UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ROBERT W. NEAL,
Petitioner,
v.
WARDEN, SATF,
Respondent.

No. 2:16-cv-2778 JAM DB P

ORDER AND FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Petitioner is a state prisoner proceeding with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254. Petitioner challenges his 2012 conviction on one count of a lewd act upon a child. Petitioner contends, among other things, he is actually innocent, he was incompetent at the time of the crime and at the time he rendered his plea, his trial and appellate attorneys rendered ineffective assistance, and the district attorney withheld exculpatory evidence. Before the court is respondent's motion to dismiss the petition as untimely and multiple motions filed by petitioner, including motions for an evidentiary hearing, for scribing assistance, and for medical testing. For the reasons set forth below, the court will recommend denial of the motion for an evidentiary hearing and dismissal of the petition as untimely. The court will further deny petitioner's pending motions as moot.

1 BACKGROUND

2 In mid-2012, defendant was charged with committing a lewd act upon a child, sodomy by a 3 person over 21 years old of a person under 16 years old, oral copulation by a person over 21 years 4 old on a person under 16 years old, and being a felon in possession of a firearm. On December 5 21, 2012, petitioner plead no contest to the crime of Lewd Act Upon a Child and was sentenced to 6 eight years in prison. (LD 1.¹) Petitioner’s appellate attorney filed a brief explaining that he 7 found no basis for an appeal. On August 30, 2013, the California Court of Appeal, Third 8 Appellate District, affirmed the judgment. (LD 2.) Petitioner did not seek review in the 9 California Supreme Court.

10 Petitioner subsequently filed eight pro se state post-conviction challenges:

- 11 1. October 23, 2014 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the Plumas 12 County Superior Court.² (LD 3.) The court denied the petition on January 5, 13 2015. (LD 4.)
- 14 2. July 7, 2015 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the Plumas County 15 Superior Court. (LD 5.) Petition denied on October 8, 2015. (LD 6.) The 16 court found all claims, except a claim based on the recantation of the victim, 17 barred as successive and untimely and denied the recantation claim on the 18 merits.
- 19 3. July 24, 2015 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the Plumas County 20 Superior Court. (LD 7.) The court denied the petition on October 8, 2015 on 21 the same grounds as it denied the prior petition. (LD 8.)

¹ Respondent lodged the state court record here on May 15, 2017. (See ECF No. 54.) Documents 23 are identified by the Lodged Document (“LD”) number assigned them by respondent.

24 ² Petitioner signed this state petition on October 23, 2014. (LD 3.) Pursuant to the “mailbox 25 rule,” prisoners are deemed to have filed documents with the court on the date they gave them to 26 prison authorities for mailing. See Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266, 270 (1988). Petitioner’s first 27 state petition does not include a proof of service so it is not clear when petitioner provided copies 28 to the prison for mailing. The court notes that it may very well have been after October 23. The petition was not filed-stamped in the Plumas County Superior Court until December 5, 2014.
(LD 3.) In any event, the court will give petitioner the benefit of the doubt and will consider the petition filed on October 23, 2014.

- 1 4. October 7, 2015 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the California
2 Court of Appeal, Third Appellate District. (LD 9.) The court denied the 3 petition as “premature” on October 15, 2015. (LD 10.)
- 4 5. November 17, 2015 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the California
5 Court of Appeal, Third Appellate District. (LD 11.) The court denied the 6 petition, without comment, on December 4, 2015. (LD 12.)
- 7 6. December 6, 2015 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the California
8 Court of Appeal, Third Appellate District. (LD 13.) On December 18, 2015, 9 the court again denied the petition without comment. (LD 14.)
- 10 7. February 7, 2016 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the California
11 Court of Appeal, Third Appellate District. (LD 15.) The court denied the 12 petition without comment on February 19, 2016. (LD 16.)
- 13 8. February 17, 2016 - Petition for writ of habeas corpus filed in the California 14 Supreme Court. (LD 17.) On June 29, 2016, the court denied the petition 15 without comment. (LD 18.)

