DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO TRANSFER VENUE TO THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA; MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

Judge: Honorable John A. Mendez
Action Filed: March 6, 2018

1 FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2 I. THE FIRST FILED CASE IN THE NORTHERN DISTRICT

3 Since last year, the State and some of its political subdivisions have been in litigation with 4 the federal government regarding the proper interpretation of 8 U.S.C. § 1373, in the context of 5 the U.S. Department of Justice’s (“US DOJ”) threat to withhold federal funds from the State 6 unless the State accedes to the federal government’s immigration-enforcement demands. On 7 January 25, 2017, President Trump signed an Executive Order directed at so-called “sanctuary 8 jurisdictions.” The Executive Order sought to withhold federal grants from those “jurisdictions 9 that willfully refuse to comply with 8 U.S.C. 1373 (sanctuary jurisdictions),” and authorized the 10 Attorney General to initiate “enforcement action[s] against any entity that violates 8 U.S.C. 1373, 11 or which has in effect a statute, policy, or practice that prevents or hinders the enforcement of 12 Federal law.” Exec. Order No. 13,768, 82 Fed. Reg. 8799 at 8801 (Jan. 25, 2017).

13 The City and County of San Francisco and the County of Santa Clara initially filed lawsuits 14 challenging the Executive Order in the Northern District of California before the Honorable 15 William H. Orrick. Judge Orrick granted both jurisdictions a preliminary, and later, a permanent, 16 injunction enjoining the Executive Order as unconstitutional, including under the Tenth 17 Amendment for seeking to conscript jurisdictions to assist in carrying out the immigration laws.
18 See Cty. of Santa Clara v. Trump, 275 F. Supp. 3d 1196, 1215-16 (N.D. Cal. 2017), appeal 19 docketed, Nos. 17-17478, 17-17480 (9th Cir. Dec. 14, 2017). Issues surrounding § 1373 were 20 briefed extensively before Judge Orrick, as San Francisco sought declaratory relief alleging that it 21 was in compliance with § 1373. See RJN, Ex. G (Pl. San Francisco’s Second Am. Compl.) 22 ¶¶ 144-48.<sup>1</sup>

23 The federal government specifically targeted the State regarding its compliance with 24 § 1373, starting in April 2017. On August 14, 2017, the State filed a lawsuit challenging US 25 DOJ’s imposition of immigration-enforcement conditions on federal funding in the Northern 26 District of California. Because of the related cases that existed on these issues, the State’s case

27 <sup>1</sup> Judge Orrick ultimately decided that he would consider San Francisco’s compliance with § 1373
28 in the related litigation with the State of California. Cty. of Santa Clara, 275 F. Supp. 3d at 1218-19.

1 was assigned to Judge Orrick on August 28, 2017. See RJN, Ex. A (California v. Sessions 2 Docket). On October 13, 2017, the State amended its complaint to challenge an additional 3 federal-funding condition seeking compliance with § 1373, after it became apparent that 4 California was in danger of being found non-compliant under US DOJ’s broad interpretation of 5 § 1373.

6 In its First Amended Complaint, the State sought a declaration that several California 7 public-safety and confidentiality statutes, including Senate Bill (SB) 54, the California Values 8 Act (“SB 54”), which is the subject of the federal government’s third cause of action here, 9 comply with § 1373 as “properly interpreted and construed,” and that alternatively, the Tenth 10 Amendment of the U.S. Constitution prevents § 1373 from being “constitutionally enforced”
11 against these statutes. See RJN, Ex. A (California v. Sessions Docket), Ex. B (First Am. Compl.)
12 ¶¶ 152-53. In fact, the same two provisions of SB 54 that are at issue in the Northern District 13 litigation—the provisions regulating the exchange of release dates and personal information—are 14 squarely presented in the federal government’s Complaint in this case. Compare RJN, Ex. C at 15 14 (Pl.’s Am. Mot. Prelim. Inj.) with Compl. ¶ 65. The central dispute in California v. Sessions is 16 whether the federal government may interpret § 1373 in such a manner as to impinge on the 17 State’s police power and commandeer the State’s law-enforcement resources for federal 18 immigration-enforcement purposes.

