UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

JASON ANDREW SMITH,

Petitioner,

v.

J.W. KATAVICH, Warden,

Respondent.

Case No. CV 13-1262 AB (AFM)

ORDER ACCEPTING FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS OF
UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE
JUDGE

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636, the Court has reviewed the Petition, records on file and the Report and Recommendation of United States Magistrate Judge. Further, the Court has engaged in a de novo review of those portions of the Report to which the parties have made objections. The Court accepts the Report, with the following exception.

After the Report and Recommendation was issued, the Supreme Court held in Johnson v. Lee, 136 S. Ct. 1802, 1805-06 (May 31, 2016), that California's Dixon rule is an adequate state procedural rule that bars federal habeas review. In light of Johnson v. Lee, the Report and Recommendation is ordered changed as

1 follows: (1) The sentence on page 14, line 27 to page 15, line 1 is stricken; and (2)
2 Section A, at page 9, line 17 to page 10, line 16, is replaced as follows:

3 A. Grounds Two and Three are arguably procedurally
4 defaulted.

5 Respondent contends that Grounds Two and Three —
6 instructional error and insufficiency of the evidence — are
7 procedurally defaulted because the California Court of Appeal rejected
8 it on independent and adequate state law procedural grounds,
9 specifically, California’s “Dixon rule.” (Ans. Mem. at 12-15.) In this
10 case, the Court of Appeal did not cite Dixon itself, but cited three other
11 cases<sup>1</sup> which Respondent says stand for the same proposition as Dixon,
12 namely that habeas corpus cannot stand as a substitute for appeal.

13 In order for a claim to be procedurally defaulted for federal 14 habeas corpus purposes, “the application of the state procedural rule 15 must provide ‘an adequate and independent state law basis’ on which 16 the state court can deny relief.” Park v. California, 202 F.3d 1146,
17 1151 (9th Cir. 2000). “For a state procedural rule to be ‘independent,’ 18 the state law basis for the decision must not be interwoven with federal 19 law.” La Crosse v. Kernan, 244 F.3d 702, 704 (9th Cir. 2001); 20 Morales v. Calderon, 85 F.3d 1387, 1393 (9th Cir. 1996) (“Federal
21 habeas review is not barred if the state decision ‘fairly appears to rest
22 primarily on federal law, or to be interwoven with the federal law.’”).
23 In order for a state procedural bar to be “adequate,” the state courts
24 must employ a “firmly established and regularly followed state
25 practice.” Ford v. Georgia, 498 U.S. 411, 423-24 (1991).

26
27 <sup>1</sup> In re Harris, 5 Cal.4th 813, 826 (1993), In re Clark, 5 Cal. 4th 750, 765 (1993),
28 and In re Waltreus, 62 Cal. 2d 218, 225 (1965).

1 Under In re Dixon, 41 Cal. 2d 756, 759 (1953), habeas corpus
2 cannot serve as a substitute for appeal and absent special
3 circumstances, habeas relief is not available for a claimed error that
4 could have been, but was not raised on direct appeal. In In re Robbins,
5 18 Cal. 4th 770, 811-12 (1998), the California Supreme Court
6 explicitly held that it would no longer consider whether an error
7 alleged in a state habeas corpus petition constituted a federal
8 constitutional violation. In other words, if the California Supreme 9 Court finds a claim to be procedurally defaulted after Robbins was 10 decided, it has done so solely upon state law grounds. Id. Here,
11 petitioner's state habeas corpus petition was denied by the California
12 Court of Appeal in June 2012, 14 years after Robbins was decided.
13 Accordingly, the California Court of Appeal's denial of the petition
14 was necessarily predicated only upon consideration of state law issues,
15 rendering the ruling an independent procedural bar. See, e.g., Franklin
16 v. Walker, 2009 WL 5215371, at *5 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 28, 2009) (finding 17 Dixon rule to be independent when the default was applied subsequent 18 to the Robbins decision), Report and Recommendation adopted by 19 2010 WL 431733 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 2, 2010); Craft v. Yates, 2009 WL
20 3486303, at *5 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 23, 2009) (Tallman, R., Circuit Judge 21 sitting by designation) (same); Protsman v. Pliler, 318 F. Supp. 2d
22 1004, 1006-08 (S.D. Cal. 2004) (same).

23 Whether the procedural bar imposed was adequate in addition to 24 being independent depends on whether it was “clear, consistently
25 applied, and well-established at the time of the petitioner's purported
26 default.” Robinson v. Ignacio, 360 F.3d 1044, 1052 (9th Cir. 2004).
27 The Supreme Court has held that California's Dixon rule is well-
28

1 established and regularly followed, and therefore adequate to bar
2 federal habeas review. See Johnson v. Lee, 136 S. Ct. 1802, 1805-06
3 (2016) (per curiam).

4 Consequently, federal habeas review of Grounds Two and Three
5 is barred, unless petitioner can demonstrate cause for his procedural 6 default and actual prejudice as a result of the alleged violation of 7 federal law. See Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 750 (1991);
8 Smith v. Baldwin, 510 F.3d 1127, 1146 (9th Cir. 2007); Bennett v.
9 Mueller, 322 F.3d 573, 580 (9th Cir. 2003); Park, 202 F.3d at 1150.
10 Here, petitioner has not purported to make either showing.

11 The Supreme Court has recognized an exception to the 12 requirement that the petitioner demonstrate both “cause” and 13 “prejudice,” where the petitioner can demonstrate that failure to 14 consider the procedurally defaulted claim will result in a fundamental 15 miscarriage of justice because he is actually innocent of the crimes of 16 which he was convicted. See, e.g., Coleman, 501 U.S. at 750; Murray
17 v. Carrier, 477 U.S. 478, 496 (1986); Smith, 510 F.3d at 1139; Noltie
18 v. Peterson, 9 F.3d 802, 806 (9th Cir. 1993). As discussed in Section
19 C of the Report and Recommendation, petitioner has not demonstrated 20 that failure to consider his claims in Grounds Two and Three will 21 result in a fundamental miscarriage of justice based on actual
22 innocence. The merits of Grounds Two and Three are also considered
23 and denied in Sections E and B of the Report and Recommendation.

24 IT THEREFORE IS ORDERED that (1) the Report and Recommendation of 25 the Magistrate Judge is accepted and adopted; (2) petitioner’s request for an 26

27 ///

1 evidentiary hearing is denied; and (3) Judgment shall be entered dismissing this
2 action with prejudice.
