NDA. Complaint ¶18. Here, the Complaint alleges multiple 4 violations of the NDA, including the misuse of the plaintiff's confidential
5 Information to pursue the COL affiliation.⁹

6 Even assuming arguendo that the meaning of the strongly-worded fiduciary 7 clause in this case is susceptible to a difference of opinion, a motion to dismiss is an 8 improper vehicle for resolving the issue. See, e.g. W. Ref. Yorktown, Inc. v. BP
9 Corp. N. Am., 618 F. Supp. 2d 513, 526-27 (E.D. Va. 2009) (Although the parties 10 attack the opposing interpretations as leading to an "ad absurdum" result, the reality 11 is that both constructions are commercially reasonable, one clearly favoring 12 Defendant as it severely restricts Plaintiff's ability to recover for environmental 13 remediation, and the other clearly favoring Plaintiff as it permits recovery for 14 cleanup costs expended many years after the Agreement was signed. Therefore, 15 Defendants cannot prevail at the 12(b)(6) stage because Defendants' construction of 16 17 ⁹ The harm created by defendants' misconduct goes beyond the misappropriation of 18 plaintiff's confidential Information. Complaint ¶29. TCS can now use the 19 Information to eliminate the Law School's ability to compete and put it out of 20 business. Id. TCS effectively gave up the right to acquire COL once it obtained 21 plaintiff's information in a fiduciary context. Id. The NDA was drafted by TCS and 22 it assumed the fiduciary role entirely on its own volition. Id. The sine qua non of 23 the Law School's release of its Information was TCS's fiduciary promise. The 24 essence of fiduciary responsibility is candor, loyalty and safeguarding trust.

25 Otherwise, deception and self-interest are likely outcomes -- the antithesis of 26 fiduciary law. In the legendary words of the Honorable Benjamin N. Cardozo:
27 "Many forms of conduct permissible in a workaday world for those acting at arm's 28 length, are forbidden to those bound by fiduciary ties. A trustee is held to something stricter than the morals of the market place. Not honesty alone, but the punctilio of an honor the most sensitive, is then the standard of behavior." Meinhard
v. Salmon, 249 N.Y. 458, 464 (1928).

1 the agreement, while reasonable, requires an inference in favor of Defendant and this 2 Court must draw all reasonable inferences in favor of Plaintiff for the purposes of 3 this motion to dismiss." (citations and quotations omitted).¹⁰

4 C. The Breach of Contract Claims Are Properly Alleged

5 TCS improperly contends (again) that the NDA should be construed to allow 6 it to affiliate with COL. TCS Mem. at 8. TCS's argument for dismissal of plaintiff's 7 claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing is premised 8 on the same erroneous ground. Id. at 9. Resolving factual issues and drawing 9 inferences in a defendant's favor is improper on a motion to dismiss. W. Ref.
10 Yorktown, Inc. v. BP Corp. N. Am., supra.

11 TCS challenges the breach of contract claim arguing incorrectly that the NDA 12 was not breached by TCS's alleged misuse and refusal to return plaintiff's 13 confidential Information because it fails to plead "a misappropriation breach" under 14 the California Uniform Trade Secrets Act ("CUTSA"). TCS Mem. at 8, n. 2. This 15 argument strains credulity by attempting to condition plaintiff's breach of contract 16 claim on proving a statutory violation. The two claims are independent. Ajaxo Inc.
17 *v. E*Trade Group Inc.*, 135 Cal. App. 4th 21, 62 n.38 (2005) ("In some cases, a 18 breach of contract cause of action may be available where disclosed information 19 does not qualify as a 'trade secret' under the UTSA (Civ. Code, § 3426 et seq.) if the 20 information is protected under a confidentiality or nondisclosure agreement....").¹¹

21
22 ¹⁰ TCS's argument that it cannot aid and abet its own fiduciary breach is a straw man 23 argument as it is alleged to be an aider and abettor of the fiduciary breaches of 24 defendants Figuli and HEG. Complaint ¶¶54-58.

25 ¹¹ TCS cites three cases involving non-disclosure agreements stating that they are 26 commonplace when a transaction between business entities is being contemplated.
27 TCS Mem. at 8-9. While this may be true, it does nothing to inform the Court as to 28 whether or not TCS breached the NDA in this case, assumed certain fiduciary duties to the plaintiff or was precluded from affiliating with COL. The NDA cases TCS cites make it clear that claims of trade secret misappropriation, breach of contract

1 Relying on authorities that limit the ability of employers to include 2 noncompetition clauses in employment agreements, TCS next argues that public 3 policy precludes it from agreeing to any form of noncompetition clause with the 4 Law School. Id. at 8-9. This argument deserves short shrift.

