ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION TO SET HEARING DATES FOR DEFENDANTS' MOTIONS TO DISMISS

[Civ. L.R. 7-11]

Courtroom: 6, 17th Floor
 Judge: Hon. Vaughn R. Walker

Filed concurrently:

1. Ericson Declaration
2. Proposed Order

1 I. RELIEF REQUESTED.

2 Defendant AT&T CORP. (“AT&T”) and specially appearing defendant AT&T
3 INC. (collectively, “Defendants”) hereby move pursuant to Civil L.R. 7-11 for an order
4 specially setting a hearing date for the Motion of Defendant AT&T Corp. to Dismiss
5 Plaintiffs’ Amended Complaint (the “AT&T Corp. Motion”) and the Motion of Defendant
6 AT&T Inc. to Dismiss Plaintiffs’ Amended Complaint (the “AT&T Inc. Motion”)
7 (collectively, the “Motions to Dismiss”).

8 Defendants ask that the Motions to Dismiss be heard either on June 8, 2006 or 9 June 15, 2006—or on some other date before June 21, 2006. In the alternative, Defendants
10 ask that the Motions to Dismiss be heard along with Plaintiffs’ Motion for Preliminary 11 Injunction (the “Motion for Preliminary Injunction”) on June 21, 2006.

12 II. REASONS FOR SEEKING A SPECIALLY SET HEARING DATE FOR THE 13 MOTIONS TO DISMISS.

14 A. Defendants’ proposal does not shorten either side’s briefing time.

15 Defendants’ proposal complies with the normal 35-day rule of Civil L.R. 7-2(a).
16 The only reason why this administrative motion is needed is because the Court has already
17 closed all of its normal civil law and motion hearing dates before June 29, 2006—a date
18 after the date set by the Court for hearing the Motion for Preliminary Injunction. Dkt. 78.

19 B. Defendants’ proposal avoids wasting judicial resources and reflects the law’s
20 requirement that certain issues be determined at the threshold.

21 Resolving the Motions to Dismiss in advance of the hearing on the Motion for 22 Preliminary Injunction is both logical and economical. The Motions to Dismiss address
23 issues that could result in dismissal of one or both of the defendants. The AT&T Inc.
24 Motion argues that this Court lacks personal jurisdiction over AT&T Inc. The AT&T Corp.
25 Motion argues that both defendants should be dismissed because the Amended Complaint
26 fails to plead the absence of immunity from suit and plaintiffs lack standing to bring their 27 claims. Granting either motion will simplify the matters to be determined on the Motion for 28 Preliminary Injunction; granting the AT&T Corp. motion will moot the Motion for

1 Preliminary Injunction.

2 The Motion for Preliminary Injunction raises numerous legal and factual issues that
3 need not be considered at all if the Court grants the Motions to Dismiss. To consider the 4 Motion for Preliminary Injunction before the Court has the opportunity to consider whether 5 jurisdictional considerations, immunities or standing doctrine prevent plaintiffs from 6 bringing this action against defendants would be a waste of judicial resources.

7 Beyond waste, there are substantive legal reasons to decide the Motions to Dismiss
8 first. The legal issue of immunity should be decided before reaching the Motion for 9 Preliminary Injunction because the statutes upon which defendants rely are phrased in a
10 way (“No cause of action shall lie in any court . . .”) that makes clear that Congress 11 intended to preclude completely any judicial proceedings on the merits in cases where the 12 immunities are applicable (see AT&T Corp. Motion at 5-6) and because these statutes place
13 the burden of pleading the lack of immunity on plaintiffs (see AT&T Corp. Motion at 7-14 10). The legal issue of standing should be decided before reaching the Motion for 15 Preliminary Injunction because standing is a doctrine of constitutional dimension that 16 determines whether the Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over the case. See AT&T
17 Corp. Motion at 19-24.

18 C. There is no urgency to plaintiffs’ Motion for Preliminary Injunction.

19 In our meet-and-confer on this administrative motion, plaintiffs have insisted that 20 their Motion for Preliminary Injunction go first, before the Motions to Dismiss. See
21 Declaration of Bruce A. Ericson, filed herewith, ¶¶ 5-8. As set forth above, neither judicial 22 economy nor the law favor such an approach.

23 Nor have plaintiffs demonstrated any particular sense of urgency. They filed this 24 case in January. They did not file their Motion for Preliminary Injunction until the end of 25 March—even though they had been in possession of Mr. Klein’s Confidential Documents
26 for “a couple of months” before that. Declaration of Bruce A. Ericson in Support of Motion
27 of AT&T Corp. to Compel Return of Confidential Documents (Dkt. 43) ¶ 8. Once they did
28 file their motion, they set it for June and did not seek to expedite it. We do not criticize

1 this—and we certainly do not criticize plaintiffs for extending us the professional courtesy
2 of enlarging defendants’ time to plead to the complaint. See Dkt. 13. We merely note that
3 the procedural history to date does not demonstrate any compelling need to put the cart
4 before the horse by reaching factual issues before deciding threshold legal issues.

5 D. Defendants’ rationale for the suggested hearing dates.

6 There is no magic to the hearing dates of June 8, 2006 or June 15, 2006; these are
7 just the Court’s normal dates for hearing civil motions. If either or both would be
8 inconvenient for the Court, AT&T respectfully requests that the Court specially set a 9 hearing at a time convenient for the Court and sufficiently early so that the issues raised by 10 the Motions to Dismiss may be decided in advance of June 21, 2006 hearing on the Motion
11 for Preliminary Injunction.

12 In the alternative, AT&T asks that the Court set the hearing on the Motions to 13 Dismiss at the same time the June 21, 2006 hearing on the Motion for Preliminary
14 Injunction so that the Court may, at a minimum, consider the Motions to Dismiss
15 simultaneously with the Motion for Preliminary Injunction. For the substantive law reasons
16 stated above, that is the less desirable of the two solutions, but even so it would be better
17 than hearing the Motions to Dismiss after the Motion for Preliminary Injunction.
