ORDER*

Plaintiffs applied for a temporary restraining order ("TRO") on August 15, 2007. Plaintiffs are Duke Facilities, Inc. ("Duke"), an immediate care facility for the mentally retarded; BNCC, Inc., d/b/a Blythe Nursing Care Center ("Blythe"), a skilled nursing facility;

* This matter was determined to be suitable for decision without oral argument. L.R. 78-230(h).

1 Chandra Crane ("Crane"), a resident at Duke; Gladys Heusdens
2 ("Heusdens"), a resident at Blythe; and the California Association of 3 Health Facilities.

4 BACKGROUND

5 The federal Medicaid program allows states to create medical 6 assistance plans that are jointly funded by the federal government and 7 state. The state plan must comply with federal law in order to 8 receive federal funding. In California, the state plan is called 9 Medi-Cal. It is administered by the State Department of Health Care
10 Services ("HCS"). A facility that provides medical assistance to an 11 eligible Medi-Cal beneficiary may submit a claim for reimbursement to 12 HCS, which in turn reimburses the provider.

13 Plaintiffs Duke and Blythe provide medical services to 14 eligible Medi-Cal beneficiaries, including Crane and Heusdens. Both
15 Duke and Blythe are long-term care facilities, which are considered
16 institutional providers (as opposed to individual practitioners, group
17 practitioners, or a shared health facility). See 42 C.F.R. §
18 447.45(b); Opp'n at 7:19-26.

19 Although California law requires that the state budget be 20 enacted by June 15, 2007, the state legislature failed to enact a 21 budget until August 21, 2007.<sup>1</sup> During this delay, HCS was without
22 formally appropriated funding. HCS continued to reimburse Medi-Cal
23 providers with $2 billion in emergency funding that had been set aside
24 in case of a budget delay. This emergency funding was soon depleted.
25 Beginning July 14, 2007, HCS ceased reimbursements to certain Medi-Cal

26 <sup>1</sup> At the time Plaintiffs applied for a TRO, the budget had not 27 yet been passed.
28

1 providers because the new state budget had not been enacted. A new
2 state budget was enacted on August 21, 2007.<sup>2</sup>

3 Duke and Blythe argue that they depend on Medi-Cal
4 reimbursements to remain in business. (Mot. at 4:1-15; 5:14-20.)
5 They argue that without the Medi-Cal reimbursements from HCS, they 6 will be unable to meet financial obligations such as paying staff and 7 utility bills. (Mot. at 12:28 - 13:21.) If unable to meet financial 8 obligations, Duke and Blythe argue they will be forced to close, and 9 beneficiaries (including Crane and Heusdens) will be forced to re-
10 locate to a new facility. (Id.)

11 On August 15, 2007, Plaintiffs applied for a TRO to force
12 HCS to resume making Medi-Cal payments to Plaintiffs and other
13 institutional providers of medical services. (Mot. at 35:3-4.)
14 Plaintiffs claim that Defendants failed to comply with federal 15 Medicaid law when HCS stopped reimbursements on July 14, 2007.
16 Further, Plaintiffs claim that Defendants' failure to reimburse
17 institutional providers under Medi-Cal violates the Contracts Clause
18 and the Takings Clause of the U.S. Constitution.

19 For the reasons that follow, the application is denied.

20 DISCUSSION

21 I. LEGAL STANDARD

22 To obtain a TRO, Plaintiffs must demonstrate "either (1) a
23 combination of probable success on the merits and the possibility of 24 irreparable harm; or (2) that serious questions are raised and the 25 balance of hardships tips in its favor." A & M Records, Inc. v.

26
27 <sup>2</sup> See Judy Lin, "Lawmakers break budget gridlock," Sacramento
28 Bee, Aug. 21, 2007, available at <http://www.sacbee.com/749/story/337058.html>.

1 Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1013 (9th Cir. 2001). "These two
2 formulations represent two points on a sliding scale in which the 3 required degree of irreparable harm increases as the probability of 4 success decreases." Id. Plaintiffs must show "as an irreducible
5 minimum that [they have] a fair chance of success on the merits."
6 Johnson v. Cal. State Bd. of Accountancy, 72 F.3d 1427, 1430 (9th Cir.
7 1995).

8 II. Probable Success on the Merits

9 Plaintiffs first argue that federal Medicaid law, 42 U.S.C.
10 § 1396a(8), requires HCS to reimburse Medi-Cal providers with 11 "reasonable promptness." (Mot. at 19:11-14.) In full, section
12 1396a(8) requires that a state medical assistance plan must "provide 13 that all individuals wishing to make application for medical 14 assistance under the plan shall have opportunity to do so, and that 15 such assistance shall be furnished with reasonable promptness to all 16 eligible individuals." However, this section is inapplicable because 17 it addresses providing services to individual beneficiaries, not to 18 HCS reimbursing claims submitted by providers.

