19 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

21 SAN FRANCISCO DIVISION

23 Plaintiffs,

24 v.

25 SAP AG, et al.,

26 Defendants.

Case No. 07-CV-1658 PJH (EDL)

DEFENDANTS' OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFFS' ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION FOR CLARIFICATION OF
 MAY 5, 2008 CASE MANAGEMENT
 ORDER

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiffs’ motion for “clarification” should be denied. The motion is baseless—the
3 Court’s May 5, 2008 case management order is clear (as are the accompanying minutes) that each
4 side has 350 hours for “depositions.” The motion is inappropriate—it is an attempt to evade the
5 discovery limits set by the Court more than a year ago, under the guise of seeking “clarification.”
6 The motion is unnecessary—Plaintiffs could easily have raised the issue in connection with the
7 May 28, 2009 Case Management Conference rather than rushing to court.

8 This motion is the product of Plaintiffs’ failure to manage their case and discovery.
9 Plaintiffs purport to bring the motion to assure that they have time to take expert depositions,
10 when their real problem is that they have already taken so many fact depositions, and noticed so
11 many more, that they have no time left under the current deposition limits.

12 After the April 2008 Case Management Conference, the Court exercised its discretion and 13 set discovery limits different from what either side proposed. Defendants have operated under 14 these limits. Limits require choices, and Plaintiffs should not be excused from the consequences
15 of their choices because they allege that the Court’s orders are not clear.

16 II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

17 Before the April 24, 2008 Case Management Conference, defendants SAP AG, SAP
18 America, Inc., and TomorrowNow, Inc. (collectively, “Defendants”) and plaintiffs Oracle USA,
19 Inc. and Oracle International Corporation, as well as former plaintiffs Oracle Corporation and J.D.
20 Edwards Europe Limited (collectively, “Plaintiffs,” and together with Defendants, the “Parties”)
21 made competing proposals for the limits on fact witness depositions. (D.I. 76.) After considering 22 the issues, the Court issued its May 5, 2008 Case Management and Pretrial Order (“Order”) (D.I.
23 84) and accompanying minutes (“Minutes”) (D.I. 77). The Order states: “Depositions: 350 hours
24 each side” (emphasis in original). (D.I. 84.) The Minutes state: “Each side will be allowed 350
25 hours for depositions.” (D.I. 77.)

26 On May 12, 2009, a year after the Order issued and shortly after the Parties had completed
27 negotiations regarding potential modifications to the current schedule, Plaintiffs claimed for the 28 first time that the 350 hour deposition limit does not apply to all depositions in the case. See

1 Declaration of Tharan Gregory Lanier (“Lanier Decl.”), ¶¶ 4-6, 11. Why Plaintiffs did so then is
2 obvious. By May 12, 2009, Plaintiffs had used almost all of their deposition time and had noticed
3 17 fact witness depositions that they planned to conduct prior to the June 19, 2009 discovery
4 cutoff. See Lanier Decl., ¶¶ 7-9. Since then, Plaintiffs have noticed eight more third party
5 depositions. See Lanier Decl., ¶ 9.

6 On May 12, 2009, Plaintiffs filed a joint administrative motion, accompanied by a
7 stipulation and proposed order, requesting modification of the Court’s May 5, 2008 Order in
8 several respects, including a request to change the limits on deposition hours from 350 to 450
9 hours. See Lanier Decl., ¶¶ 4-5. On May 15, 2009, the Court set a Case Management Conference
10 for May 28, 2009. (D.I. 307.) When Plaintiffs informed Defendants on May 19, 2009 that 11 Plaintiffs intended to file their administrative motion that same day, purportedly to seek
12 “clarification” of the deposition hour limit in the current Order, Defendants suggested that
13 Plaintiffs raise the issue at the upcoming Case Management Conference. See Lanier Decl., ¶ 13.
14 Plaintiffs instead filed this motion. (D.I. 309, 310, 311); see also Lanier Decl., ¶ 13.