16 Petitioner filed his present federal petition on October 5, 2016. (ECF No. 1.) Petitioner 17 makes the following claims: (1) he is actually innocent; (2) he was incompetent to enter a plea; 18 (3) the district attorney used false evidence; (4) his trial attorney was ineffective; (5) his appellate 19 attorney was ineffective; (6) the district attorney’s office withheld exculpatory evidence; (7) the 20 evidence was insufficient to support a finding of guilt; (8) the review by the Court of Appeal was 21 inadequate due to the lack of a record; (9) the trial court lacked jurisdiction; (10) the trial judge 22 was biased; (11) the trial judge wrongfully denied a Marsden motion; and (12) petitioner was 23 denied a presumption of innocence when the district attorney told petitioner’s trial attorney and 24 the court that petitioner’s DNA had been found at the scene. (Id. at 14-16.) Shortly thereafter, 25 petitioner filed multiple motions seeking a plethora of court orders, including the appointment of 26 counsel, discovery, an evidentiary hearing, and court-ordered investigations. The court denied 27 motions seeking discovery or an evidentiary hearing as premature (see ECF Nos. 40, 75) and 28 ////

1 denied motions for the appointment of counsel (see ECF Nos. 7, 75). The following motions 2 remain:

- 3 1. In a document filed on April 3, 2017, petitioner seeks reconsideration of the 4 denial of his requests for the appointment of counsel. (ECF No. 47.) Petitioner 5 contends he is disabled because he has low cognitive functioning due to a brain 6 injury. He asks for scribing assistance and the appointment of counsel.
- 7 2. In a document filed on May 1, 2017, petitioner requests summary judgment based 8 on respondent's failure to file a timely answer. (ECF No. 52.)
- 9 3. In a document filed on May 11, 2017, petitioner requests a ruling on his prior 10 requests for the appointment of counsel. (ECF No. 53.)
- 11 4. In a document filed on May 15, 2017, petitioner asks for a ruling on his requests 12 for discovery and an evidentiary hearing. (ECF No. 57.)
- 13 5. In a document filed on May 25, 2017, petitioner moves for reconsideration on 14 "docket #35, 37, 33, 32, 14, 8, 4, 5 & 6." (ECF No. 59.) He also asks for a ruling 15 on docket #45.
- 16 6. In a document filed on June 12, 2017, petitioner seeks scribing assistance. (ECF 17 No. 68.)
- 18 7. In documents filed on August 3 and August 4, 2017, petitioner seeks the 19 appointment of counsel. (ECF Nos. 85, 86.) Petitioner attaches a document to his 20 August 3 filing which shows that in March 2017, he was reclassified as "DD2," 21 indicating he is now considered disabled.
- 22 8. On December 1, 2017, petitioner moved for court-ordered medical testing. (ECF 23 No. 97.)

24 On April 28, 2017, respondent moved to dismiss the petition as untimely. Petitioner, acting in 25 pro se, filed several documents in opposition. (ECF Nos. 56, 58, 62, 63, 64, 65, and 76.) On 26 July 28, 2017, respondent filed his reply to petitioner's opposition documents. (ECF No. 84.)

27 On October 31, 2017, the court appointed counsel for petitioner for the limited purpose of 28 opposing the motion to dismiss. (ECF No. 92.) On December 7, petitioner through counsel filed

1 an amended opposition to the motion to dismiss. (ECF No. 98.) Respondent filed a reply. (ECF
2 No. 104.)

3 PETITIONER’S MOTIONS

4 For the reasons set out below, the court recommends that all claims in the petition be deemed 5 untimely and respondent’s motion to dismiss be granted. Based on those recommendations, and 6 based on the appointment of counsel for petitioner, the court will reject petitioner’s various 7 motions as moot.

8 MOTION TO DISMISS

9 I. Legal Standards

10 A. Standards for Motion to Dismiss

11 Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases allows a district court to dismiss a petition 12 if it “plainly appears from the face of the petition and any exhibits annexed to it that the petitioner 13 is not entitled to relief in the district court.” The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit construes 14 a motion to dismiss a habeas petition as a request for the court to dismiss under Rule 4. See 15 O’Bremski v. Maass, 915 F.2d 418, 420 (9th Cir. 1990). Accordingly, the court will review 16 respondent’s motion to dismiss pursuant to its authority under Rule 4.