19 The State filed an amended motion for preliminary injunction on November 7, 2017, which 20 was fully briefed and argued on December 13, 2017. See RJN, Ex. A (California v. Sessions 21 Docket), Ex. C (Pl.’s Am. Mot. Prelim. Inj.). On January 16, 2018, the federal government 22 moved to dismiss the State’s Amended Complaint. See RJN, Ex. A (California v. Sessions 23 Docket). The motion was fully briefed and argued on February 28, 2018. See id. In the context 24 of these motions, the federal government has repeatedly represented to Judge Orrick that it had 25 yet to reach a final determination on whether SB 54 complies with § 1373, including at a recent 26 hearing on the federal government’s motion to dismiss. See RJN, Ex. F (Hr’g Tr.) 6:7-15 (“[T]his 27 case has really sort of gotten out in front of that administrative process, and . . . there is no final 28 agency determination yet on 1373 compliance.”); 41:8-12 (“[T]his dispute is actually not ripe.”).

1 As a result of the ongoing motion practice, Judge Orrick has become intimately familiar with 2 § 1373, SB 54, and the constitutional arguments of both parties.

3 On March 5, 2018, Judge Orrick denied the federal government’s motion to dismiss and 4 denied the State’s amended motion for preliminary injunction. RJN, Ex. D (Order Denying Mot.
5 Dismiss), Ex. E (PI Order). Judge Orrick found that the record was insufficient to assess the 6 State’s likelihood of success on the merits and that the issues in the case would benefit from 7 further factual development. RJN, Ex. E (PI Order) at 26, 28. The court also found that the 8 controversy was rooted in a constitutional analysis of federal and state powers and whether the 9 federal government’s interpretation of § 1373 violates the Tenth Amendment, a core issue in this 10 case. To move the case toward resolution, Judge Orrick ordered the parties to file a joint case 11 management statement by March 20 regarding a schedule for discovery and cross-motions for 12 summary judgment in the upcoming months, and set a Case Management Conference for March 13 27. See RJN, Ex. D (Order Denying Mot. Dismiss) at 2.

14 II. THE CURRENT LAWSUIT

15 On March 6, 2018, one day after Judge Orrick denied both motions in California v.
16 Sessions following the federal government’s argument that SB 54’s compliance with § 1373 was 17 unsettled and therefore unripe for judicial review, the federal government filed this lawsuit. The 18 complaint claimed that three recently-enacted California statutes, including SB 54, are invalid 19 because they are “preempted by federal law and impermissibly discriminate against the United 20 States, and therefore violate the Supremacy Clause of the United States Constitution.” Compl.
21 ¶ 2. In addition to claiming that SB 54 violates the Supremacy Clause and § 1373, the Complaint 22 sets forth causes of action relating to the constitutionality of Assembly Bill (AB) 450 (Immigrant 23 Worker Protection Act) (“AB 450”) and section 12 of AB 103 (relating to review of detention 24 facilities) (“AB 103”). Id. ¶¶ 60-65. Like California v. Sessions, the dispute in this case focuses 25 on fundamental constitutional questions surrounding the federal government’s immigration 26 enforcement power and the State’s determination of how to best use its broad constitutional 27 police powers to implement policies to protect the safety and welfare of all those residing in the 28 State, regardless of immigration status.

1 SB 54, the subject of California v. Sessions, was enacted in accordance with the State’s 2 powers to determine how to best expend limited law enforcement resources. The statute defines 3 when California law enforcement agencies (“LEA”) have discretion to respond to “notification 4 requests,” which are requests by an immigration authority asking an LEA to inform it “of the 5 release date and time in advance of the public of an individual in its custody.” See Cal. Gov’t 6 Code §§ 7283(f), 7284.6(a)(1)(C). LEAs are also generally prohibited from using LEA funds or 7 personnel to “provid[e] personal information,” about an individual “for immigration enforcement 8 purposes,” unless that information is “available to the public.” Id. § 7284.6(a)(1)(D). Lastly, 9 section 7284.6(a)(4) defines when LEAs may transfer persons in their custody to immigration 10 authorities or when the LEA is authorized to do so by a judicial warrant or judicial probable cause 11 determination. Id. § 7284.6(a)(4). Although SB 54 explicitly authorizes compliance with all 12 aspects of § 1373, id. § 7284.6(e), the federal government in California v. Sessions argued that 13 the State’s claims were unripe because it had not yet determined if SB 54 was actually in conflict 14 with § 1373. See RJN, Ex. F (Hr’g Tr.) 6:7-15, 41:8-12. However, in this suit, filed the day after 15 Judge Orrick relied in part on that argument in denying the State’s request for a preliminary 16 injunction, the federal government is now claiming that the statutes do in fact conflict. Unless 17 this case is transferred, this new assertion will be litigated in both this court and in the Northern 18 District.

