

1 It requires the party making the request to “set forth the statutory or other authority for sealing,
2 the requested duration, the identity, by name or category, of persons to be permitted access to the 3 other documents, and all other relevant information.” L.R. 141(b).

4 The “showing required by law” referred to by our Local Rule is a high one. The court
5 operates under a strong presumption in favor of access to court records. Ctr. for Auto Safety v.
6 Chrysler Group, LLC, 809 F.3d 1092, 1096 (2016). Accordingly, a party seeking to file 7 something under seal must present “compelling reasons” supporting the request.¹ Id. The 8 compelling reasons standard requires the court to: (1) find a compelling reason supporting sealing 9 the record and (2) articulate the factual basis for the sealing the record, without relying on 10 hypothesis or conjecture. Id. at 1096-97. The court must conscientiously balance the competing 11 interests of the public and the party who wishes to keep the documents private. Id. at 1097.
12 “What constitutes a ‘compelling reason’ is ‘best left to the sound discretion of the trial court.’” 13 Id. (quoting Nixon v, Warner Commc’ns, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 599 (1978)). Some examples of 14 records for which there are compelling reasons to seal are: (1) records that could be used to 15 gratify private spite or promote public scandal; (2) records containing libelous statements; and (3)
16 records that contain business information that could be used to harm a litigant’s competitive 17 standing. Id.

18 The court has determined that certain sensitive and private information about P.A. should 19 be sealed. ECF No. 31 at 5-6 (finding that the public’s interest in the disclosure of P.A.’s 20 personal identifying information, medical and psychiatric records, and behavioral history is 21 outweighed by P.A.’s interest in maintaining the privacy of such). The parties have since sought 22 to file under seal: (1) petitioner’s reply brief in support of the petition; (2) all exhibits in support 23 of petitioner’s reply brief in support of the petition; (3) petitioner’s motion to exclude evidence;
24 (4) petitioner’s proposed sur-sur-reply brief; (5) petitioner’s reply brief in support of the motion

25
26 ¹ The court may seal materials attached to discovery motions unrelated to the merits of a 27 case on a lesser showing than “compelling reasons”; in such a situation, a showing of “good 28 cause” suffices. Id. at 1097. As the court concludes that the instant request to seal meets the higher compelling reasons standard, it need not determine whether the motion to exclude evidence qualifies as a discovery motion unrelated to the merits of this case.

1 to exclude evidence; (6) respondents' reply to the petition; (7) respondents' exhibits in support of 2 their reply to the petition; (8) respondents' opposition to the motion to exclude; and (9) exhibits B 3 and C in support of respondents' opposition to the motion for a temporary restraining order. In 4 addition, in response to the court's prior order on sealing, respondents have submitted a redacted
5 version of their response to the petition and proposed redactions to response exhibits A, D, E, L,
6 N, Q, R, S, V, W, and X. Petitioner has filed an opposition to those proposed redactions, arguing 7 that they are insufficient to protect P.A.'s sensitive information.

8 The filings listed above contain some sensitive and private information about P.A. For 9 that reason, unredacted versions of these documents must be filed under seal. However, the court
10 finds that the documents may be redacted in such a way as to protect P.A.'s personal information 11 but also provide some public record of those documents. Accordingly, the court grants the 12 parties' requests to seal the unredacted versions of these documents. The parties shall, within 14 13 days of the entry of this order, file appropriately redacted versions of these documents sufficient 14 to protect P.A.'s personal information.

15 So ordered.

16 DATED: January 30, 2017.