17 In ruling on a motion to dismiss, the court “must accept factual allegations in the [petition] as 18 true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party.” Fayer v.
19 Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins.
20 Co., 519 F.3d 1025, 1030 (9th Cir. 2008)). In general, exhibits attached to a pleading are “part of 21 the pleading for all purposes.” Hartmann v. Cal. Dept. of Corr. and Rehab., 707 F.3d 1114, 1124 22 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 10(c)).

23 B. Statute of Limitations

24 The habeas statute’s one-year statute of limitations provides:

25 A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to an application for a writ 26 of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The limitation period shall run from the latest of—

27 (A) the date on which the judgment became final by the 28 conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

1 (B) the date on which the impediment to filing an 2 application created by State action in violation of the 3 Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the 4 applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

5 (C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was 6 initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has 7 been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made 8 retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or 9 (D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or 10 claims presented could have been discovered through the 11 exercise of due diligence.

12 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1).

13 Under subsection (d)(1)(A), the limitations period runs from the time a petition for certiorari 14 to the United States Supreme Court was due, or, if one was filed, from the final decision by that 15 court. Lawrence v. Florida, 549 U.S. 327, 339 (2007).

16 The limitations period is statutorily tolled during the time in which “a properly filed 17 application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent 18 judgment or claim is pending.” 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2). A state petition is “properly filed,” and 19 thus qualifies for statutory tolling, if “its delivery and acceptance are in compliance with the 20 applicable laws and rules governing filings.” Artuz v. Bennett, 531 U.S. 4, 8 (2000). “The period 21 between a California lower court’s denial of review and the filing of an original petition in a 22 higher court is tolled—because it is part of a single round of habeas relief—so long as the filing is 23 timely under California law.” Banjo v. Ayers, 614 F.3d 964, 968 (9th Cir. 2010) (citing Evans v.
24 Chavis, 546 U.S. 189, 191-93 (2006)); see also Carey v. Saffold, 536 U.S. 214, 216-17 (2002) 25 (within California’s state collateral review system, a properly filed petition is considered 26 “pending” under section 2244(d)(2) during its pendency in the reviewing court as well as during 27 the interval between a lower state court’s decision and the filing of a petition in a higher court, 28 provided the latter is filed within a “reasonable time”).

The limitations period may be equitably tolled if a petitioner establishes ““(1) that he has been pursuing his rights diligently, and (2) that some extraordinary circumstance stood in his way’ and prevented timely filing.” Holland v. Florida, 560 U.S. 631, 649 (2010) (quoting Pace v.
DiGuglielmo, 544 U.S. 408, 418 (2005)). An extraordinary circumstance must be more than 1 merely “oversight, miscalculation or negligence on [the petitioner’s] part.” Waldron–Ramsey v.

2 Pacholke, 556 F.3d 1008, 1011 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Harris v. Carter, 515 F.3d 1051, 1055 3 (9th Cir. 2008)). Rather, petitioner must show that some “external force” “stood in his way.” Id.
4 “The high threshold of extraordinary circumstances is necessary lest the exceptions swallow the 5 rule.” Lakey v. Hickman, 633 F.3d 782 (9th Cir. 2011) (citations and internal quotation marks 6 omitted).

7 In addition, the statute of limitations is subject to an actual innocence exception. A petitioner 8 may have his untimely-filed case heard on the merits if he can persuade the district court that it is 9 more likely than not that no reasonable juror would have convicted him. McQuiggin v. Perkins, 10 569 U.S. 383, 400-01 (2013); Lee v. Lampert, 653 F.3d 929, 937 (9th Cir. 2011) (en banc).
11 “Unexplained delay in presenting new evidence bears on the determination whether the petitioner 12 has made the requisite showing.” McQuiggin, 569 U.S. at 399. For example, the “court may 13 consider how the timing of the submission and the likely credibility of a petitioner’s affiants bear 14 on the probable reliability” of his evidence of innocence. Id.