19 The federal government’s two other claims allege that AB 450 and AB 103 are targeted 20 against, and create an obstacle to, the federal government’s immigration laws. AB 450 was 21 signed into law on October 5, 2017, and became effective on January 1, 2018. AB 450 furthers 22 the State’s interest in ensuring that all protections, rights, and remedies available under state law 23 are available to all workers regardless of immigration status. See Cal. Gov’t Code § 7285. The 24 law generally prohibits an employer, except as otherwise required by federal law, from 25 “providing voluntary consent to an immigration enforcement agent to enter any nonpublic areas 26 of a place of labor.” This provision does not apply if the agent provides a judicial warrant. Id.
27 § 7285.1. In addition, section 7285.2 of the Government Code generally prohibits an employer, 28 except as otherwise required by federal law, from providing voluntary consent to an immigration-

1 enforcement agent to access or obtain the employer’s employee records. This provision does not 2 apply if the agent presents a subpoena or judicial warrant, and also does not apply to requests for 3 certain documents for which a Notice of Inspection is provided to the employer. Id. § 7285.2.
4 AB 450 also amends California’s Labor Code to require that employers post notices to employees 5 regarding “any inspections of I-9 Employment Eligibility Verification forms or other employment 6 records conducted by an immigration agency” within 72 hours of receiving notice. Cal. Lab.
7 Code, § 90.2(a). The amended Labor Code now also prohibits a public or private employer from 8 “reverify[ing] the employment eligibility of a current employee at a time or in a manner not 9 required by Section 1324a(b) of Title 8 of the United States Code.” Id. § 1019.2.

10 AB 103, signed into law as part of an omnibus public-safety bill on June 27, 2017, requires 11 the Attorney General to review the conditions at “county, local, or private locked detention 12 facilities” housing non-citizens detained for purposes of civil immigration proceedings. Cal.
13 Gov’t Code § 12532(a), (b). Both AB 450 and AB 103 concern matters typically left to the states 14 and do not purport to regulate federal officials or immigration. Like the challenge to SB 54, the 15 challenge to these statutes turns on the extent of the federal government’s regulation of 16 immigration and the rights reserved to the states under the Tenth Amendment.

17 LEGAL STANDARD

18 “For the convenience of parties and witnesses, in the interest of justice, a district court may 19 transfer any civil action to any other district or division where it might have been brought[.]” 28 20 U.S.C. § 1404(a). The purpose of this provision is “to prevent the waste of time, energy and 21 money” and “to protect litigants, witnesses and the public against unnecessary inconvenience and 22 expense.” Van Dusen v. Barrack, 376 U.S. 612, 616 (1964) (quoting Continental Grain Co. v.
23 Barge FBL-585, 364 U.S. 19, 26, 27 (1960)) (internal quotations omitted). A district court has 24 broad discretion to “adjudicate motions for transfer according to an ‘individualized, case-by-case 25 consideration of convenience and fairness.’” Stewart Org., Inc. v. Ricoh Corp., 487 U.S. 22, 29 26 (1988) (quoting Van Dusen, 376 U.S. at 622); Jones v. GNC Franchising, Inc., 211 F.3d 495, 498
27 (9th Cir. 2000).

