Case No. 2:12-cv-0855 JAM DAD

STIPULATION TO EXTEND STAY; AND ORDER

21 STIPULATION

22 On August 23, 2012, defendant Kirit Patel was indicted by the United States on criminal
23 charges related to the same subject matter as the instant case (see Case No. 2:12-CR-00306-JAM). On 24 September 12, 2012, the Court entered a stipulation between Mr. Patel and counsel for the Federal 25 Trade Commission ("FTC") staying this matter for six months or until the resolution of the criminal
26 case, whichever is shorter. The parties continued the stay for an additional four months on March 8, 27 2013, an additional 90 days on July 8, 2013, an additional 90 days on November 8, 2013, an additional 28 90 days on February 7, 2014, an additional 90 days on April 29, 2014 and an additional 120 days on

1 August 5, 2014.

2 In October 2014, Mr. Patel has entered into a plea agreement in the criminal case. The 3 agreement includes restitution and criminal penalties. Sentencing is scheduled for February 10, 2015.
4 Given the pending issues with the criminal case, and in order to allow Mr. Patel and the FTC to try and
5 reach a resolution of the civil matter, Mr. Patel and counsel for the FTC believe it is necessary to 6 extend the stay for an additional 120 days. Mr. Patel agrees that, during the pendency of the stay, he 7 will not seek the release of assets frozen pursuant to the preliminary injunction.

8 The requested stay is a stay of the entire civil action against all defendants including a stay of 9 the pending motion for default judgment against defendants Broadway Global Master Inc. and In-
10 Arabia Solutions Inc. The stay does not alter the preliminary injunction with asset freeze, which will 11 remain in full effect.
