UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

YURI DOERING

Plaintiff(s),

v.

JUAN MORALES, et al.

Defendant(s).

Case No.

2:24-cv-11097-WLH-RAO

STATE LAW CLAIMS

The Complaint filed in this action asserts a claim for injunctive relief arising out of an alleged violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act (the “ADA”) and claim for damages pursuant to California’s Unruh Civil Rights Act (the “Unruh Act”), Cal. Civ. Code §§ 51-53. In the Complaint, Plaintiff requests the court exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the Unruh Act claim pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367.

The United States Supreme Court has recognized supplemental jurisdiction “is a doctrine of discretion, not of plaintiff’s right, and that district courts can decline to exercise jurisdiction over pendent claims for a number of valid reasons.” City of Chi. v. Int’l Coll. of Surgeons, 522 U.S. 156, 172 (1997)

1 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).

2 The supplemental jurisdiction statute codifies these principles. After 3 establishing that supplemental jurisdiction encompasses “other claims” in the same
4 case or controversy as a claim within the district courts’ original jurisdiction,
5 § 1367(a), the statute confirms the discretionary nature of supplemental
6 jurisdiction by enumerating the circumstances in which district courts can refuse
7 its exercise:

8 (c) The district courts may decline to exercise supplemental 9 jurisdiction over a claim under subsection (a) if --

- 10 (1) the claim raises a novel or complex issue of State law,
11 (2) the claim substantially predominates over the claim or claims
12 over which the district court has original jurisdiction,
13 (3) the district court has dismissed all claims over which it has 14 original jurisdiction, or
15 (4) in exceptional circumstances, there are other compelling reasons for declining jurisdiction.

16 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c).

17 Depending on a host of factors, then -- including the circumstances of the 18 particular case, the nature of the state law claims, the character of the governing
19 state law, and the relationship between the state and federal claims -- district
20 courts may decline to exercise jurisdiction over supplemental state law claims.
21 The statute thereby reflects the understanding that, when deciding whether to 22 exercise supplemental jurisdiction, “a federal court should consider and weigh 23 in each case, and at every stage of the litigation, the values of judicial economy, 24 convenience, fairness, and comity.” Id. at 173 (quoting Carnegie-Mellon Univ.
25 v. Cohill, 484 U.S. 343, 350 (1988)); see also Acri v. Varian Assocs., 114 F.3d
26 999, 1000 (9th Cir. 1997) (recognizing district courts have discretion to decline 27 to exercise supplemental jurisdiction under § 1367(c)).

1 In 2012, California adopted a heightened pleading standard for lawsuits
2 brought under the Unruh Act to combat the influx of baseless claims and
3 vexatious litigation in the disability access litigation sphere. Cal. Code Civ. Proc.
4 § 425.50. The stricter pleading standard requires a plaintiff bringing construction-
5 access claims<sup>1</sup> to file a verified complaint alleging specific facts concerning the 6 plaintiff’s claim, including the specific barriers encountered or how the plaintiff
7 was deterred and each date on which the plaintiff encountered each barrier or 8 was deterred. See id. § 425.50(a). California also imposed a “high-frequency 9 litigant fee” in 2015 in response to the “special and unique circumstances”
10 presented by certain plaintiffs and law firms filing an outsized number of Unruh
11 Act lawsuits. Cal. Gov’t Code § 70616.5.

12 In recognition of California’s efforts to reduce the abuse of California’s 13 disability access laws, district courts within the state have determined that the 14 interests of fairness and comity counsel against exercising supplemental jurisdiction
15 over construction-access claims brought under the Unruh Act. See, e.g., Schutza
16 v. Cuddeback 262 F. Supp. 3d 1025, 1031 (S.D. Cal. 2017) (“[T]he Court finds it
17 would be improper to allow Plaintiff [a high frequency litigant] to use federal court
18 as an end-around to California’s pleading requirements. Therefore, as a matter of

1 comity, and in deference to California’s substantial interest in discouraging
2 unverified disability discrimination claims, the Court declines supplemental
3 jurisdiction over Plaintiff’s Unruh Act claim.”).

4 In light of the foregoing, the Court ORDERS Plaintiff to show cause in writing
5 why the court should exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the Unruh Act claim
6 and any related state law claims. See 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c). In responding to this
7 Order to Show Cause, Plaintiff shall identify the amount of statutory damages
8 Plaintiff seeks to recover. Plaintiff and his or her counsel also shall support their
9 responses to the Order to Show Cause with declarations, signed under penalty
10 of perjury, providing all facts necessary for the court to determine if they satisfy
11 the definition of a “high-frequency litigant” as provided by Cal. Code Civ. Proc.
12 § 425.55(b)(1) & (2).

13 Plaintiff shall file a Response to this Order to Show Cause within fourteen 14 (14) days of this Order. Failure to timely or adequately respond to this Order to 15 Show Cause may result in the court declining to exercise supplemental jurisdiction
16 over the Unruh Act claim and any related state law claims and dismissing such 17 claim or claims without further notice, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c). The 18 Court may set a hearing on the Order to Show Cause after reviewing the 19 parties’ responses, if necessary.