28 The district court must first determine whether the action is one that “might have been

1 brought” in the transferee forum. See 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a); Am. Canine Found. v. Ben Sun, 2 D.M.V., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787, *8 (E.D. Cal. July 27, 2006). Once the court finds venue 3 proper, the court “consider[s] public factors relating to the interest of justice and private factors 4 relating to the convenience of the parties and witnesses.” See Decker Coal Co. v. Commonwealth
5 Edison Co., 805 F.2d 834, 843 (9th Cir. 1986). The “convenience” factors relevant here include: 6 (1) plaintiff’s choice of forum; (2) the contacts relating to the plaintiff’s cause of action in the 7 chosen forum; (3) the convenience of witnesses; and (4) ease of access to the evidence. See 8 Mussetter Distrib. v. DBI Bev. Inc., 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61013, *9-*10 (E.D. Cal. July 8, 9 2009); Jones, 211 F.3d at 498-99.

10 In addition, the first-to-file rule is a doctrine of federal comity that permits a district court to 11 decline jurisdiction over an action when a complaint involving the same parties and issues has 12 already been filed in another district. Pacesetter Systems, Inc. v. Medtronic, Inc., 678 F.2d 93, 13 94-95 (9th Cir. 1982).

14 LEGAL ARGUMENT

15 I. THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA IS A DISTRICT IN WHICH THE FEDERAL 16 GOVERNMENT’S LAWSUIT “MIGHT HAVE BEEN BROUGHT”

17 Venue would be proper in the Northern District of California. A civil action may be 18 brought in any district where “a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim 19 occurred[.]” 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2). Venue can therefore lie in the Northern District, since the 20 California statutes at issue apply statewide. See Am. Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787
21 at * 9 (granting transfer “[s]ince . . . [the California statute] applies throughout the state, it applies 22 equally in the Northern District as it does in the Eastern District.”). Furthermore, the declaration 23 of Thomas Homan submitted by the federal government in support of its preliminary injunction 24 motion specifically lists three ICE field offices (Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco) that 25 are impacted by the laws at issue, one of which is located in the Northern District. See 26 Declaration of Thomas D. Homan, Dkt. No. 2-2 (“Homan Decl.”) ¶ 21. Thus, the Court should 27 find that this action “might have been brought” in the Northern District. See 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a).

1 II. THE FACTORS WEIGH HEAVILY IN FAVOR OF TRANSFERRING THIS CASE TO THE 2 NORTHERN DISTRICT

3 A. This Case Should Be Transferred in the Interests of Justice Because of the 4 Pendency of a Related Case and Because Consolidation Would Promote 5 Judicial Economy

6 This matter should be transferred to the Northern District in the interests of justice, to allow 7 the State to seek to consolidate it with California v. Sessions, because it involves the same parties 8 and overlapping issues. The “interest of justice” is a decisive factor, even if the other 9 “convenience” factors weigh against transfer. Am. Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787
10 at * 9; Gatdula v. CRST Int’l, Inc., 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13706, *8 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 8, 2011).

11 “The feasibility of consolidation is a significant factor, although even the pendency of an 12 action in another district is important because of the positive effects it might have in possible 13 consolidation of discovery and convenience to witnesses and parties.” A.J. Industries, Inc. v. U.S.
14 Dist. Court for Cent. Dist., 503 F.2d 384, 389 (9th Cir. 1974) (internal citations omitted); see also 15 Am. Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787 at *9-*10 (the pendency of a related case in the 16 transferee forum is an important consideration when determining the interests of justice). Indeed, 17 the Supreme Court has recognized that “[t]o permit a situation in which two cases involving 18 precisely the same issues are simultaneously pending in different District Courts leads to the 19 wastefulness of time, energy and money that [the federal transfer statute] was designed to 20 prevent.” Continental Grain Co., 364 U.S. at 26. Thus, centralizing the adjudication of two cases 21 with common issues allows the parties to conserve their resources and avoids inconsistent 22 judgments, especially where the claims can be consolidated. See Mussetter Distrib., 2009
23 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61013 at *13; Kurtz v. Interlius, Inc., 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 101922, *5 24 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 9, 2011) (stating that “judicial resources are conserved when an action 25 adjudicated by a court that has already ‘committed judicial resources to the contested issues and is 26 familiar with the facts of the case.’”).