15 II. Discussion

16 A. Is the Petition Timely?

17 The Court of Appeal denied petitioner’s appeal on August 30, 2013. Any petition for review 18 to the California Supreme Court was due forty days thereafter, on October 9, 2013. See Cal. R. of 19 Ct. 8.500(e)(1); Waldrip v. Hall, 548 F.3d 729, 735 (9th Cir. 2008). Under 28 U.S.C. § 20 2244(d)(1)(A), the one-year limitations period commenced running the following day, on October 21 10, 2013. Patterson v. Stewart, 251 F.3d 1243, 1246 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(a)).
22 Thus, the last day to file a federal petition was October 9, 2014.

23 The earliest possible date petitioner’s first state habeas petition could be considered filed is 24 October 23, 2014, which is after the expiration of the statute of limitations. Accordingly, 25 petitioner is not entitled to statutory tolling during the time period his state petitions were 26 pending. See Ferguson v. Palmateer, 321 F.3d 820, 823 (9th Cir. 2003) (Once the federal 27 limitations period has expired, it may not be reinitiated by the filing of a state habeas petition,

28 ///

1 even if that habeas petition was timely under state law.) Therefore, under § 2244(d)(1)(A), the 2 petition is not timely. The parties do not dispute that determination.

3 Petitioner essentially concedes that most of his claims are barred by the statute of limitations.
4 (See ECF No. 98.) He argues that two claims should survive because they are based on colorable 5 allegations that he is actually innocent.

6 B. Actual Innocence Exception

7 1. Legal Standards

8 In Schlup v. Delo, 513 U.S. 298 (1995), the Supreme Court held that a habeas petitioner who 9 makes a “colorable claim of factual innocence” that would implicate a “fundamental miscarriage 10 of justice” may be entitled to have “otherwise barred constitutional claim[s] considered on the 11 merits.” 513 U.S. at 314-15. To invoke this miscarriage of justice exception to AEDPA's statute 12 of limitations, a petitioner must show that it is more likely than not that no reasonable juror would 13 have convicted him in light of the new evidence. McQuiggin, 569 U.S. at 386.

14 This exception is concerned with actual, as opposed to legal, innocence and must be based on 15 reliable evidence not presented at trial. Schlup, 513 U.S. at 324; Calderon v. Thompson, 523 U.S.
16 538, 559 (1998). To make a credible claim of actual innocence, petitioner must produce “new 17 reliable evidence -- whether it be exculpatory scientific evidence, trustworthy eyewitness 18 accounts, or critical physical evidence -- that was not presented at trial.” Schlup, 513 U.S. at 324.
19 In assessing this new evidence, habeas corpus courts consider all of the evidence and may have to 20 make some credibility assessments. See House v. Bell, 547 U.S. 518, 538–40 (2006); Schlup, 21 513 U.S. at 331-32 (district court “may consider how the timing of the submission and the likely 22 credibility of the affiants bear on the probably reliability of that evidence.”).

23 The Ninth Circuit recently recognized that there is some question whether the new evidence 24 for purposes of an actual innocence gateway claim must be newly discovered or simply newly 25 presented. In Pratt v. Filson, 705 F. App'x 523, 525 (9th Cir. 2017), the court noted that it 26 previously adopted the “newly presented” standard as set out by the plurality in Schlup. Id.
27 (citing Griffin v. Johnson, 350 F.3d 956, 962 (9th Cir. 2003)). While the court questioned 28 whether the Griffin standard is still viable, it declined to reconsider that question. Id. Therefore,

1 this court remains bound by Ninth Circuit precedent and will consider whether petitioner has 2 presented new evidence in support of his actual innocence claim.

