SPECIFIC TEXT TO STRIKE FROM CROSS-MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT (Dkt. 182)

2:13	2:15	“On December 9, 1935, Summy published two versions of Happy Birthday to You that included lyrics and obtained registration certificates E51988 and E51990. Exs. 101, 103.”
2:19	2:20	“ Id. Forman also arranged the music for the 51988 version. Ex. 103.
2:19	2:20	“Forman also arranged the music for the 51988 version. Ex. 103.”
2:22	2:23	“The music for this version was arranged by Preston Ware Orem, another Summy employee. Ex. 101.”
2:24	2:26	“On December 6, 1962, Summy-Birchard Co.—Summy’s successor—renewed these copyrights. Exs. 120 [sic, should be 102], 104.”
6:11	6:13	Certificate E51990 establishes prima facie that Warner/Chappell has a copyright in Happy Birthday to You ’s “ words ” and “ text ”—what the undisputed evidence shows to be the “familiar lyrics.” Ex. 101.”
6:18	6:21	“If any further proof were needed—and it is not—it is supplied by certificate E51988, registered the exact same day by Clayton F. Summy, Warner/Chappell’s predecessor, which refers to an “arrangement of unison chorus” and “revised text.” Ex. 103.”
6:22	7:1	“The only ‘revised text’ therein is the ‘second verse.’ Thus, the unrevised text is, and can only be, the ‘familiar lyrics,’ which were registered the same day in E51990. Plaintiffs, who bear the burden proof, have no admissible evidence rebutting the certificates.”
6:27	6:28	“Warner/Chappell has submitted admissible copies of the registrations from the Copyright Office. Exs. 101, 103, 107 at 109 at 1553-54, 1561 (Blietz Dep.), 125.”

15:7	15:10	“Certificates E51990 and E51988 each identify Mildred J. Hill as the author of Happy Birthday to You . Exs. 101, 103. This is prima facie evidence that Mildred authored the lyrics of Happy Birthday to You and that the lyrics were original to her.”
15:12	15:15	“Plaintiffs object to Warner/Chappell’s registration certificates, which Warner/Chappell received from the Copyright Office and which include official Copyright Office cover pages that state ‘Copy of Registration.’”
16:23	17:1	Warner/Chappell’s copyright certificates constitute prima facie evidence that Summy was authorized to copyright Happy Birthday to You .”
35:22	36:1	“Certificate E51990 describes the publication of Happy Birthday to You as “pf., with words” and states that “© is claimed on arrangement as easy piano solo with text .” Ex.101 (emphasis added). Certificate E51988 states, with respect to that publication of Happy Birthday to You , that “© is claimed on arrangement for unison chorus and revised text .” Ex. 103 (emphasis added). The plain language of these certificates demonstrates that the copyrights cover the lyrics to the songs, and not simply the arrangements.”
36:14	36:21	“Certificate E51990 covers “arrangement as easy piano solo with text ,” while certificate E51988 covers “arrangement for unison chorus” and ‘ revised text .’ Exs. 101, 103. As discussed above, if the ‘revised text’ in E51988 is the second verse of Happy Birthday to You , then the ‘text’ claimed in E51990 (on the same day) must have been the ‘familiar,’ first verse of Happy Birthday to You . “Warner/Chappell’s certificates are prima facie evidence that Summy had the right to copyright these lyrics.”
38:4	38:6	“It is the registration certificates—both of which identify Mildred J. Hill as the author of the work—and not the applications—that receive the statutory presumption. 17 U.S.C. § 410(c); see Exs. 101, 103.”
40:3	40:4	“In 1935, Summy published only two versions of Happy Birthday to You with lyrics. Exs.101, 103 . . . .”

40:7	40:8	“The other version contains only the familiar lyrics, and bears the publication number 3075. Ex. 106.”
40:13	41:1	Because there is no evidence that Summy published other lyrical versions of Happy Birthday to You in 1935, publication 3075, which was not submitted in connection with E51988, must have been submitted in connection with E51990. “The information on publication 3075 also corresponds with the Copyright Office’s record of the work deposited for E51990. The cover of publication 3075 contains the title ‘Piano Solo with words,’ which is the exact same phrase that appears in the Copyright Office deposit record for E51990, down to the capitalization of the first two words only, and which is different from the description in the application and the certificate (which include the phrases ‘pf., with words’ and ‘Arrangement as easy piano solo, with text’). . . . 103 (certificate) . . . 106 (3075 publication).”
41:2	41:10	“in completing the deposit record for E51990, the Copyright Office was actually looking at the deposit copy, which was Summy publication 3075. Other information on publication 3075 matches the description contained in the deposit record for E51990. The title of publication 3075, as shown above the sheet music, is ‘Happy Birthday to You!’—with an exclamation mark. Ex. 106. The deposit record likewise lists an exclamation mark, which was not at the end of the title on the application or the title on the certificate. Exs. 48, 103, 105. The statement ‘by Mildred J. Hill’ also appears on both the cover of publication 3075 and the deposit record for E51990. Exs. 105-06.”
41:16	41:18	“(1) an original version, which was deposited for 51990, that contains only the familiar lyrics to the song, and claims copyright in the entirety of those lyrics (‘© is claimed on arrangement on easy piano solo with text’). . . .”
43:7	43:9	As shown above, the evidence conclusively demonstrates that the E51990 deposit copy contained the familiar lyrics for Happy Birthday to You .”

43:11	43:12	“Here, there is no suggestion of any defect with the deposit copies submitted for E51990.”
48:13	48:15	“On December 9, 1935, Summy Co. deposited in the Copyright Office two copies of each of the works published in connection with E51990 and E51988. Exs. 101, 103.”
48:18	48:21	“the evidence shows that the only other 1935 publication of Happy Birthday to You that contained words aside from the E51988 deposit copy also contained the term “Copyright,” the name of the proprietor, and the year in which copyright was secured. Ex. 106 . . . .”
50:7	50:9.	“The undisputed evidence demonstrates that, at the time of the 1988 acquisition, Warner-Chappell’s predecessor-in-interest was “100% owned by its chairman, David K. Sengstack.” Ex 119. at 1761.”