27 Differences in causes of action, named parties, or isolated facts do not preclude transfer.
28 See Am. Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787 at * 10; Mussetter Distrib., 2009
U.S. Dist. LEXIS 61013 at *13. In American Canine Foundation, the district court transferred a

1 case challenging the constitutionality of a California statute from the Eastern District to the 2 Northern District, because a pending case in the Northern District challenged the same statute, 3 despite some differences in the causes of action pleaded and the named defendants. Am. Canine
4 Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787 at *10 (finding that “[i]t would save judicial resources, time 5 and money to have these similar cases tried in the same district”).

6 Here, the pendency of a related, earlier-filed action weighs heavily in favor of transfer and 7 should be decisive. Indeed, if this case is transferred, the State intends to seek consolidation of 8 the matters given the overlapping claims regarding SB 54 and § 1373. That this case also 9 involves a challenge to AB 450 and AB 103 should not preclude transfer because this matter, at 10 its core, involves the same fundamental legal issue as California v. Sessions: “the contours of the 11 State’s broad constitutional police powers under the Tenth Amendment and the federal 12 government’s ‘broad, undoubted power over the subject of immigration and the status of aliens.’” 13 RJN, Ex. E (PI Order) at 1 (quoting United States v. Arizona, 567 U.S. 387, 394 (2012)).<sup>2</sup>

14 Transfer would therefore promote judicial economy. The parties and Judge Orrick in 15 California v. Sessions have already expended a substantial amount of time and resources 16 litigating the contested issues through a motion to dismiss and a motion for preliminary 17 injunction. After vigorous motion practice, the parties are ready to begin discovery and proceed 18 to the merits of the State’s claims—which can now be assessed in light of the federal 19 government’s plain contention that SB 54 violates § 1373. The court has already held two 20 hearings and devoted significant judicial resources to evaluating the very issues raised by the 21 federal government in this case.<sup>3</sup> In fact, Judge Orrick has presided over issues surrounding

22 <sup>2</sup> The federal government implicitly concedes that the mere fact that one of the three laws at issue 23 in Brosnan v. Becerra was sufficient to at least raise the possibility of relatedness to the Court.
24 See Dkt. Nos. 9 (Pl.’s Notice Concerning Possibly Related Case), 12 (Related Case Order 25 [declining to relate or reassign case]). However, unlike Brosnan v. Becerra, which involves only 26 the potential enforcement of AB 450 against a sole business owner, this case and California v.
27 Sessions both involve the same parties, the same overarching constitutional questions, the exact 28 same legal issues regarding SB 54 and § 1373, and an extensive litigation that has already transpired.

Haire, 2008 WL 4304604, *4 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 2008) (“The interest of ensuring that this matter proceeds speedily to trial weighs in favor of transfer.”). The average pending actions per judgeship in the Northern District as of December 31, 2017 is 657, compared to the Eastern

1 § 1373 and the limits to the federal government’s ability to conscript state and local jurisdictions
2 in furtherance of the government’s federal immigration-enforcement demands since January 2017 3 in the County of Santa Clara v. Trump litigation, as discussed above. Transferring this case to the 4 Northern District would allow the court to adjudicate common legal issues at the same time, 5 avoiding the possibility of inconsistent judgments. Thus, “[t]he interests of justice ‘weigh 6 particularly heavily’ in favor of transfer.” See Am. Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787 7 at *10.

8 B. The Federal Government’s Choice of Forum Is Not Controlling Here

9 The federal government’s choice of forum should be afforded little deference. While a 10 plaintiff’s choice of forum may ordinarily weigh against transfer, “[i]f the operative facts have not 11 occurred within the forum of original selection and that forum has no particular interest in the 12 parties or subject matter, the plaintiff’s choice is only entitled to minimal consideration.” Stay- 13 Dri Continenence Mgmt. Sys., 2008 WL 4304604 at *2 (quoting Pacific Car & Foundry Co. v.
14 Pence, 403 F.2d 949, 954 (9th Cir. 1968)) (internal quotations omitted). The Complaint contains 15 no allegations indicating a particularized interest of either the parties or subject matter in the 16 Eastern District. Indeed, one of the main field offices allegedly impacted by the California laws 17 at issue is in San Francisco, which is located in the Northern District. Homan Decl. ¶ 21.
18 Moreover, California statutes apply statewide and, as discussed infra, the parties and witnesses 19 are located throughout California and out-of-state. See Dkt. Nos. 2-2, 2-3, 2-4, 2-5. The federal 20 government’s choice of forum is therefore not controlling here.

