1	recommendations were docketed. (ECF No. 23.) This court therefore reviews its judgment of
2	dismissal for clear error and/or manifest injustice in light of petitioner's objections.
3	In his objections, petitioner argues that, although he sustained the challenged criminal
4	conviction in 2002, the one-year statutory limitations period under AEDPA began running in
5	2011, when he received a copy of a hearing transcript in his criminal case. Petitioner further
6	argues that the limitations period was subject to statutory and equitable tolling, such that the
7	instant petition, filed in 2013, was timely. These issues were addressed in the findings and
8	recommendations adopted by this court. As petitioner has not shown that the judgment of 9	dismissal was clearly erroneous or manifestly unjust, his motion for reconsideration will be
10	denied.
11	Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that petitioner's motion to alter or amend the
12	judgment (ECF No. 24) is denied.
