UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

FOOTHILL CHURCH, CALVARY CHAPEL CHINO HILLS, and SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS CHURCH,

Plaintiffs,

v.

MICHELLE ROUILLARD, in her official capacity as Director of the California
Department of Managed Health Care,

Defendant.

No. 2:15-cv-02165-KJM-EFB

ORDER

This action arises from letters issued by the California Department of Managed Health Care (“DMHC”) to seven private health insurers (“insurers” or “Plans”) on August 22, 2014, which required them to remove any limitations on or exclusions of abortion services from the health care coverage they offer. Compl. Ex. 1, ECF No. 1-1. Plaintiffs Foothill Church, Calvary Chapel Chino Hills, and Shepherd of the Hills Church (“plaintiffs” or “Churches”), three churches who allegedly offer their employees DMHC-regulated health coverage through these insurers, filed this action against defendant Michelle Rouillard (“defendant” or “Director”), Director of the DMHC, alleging the letters violate their constitutional rights under the First and Fourteenth Amendments. This matter is before the court on defendant’s motion to dismiss the complaint. ECF No. 21. Plaintiffs oppose the motion. ECF No. 26. The court held a hearing on 1 May 6, 2016, at which Jeremiah Galus, Erik Stanley, and David Hacker appeared for plaintiffs, 2 and Joshua Sondheimer and Hadara Stanton appeared for defendant. As explained below, the 3 court GRANTS defendant’s motion.

4 I. STATUTORY AND REGULATORY BACKGROUND

5 A. State Regulatory Framework for Health Care Industry

6 In California, the DMHC and the California Department of Insurance (“CDI”) oversee regulation of the health care industry. The DMHC regulates “health care service plans” 7 under the Knox-Keene Health Care Service Plan Act of 1975 (“Knox-Keene Act” or “Act”), Cal.
8 Health & Safety Code § 1340 et seq., including by approving or disapproving language submitted 9 in evidence of coverage filings. The Knox-Keene Act defines “health care service plans” as 10 “[a]ny person who undertakes to arrange for the provision of health care services to subscribers or 11 enrollees, or to pay for or to reimburse any part of the cost for those services, in return for a 12 prepaid or periodic charge paid by or on behalf of the subscribers or enrollees.” Cal. Health & 13 Safety Code § 1345(f)(1). Health maintenance organizations (“HMOs”) and other structured 14 managed care organizations (“MCOs”) are “health care service plans” under this definition.
15 Rea v. Blue Shield of Cal., 226 Cal. App. 4th 1209, 1215 (2014).

16 The CDI, on the other hand, regulates traditional health insurance companies under 17 the California Insurance Code. Cal. Ins. Code §§ 740–742.1; see Rea, 226 Cal. App. 4th at 1215.
18 The Knox-Keene Act does not generally govern entities regulated by the CDI, see Cal. Health &
19 Safety Code §§ 1343(e)(1) & 1349, and sections 740 to 742.1 of the Insurance Code, in turn, do 20 not apply to health care service plans, see Cal. Ins. Code §§ 740(g) & 742(b).

21 In addition, because the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 22 1974 (“ERISA”), 29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq., preempts most state health plan regulations, self-23 funded health plans subject to ERISA need not comply with most state health coverage 24 requirements. See District of Columbia v. Greater Wash. Bd. of Trade, 506 U.S. 125, 130 (1992); 25 FMC Corp. v. Holliday, 498 U.S. 52, 61 (1990).

1 B. The Knox-Keene Act

2 The Knox-Keene Act requires a person to secure a license from the Director of the 3 DMHC before offering a health care service plan. Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1349. One 4 requirement for licensure is that “[a] health care service plan contract [must] provide to 5 subscribers and enrollees all of the basic health care services included in subdivision (b) of 6 Section 1345.” Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1367(i). Section 1345(b) lists the following as 7 “basic health care services”:

- 8 (1) Physician services, including consultation and referral.
- 9 (2) Hospital inpatient services and ambulatory care services.
- 10 (3) Diagnostic laboratory and diagnostic and therapeutic radiologic 11 services.
- 12 (4) Home health services.
- 13 (5) Preventive health services.
- 14 (6) Emergency health care services, including ambulance and 15 ambulance transport services and out-of-area coverage. “Basic 16 health care services” includes ambulance and ambulance transport 17 services provided through the “911” emergency response system.
- 18 (7) Hospice care pursuant to Section 1368.2.

19 Id. § 1345(b). Section 1367(i) continues that “[t]he director shall by rule define the scope of each 20 basic health care service that health care service plans are required to provide as a minimum for 21 licensure” under the Act. Id. § 1367(i). Based on this authority, the Director promulgated 22 regulations defining the scope of “[t]he basic health care services required to be provided by a 23 health care service plan to its enrollees . . . where medically necessary.” Cal. Code Regs. tit. 28, 24 § 1300.67. The regulations define “physician services” to include services “provided by 25 physicians licensed to practice medicine or osteopathy,” id. § 1300.67(a), and define “preventive 26 health services” to include “a variety of voluntary family planning services,” id. § 1300.67(f)(2).

27 The Knox-Keene Act provides for a number of categorical and individualized 28 exemptions, including the following examples. First, “[a] plan directly operated by a bona fide public or private institution of higher learning” and the California Small Group Reinsurance Fund are each exempt from regulation under the Act. Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1343(e). Second,

1 the Act gives the Director the authority, “for good cause, by rule or order [to] exempt a plan 2 contract or any class of plan contracts” from the requirement of providing all of the basic health 3 care services included in section 1345(b). Id. § 1367(i). The Act also gives the Director broad 4 authority to exempt any class of persons or plan contracts from the regulations of the Act or to 5 waive any requirement of any rule or form if the Director finds exemption or waiver to be in the 6 public interest and not detrimental to the protection of the subscribers, enrollees, or persons 7 regulated under the Act. Id. §§ 1343(b), 1344(a). Third, the Act offers religious employers 8 exemptions from providing coverage for “FDA-approved contraceptive methods that are contrary 9 to [their] religious tenets,” id. § 1367.25(c), or coverage for “forms of treatment of infertility in a 10 manner inconsistent with [their] religious and ethical principles,” id. § 1374.55(e).