5 The statutory basis for TCS's argument is Business & Professions Code 6 §16600 which is interpreted to prevent an employer from contracting "to restrain a 7 former employee from engaging in his or her profession, trade, or business unless 8 the agreement falls within one of the exceptions." Edwards v. Arthur Andersen LLP, 9 44 Cal. 4th 937, 946-47 (Cal. 2008). Clearly, an employment agreement is not at 10 issue in this case. Moreover, the Edwards Court acknowledged the trade secret 11 exception to its ban on generalized noncompetition clauses in employment 12 agreements. Id. at 946, n.4. In The Retirement Group v. Galante, 176 Cal. App. 4th 13 1226, 1238 (2009), the court explained California law as follows: "We distill from 14 the foregoing cases that section 16600 bars a court from specifically enforcing (by 15 way of injunctive relief) a contractual clause purporting to ban a former employee 16 from soliciting former customers to transfer their business away from the former 17 employer to the employee's new business, but a court may enjoin tortious conduct 18 (as violative of either the Uniform Trade Secrets Act (Civ. Code, § 3426 et seq.) 19 and/or the unfair competition law) by banning the former employee from using trade 20 secret information to identify existing customers, to facilitate the solicitation of such 21 customers, or to otherwise unfairly compete with the former employer."

22 Similarly, in Whyte v. Schlage Lock Co., 101 Cal. App. 4th 1443 (2002), the 23 court rejected the inevitable disclosure doctrine which precludes an employee from 24 taking a job that "will inevitably lead him to rely on the plaintiff's trade secrets."

25
26 and other violations of law may arise out of the misuse of information provided 27 pursuant to a nondisclosure agreement. *See e.g., Ajaxo Inc. v. E*Trade Group Inc.*, 28 187 Cal. App. 4th 1295 (2010).

1 PepsiCo, Inc. v. Redmond, 54 F.3d 1262, 1269 (7th Cir. 1995) (stating that unless 2 the employee has "an uncanny ability to compartmentalize information" the 3 employee will necessarily rely--consciously or subconsciously--upon knowledge of 4 the former employer's trade secrets in performing his or her new job duties.). Thus, 5 the doctrine relieves the employer from making a showing of actual or threatened 6 misappropriation. In rejecting the doctrine, the Whyte court reasoned:

7 "The doctrine of inevitable disclosure thus rewrites the employment agreement and 8 such retroactive alterations distort the terms of the employment relationship and 9 upset the balance which courts have attempted to achieve in construing non-compete 10 agreements. The result...is "the imperceptible shift in bargaining power that 11 necessarily occurs upon the commencement of an employment relationship marked 12 by the execution of a confidentiality agreement. When that relationship eventually 13 ends, the parties' confidentiality agreement may be wielded as a restrictive covenant, 14 depending on how the employer views the new job its former employee has 15 accepted. This can be a powerful weapon in the hands of an employer; the risk of 16 litigation alone may have a chilling effect on the employee."
17 101 Cal. App. 4th at 1463 (citations and quotations omitted).

18 On the other hand, Whyte recognized that narrowly drafted restrictive covenants are 19 permissible to the extent necessary to protect an employer's trade secrets. 101 Cal.
20 App. 4th at 1462-1463.

21 Restricting TCS from affiliating with COL after acquiring plaintiff's 22 confidential Information is a reasonable limitation on TCS's business activities as it 23 merely requires TCS to honor its own contract and comply with the law.

24 D. The CUTSA Claim is Proper

25 TCS argues incorrectly that the Complaint fails to plead that the confidential 26 Information it misappropriated constitutes trade secrets. TCS Mem. at 10-11. The 27 Complaint identifies the financial, strategic and regulatory documents provided to 28 TCS and the type of information revealed to TCS over the course of the parties' discussions spanning a two month period. Such information included candid details

1 about the Law School's academic program, faculty, students, enrollment, strengths 2 and weaknesses in its operations, marketing and recruitment strategies and its plans 3 for competing with COL. Information found to be trade secrets is extremely broad 4 and includes any business data which, if kept secret, provides the holder with an 5 economic advantage over a competitor. Cal. Civ. Code § 3426.1, subd. (d); Morlife, 6 Inc. v. Perry, 56 Cal. App. 4th 1514, 1520-1522 (1997). The NDA admits that the 7 information the plaintiff was to provide constitutes "proprietary, trade secret and 8 confidential information...." Complaint ¶17.

