 25 The Court, having reviewed the parties' Stipulation for Protective Order 26 regarding documents pertaining to the ships identified in the attached Exhibit A, and 27 having considered the relevant factors, hereby finds good cause to maintain the 28 confidentiality of the subject materials.

1 IT IS ORDERED that all parties signing the Stipulation for Protective Order re
2 Ship Documents are bound to its terms, and that pursuant to the aforementioned
3 Stipulation, the relevant documents pertaining to the ships identified in the attached
4 Exhibit A shall be marked and disclosed in full compliance with the applicable U.S.
5 Export Administration Regulations (“EAR”), the International Traffic in Arms
6 Regulations (“ITAR”), and the export control laws of the U.S. Government 7 (documents and information subject to such laws are referred to collectively as 8 “export controlled documentation”), as set forth in the Stipulation. The terms of the 9 Stipulation and this Order shall supplement the terms of the Protective Order already 10 in place in this action [Doc. No. 86] and not alter or affect the terms of that prior 11 Protective Order as applied to non-EAR and/or ITAR documents, information, and 12 materials.

13 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all disputes over the designation of any 14 document, as set forth in paragraph 5 of the Stipulation, shall be brought before this 15 Court in a regularly-noticed motion in accordance with the local rules.

16 IT IS SO ORDERED.

17 Dated: March 16, 2017

The Honorable George Wu
Judge of the United States District Court for the Central District of California