11 C. Reproductive Rights Under California Law

12 In 1972, California voters amended the state constitution to include a right to 13 privacy among the inalienable rights protected by Article I, section 1. See Chico Feminist 14 Women’s Health Ctr. v. Butte Glenn Med. Soc., 557 F. Supp. 1190, 1201 (E.D. Cal. 1983) (citing 15 White v. Davis, 13 Cal. 3d 757, 773–74 (1975)). The California Supreme Court has interpreted 16 Article I, section 1 as providing that “all women in this state—rich and poor alike—possess a 17 fundamental constitutional right to choose whether or not to bear a child.” Comm. To Defend 18 Reprod. Rights v. Myers, 29 Cal. 3d 252, 262 (1981).

19 In addition to these constitutional protections, the Reproductive Privacy Act of 20 2002 declares, “[I]t is the public policy of the State of California that . . . [e]very woman has the 21 fundamental right to choose to bear a child or to choose and to obtain an abortion . . .” Cal.
22 Health & Safety Code § 123462(b). It prohibits the state from “deny[ing] or interfer[ing] with a 23 woman’s right to choose or obtain an abortion prior to viability of the fetus, or when the abortion 24 is necessary to protect the life or health of the woman.” Id. § 123466.

25 D. The Federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act

26 The federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 (“ACA”), 27 124 Stat. 119, “generally requires employers with 50 or more full-time employees to offer ‘a 28 group health plan or group health insurance coverage’ that provides ‘minimum essential

1 coverage.” Burwell v. Hobby Lobby Stores, Inc., ___ U.S. ___, 134 S. Ct. 2751, 2762 (2014)
2 (quoting 26 U.S.C. §§ 4980H(a), 4980H(c)(2), 5000A(f)(2)). If any covered employer stops 3 providing health insurance altogether and at least one full-time employee enrolls in a health plan
4 and qualifies for a subsidy on one of the government-run ACA exchanges, the employee must pay 5 $2,000 per year for each of its full-time employees. Id. (citing 26 U.S.C. §§ 4980(H)(a), (c)(1)).

6 II. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

7 On October 16, 2015, plaintiffs filed a complaint, which makes the following 8 allegations. Compl., ECF No. 1. On August 22, 2014, the Director of the DMHC sent letters to 9 seven private health insurers stating that the DMHC had reviewed their contracts and the relevant 10 legal authorities and “concluded that it erroneously approved or did not object to” language in 11 some previous evidence of coverage (“EOC”) filings that may discriminate against women by 12 limiting or excluding coverage for termination of pregnancies. Compl. ¶¶ 2, 27; Compl. Ex. 1 13 at 1. Private insurers had previously submitted EOC filings to the DMHC notifying defendant of 14 benefit plan options that excluded coverage for voluntary and elective abortions, and defendant 15 and the DMHC had not objected. Compl. ¶¶ 45–47.

16 The letters continued:

17 The purpose of this letter is to remind plans that the [Knox-Keene 18 Act] requires the provision of basic health care services and the 19 California Constitution prohibits health plans from discriminating 20 against women who choose to terminate a pregnancy. Thus, all health plans must treat maternity services and legal abortion neutrally.

21 Compl. Ex. 1 at 1.

22 To ensure compliance with California law, the letters required the recipient private 23 health insurers to review all current health plan documents to ensure compliance, to amend 24 current health plan documents to remove discriminatory coverage exclusions and limitations, and 25 to file any revised relevant health plan documents with the DMHC, all within ninety days of the 26 date of the letter. Id. at 2. Plaintiffs refer to these requirements generally as “the Mandate.” See 27 Compl. ¶ 2. The letters provided examples of discriminatory limitations or exclusions, such as 28 excluding coverage for “voluntary” or “elective” abortions, and stated the insurer “may,

1 consistent with the law, omit any mention of coverage for abortion services in health plan
2 documents, as abortion is a basic health care service.” Compl. Ex. 1 at 2. For support, the letters
3 cited the authorities described above, specifically, Article 1, section 1 of the California 4 Constitution, California Health and Safety Code section 1340 et seq., California Health and 5 Safety Code section 123460 et seq., and implementing regulations. Id. Each letter noted, 6 “Consistent with 42 U.S.C. § 18054(a)(6), this letter shall not apply to a Multi-State Plan.” Id.
7 at 1 n.2. Section 18054(a)(6) provides specifically that “[i]n entering into contracts under this 8 subsection, the Director shall ensure that with respect to multi-State qualified health plans offered 9 in an Exchange, there is at least one such plan that does not provide coverage of [abortion 10 services].” The DMHC also published copies of the letters on its website. Compl. ¶ 27; Compl.
11 Ex. 2, ECF No. 1-2.

12 Plaintiffs are three non-profit Christian churches located in Southern California.
13 Compl. ¶¶ 13–15. Each plaintiff has more than fifty full-time employees and must, therefore, 14 provide health coverage for its employees under the ACA. Id. ¶¶ 59–61. Foothill Church offers 15 health insurance plans to its employees through Kaiser Permanente and Blue Shield, with the plan 16 year beginning and ending annually on or about July 1. Id. ¶ 13. Calvary Chapel Chino Hills
17 offers health insurance plans to its employees through Kaiser Permanente, Aetna, and Anthem 18 Blue Cross, with the plan year beginning and ending annually on or about November 30. Id. ¶ 14.
19 Shepherd of the Hills Church offers health insurance plans to its employees through Anthem Blue 20 Cross and Kaiser Permanente, with the plan year beginning and ending annually on or about 21 December 1. Id. ¶ 15. Plaintiffs’ insurers each received a letter from the DMHC as described 22 above. See Compl. Ex. 1.

