

COMPLAINT

3 1. On Mother's Day, May 12 2012, Defendant (Caucasian) banned me from their 4 store at the Grove. She said I was wearing a provocative short blue dress. Immediately, I
5 informed her I had bought it from Forever 21, a few yards away. However, Defendant 6 ousted me. Next, she stole more than 40 pictures I had taken in the short dress. She 7 would not allow me attach them to my emails. Plus, she refused to allow me delete them 8 from one of the demo computers. Your Honor, Defendant violated my civil rights in 9 more ways than me. I begged her to allow me send them to my son. It was Mother's Day.
10 I added that I had not seen my only child in 9 years. Not surprisingly, my pleas fell on 11 her deaf ears. In 2003, jealous females kidnapped my son and killed my father.

8 2. An hour later, I returned to talk to Defendant's manager (Arab). I asked him if 9 my dress was provocative. He answered, no. Next, I asked him if I could take pictures 10 with one of the demo computers on Mother's Day. He answered, no. I also wanted to 11 know if he could return my pictures. Again, it was a resounding no. Your Honor, demo 12 computers are meant for customers' use. Defendant makes billions of dollars at the 13 expense of customers like me. As a matter of fact, I bought my first computer from 14 Defendant in 1993. I also bought an IPAD from them. I might add that it was not the 15 first time jealous females exhibited temper tantrums. Because I feel dizzy whenever I 16 stand up, I asked one of the security guards (Hispanic) to accommodate me. Not 17 surprisingly, her refusal was adamant. She refused to offer me one of the chairs in the 18 room. Instead, she assaulted me on the shoulder by means of tapping. I was startled, to 19 say the least. She said my dress became shorter whenever I leaned on the counter. Given 20 that I feel dizzy all the time, I must lean on the counter for fear of falling down. In other 21 words, I decided to accommodate myself. Still, Defendant was far from the truth. For the 22 most part, I wear long gowns. Whenever, I wear a short dress, I wear a pair of shorts 23 underneath it.

18 3). I believe I have been discriminated against, assaulted, and stolen from based 19 upon my race, Black color, color, Light-skinned, Sex, female, National Origin (Father, 20 Nigerian, Mother, American) and physical disability (recurring deafness and dizziness) 21 which are in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, and the 22 Americans with the Disabilities Act of 1990, as amended.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

22 Your Honor, I would like you to order Defendant to apologize to me.
23 Furthermore, I would like you to order them to return my pictures. Finally, Defendant 24 should pay me ten million dollars for assault, unlawful discrimination, grand theft and 25 grand larceny. A picture is worth more than a thousand words. Some of the money will 26 be donated to children's organizations. Thank you, Your Honor.
