

U.S. 289, 300 (2013). And although Petitioner further contends that he raised an 1 ineffective assistance of counsel claim on direct appeal that went unaddressed by 2 the California courts, the record shows, to the contrary, that Petitioner did not raise 3 a freestanding claim of ineffective assistance of counsel on direct appeal. 4 (Lodgment No. 6 at 3-7.) Rather, he raised such a claim in his state habeas petition 5 6 before the California Supreme Court (Lodgment No. 12 at 5, 7), which summarily denied it (Lodgment No. 13). The mere fact that the California Supreme Court 7 issued a summary denial on collateral review, without a statement of reasons, 8 9 affords no basis for federal habeas relief. See Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. 86, 99 (2011) ("[R]equiring a statement of reasons could undercut state practices 10 designed to preserve the integrity of the case-law tradition. The issuance of 11 summary dispositions in many collateral attack cases can enable a state judiciary to 12 concentrate its resources on the cases where opinions are most needed."). 13

Next, Petitioner asserts that his counsel was ineffective at trial for a number of reasons. These reasons are discussed thoroughly in the Magistrate Judge's Report and Recommendation. However, in light of Petitioner's objections, the Court emphasizes a number of points that bear repeating.

First, Petitioner objects that his counsel failed to call witnesses on his behalf 18 during the trial. (ECF No. 32 at 6.) As discussed in the Report, even if Petitioner 19 20 had proven that such witnesses were willing to testify (which he did not prove), Petitioner failed to rebut the presumption that counsel exercised reasonable 21 professional judgment in declining to call witnesses. Moreover, Petitioner fails to 22 establish prejudice: testimony by potential witnesses Fred Castillo, Cornell 23 Hamptom, or Rashawn Mason that they saw a red or burgundy car drive by near the 24 time of the shooting would only challenge eyewitness testimony that there were no 25 26 other cars driving by the crime scene at this time. It does not challenge other critical portions of testimony by the main eyewitness Watson, who identified 27 Petitioner as the person who backed out of the victim's car immediately after the 28 shots were fired, described Petitioner's appearance by age and gait, and identified Petitioner's car by license plate as it drove away. It also does not challenge the positive identification of Petitioner's car by eyewitnesses Jessie and Stinson.

Further, the proposed testimony would be cumulative of a 911 call made by 4 Stinson shortly after the incident. This call, in which Mason can be heard referring 5 6 to a burgundy car driving by, was played before the jury. In other words, the jury heard the evidence that Petitioner claims would have cast a reasonable doubt 7 concerning his guilt or innocence. See Tinsley v. Borg, 895 F.2d 520, 532 (9th Cir. 8 1990). Thus, Petitioner does not point to any evidence or proposed testimony from 9 these three witnesses creating a reasonable probability of a different outcome. See 10 Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 694 (1984). 11

Second, Petitioner objects that his counsel was ineffective for failing to 12 explain to the jury that the evidence of a jailhouse phone call between Petitioner 13 and his girlfriend involved a discussion about Petitioner's arrest for buying drugs, 14 rather than an admission of premeditation for murder. (ECF No. 32 at 4-6.) At 15 trial, Petitioner's counsel pointed out to the jury the ambiguity in the jailhouse 16 phone call. Although Petitioner's girlfriend offered a declaration explaining the 17 jailhouse phone call (ECF No. 21 at 25-26), this evidence was not a part of the state 18 court record. Thus, contrary to Petitioner's assertion that the declaration "could 19 have been considered" (ECF No. 32 at 5), it could not. See Cullen v. Pinholster, 20 563 U.S. 170, 182 (2011) ("[T]he record under review is limited to the record in 21 existence at the same time i.e., the record before the state court."). In any event, as 2.2 Petitioner apparently concedes, his girlfriend's declaration had "very little impact." 23 (ECF No. 32 at 5.) In her declaration, Petitioner's girlfriend did not corroborate 24 Petitioner's assertion that the jailhouse phone call involved a discussion about his 25 drug arrest. To the contrary, she stated that they had "never discussed anything that 26 has to do with any kind of criminal activity." (ECF No. 21 at 25.) The Court 27 cannot find that this amounts to ineffective assistance of counsel. 28

1 Finally, Petitioner's argument that his counsel was ineffective for failing to 2 tell the jury that the murder weapon was used in another crime one year after 3 Petitioner's arrest is unavailing. However, Petitioner cannot rebut the "strong 4 presumption" that his counsel made a strategic decision to avoid presenting this 5 evidence, because the murder weapon had also been used three weeks prior to the 6 murder. See Richter, 562 U.S. at 109–10. Witnesses to the earlier murder 7 described the shooter's car as similar to Petitioner's car. Moreover, cell phone 7 records placed Petitioner in the area where the murder occurred. Thus, Petitioner's 7 outset of the murder weapon, so as to prevent the prosecutor from introducing the 7 damaging evidence of the earlier murder. 7 In sum, Petitioner's objections (ECF No. 32) are overruled. 7 11 STHEREFORE ORDERED that [1] Petitioner's request for an extension 7 of time to file objections (ECF No. 27) is accepted and adopted; 7 and [3] Judgment shall be entered denying the Petition and dismissing this action 7 with prejudice. 7 January 19, 2022 7 January 19, 2022 7 January 19, 2022