23 Plaintiffs all hold what they describe as “historic and orthodox” Christian 24 teachings on the sanctity of human life. Compl. ¶ 17. They “believe and teach that abortion ends 25 a human life and is a grave sin,” and they “believe that participation in, facilitation of, or payment 26 for abortion is inconsistent with the dignity conferred by God on creatures made in His image.” 27 Id. ¶¶ 20–21. “Consistent with their Christian beliefs and principles, Plaintiffs also promote the 28 physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being of their employees through the provision of 1 generous health insurance as a benefit of employment.” Id. ¶ 22. In furtherance of these beliefs 2 and principles, plaintiffs consulted with their insurance brokers and/or insurers to provide 3 employee group health plans that do not pay for abortions. Id. ¶¶ 23–24. However, plaintiffs’

4 insurance brokers and/or insurers have informed them that the DMHC’s letters require their group 5 health insurance plans to cover abortions, including voluntary and elective ones. Id. ¶ 25.

6 This action followed. The complaint alleges the DMHC’s letters violate plaintiffs’ 7 rights under the Free Exercise, Establishment, Free Speech, and Equal Protection clauses of the 8 U.S. Constitution. See id. ¶¶ 104, 114, 119, 126. In support of the Free Exercise and 9 Establishment clause claims, the complaint alleges defendant issued the letters after learning that 10 two Catholic universities unrelated to plaintiffs eliminated elective abortion coverage from their 11 health care plans. Id. ¶ 48. It further alleges defendant had knowledge her letters would coerce 12 religious employers and churches, like plaintiffs, to violate their sincerely held religious beliefs, 13 id. ¶ 7, and in fact designed the content of the letters “to make it impossible for Plaintiffs to 14 comply with their religious beliefs,” id. ¶ 62. With respect to the Free Speech claim, the 15 complaint alleges the letters infringe plaintiffs’ rights by requiring plaintiffs to purchase group 16 health plans that provide coverage for abortions, and, as a result, to fund abortions through their 17 employee health plans. Id. ¶¶ 116–17. Finally, in support of the Equal Protection claim, the 18 complaint alleges the letters treat plaintiffs differently than similarly situated persons and 19 businesses “in that there are categorical and individualized exemptions to the Knox-Keene Act 20 and the [letters’] requirements.” Id. ¶ 123. In addition to the exemptions discussed above, the 21 complaint alleges the letters do not apply to health benefit plans offered by the California Public 22 Employees’ Retirement System (CalPERS) to active and retired state and local government 23 employees. Id. ¶ 52 (“CalPERS continued to offer health benefit plans excluding coverage for 24 elective abortions after Defendant issued the Mandate.”).¹

25 ¹ Defendants request judicial notice of excerpts from three CalPERS PPO plans, which are 26 self-funded and therefore outside the scope of the Director’s regulatory authority. Def.’s Req.
27 Jud. Notice, ECF No. 22. However, evidence that “[s]ome” CalPERS plans are self-funded, ECF 28 No. 21 at 14 n.5, does not disprove plaintiffs’ allegation, which the court accepts as true at this stage.

1 On January 12, 2016, defendant moved to dismiss the complaint under Federal 2 Rules of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6). ECF No. 21 (“Mot.”). Plaintiffs opposed the 3 motion, ECF No. 26 (“Opp’n”), and defendant replied, ECF No. 30 (“Reply”). At hearing, 4 plaintiffs clarified they are challenging only the letters and the DMHC’s enforcement of the 5 Knox-Keene Act; they are not bringing a facial constitutional challenge against the underlying 6 state laws.

7 III. LEGAL STANDARDS

8 A motion to dismiss under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1) tests the 9 court’s subject matter jurisdiction. See, e.g., Savage v. Glendale Union High Sch., 343 F.3d 1036, 10 1039–40 (9th Cir. 2003). When a party moves to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, 11 “the plaintiff bears the burden of demonstrating that the court has jurisdiction.” Boardman v.
12 Shulman, No. 12-00639, 2012 WL 6088309, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 6, 2012), aff’d sub nom.
13 Boardman v. C.I.R., 597 F. App’x 413 (9th Cir. 2015). If a plaintiff lacks standing, the court 14 lacks subject matter jurisdiction under Article III of the U.S. Constitution. Cetacean Cmty. v.
15 Bush, 386 F.3d 1169, 1174 (9th Cir. 2004).

16 Under Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a party may move to 17 dismiss a complaint for “failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.” Fed. R. Civ.
18 P. 12(b)(6). The motion may be granted only if the complaint “lacks a cognizable legal theory or 19 sufficient facts to support a cognizable legal theory.” Hartmann v. Cal. Dep’t of Corr. & Rehab., 20 707 F.3d 1114, 1122 (9th Cir. 2013) (citation omitted).

21 Although a complaint need contain only “a short and plain statement of the claim 22 showing that the pleader is entitled to relief,” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2), in order to survive a motion 23 to dismiss, this short and plain statement “must contain sufficient factual matter . . . to ‘state a 24 claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting 25 Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). A complaint must include something 26 more than “an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation” or “‘labels and 27 conclusions’ or ‘a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action.’” Id. (quoting 28 Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555). Determining whether a complaint will survive a motion to dismiss

1 for failure to state a claim is a “context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on 2 its judicial experience and common sense.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 679. Ultimately, the inquiry 3 focuses on the interplay between the factual allegations of the complaint and the dispositive 4 issues of law in the action. See Hishon v. King & Spalding, 467 U.S. 69, 73 (1984).

5 In making this context-specific evaluation, this court must construe the complaint 6 in the light most favorable to the plaintiff and accept its factual allegations as true. Erickson v.
7 Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 93–94 (2007). This rule does not apply to “a legal conclusion couched as a 8 factual allegation,” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 (quoting Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 9 (1986)), “allegations that contradict matters properly subject to judicial notice,” Sprewell v.
10 Golden State Warriors, 266 F.3d 979, 988–89 (9th Cir. 2001), or material attached to or 11 incorporated by reference into the complaint, see id. A court’s consideration of documents 12 attached to a complaint, documents incorporated by reference in the complaint, or matters of 13 judicial notice will not convert a motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment. United 14 States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 907–08 (9th Cir. 2003); Parks Sch. of Bus. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 15 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995); cf. Van Buskirk v. Cable News Network, Inc., 284 F.3d 977, 980 (9th 16 Cir. 2002) (noting that even though court may look beyond pleadings on motion to dismiss, 17 generally court is limited to face of the complaint on 12(b)(6) motion).