3 Courts have found the “Schlup gateway” satisfied in few cases. In Larsen v. Soto, 742 F.3d 4 1083, 1096-97 (9th Cir. 2013), the court noted that the Schlup gateway is “demanding” and 5 “precedents holding that a habeas petitioner satisfied its strictures have typically involved 6 dramatic new evidence of innocence.” In McQuiggin, the Supreme Court re-stated its description 7 of the Schlup gateway: “[A] petitioner does not meet the threshold requirement unless he 8 persuades the district court that, in light of the new evidence, no juror, acting reasonably, would 9 have voted to find him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.” 569 U.S. at 386 (quoting Schlup, 513 10 U.S. at 329). Thus, the Schlup gateway requires the production of “‘new reliable evidence . . .
11 sufficient to persuade the district court that ‘no juror, acting reasonably, would have voted to find 12 him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.’” Zapata v. Davis, No. SA-16-CA-1244-XR, 2017 WL
13 1403307, at *2 (W.D. Tex. Apr. 18, 2017); see also Black v. Vasquez, No. CV 16-4940-ODW 14 (GJS), 2016 WL 6436822, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 31, 2016) (“The Schlup gateway test requires the 15 presentation of ‘new reliable evidence,’ which then is compared to the evidence presented 16 previously.”); Shoulders v. Eckard, No. 14-1753, 2016 WL 1237798, at *4 (W.D. Pa. Feb. 29, 17 2016), rep. and reco. adopted, 2016 WL 1213627 (W.D. Pa. Sept. 6, 2016); Lowman v.
18 Swarthout, No. 13-cv-1729-BAS (PCL), 2014 WL 4704590, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 22, 2014).

19 The consideration of actual innocence is made complicated by the fact petitioner entered a 20 plea. The Supreme Court noted that problem in Bousley v. United States, 523 U.S. 614, 624 21 (1998). See also Smith v. Baldwin, 510 F.3d 1127, 1140 n.9 (9th Cir. 2007) (court assumes, 22 without deciding, that actual innocence gateway is available to a petitioner who plead guilty or no 23 contest). There, the Court stressed that “[a]ctual innocence means factual innocence, not mere 24 legal insufficiency.” 523 U.S. at 623. The Court then set out some standards for consideration of 25 an actual innocence claim in this situation. First, the government would not be “limited to the 26 existing record to rebut any showing that petitioner might make. Rather, . . . the [g]overnment 27 should be permitted to present any admissible evidence of petitioner's guilt even if that evidence 28 was not presented during petitioner's plea colloquy. . . .” Id. at 624. Further, “[i]n cases where

1 the Government has forgone more serious charges in the course of plea bargaining, petitioner's 2 showing of actual innocence must also extend to those charges. Id. Therefore, here, petitioner 3 must show actual innocence of not only the charges of the sexual assaults, but also the charge of 4 being a felon in possession of a firearm

5 2. Factual Basis for Petitioner's Plea

6 At his plea hearing, petitioner agreed that "if the facts as stated in the police report were 7 established at a contested evidentiary hearing, that that would furnish a factual basis" for 8 petitioner's plea of no contest to the charge of lewd act upon a child. (Tr. of Plea Hrg. (ECF No.
9 1-14) at 9.) The Court of Appeal reviewed the record and summarized the facts as follows:

10 In June 2012, the Plumas County Sheriff's Office received a report 11 that Jane Doe, a minor, had been raped by defendant, her father.
12 The victim met with a sheriff's deputy and told him that, over a 13 two-day period, defendant sexually assaulted her numerous times.
14 The acts included vaginal rape, oral and anal sodomy, and digital 15 penetration of the victim's vagina.

16 The sheriff's office arranged a pretext phone call between the 17 victim and defendant. During the call, the victim asked defendant if 18 she could get pregnant as a result of the sexual assault. Defendant 19 said she would not get pregnant "because my shit's tied."
20 Defendant attempted to blame the rape on the victim's brother.
21 When the victim said she would come home only if defendant 22 promised he would not "have sex with [her] again," defendant 23 replied: "I promise! You fucking take that to the bank. I fucking 24 promise, I way promise."

25 Defendant was later interviewed by law enforcement. He initially 26 denied the rape, claiming he went to bed after drinking alcoholic 27 beverages. Defendant then said the victim exhibited "sexually 28 provocative" behavior toward him, and he could not remember what happened during the times she reported being assaulted.
Defendant said the fact that he was cleaning the victim's bedding when law enforcement arrived at the home was purely coincidental.

Defendant was arrested and subsequently charged with (1) committing a lewd act upon a child (Pen. Code, § 288, subd. (a)), (2) sodomy by a person over 21 years old of a person under 16 years old (§ 286, subd. (b)(2)), (3) oral copulation by a person over 21 years old on a person under 16 years old (§ 288a, subd. (b)(2), and being a felon in possession of a firearm (§ 29800, subd. (a)(1)).
It was further alleged that defendant was eligible to serve his commitment in state prison pursuant to section 1170, subdivisions (h)(3) and (f).