9 TCS seeks to obfuscate its alleged wrongdoing by arguing that there are no 10 allegations that it disclosed plaintiff's trade secrets to another person. TCS Mem. at 11 11-12. To the contrary, the central theory of the case is that TCS misappropriated 12 plaintiff's confidential Information and is using it to unfairly compete with the Law 13 School through an affiliation with COL. CUTSA prohibits the acquisition and use 14 of trade secrets by "improper means" which includes "theft, bribery, 15 misrepresentation, breach or inducement of a breach of a duty to maintain secrecy, 16 or espionage through electronic or other means." Civ. Code § 3426.1(a).

17 E. Negligent Misrepresentation is Properly Alleged

18 In arguing for dismissal of the negligent misrepresentation claim, TCS ignores 19 the Complaint's allegations that it falsely represented, both in the NDA and orally, 20 that it intended to become plaintiff's ally and would not pursue an affiliation with 21 COL. Complaint ¶¶63-64. Before gaining access to plaintiff's confidences, TCS 22 had a duty to disclose to the Law School that it might explore an acquisition with 23 plaintiff's rival and would consider competing with plaintiff if an agreement to 24 acquire the Law School was not reached. Id. Los Angeles Unified School District
25 v. Great American Insurance Company/Hayward Construction Company, 49 26 Cal.4th 739, 750, n. 5 (2010) (stating that a negligent misrepresentation claim may 27 be based on "[t]he suppression of a fact, by one who is bound to disclose it, or who 28

1 gives information of other facts which are likely to mislead for want of 2 communication of that fact' (Civ. Code, § 1710, subd. 3)."

3 F. CUTSA Does Not Preempt Plaintiff's Common Law Claims

4 TCS incorrectly argues that plaintiff's claims for breaches of fiduciary duty 5 and the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing are preempted by CUTSA.
6 Civil Code §3426.7 provides in part: "(b) This title does not affect (1) contractual 7 remedies, whether or not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret, (2) other 8 civil remedies that are not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret, or (3) 9 criminal remedies, whether or not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret."
10 The purportedly preempted claims are predicated on the contractual duties TCS 11 owes to the plaintiff and breaches of those duties, including its wrongful affiliation 12 with COL. The claims are not solely based on a misappropriation theory.

13 G. The Antitrust Claims Are Properly Alleged

14 Plaintiff asserts three causes of action for violations of Section 2 of the 15 Sherman Antitrust Act of 1890 (the "Sherman Act"), 15 U.S.C. § 2.¹² TSC argues 16 incorrectly that plaintiff cannot establish antitrust injury or standing.¹³ TCS wrongly 17 contends that plaintiff has not "attribute[d] any anticompetitive conduct to TCS."
18 TCS Mem. at 16. In short, TCS incorrectly theorizes that its affiliation with COL 19 will purportedly increase competition. Id. at 17.

20 To bring a Sherman Act claim and recover damages under the antitrust laws, a 21 private plaintiff must prove the existence of "antitrust injury, which is injury of the 22 type the antitrust laws were intended to prevent and that flows from that which 23

24 ¹² Plaintiff's antitrust claims are attempted monopolization, monopolization and 25 conspiracy to monopolize. Since TCS's arguments are largely the same with respect 26 to the three claims, plaintiff refers to the claims collectively as the "antitrust 27 claims."

28 ¹³ TSC's standing argument is likewise grounded on a failure to allege antitrust injury. TSC's Mem. at 18.

1 makes defendants' acts unlawful." Brunswick Corp. v. Pueblo Bowl-O-Mat, Inc., 2 429 U.S. 477, 489 (1977) (emphasis in original). "The injury should reflect the 3 anticompetitive effect either of the violation or of the anticompetitive acts made 4 possible by the violation." Brown Shoe Co. v. United States, 370 U.S. 294, 320
5 (1962) quoting Brunswick Corp., 429 U.S. at 489. "[B]ecause the Sherman Act's 6 concern is consumer welfare, antitrust injury occurs only when the claimed injury 7 flows from acts harmful to consumers." Rebel Oil Co. v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 51 8 F.3d 1421, 1445 (9th Cir. 1995).

9 Conduct that restricts consumer choice or makes the market "unresponsive to 10 consumer preference" harms consumers and results in antitrust injury. See, e.g., 11 Sullivan v. NFL, 34 F.3d 1091, 1101, & n. 3 (1st Cir. 1994); Associated General
12 Contractors of Calif., Inc. v. California State Council of Carpenters, 459 U.S. 519, 13 528 (1983) ("coercive activity that prevents its victims from making free choices 14 between market alternatives is inherently destructive of competitive conditions . .
15 ."); Theme Promotions, Inc. v. News America Mktg. FSI, 546 F.3d 991, 1004 (9th 16 Cir. 2008) (the "reduction in choice of market alternatives" is cognizable antitrust 17 injury).