18 IV. DISCUSSION

19 A. Standing

20 To have Article III standing, a plaintiff must show that 21 (1) it has suffered an ‘injury in fact’ that is (a) concrete and 22 particularized and (b) actual or imminent, not conjectural or 23 hypothetical; (2) the injury is fairly traceable to the challenged 24 action of the defendant; and (3) it is likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision.

25 Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Laidlaw Env'tl. Servs. (TOC), Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 180–81 (2000).

26 “[E]ach element must be supported in the same way as any other matter on which the plaintiff 27 bears the burden of proof, i.e., with the manner and degree of evidence required at the successive 28 stages of the litigation.” Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 561 (1992). At this initial stage

1 of litigation, it is enough for a plaintiff to allege and not prove these three elements, “for on a 2 motion to dismiss we presum[e] that general allegations embrace those specific facts that are 3 necessary to support the claim.” Id. (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). However, 4 “when the plaintiff is not [itself] the object of the government action or inaction [it] challenges, 5 standing . . . is ordinarily substantially more difficult to establish.” Id. at 562 (citations and 6 internal quotation marks omitted).

7 1. Injury in Fact

8 With respect to the injury-in-fact requirement, plaintiffs allege

9 that their sincerely held religious beliefs prevent them from paying 10 for abortion coverage in their health care plans, yet the Mandate 11 forces them to do so, see, e.g., Compl. ¶¶ 17–21, 23, 25, 41, 83; that 12 the Mandate has prevented them from obtaining a health insurance 13 plan that excludes coverage for abortions consistent with their 14 religious beliefs, see id. ¶¶ 25, 43; that they cannot avoid the Mandate without subjecting themselves to significant financial consequences, see id. ¶¶ 6, 64, 85, 98; and that the uncertainty created by the Mandate inhibits their ability to recruit and retain employees and places them at a competitive disadvantage, see id.
¶¶ 69, 99–101.

15 Opp’n at 4. These allegations reviewed in the opposition, which the court accepts as true at this 16 stage, are sufficient to demonstrate an injury that is concrete, particularized, and actual or 17 imminent, as explained below.

18 “For an injury to be particularized, it must affect the plaintiff in a personal and 19 individual way.” Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 578 U.S. ___, 136 S. Ct. 1540, 1548 (2016) (citation and 20 internal quotation marks omitted). Plaintiffs’ allegations here show they have been personally 21 harmed as purchasers of the affected plans. Plaintiffs’ interests in the letters are personal and 22 individualized.

23 In addition to being particularized, an injury in fact must be “concrete.” Id. A 24 “concrete” harm is “real” and actually exists, but an intangible injury may nevertheless satisfy the 25 concreteness requirement in certain circumstances. Id. at 1548–49 (providing, as an example, 26 Pleasant Grove City v. Summum, 555 U.S. 460 (2009) (free speech)); see also Council of Ins.
27 Agents & Brokers v. Molasky-Arman, 522 F.3d 925, 931 (9th Cir. 2008) (“Impairments to 28 constitutional rights are generally deemed adequate to support a finding of ‘injury’ for purposes

1 of standing.” (citation omitted)). Plaintiffs have pled a concrete, real harm, because they allege 2 the coverage requirement in the letters has prevented them from providing health insurance to 3 their employees in a way that is consistent with their religious beliefs. Compl. ¶¶ 17–21, 23, 41, 4 43; see also Skyline Wesleyan Church v. Cal. Dep’t of Managed Healthcare, No. 16-501 (S.D.
5 Cal. June 20, 2016), ECF No. 36-1 at 9 (finding similar allegations establish standing in action
6 challenging the same DMHC letters).² They allege the letters violate their constitutional rights 7 under the First and Fourteenth Amendments. Compl. ¶¶ 104, 114, 119, 126; see Council of Ins.
8 Agents & Brokers, 522 F.3d at 931. Plaintiffs have satisfied the injury-in-fact requirement of 9 Article III standing.

10 2. Causation

11 In addition, there is a direct causal link between plaintiffs’ alleged injury and the 12 Director’s letters. The complaint alleges plaintiffs’ private health insurers previously offered 13 group health insurance plans to churches and religious employers excluding coverage for 14 abortions, Compl. ¶ 45, and defendant and the DMHC did not previously object to such 15 exclusions before defendant issued the letters, id. ¶ 47. The complaint alleges, as a result of the 16 letters, the private health insurers stopped offering plans excluding coverage for abortions. Id.
17 ¶¶ 25, 43, 45. Although defendant argues plaintiffs’ injury is caused by state law, not the 18 Director, the complaint alleges the Director and the DMHC did not interpret or enforce state law 19 as requiring group health insurance plans to cover elective and voluntary abortions before the 20 Director issued the letters. Moreover, as plaintiffs correctly note, a plaintiff “need not eliminate 21 any other contributing causes to establish its standing.” Opp’n at 7 (quoting Barnum Timber Co.
22 v. U.S. Env’tl. Prot. Agency, 633 F.3d 894, 901 (9th Cir. 2011)). Here, the connection between 23 plaintiffs’ alleged injury and the Director’s letters is not tenuous or abstract; the injuries can be 24

25
26 ² Plaintiffs cited this case in a Notice of Supplemental Authority, which plaintiffs filed 27 after hearing without leave of court. ECF No. 36. Defendant objects to the filing as unauthorized 28 supplemental briefing. ECF No. 37. The court considers the authority but disregards the accompanying argument.