Defendant pleaded no contest to the charge of committing a lewd act upon a child and agreed his attorney would stipulate to a factual

1 basis for the plea pursuant to People v. West (1970) 3 Cal.3d 595,³ 2 in exchange for dismissal of the remaining charges and a sentencing 3 lid of eight years in state prison.

4 Defendant later moved the trial court for new counsel and to 5 withdraw his plea. The trial court denied both of his motions.
6 Defendant was then sentenced to the aggravated term of eight years 7 in state prison. He was ordered to pay various fines and fees and 8 awarded 223 days of custody credit.

9 (LD 2.)

10 3. Discussion

11 Petitioner argues he is actually innocent based on two grounds. First, he provides new 12 evidence, in the form of letters allegedly written by the victim, that petitioner contends 13 demonstrate his innocence. Second, he alleges his ineffective assistance of counsel claim is also 14 based on his actual innocence. In that claim, petitioner argues his trial attorney acted 15 unreasonably when he failed to have bodily fluids found on the victim's bedding and on her 16 person tested for DNA.

17 a. Letters Purportedly from Victim

18 Petitioner presented two letters, purportedly from the victim, to the superior court in support 19 of his habeas petitions. He submitted the first letter with his October 23, 2014 habeas petition to 20 the Plumas County Superior Court. (LD 3.) That letter is a handwritten, is addressed to "Who 21 ever read this," and has a printed name that appears to be the victim's. The letter states that 22 petitioner is innocent; that the victim found an "item" in petitioner's room "with his stuff" and 23 wiped it on herself. (LD 3 at consecutive page 19.)

24 The superior court denied the petition on January 5, 2015. (LD 4.) In its ruling, the court 25 noted that the letter purportedly from the victim was undated and was not made under penalty of 26 perjury. Further, the court found that "[a] child's assertion that someone is 'innocent' is not 27 evidence that Petitioner did not commit the crime, particularly in light of the child's pleas that 28 Petitioner be allowed to 'come home.'" (Id.)

³ A plea pursuant to West permits "a defendant to both deny committing the crime and admit that there is sufficient evidence to convict him." Roe v. Flores-Ortega, 528 U.S. 470, 473 (2000) (citing West, 3 Cal. 3d 595).

1 Petitioner submitted a second letter purportedly from the victim with his petitions filed with 2 the Plumas County Superior Court on July 7, 2015 and July 24, 2015. (LD 5, 7.) This second 3 letter was two-pages, typed, and entitled “robert neal is innocent of all crime.” The letter again 4 states that the victim wiped herself with petitioner’s “dna” and again purports to be signed by the 5 victim, although this time under penalty of perjury. (See LD 5 at consec. pages 7-8.) The state 6 submitted an informal response to the July 2015 petitions. Attached to it is an investigator’s 7 report describing meeting with the victim, showing her the letter, and being told that she did not 8 write or sign the letter. The victim stood by the statement she had provided to law enforcement at 9 the time of the crimes. (LD 8 at consec. pages 18-19.) In its October 2015 order denying the two 10 July 2015 petitions, the superior court noted that “[i]t is obvious that two different people signed 11 each letter and neither of them were the victim.” (LD 6.) The court was clear in its rejection of 12 petitioner’s claims: “The petitioner entered a plea. The victim never testified. This is not newly 13 discovered evidence but a second attempt to manipulate the victim and her statements. He is not 14 entitled to any relief.” (Id.)

15 State court factual findings are entitled to a presumption of correctness by this court. See 28 16 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(1). That presumption can only be rebutted by “clear and convincing evidence.” 17 Further, this court may not grant habeas relief unless a state court’s factual finding is 18 unreasonable, meaning no “fair-minded jurist” could have so found. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(2); 19 Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. 86, 101 (2011). Thus, a petitioner’s burden to overcome a state 20 court factual finding is steep. Petitioner presents no evidence to rebut the state court’s finding 21 that the victim did not sign either recantation letter.