18 In United States v. Syufy Enters., 903 F.2d 659 (9th Cir. 1990), the court 19 explained the harm to consumers that flows from an absence of competition:
20 "When a producer is shielded from competition, he is likely to provide lesser service 21 at a higher price; the victim is the consumer who gets a raw deal. This is the evil the 22 antitrust laws are meant to avert." 903 F.2d at 668. And, when an "agreement 23 detrimentally change[s] the market make-up and limit[s] consumers' choice to one 24 source of output" this causes the cognizable antitrust injury of "prevent[ing] its 25 victims from making free choices between market alternatives." Glen Holly Entm't, 26 Inc. v. Tektronis, Inc., 352 F.3d 367, 374 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation omitted).

27 TCS reminds the Court that "the antitrust laws were enacted for the protection 28 of competition not competitors." TCS Mem. at 2 and 15 citing Brown Shoe Co.,

1 supra. But, the “convergence of injury to a market competitor and injury to 2 competition is possible when the relevant market is both narrow and discrete and 3 the market participants are few.” Les Schockley Racing, Inc. v. Nat’l Hot Rod 4 Ass’n, 884 F.2d 504, 508-09 (9th Cir. 1989) (emphasis added). Indeed, “[c]onduct that 5 eliminates rivals reduces competition.” Rebel Oil, 51 F.3d at 1433. “Elimination of 6 a single competitor may violate [the Sherman Act] if it harms competition.” E.W.
7 French & Sons, Inc. v. General Portland, Inc., 885 F.2d 1392, 1401 (9th Cir. 1989).

8 Plaintiff and COL are the only two competitors in the relevant market.
9 Complaint ¶¶ 3, 8, 12, 32, 36. Plaintiff maintains the lowest tuition rates and offers 10 an academically rigorous education. Id. COL has the greater market share of 11 students with an estimated 71% share as compared to plaintiff which has only 29%.
12 Id. ¶80. As a result of TSC’s affiliation and misappropriation of plaintiff’s trade 13 secrets, COL and TCS are poised to increase that market share significantly and 14 eliminate the lower cost provider of law school education in the relevant market.
15 Since the barriers to entry are so great no other law school stands a chance of filling 16 in the breach leaving TCS/COL as the only option available to law students.
17 Complaint ¶¶ 35, 78.

18 Where the relevant market is discrete and the market participants so few, 19 TSC’s exclusionary domination of the only other competitor could and no doubt will 20 have an injurious effect on competition in the law school market and on current and 21 future law students. In Axiom Advisers & Consultants, Inc. v. School Innovations & 22 Advocacy, Inc., No. 05-Cv-02395, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11404, at *23 (E.D. Cal.
23 March 20, 2006), the court held that an allegation which stated, “[defendant’s] 24 conduct has injured competition and consumers and that its acts have an 25 anticompetitive effect of harming the competitive process, limiting consumer choice, 26 and harming consumers” was sufficient to plead antitrust injury. Plaintiffs’ 27 complaint is far more detailed. Complaint ¶¶ 27-36; 81-83.

1 Actual injury need not occur for plaintiff to seek an equitable remedy from the 2 courts. Zenith Radio Corp. v. Hazeltine Research, Inc., 395 U.S. 100, 130 (1969)
3 (“[Section] 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26, which was enacted by the 4 Congress to make available equitable remedies previously denied private parties, 5 invokes traditional principles of equity and authorizes injunctive relief upon the 6 demonstration of ‘threatened’ injury. . .; he need only demonstrate a significant 7 threat of injury from the impending violation of the antitrust laws or from a 8 contemporary violation likely to continue or recur.” (emphasis added)).¹⁴ In other 9 words, a plaintiff such as the Law School need not wait to be driven out of business 10 before seeking equitable relief in the form of an injunction. Rather, it is sufficient to 11 allege, as plaintiff has done, that the affiliation between TCS and COL presents a 12 significant threat of injury. Complaint ¶¶ 30-34; 81-83.¹⁵

13 TCS’s remaining challenges to the antitrust claims are meritless. First, 14 plaintiff alleges that COL and the Law School affect interstate commerce in that, 15 among other things, the schools use instrumentalities of interstate commerce to 16 advertise and market themselves, enroll students who come to California from other 17 states for the purpose of attending the schools and graduates from the schools 18 sometimes pursue careers in other states. Id. ¶ 78. Further, plaintiff alleges that 19 TCS which is headquartered in Chicago, Illinois, has over 4,000 students at TCS-20 affiliated campuses in Chicago, Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, Irvine, Pasadena,

21
22 ¹⁴ Injunctive relief may be granted even where an antitrust plaintiff fails to prove 23 actual damages or lacks standing to sue for damages. Cargill, Inc. v. Monfort of Colorado, Inc., 479 U.S. 104, 112 (1986).