1 traced directly to the Director’s letters, “rather than to that of some other actor not before the 2 court,” Ocean Advocates v. U.S. Army Corps of Eng’rs, 402 F.3d 846, 860 (9th Cir. 2005).

3 3. Redressability

4 Plaintiffs have likewise satisfied the redressability requirement of standing. To 5 sufficiently allege redressability, “[p]laintiffs need not demonstrate that there is a guarantee that 6 their injuries will be redressed by a favorable decision”; rather, they need show only that a 7 favorable decision would result in a “change in a legal status” that “would amount to a significant 8 increase in the likelihood that the plaintiff would obtain relief that directly redresses the injury 9 suffered.” Renee v. Duncan, 686 F.3d 1002, 1013 (9th Cir. 2012) (internal quotation marks and 10 citations omitted). Here, the complaint alleges the seven private health insurers contracted by 11 plaintiffs previously made the voluntary business decision to offer health plans that excluded 12 coverage for abortions, and only stopped offering such plans after they received the letters from 13 the Director. Compl. ¶¶ 24–25, 41, 44–45. A favorable legal decision would significantly 14 increase the likelihood these same insurers would again offer plans limiting or excluding 15 coverage for abortions. Plaintiffs have sufficiently alleged Article III standing.

16 While at hearing defendant’s counsel argued that even if plaintiffs have Article III 17 standing, prudential standing considerations would render any amendment futile, the court at this 18 time does not find prudential considerations stand in the way of allowing amendment if 19 defendant’s motion is otherwise granted.

20 The court next considers defendant’s arguments to dismiss each claim under 21 Rule 12(b)(6).

22 B. Free Exercise of Religion

23 The Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment, which applies to the states 24 through the Fourteenth Amendment, Cantwell v. Connecticut, 310 U.S. 296, 303 (1940), provides 25 that “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free 26 exercise thereof” U.S. Const. amend. I. However, the right to freely exercise one’s religion 27 “does not relieve an individual of the obligation to comply with a valid and neutral law of general 28 applicability on the ground that the law proscribes (or prescribes) conduct that his religion

1 prescribes (or proscribes).” Emp’t Div. v. Smith, 494 U.S. 872, 879 (1990) (internal quotation
2 marks and citation omitted).³ It is well established that a valid and neutral law of general 3 applicability must be upheld if it is rationally related to a legitimate governmental purpose.
4 Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1075–76, 1084. In contrast, laws that are not neutral or are not generally 5 applicable are subjected to strict scrutiny. Id. at 1076.

6 “The tests for ‘[n]eutrality and general applicability are interrelated, and . . . failure 7 to satisfy one requirement is a likely indication that the other has not been satisfied.” Id.
8 (quoting Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. City of Hialeah (“Lukumi”), 508 U.S. 520, 531 9 (1993)). Nevertheless, the court must consider each criterion separately. *Id.*⁴

10 1. Neutrality

11 A law is not neutral if its object is to infringe upon or restrict practices because of 12 their religious motivation. Id. (citing Lukumi, 508 U.S. at 533). In determining neutrality, courts 13 consider both the text and the operation of the law. “A law lacks facial neutrality if it refers to a 14 religious practice without a secular meaning discernable from the language or context.” Lukumi, 15 508 U.S. at 533. Here, the Director’s letters and the underlying laws that they purportedly 16 enforce do not refer to any religious practice, conduct, belief, or motivation on their face.

17 Even if a law or enforcement action based on the law is facially neutral, however, 18 it is not neutral if it operates as a “covert suppression of particular religious beliefs.” Id. at 534 19 (citation omitted). In determining operational neutrality, as this court has had occasion to note, a

20 ³ Although Smith was superseded by the Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1993 21 (“RFRA”), the Supreme Court later held that RFRA applies only to the federal government and 22 not to the states. See Holt v. Hobbs, ___ U.S. ___, 135 S. Ct. 853, 859–60 (2015); Stormans, Inc. v.
23 Wiesman, 794 F.3d 1064, 1075 n.4 (9th Cir. 2015). RFRA provides broader protection for free exercise than does the Constitution. See Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1075 n.4.

24 ⁴ In its reply brief, defendant for the first time raised the argument that the burden imposed 25 by the letters on plaintiffs’ religious exercise is insufficient to support a free exercise claim under 26 Goehring v. Brophy, 94 F.3d 1294 (9th Cir. 1996), superseded on other grounds by statute, as 27 recognized in Navajo Nation v. U.S. Forest Serv., 479 F.3d 1024 (9th Cir. 2007). Reply at 5–7.
28 At hearing, defendant stated the court could choose to not rely on Goehring and instead rely on the test for neutral, generally applicable laws. Because the court finds dismissal to be warranted under defendant’s other arguments, and it does not have the benefit of briefing from plaintiffs on the issue, the court does not reach defendant’s argument under Goehring.

1 court may consider “the historical background of the decision under challenge, the specific series 2 of events leading to the enactment or official policy in question, and the legislative or 3 administrative history.” Pickup v. Brown, No. 12-02497, 2015 WL 5522265, at *6 (E.D. Cal.
4 Sept. 16, 2015) (quoting Lukumi, 508 U.S. at 543). The Supreme Court’s decision in Lukumi is 5 illustrative. In Lukumi, the Court invalidated city ordinances prohibiting the religious sacrifice of 6 animals because the ordinances’ exemptions proved that the real purpose of the legislation was to 7 target Santeria religious beliefs. 508 U.S. at 538. The Court found that “[t]he net result of the 8 gerrymander [was] that few if any killings of animals [were] prohibited other than Santeria 9 sacrifice . . . [K]illings that [were] no more necessary or humane in almost all other circumstances 10 [were] unpunished.” Id. at 536.

11 In contrast, the Ninth Circuit in Stormans found state rules requiring pharmacies to 12 deliver particular contraceptives operated neutrally. 794 F.3d at 1076–78. The court found that 13 “[t]he possibility that pharmacies whose owners object to the distribution of emergency 14 contraception for religious reasons may be burdened disproportionately [did] not undermine the 15 rules’ neutrality,” because the rules proscribed the same conduct for all, regardless of the 16 motivation. Id. at 1077–78. And unlike the exemptions in Lukumi, the exemption for individual 17 pharmacists who have religious, moral, philosophical, or personal objections to the delivery of the 18 drugs did not reveal a covert intent to suppress particular religious beliefs. Id. at 1078.

