Ditto! we probably all have and have not seen one cent of any revenues generated by the use of our name and likeness.

Herb, I also have an agreement with NFL players that has not been honored!! Seven or eight years ago I was asked to allow them to use my name, likeness, number, etc. on the new Madden video games. I agreed, signed a contract which stated that I would be compensated and to this very day have never, ever seen a penny. Several other of my Raider teammates from our '77 Superbowl team did the same and none have them have ever been compensated either. I have tried and tried to get an answer from the players association and even hired an attorney several years ago to no avail!! Now I am sure that the compensation could not have amounted to much, however, every penny helps these days. Anyone else, have the same experience or has anyone else actually received any money from this venture??? Please let me know. Thanks,

To All Of My Retired NFL Brothers

I am not a self appointed representative - Planiffi - in this Historic Class Action Law Suit... My friend, Bernie Parrish requested that i join him as one of the Planiffis... I realize that it is not about Bernie, or any individual, including me because , i have an Agreement with Players Inc. that hasn't been honored... I have been ignored four years.. This Law Suit is about my 3,500 retired NFL Brothers who have also been ignored by Players Inc, for too long... We will need everyones support during thsi tuff battle with Players Inc. By the way, if Players Inc. continue to boast about representing us, don't you think that we should be compensated?

Click here - www.Players for Justice.org To All Of My Retired NFL Brothers Please view our web site when time permits... If you have any questions, feel free to contact Bernie - or me... The Team for Justice is about getting better Pensions, Disability/Health Insurance, and to win the Class Action Law Suit against Players Inc. for claiming to represent 3500 of us... As representative of 3500 retired players, Players Inc. owes and owed each player a fiduciary duty to make best efforts to obtain for that player certain licensing and Marketing opportunities, to allocate those opportunities equitably, to account for the revenues from those opportunities, and to distribute the revenues equitably... Also, there are quite a few guys including me who have signed Agreements with Players Inc. and they refuse to honor our Agreements .. Upshaw, said that i wasn't due any compensation because Reebok decided not to use me in the promotion... It does not say in the Agreement that Reebok can terminate me, so, what is his excuse if you have a signed Agreement that wasn't honored? We need everyone with a signed Agreement that wasn't honored to let us know now, because it will help us to WIN the Law Suit... We also need your support, if you don't have a signed Agreement, so, please fill out the application on the web site and send it to us... Thanks to everyone who joins the Team for Justice... Herb Adderley

Herb, I cannot tell you how proud I am of what you are doing. You are right, that hidden 21% is the key. I think you and I know who owns that 21%. In my view it is criminal—a scheme to enrich a few. Keep it up. You are also right about the conflict of interest. Every dollar that is not paid for disability or pension is a dollar that goes into the pockets of those who vote for Gene's job. The less you get, the more power he gets. The most righteous person in the world would be challenged to do the right thing. It is a corrupt setup in my view, plain and simple ----- Original Message ----- From: To: Cc: Sent: Saturday, June 09, 2007 1:06 AM Subject: Re: [Retired NFL Players] More from Profootballtalk.com The books show that the NFLPA owns 79% of Players Inc. and the remaining 21% is hidden, however, if there is a Jury trial with our Lawsuit, the owners of the 21% will be revealed... That is a major concern of all of us, because Players Inc. should own 100% not 79%... Also, In 1993 when the NFLPA became partners with the owners by excepting the 59% - 64% share of the revenue, they took on the responsibility of all Disability Claims from the employers [Owners]... What other business employees in America sues the Union that they pay dues to that represents them for being injured on the Job? In America, the employee sues the employer for an injury that occurred on the job, don't they? Does Upshaw realize that he is in America, or is he that SPACED out? Hopefully, the Congressional Hearings that will take place June 26th, will bring that up along with, why it takes two or more years to answer a complaint, and more important, why are so many claims turned down by , and the other five members of the committee? Herb Adderley - Retired Players For Justice -

Herb,

Thanks for the note. I know that you and Bernie Parrish are going to win this case. I want to help any way I can. Another thing I wanted to mention to you is that I know a man who wants to bring jerseys and pictures to your house and have you sign them and you would probably make between $1,000-$1,500 and you wouldn't have to leave your house. He would pay you on the spot. Let me know if you are interested.
Thanks.

Your friend.