24 ¹⁵ Thus, TCS’s argument that plaintiff lacks standing because it has only alleged 25 prospective injuries lacks merit. Here, plaintiff is seeking injunctive relief primarily 26 – relief that the Clayton Act permits. TCS’s reliance on Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Comm’n v. Nat’l Football League, 634 F.2d 1197 (9th Cir. 1980) is 27 completely misplaced because that case involved the propriety of the district court’s 28 grant of a preliminary injunction, not the question of whether plaintiff has adequately plead antitrust injury sufficient to show standing.

1 Santa Barbara and elsewhere. Id. ¶ 5. Indeed the very affiliation of TCS – an 2 Illinois corporation formed for the purpose of acquiring and affiliating with 3 specialized colleges in an array of locations and COL, a California accredited law 4 school, is a transaction that affects interstate commerce.

5 The foregoing allegations are similar to those found sufficient to satisfy the 6 interstate commerce requirement in Hamilton Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi, Inc. v.
7 Hamilton College, 128 F.3d 59, 66 (2nd Cir. 1997). There the court held that the 8 plaintiff fraternities alleged facts to support a nexus between the allegedly illegal 9 conduct -- Hamilton College’s monopolization of residential services for its students 10 -- and interstate commerce based on allegations that the college solicited 11 applications from around the United States and accepted students from other states.
12 See also Camps Newfound/Owatonna, Inc. v. Town of Harrison, 520 U.S. 564 13 (1997) (non-profit summer camp, catering to out-of-state residents is 14 “unquestionably engaged in commerce”).

15 Second, contrary to TCS’s claim, plaintiff has alleged that TCS has the power 16 to control prices and exclude competition. See, e.g., Complaint ¶¶ 30, 31, 33 17 (allegations that TCS will seek WASC accreditation so as to bring access to federal 18 student financial aid programs to COL; the affiliation will add new resources to 19 COL generating economies of scale; TCS will provide administrative and student 20 services, marketing assistance, accounting and human resources and TCS and COL 21 will annually decide on major budget and strategic issues).

22 Third, plaintiff has alleged a welter of wrongful acts and the “willful 23 acquisition” of monopoly power. TCS wrongfully misappropriated plaintiff’s 24 confidential Information and has used that information to combine with COL – 25 plaintiff’s sole competitor and the one that has and will continue to maintain over 26 70% of the market share. Complaint ¶¶ 16-29; 34; 80-81. See, e.g., Hunt-Wesson
27 Foods, Inc. v. Ragu Foods, Inc., 627 F.2d 919, 925 (9th Cir. 1980) (generally a 28 market share of at least 65% is sufficient to establish monopoly power if barriers to

1 market entry exist). By affiliating with COL, TCS has achieved monopoly power in 2 the relevant market -- a market with significant barriers to entry. Complaint ¶¶ 30-3 36; 78, 80-82. The threat of injury arises from a violation of the antitrust laws not, 4 as TCS maintains, harm from the misappropriation of plaintiff's trade secrets.

5 Fourth, TCS's argument that plaintiff has not alleged a specific intent to 6 monopolize is completely unfounded. Plaintiff has alleged that TCS first 7 approached Law School, which has 29% of the market share, and only after having 8 obtained Law School's confidential business information, turned around and 9 affiliated with Law School's sole competitor which has 71% of the market share. A 10 fair inference to be drawn for those facts alone is that TCS intended to monopolize 11 the market for law school education in the region.¹⁶

12 IV. CONCLUSION

13 For all of the foregoing reasons and authorities, plaintiff respectfully requests 14 that the Court deny TCS's motion to dismiss in its entirety. Alternatively, plaintiff 15 requests leave to amend if any of its claims are found deficient.

26 ¹⁶ TCS seizes on a standard agency allegation in the Complaint and contends that 27 because all defendants are alleged to be agents of one another plaintiff is pleading 28 single firm monopolization. TCS Mem. at 23. Fairly read, the Complaint alleges separate actors and conspiratorial conduct.
