UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

MARTIN ANTHONY CICALLA, JR,
Plaintiff,
v.
DONNA ROGERS; ESTATE OF LEON
ROGERS,
Defendants.

No. 2:20-cv-01999 JAM AC PS

ORDER

On October 6, 2020, plaintiff filed his case in pro se and paid the filing fee. ECF No. 1. The action was accordingly referred to the undersigned pursuant to Local Rule 302(c)(21). A status conference was held via Zoom on September 1, 2021 with plaintiff appearing. ECF No. 20. Defendants have not appeared, and the Clerk of Court has entered default against them. ECF No. 16. At the hearing, the court addressed the procedures for seeking default judgement and the threshold matter of jurisdiction. Plaintiff stated that defendants, who are Australian, are refusing to appear because they believe this court cannot exercise personal jurisdiction over them. The court noted that facts necessary to confirm jurisdiction appear to be absent from the complaint, and indicated an intention to issue an order to show cause. Upon further consideration, for the reasons explained below, the court will direct the filing of an amended complaint.

1 This is a breach of contract case brought in diversity, see 28 U.S.C. § 1332, by a resident
2 of California against defendant residents of Docklands, Victoria, Australia. ECF No. 1 at 2.
3 Plaintiff alleges that he and defendants entered an oral contract on February 7, 2018. Id. at 4.
4 Plaintiff further alleges that the oral contract was in the process of becoming memorialized in 5 writing when Leon Rogers died; the parties had been waiting on changes from an attorney, and 6 the written contract was never signed due to Leon Roger’s death. Id. The complaint does not
7 specify plaintiff’s physical location at the time the oral contract was allegedly created.

8 Generally, in determining the existence of personal jurisdiction, the district court applies
9 the law of the state in which the district court sits. See Panavision Int’l, L.P. v. Toepfen, 141
10 F.3d 1316, 1320 (9th Cir.1998). Because California’s long-arm jurisdictional statute is 11 coextensive with federal due process requirements, the jurisdictional analyses under state law and 12 federal due process are the same. Id. (citing Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 410.10). For a court to 13 exercise personal jurisdiction over a nonresident defendant, the defendant must have “minimum
14 contacts” with the forum such that the exercise of jurisdiction “does not offend traditional notions
15 of fair play and substantial justice.” International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310, 316
16 (1945) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Personal jurisdiction may be either
17 “general” (defendants had continuous and systematic contacts with the state) or “specific.” Dole
18 Food Co. v. Watts, 303 F.3d 1104, 1110–11 (9th Cir. 2002). To establish specific jurisdiction, a 19 plaintiff must show:

20 (1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities
21 or consummate some transaction with the forum or resident thereof;
22 or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privileges of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;

23 (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the 24 defendant’s forum-related activities; and

25 (3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

26 Id.

27 As plaintiff was informed at the hearing, the next step following a Clerk’s entry of default
28 against defendants is generally for the plaintiff to move for an order of default judgment.

1 However, a default judgment cannot be entered unless it is clear from the face of the complaint
2 that the court has personal jurisdiction over the defendants as well as subject matter jurisdiction
3 over the dispute. A district court has an affirmative duty to determine whether or not it has 4 personal jurisdiction over the defendants before entering a default judgment. In re Tuli, 172 F.3d
5 707, 712 (9th Cir. 1999).

6 Plaintiff represented at the status conference that he was in the state of California when 7 the verbal contact was entered. He further suggested that multiple communications between the 8 parties, relevant to the creation and terms of the alleged contract, occurred while plaintiff was in 9 California and defendants in Australia. Verified allegations of these facts in the complaint would 10 appear to support the exercise of specific personal jurisdiction under International Shoe and 11 progeny, because they would demonstrate that defendants purposefully directed their activities or 12 consummated some transaction with a California resident. Because the complaint lacks such 13 express allegations, it does not support consideration of default judgment. Because jurisdiction
14 must be established by the complaint itself, the court concludes that a response to an order to 15 show cause would be insufficient; the complaint itself must be amended.

16 Accordingly, plaintiff will be directed to file amended complaint that includes all the 17 necessary factual allegations. In order to ensure that defendants have a full and fair opportunity
18 to appear and respond, plaintiff must serve them with the anticipated amended complaint as well
19 as a copy of this order.

20 Plaintiff is not precluded from making additional amendments to clarify his substantive
21 factual allegations in anticipation of a possible motion for default judgment, though he need not
22 do so at this juncture. Plaintiff is reminded that an amended complaint like an original complaint,
23 as discussed at the status conference, should allege all necessary facts concisely in the body of the 24 complaint itself. Evidence should not be submitted to the court, but should be reserved for the 25 purpose of proving the complaint's allegations at a future time if necessary and appropriate.
26 Extensive exhibits are unnecessary, and do not substitute for the express allegation of facts in the 27 body of the complaint. In evaluating its own jurisdiction and considering any future motion for 28 default judgment, the court will look only to the verified allegations of the amended complaint.

1 Plaintiff is also informed that the court cannot refer to a prior pleading in order to make
2 his first amended complaint complete. Local Rule 220 requires that an amended complaint be
3 complete in itself without reference to any prior pleading. This is because, as a general rule, an 4 amended complaint supersedes the original complaint. Loux v. Rhay, 375 F.2d 55, 57 (9th Cir.
5 1967) (citations omitted), overruled in part by Lacey v. Maricopa County, 693 F.3d 896, 928 (9th
6 Cir. 2012) (claims dismissed with prejudice and without leave to amend do not have to be re-pled
7 in subsequent amended complaint to preserve appeal). Once plaintiff files a first amended
8 complaint, the original complaint no longer serves any function in the case. Therefore, in an
9 amended complaint, as in an original complaint, each claim and the involvement of each 10 defendant must be sufficiently alleged.

11 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that plaintiff shall file an Amended Complaint
12 that includes all necessary factual allegations, including:

- 13 • Where plaintiff was located when the oral contract was created;
- 14 • Any facts or circumstances demonstrating defendants' knowledge of plaintiff's 15 location when the oral contract was created;
- 16 • Whether there were any jurisdictional agreements between the parties.

17 Plaintiff is further ORDERED to serve a copy of this order and the amended complaint on 18 defendants at their last known address. The amended complaint and proof of service are due
19 within 30 days of the date of this order; plaintiff may request additional time if necessary.

20 IT IS SO ORDERED.