19 Here, the complaint generally alleges the Director issued the letters to the private 20 insurers “to suppress the religious exercise of Plaintiffs and other similarly situated churches and 21 religious employers.” Compl. ¶ 103. In their opposition brief, plaintiffs argue the following 22 factual allegations “support a reasonable inference that the Director, through the [letters], sought 23 to suppress, target, or single out religion,” Opp’n at 10–11 (citation and internal quotation marks 24 omitted):

- 25 • Because existing law and regulations define “basic health care 26 services” to include services only “where medically necessary,” 27 Compl. ¶ 35, the Director previously permitted health insurance 28 plans to limit or exclude abortion coverage. Id. ¶¶ 46–47.

1 • The Director issued the Mandate after learning that two Catholic 2 universities eliminated elective abortion coverage from their health care plans. Id. ¶ 48.

3 • Only a “very small fraction” of California group health plans 4 excluded or limited abortion coverage, Compl. Ex. 1 at 2, 4, 6, 8, 5 10, 12, and 14, and the Director knew that the Mandate would 6 primarily affect churches and religious employers and coerce them 7 to violate their sincerely held religious beliefs. Compl. ¶¶ 7, 31–35, 8 40, 62, 103.

9 • The Director promulgated the Mandate without any public notice 10 or comment, and encouraged the health plan providers to hide the 11 inclusion of abortion coverage, telling them that they could “omit 12 any mention of coverage for abortion services in health plan 13 documents.” Id. ¶¶ 26, 42; see also Compl. Ex. 1. at 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 14 13, and 15.

15 • The Director issued the Mandate despite knowing it violated the 16 federal Hyde-Weldon Amendment, which prohibits funds made 17 available in the federal Labor, Health and Human Services, and 18 Education Appropriations Act from being transferred to a state if 19 the state “subjects any institutional or individual health care entity 20 [deferred to include a health insurance plan] to discrimination on 21 the basis that the health care entity does not provide for, pay for, 22 provide coverage of, or refer for abortions.” See Section 507(d) of 23 the Consolidated Appropriations Act, Pub. L. No. 113-76, 128 Stat.
24 5 (Jan. 17, 2014). California receives approximately seventy billion 25 dollars in federal funds for programs under the Labor, Health and 26 Human Services, and Education Appropriations Act. Compl. ¶¶ 76, 27 ¶¶ 73–78.⁵

28 • There are categorical and individualized exemptions to the Knox-Keene Act and the Mandate’s requirements. Id. ¶¶ 49–54, 89, 123.

• The Director chose to apply the Mandate to churches and religious employers even though California exempts religious employers from similar provisions of the Knox-Keene Act (e.g., coverage for contraceptives and fertility treatments). Id. ¶¶ 35–36, 38.

⁵ Defendant requests that the court take judicial notice of the existence and contents of a letter issued on June 21, 2016 by the Office for Civil Rights of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Resources advising plaintiffs’ counsel that the office has concluded its investigation into allegations that the DMHC’s letters violated the Hyde-Weldon Amendment and “is closing its investigation of these complaints without further action.” Def.’s Suppl. Req. Jud. Notice Ex. D at 1, 5, ECF No. 38. Although the court takes judicial notice of the existence of this letter, it is not appropriate to take judicial notice of the veracity of the letter’s contents or conclusions, which are in dispute. See Cactus Corner, LLC v. U.S. Dep’t of Agric., 346 F. Supp. 2d 1075, 1098–1100 (E.D. Cal. 2004), aff’d, 450 F.3d 428 (9th Cir. 2006); Fed. R. Evid. 201(b)(2).

1 Plaintiff's allegations regarding the Director's knowledge and intent are 2 conclusory and speculative, and therefore are not entitled to any presumption of truth. See Iqbal, 3 556 U.S. at 680–81. The complaint contradicts its allegations that the Director promulgated the 4 Mandate without any public notice and encouraged the insurers to hide the changes, see Compl.
5 ¶¶ 26, 42, by also alleging that the Director published the letters on the DMHC website, see id.
6 ¶ 27; Compl. Ex. 2. The remaining allegations, such as the broad allegation that the Director 7 knew that the letters would primarily affect churches and religious employers, do not support a 8 reasonable inference the Director issued the letters “because of, not merely in spite of,” the 9 letters' adverse effects on religion. See Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 676–77, 681 (citations and internal 10 quotation marks omitted). The letters prohibit the same limitations on or exclusions from 11 coverage for all insurers, regardless of the motivation for those limitations or exclusions. See 12 Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1077–78. In addition, the Director has provided legitimate, non-13 discriminatory reasons for issuing the letters. Although the Knox-Keene Act provides for certain 14 categorical and individualized exemptions from its requirements, plaintiffs have not shown those 15 exemptions were designed or have been applied in a way that evidences anti-religious intent. As 16 a result, this case is factually distinct from Lukumi. The complaint here fails to allege the letters 17 are not neutral.

18 The court next considers whether the letters are generally applicable.

19 2. General Applicability

20 A law is not generally applicable if it “impose[s] burdens only on conduct 21 motivated by religious belief” in a “selective manner.” Lukumi, 508 U.S. at 543. For example, a 22 law is not generally applicable if its prohibitions “substantially underinclude non-religiously 23 motivated conduct that might endanger the same governmental interest that the law is designed to 24 protect.” Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1079.

25 Here, plaintiffs argue the letters are not generally applicable because the Knox-26 Keene Act exempts a number of secular organizations and employers, such as health plans 27 directly operated by educational institutions, see Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1343(e), in a way 28 that dramatically undermines the purported governmental interest, and the Director “has

1 ‘unfettered discretion’ to grant individual exemptions and waivers from the Knox-Keene Act and,
2 by extension, the [requirements of the letters],” Opp’n at 12 (citing Cal. Health & Safety Code 3 §§ 1343(b), 1344(a)).