19 In contrast, 42 C.F.R. § 447.45(d) clearly states an
20 explicit time requirement for the state agency to reimburse provider
21 claims.

22 (2) The agency must pay 90 percent of all clean
23 claims from practitioners, who are in individual
24 or group practice or who practice in shared health
25 facilities, within 30 days of the date of receipt.

26 (3) The agency must pay 99 percent of all clean
27 claims from practitioners, who are in individual
28 or group practice or who practice in shared health
facilities, within 90 days of the date of receipt.

(4) The agency must pay all other claims within 12 months of the date of receipt . . . .

1 42 C.F.R. § 447.45(d); see 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(37). So long as the
2 state meets these deadlines, federal Medicaid law is not violated.
3 Dowling v. Davis, 19 F.3d 445, 447 (9th Cir. 1994).

4 Because Plaintiffs are institutional providers, as opposed
5 to individual or group practitioners, Section 447.45(d)(4) applies.
6 See Ill. Council on Long Term Care v. Bradley, 957 F.2d 305, 308 (7th
7 Cir. 1992) (holding that the state has 12 months to reimburse
8 institutional providers under Section 447.45(d)(4)). Under Section
9 447.45(d)(4), Defendants are in compliance with federal law as long as 10 they reimburse Plaintiffs' claims within 12 months. Plaintiffs do not 11 allege Defendants have violated the 12 months requirement, and thus 12 have not shown sufficient probability of success on the merits on the 13 federal Medicaid claim.

14 Further, Plaintiffs have not shown sufficient probability of 15 success on the merits for either the Contracts Clause claim or the 16 claim for Takings Clause claim. See Univ. of Hawaii Prof'l Assembly
17 v. Cayetano, 183 F.3d 1096 (9th Cir. 1999) (holding that no Contracts
18 Clause violation occurred where the state did not limit the 19 plaintiff's remedies for breach of contract); United Cerebral Palsy 20 Assocs. v. Cuomo, 966 F.2d 743, 746 (2d Cir. 1992) (holding that 21 temporary delay in reimbursing Medicaid claims was not an 22 unconstitutional taking).

23 Therefore, Plaintiffs have not shown sufficient probability
24 of success on the merits for any claim that would warrant a TRO.

25 III. Irreparable Harm

26 Plaintiffs argue that the delay in Medi-Cal reimbursements
27 will cause Duke and Blythe to experience financial hardship.

28 Plaintiffs argue that Duke and Blythe will be unable to pay their

1 employees, make lease payments, compensate vendors, or pay for
2 utilities such as water and electricity. (Mot. at 13:1-9.)
3 Defendants argue that Plaintiffs could avoid irreparable injury by 4 seeking short-term loans or additional lines of credit. (Opp'n at 5 5:21-25.) Plaintiffs respond by arguing that taking on additional 6 debt might forestall imminent financial harms, but Plaintiffs would be 7 irreparably harmed in the future because the "burden of security and 8 interest requirements" of the debt would "threaten the facilities'
9 long-term viability." (Reply at 5:26-28; 6:4.)

10 Plaintiffs argument fails for two reasons. First, the 2007-
11 08 California budget was enacted on August 21, 2007. There is no
12 claim that Defendants will continue to delay Medi-Cal reimbursements
13 to providers such as Plaintiffs after the passage of the budget.<sup>3</sup>

14 Second, the relief that Plaintiffs seek -- immediate payment
15 of money -- is not equitable relief that may be granted in the form of 16 a TRO. "Irreparable injury" is injury that cannot be compensated with 17 monetary damages. Sampson v. Murray, 415 U.S. 61, 90-92 (1974).<sup>4</sup>
18 Plaintiffs have not demonstrated that monetary damages are inadequate.
19
20
21
22

---

23 <sup>3</sup> Plaintiffs admit this is the case in their motion,
24 conditioning their irreparable harm with the phrase, "If the budget
25 deadlock is not resolved ..." (Mot. at 12:28 - 13:2).

26 <sup>4</sup> "The basis of injunctive relief in the federal courts is 27 irreparable harm and inadequacy of legal remedies." Los Angeles
28 Memorial Coliseum Comm'n v. Nat'l Football League, 634 F.2d 1197, 1202
(9th Cir. 1980). Monetary damages are a legal remedy. Feltner v.
Columbia Television Pictures, Inc., 523 U.S. 340, 352 (1998).

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated, Plaintiffs have not shown sufficient probability of success on the merits or irreparable harm. Therefore, Plaintiffs' application for a TRO is DENIED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