22 Even if the court is not bound by the presumption of correctness and reasonableness 23 standards of the statute in determining whether petitioner has sufficiently shown actual innocence, 24 see McQuiggin, 569 U.S. at 386 (in determining petitioner’s showing of actual innocence “court 25 is not bound by the rules of admissibility that would govern at trial”), petitioner fails to make any 26 showing that the letters were, in fact, signed by the victim. Further, the court is not limited to 27 simply considering the new evidence provided by petitioner. In determining whether a petitioner 28 has established actual innocence, the court must “view the record as a whole” and consider “all

1 the evidence, old and new, incriminating and exculpatory.” House, 547 U.S. at 538-39 (internal 2 quotation marks and citations omitted). In light of the evidence that the victim did not prepare or 3 sign the letters, the letters are not the sort of “reliable evidence” to make out a “colorable claim of 4 actual innocence” that Schlup requires. The letters do not make it “more likely than not that no 5 reasonable juror would” have reasonable doubt about petitioner’s guilt. See id. at 538.

6 Petitioner's claim of actual innocence based on these two letters does not support an exception to 7 application of the statute of limitations.

8 b. Ineffective Assistance of Counsel Claim

9 Petitioner’s second showing of actual innocence is based on his claim that counsel was 10 ineffective for failing to have bodily fluids found at the scene and on the victim tested for DNA.
11 Petitioner’s argument that DNA testing would absolve him is unsupported by any other evidence.
12 Further, petitioner's own evidence demonstrates the weakness of his contention that DNA 13 evidence is “reliable new evidence” of his innocence. Petitioner presented the letters purportedly 14 from the victim to the state court for the purpose of showing why his DNA may have ended up in 15 the body fluid samples taken from the scene and the victim.

16 Moreover, speculation about the results of DNA evidence, particularly in light of petitioner’s 17 plea and the absence of other evidence of innocence, does not constitute reliable new evidence or 18 make out a colorable claim that petitioner is actually innocent. Even where the state court has 19 appointed counsel for a petitioner to investigate the availability of DNA testing, courts have 20 found the results of such testing too speculative to make a credible claim of actual innocence.
21 See Cummings v. Dovey, No. CV 07-8144 PSG(AJW), 2008 WL 4664975, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Oct.
22 17, 2008) (“letter indicating that an investigation into the availability and potential benefit of 23 DNA testing has begun is, at least at this point, entirely speculative, and does not constitute the 24 type of ‘new reliable evidence’ contemplated in Schlup”); see also Wells v. Brewer, No. 2:16-

1 CONCLUSION

2 The undersigned finds that all claims in petitioner’s petition are untimely and that his claims 3 are not excepted from the statute of limitations due to petitioner’s attempt to show actual 4 innocence. Based on these findings, petitioner’s pending motions are moot. Further, petitioner’s 5 request in his opposition brief to stay this proceeding to exhaust his ineffective assistance of 6 counsel claim is also moot because that claim is barred by the statute of limitations.

7 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that petitioner’s outstanding motions (ECF Nos.
8 47, 52, 53, 57, 59, 65, 68, 85, 86, and 97) are denied as moot; and

9 Further, IT IS RECOMMENDED that:

- 10 1. Petitioner’s motion for an evidentiary hearing (ECF No. 65) be denied; and 11 2. The petition be dismissed as untimely.

12 These findings and recommendations will be submitted to the United States District Judge 13 assigned to the case, pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). Within fourteen days 14 after being served with these findings and recommendations, any party may file written 15 objections with the court and serve a copy on all parties. The document should be captioned 16 “Objections to Magistrate Judge's Findings and Recommendations.” Any response to the 17 objections shall be filed and served within seven days after service of the objections. The parties 18 are advised that failure to file objections within the specified time may result in waiver of the 19 right to appeal the district court’s order. Martinez v. Ylst, 951 F.2d 1153 (9th Cir. 1991). In the 20 objections, the party may address whether a certificate of appealability should issue in the event 21 an appeal of the judgment in this case is filed. See Rule 11, Rules Governing § 2254 Cases (the 22 district court must issue or deny a certificate of appealability when it enters a final order adverse 23 to the applicant).