4 The court disagrees. The letters on their face apply equally to insurers regardless 5 of whether the motivation for the limitations or exclusions is religious or secular. In addition, the 6 exemptions and discretion discussed by plaintiffs are provided for by the Knox-Keene Act itself, 7 whose constitutionality plaintiffs do not challenge. The complaint alleges no facts suggesting the 8 Director has exercised or would exercise her discretion to enforce the requirements of the letters 9 in a selective manner to target religious beliefs. See Grace United Methodist Church v. City of 10 Cheyenne, 451 F.3d 643, 651 (10th Cir. 2006) (rejecting adoption of per se rule requiring that 11 laws permitting any individualized exemptions must satisfy strict scrutiny to survive a free 12 exercise challenge), discussed favorably in Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1082; see also Lighthouse Inst.
13 for Evangelism, Inc. v. City of Long Branch, 510 F.3d 253, 276 (3d Cir. 2007). Plaintiffs note the 14 Director admitted in her briefing that she has already granted an individualized exemption to one 15 health plan. Opp’n at 15 (citing Mot. at 5 n.2). But the Director specifically admitted allowing 16 the plan to offer contracts limiting abortion coverage to “religious employers.” Mot. at 5 n.2. If 17 true, such a fact would evidence her intent to accommodate, rather than impose burdens on, 18 religious belief.

19 The complaint does not allege facts supporting a plausible inference that the letters 20 are neither neutral nor generally applicable. Accordingly, if plaintiffs were to proceed with the 21 complaint as currently alleged, the letters would ultimately be evaluated under rational basis 22 review. See Stormans, 794 F.3d at 1075–76, 1084.

23 3. Rational Basis

24 To survive rational basis review, a law must be rationally related to a legitimate 25 governmental purpose. Id. Here, the letters are rationally related to the government’s legitimate 26 purposes of ensuring employers provide basic health care services as defined by the Director and 27 protecting a woman’s fundamental right under California law to obtain an abortion.

28

1 In this light, the complaint does not state a claim that the letters, which implement 2 a neutral law of general applicability, violate plaintiffs’ rights under the Free Exercise clause.
3 However, it appears plaintiffs may be able to allege additional facts that would state a Free
4 Exercise claim. In light of the Federal Rules’ policy of favoring amendments, the court GRANTS
5 plaintiffs leave to amend if they can do so consonant with Rule 11. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2); 6 Ascon Properties, Inc. v. Mobil Oil Co., 866 F.2d 1149, 1160 (9th Cir. 1989).

7 C. Establishment Clause

8 1. Legal Standard

9 The Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to the United States
10 Constitution provides that “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion.” 11 U.S. Const. amend. I. This clause prohibits the government from endorsing or disapproving of 12 religion. Am. Family Ass’n, Inc. v. City & Cty. of S.F., 277 F.3d 1114, 1120–21 (9th Cir. 2002).
13 To determine whether government conduct violates the Establishment Clause, courts apply the 14 disjunctive three-prong test established in Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602, 612–13 (1971).
15 However much maligned, the Lemon test remains controlling on Establishment Clause violations.
16 Catholic League for Religious & Civil Rights v. City & Cty. of S.F., 624 F.3d 1043, 1054–55 (9th 17 Cir. 2010) (en banc). Under the Lemon test, government conduct violates the Establishment 18 Clause if it “(1) has a predominantly religious purpose; (2) has a principal or primary effect of 19 advancing or inhibiting religion; or (3) fosters excessive entanglement with religion.” Catholic 20 League, 624 F.3d at 1060 (Silverman, J., concurring); id. at 1055.

21 “The [first] prong of the Lemon test asks whether government’s actual purpose is 22 to endorse or disapprove of religion.” Kreisner v. City of San Diego, 1 F.3d 775, 782 (9th Cir.
23 1993) (citation omitted). However, “[a] practice will stumble on the [first] prong only if it is 24 motivated wholly by an impermissible purpose.” Id. (internal quotation marks and citation 25 omitted). “A reviewing court must be reluctant to attribute unconstitutional motives to 26 government actors in the face of a plausible secular purpose.” Id. (internal quotation marks and 27 citations omitted).

1 The second prong of the Lemon test focuses on the “primary” effect of the 2 government’s conduct. Am. Family Ass’n, Inc., 277 F.3d at 1122 (emphasis omitted). The 3 question under this prong is “whether it would be objectively reasonable for the government 4 action to be construed as sending primarily a message of either endorsement or disapproval of 5 religion.” Vernon v. City of L.A., 27 F.3d 1385, 1398 (9th Cir. 1994).

6 The third prong of the Lemon test “seeks to minimize the interference of religious 7 authorities with secular affairs and secular authorities in religious affairs.” Id. at 1399 (citation 8 omitted). “Administrative entanglement typically involves comprehensive, discriminating, and 9 continuing state surveillance of religion.” Id.

10 2. Application

11 Here, plaintiffs’ allegations do not state a claim under the Establishment Clause.
12 Plaintiffs assert a claim under only the first two prongs of the Lemon test. See Compl. ¶¶ 108–
13 13; Opp’n at 18. Under the first prong, a plausible secular purpose underlies the Director’s 14 actions and the state law protections: to ensure that women in California have access to what the 15 Director views as “basic health services,” and that plans do not discriminate against women who 16 choose to terminate their pregnancies, regardless of the plans’ religious or other affiliations.
17 Accordingly, the complaint has not shown the letters were “motivated wholly by an 18 impermissible purpose.” See Kreisner, 1 F.3d at 782.

19 Under the second prong, a reasonable observer would not view the Director’s 20 letters as sending “primarily” a message disapproving of religion. See Vernon, 27 F.3d at 1398.
21 The letters do not mention any religious practice or belief, and opposition to coverage of abortion 22 services is not an exclusively religious position. Moreover, the letters state that their purpose is to 23 ensure compliance with state law, which is a secular purpose.

