GIGANEWS, INC., a Texas Corporation;
LIVEWIRE SERVICES, INC., a Nevada
Corporation,

Plaintiffs,

v.

PERFECT 10, INC., a California
Corporation; NORMAN ZADA, in individual; and DOES 1-50, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No.: 2:17-cv-05075-AB (JPR)

[PROPOSED] FINAL JUDGMENT

Courtroom: 7B
Judge: Hon. André Birotte, Jr.

1 On April 3, 2019, the jury entered a special verdict after trial. The Court now
2 issues its final judgment as follows:

3 1. Plaintiffs Giganews, Inc. and Livewire Services, Inc. are entitled to 4 judgment against both defendants Perfect 10, Inc., and Norman Zada, jointly and 5 severally, on the plaintiffs' first cause of action for actual fraudulent transfer in the 6 amount of $454,000.00 in compensatory damages and $746,000.00 in punitive 7 damages.

8 2. Plaintiffs are further entitled to prejudgment interest from both 9 defendants, jointly and severally, at seven percent per annum pursuant to Cal. Civil 10 Code § 3287(a) and Cal. Const. art. XV § 1 on the compensatory damages
11 ($454,000) from May 13, 2015, to the date the jury entered its verdict, April 3, 12 2019, for an additional amount of $123,712.26 ($87.06 per day for 1,421 days).

13 3. Plaintiffs are also entitled to prejudgment interest from both 14 defendants, jointly and severally, on the entire award ($1,200,000.00, including 15 compensatory and punitive damages) from the date of the verdict, April 3, 2019, to 16 the date the Court enters this final judgment. This amounts to $230.13 per day for 17 174 days, totaling an additional $40,042.62.

18 4. Defendants are entitled to judgment on the plaintiffs' second and third
19 causes of action for constructive fraudulent transfer and for transfer of property
20 without transfer of possession.

21 5. The Court will address costs in accordance with Fed. R. Civ. P.
22 54(d)(1) and Civ. L.R. 54-1.

23 6. Plaintiffs are also entitled to postjudgment interest from the date of this 24 Judgment, at the prevailing federal rate.