22 C. The Convenience of the Parties and Witnesses and the Ease of Access to Evidence Further Weigh in Favor of Transfer

23 The convenience of the parties and witnesses also weigh in favor of transfer. The federal 24 government is located in the District of Columbia and has alleged no significant contacts with the 25 Eastern District in this case. In fact, the federal government’s witnesses and counsel are located

26 _____
District’s average of 1,246 pending actions per judgeship. See RJN, Exs. H and I (U.S. District 27 Courts, National Judicial Caseload Profiles); Stay-Dri Continenence Mgmt. Sys., LLC, 2008 WL 28 4304604 at *4 (finding relevant that the Eastern District has a “significantly larger caseload” than transferee forum). This factor therefore also weighs in favor of transfer to the Northern District.

1 in the District of Columbia and San Diego. See generally Homan Decl., Dkt. No. 2-2; 2 Declaration of Todd Hoffman, Dkt. No. 2-3; Declaration of Chief Rodney S. Scott, Dkt. No. 2-4; 3 Declaration of Carl C. Risch, Dkt. No. 2-5. Thus, they will be required to travel a nearly identical 4 distance regardless of whether the case proceeds in the Eastern or Northern District. See Am.
5 Canine Found., 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55787 at *11-*12. Furthermore, the documentary 6 evidence in both cases will likely be located in the District of Columbia and in various locations 7 throughout California.

9 III. THE FIRST-TO-FILE RULE ADDITIONALLY SUPPORTS TRANSFERRING THIS CASE TO THE NORTHERN DISTRICT

10 The “first-to-file” rule further supports transferring this case to the Northern District. A 11 district court may decline jurisdiction over an action when a complaint involving the same parties 12 and issues has already been filed in another district. Pacesetter Systems, Inc., 678 F.2d at 94-95 13 (“Normally sound judicial administration would indicate that when two identical actions are filed 14 in courts of concurrent jurisdiction, the court which first acquired jurisdiction should try the 15 lawsuit and no purpose would be served by proceeding with a second action.”). The rule is meant 16 to promote efficiency and sound judicial administration and “should not be disregarded lightly.”
17 Id. at 95 (quoting Church of Scientology v. U.S. Dep’t of the Army, 611 F.2d 738, 750 (9th Cir.
18 1979)). The court considers three factors when evaluating whether to apply the first-to-file rule: 19 “(1) the chronology of the two actions; (2) the similarity of the parties; and (3) the similarity of all 20 the issues.” Taylor v. AlliedBarton Sec. Serv. LP, 2014 WL 1329415, *7 (E.D. Cal. Apr. 1, 2014)
21 (citing Alltrade, Inc. v. Uniweld Prods., Inc., 946 F.2d 622, 625-26 (9th Cir. 1991)). Strict 22 identity of the parties and identical issues in the cases are not required; rather, they must be 23 “substantially similar.” Id. at *7-*8.

24 All three factors are met here.

25 First, the chronology of the actions supports transfer of this action because California v.
26 Sessions was filed on August 14, 2017. See RJN, Ex. A (California v. Sessions Docket). The 27 State filed its amended complaint seeking a declaration that the State’s laws comply with § 1373 28 as properly interpreted and construed by its plain text and under the Tenth Amendment on 1 October 13, 2017. This action was filed nearly five months later on March 6, 2018. Thus, the 2 first factor weighs in favor of applying the first-to-file rule.

3 Second, the parties in both cases are the same: the State and the federal government.

4 Third, the issues are substantially similar and in the case of the federal government's third 5 cause of action relating to SB 54, they are identical.

6 As discussed supra, the central issue in both cases concerns the limits of the federal 7 government's immigration powers as they relate to the State's constitutional police powers to 8 enact laws to protect public safety and the welfare of its residents. Transfer of this case will avoid 9 duplication of litigation and allow one court to adjudicate common legal issues. Thus, the Court 10 should apply the first-to-file rule, decline to exercise its jurisdiction over this action, and transfer 11 this case to the Northern District.

12 CONCLUSION

13 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that this Court grant their motion 14 to transfer this case to the Northern District of California.