24 Because plaintiffs could not cure the claim’s deficiencies by alleging additional 25 facts, the court dismisses plaintiffs’ Establishment Clause claim without leave to amend. See Fed.
26 R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2); Ascon Props., 866 F.2d at 1160.

1 D. Free Speech

2 Defendant also moves to dismiss plaintiffs’ Free Speech claim because the 3 Director’s letters do not implicate plaintiffs’ rights to free speech. Mot. at 18–19. The Free 4 Speech Clause of “[t]he First Amendment protects not only the expression of ideas through 5 printed or spoken words, but also symbolic speech—nonverbal ‘activity . . . sufficiently imbued 6 with elements of communication.’” Roulette v. City of Seattle, 97 F.3d 300, 302–03 (9th Cir.
7 1996) (quoting Spence v. Washington, 418 U.S. 405, 409 (1974)). Conduct amounts to 8 expression when “[a]n intent to convey a particularized message [is] present, and . . . the 9 likelihood [is] great that the message would be understood by those who viewed it.” Id. (quoting 10 Spence, 418 U.S. at 410–11). For example, in Spence, the Court found the act of displaying an 11 American flag with a peace sign on it to protest American bombing in Cambodia and the National 12 Guard’s killing of anti-war demonstrators at Kent State constituted symbolic speech. 418 U.S.
13 at 410–11. The Court has also found that burning the American flag as part of a political 14 demonstration is sufficiently expressive to warrant First Amendment protection. Texas v.
15 Johnson, 491 U.S. 397, 406 (1989).

16 Here, plaintiffs argue the conduct of purchasing a group health plan that includes 17 coverage of elective abortions is symbolic speech that communicates a message that abortion is 18 morally permissible. Opp’n at 20. Plaintiffs contend this speech interferes with plaintiffs’ own 19 message that abortion is morally wrong. Id.

20 The complaint does not state a cognizable Free Speech claim. The letters do not 21 compel plaintiffs, as purchasers of a regulated plan, to directly convey any message regarding 22 their views on abortion, and the conduct of offering a group health plan that includes elective 23 abortion coverage is not sufficiently expressive to be considered symbolic speech, see Catholic 24 Charities of Sacramento, Inc. v. Superior Court, 32 Cal. 4th 527, 558 (2004) (church-affiliated 25 employer’s compliance with law requiring coverage for prescription contraceptives in group 26 health care plan “is not speech”); see also Rumsfeld v. Forum for Acad. & Inst. Rights, Inc., 27 547 U.S. 47, 62 (2006) (“[I]t has never been deemed an abridgment of freedom of speech or press 28 to make a course of conduct illegal merely because the conduct was in part initiated, evidenced,

1 or carried out by means of language, either spoken, written, or printed.” (quoting Giboney v.
2 Empire Storage & Ice Co., 336 U.S. 490, 502 (1949))). Unlike the starkly expressive act of flag 3 burning, the conduct here of purchasing group health plans that are required by law to provide 4 abortion coverage is not likely to be viewed as conveying a particularized ideological message.
5 See Rumsfeld, 547 U.S. at 66. Moreover, the plaintiff churches are free to disassociate 6 themselves from any view that abortion is morally permissible and can explain to their 7 constituents that DMHC-regulated plans are required by law to include elective abortion 8 coverage. See id. at 64–65.

9 Because plaintiffs could not cure the claim’s deficiencies by alleging additional 10 facts, the court dismisses plaintiffs’ Free Speech claim without leave to amend. See Fed. R. Civ.
11 P. 15(a)(2); Ascon Props., 866 F.2d at 1160.

12 E. Equal Protection

13 The Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment prohibits a state from 14 “deny[ing] to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws,” U.S. Const.
15 amend. XIV, which essentially “direct[s] that all persons similarly situated should be treated 16 alike,” City of Cleburne, Tex. v. Cleburne Living Ctr., 473 U.S. 432, 439 (1985).

17 Here, the complaint generally alleges plaintiffs were treated differently than 18 similarly situated persons and businesses “in that there are categorical and individualized 19 exemptions to the Knox-Keene Act and the [letters’] requirements.” Compl. ¶ 123. The 20 complaint’s conclusory allegations fail to state a plausible claim under the Equal Protection 21 Clause. The letters apply to Plans, not plan purchasers, and do not make any classification with 22 respect to purchasers. In addition, as explained above, the complaint alleges no facts establishing 23 that the exemptions have been applied selectively based on religion. See Skyline Wesleyan
24 Church, No. 16-501, supra (dismissing similar equal protection claim challenging the same 25 DMHC letters).

26 The complaint does not state an Equal Protection claim. However, in light of the 27 Federal Rules’ policy of favoring amendments, the court GRANTS plaintiffs leave to amend their 28

1 Equal Protection claim to plead additional facts if they can do so consonant with Rule 11. See 2 Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2); Ascon Props., 866 F.2d at 1160.

3 V. CONCLUSION

4 For the foregoing reasons, the court GRANTS defendant's motion to dismiss for 5 failure to state a claim. The court DISMISSES plaintiffs' Establishment Clause and Free Speech 6 claims without leave to amend as futile. However, the court GRANTS plaintiffs leave to amend 7 their Free Exercise and Equal Protection claims if they can do so consonant with Rule 11.
8 Plaintiffs shall file an amended complaint, if any, within twenty-one (21) days of the date this 9 order is filed.

10 As noted above, the court also GRANTS defendant's request for judicial notice of 11 the existence of the June 21, 2016 letter issued by the Office for Civil Rights of the U.S.
12 Department of Health and Human Resources, but does not take judicial notice of the veracity of 13 the letter's contents or conclusions. ECF No. 38. The court considers the supplemental authority 14 submitted by plaintiffs but disregards the accompanying argument. See ECF Nos. 36–37.

15 This order resolves ECF Nos. 21, 22, 36, 37, and 38.