15 III. PLAINTIFFS’ MOTION SHOULD BE DENIED BECAUSE THE COURT’S
16 ORDER IS CLEAR AND DOES NOT REQUIRE CLARIFICATION

17 The only provision of the Order that addresses depositions states: “Depositions: 350
18 hours each side” (emphasis in original). (D.I. 84.) The Order does not distinguish between fact
19 and expert discovery with respect to deposition hours, even though other parts of the Order do
20 make such a distinction (e.g., the distinction between the non-expert and expert discovery cutoff).
21 (D.I. 84.) The Minutes also plainly state: “Each side will be allowed 350 hours for depositions.”
22 (D.I. 77.) This is the only provision of the Minutes that addresses discovery limits. Plaintiffs 23 ignore it.

24 The Court’s Order and Minutes (not only) are clear on their face, they are consistent with 25 the text and Advisory Committee Notes to Rule 30 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which 26 make no distinction between fact and expert depositions. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 30; Advisory 27 Committee Notes to Fed. R. Civ. P. 30. Where a court’s meaning is “apparent from the court’s 28 order,” a motion for clarification is without merit. Semiconductor Energy Lab. Co. v. Chi Mei

1 Optoelectronics Corp., No. C 04-04675 MHP, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 52597, at *5-6 (N.D. Cal.
2 July 27, 2006) (Lanier Decl., Exh. 1). This Court’s Order requires no clarification, and Plaintiffs’
3 motion should be denied on that basis.

4 IV. PLAINTIFFS’ DISGUISED ATTEMPT TO MOVE FOR RECONSIDERATION IS
5 IMPROPER AND SHOULD NOT BE PERMITTED

6 Plaintiffs’ motion essentially attempts to extend the discovery limits even beyond the 7 additional 100 hours to which the Parties have agreed (subject, of course, to the Court’s approval).
8 See Lanier Decl., ¶ 5. This simply highlights that Plaintiffs’ goal is endless discovery, rather than 9 resolution of this case.

10 Courts are vested with “broad discretion . . . to permit or deny discovery.” Santos v. City
11 of Culver City, 228 Fed. Appx. 655, 657 (9th Cir. 2007); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2) (“By 12 order, the court may alter the limits in these rules . . .”). The Parties presented their proposals
13 regarding fact witness depositions, expert discovery, and many other issues, in their April 17,
14 2008 Joint Case Management Statement. (D.I. 76.) The Court exercised its discretion in issuing
15 the Order and Minutes, and, among other decisions, permitted each side (and limited them to) a
16 total of 350 hours for depositions. (D.I. 77, 84.)

17 Plaintiffs claim that the motion relates to expert discovery, but the real issue is that
18 Plaintiffs simply do not have enough time to conduct 25 depositions between May 12 and the 19 June 19, 2009 discovery cutoff. See Lanier Decl., ¶¶ 8, 10. Faced with the consequences of 20 having noticed more depositions than they can complete in the hours remaining—a dilemma
21 exacerbated by Plaintiffs’ use of their deposition time thus far—Plaintiffs seek relief in the guise
22 of an administrative motion for “clarification” of the Court’s clear limits on deposition hours.
23 This is not a motion for clarification at all; it is a motion to reconsider the Court’s discovery
24 limits, which have been in effect for more than a year.

25 Where a motion for clarification is “in substance, a motion for reconsideration, which is
26 subject to strict threshold requirements under Civil Local Rule 7-9” and, as such, “does not depart
27 greatly from the arguments already advanced . . . [the motion] can be denied on that basis alone.”
28 Semiconductor Energy, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 52597, at *2-3. See Lanier Decl., ¶ 3 and Exh. 1.

1 This motion presents no rationale to depart from the Court’s Order, and does not even purport to
2 satisfy “the strict threshold requirements under Civil Local Rule 7-9.” This motion should be
3 denied on that basis as well.

4 V. CONCLUSION

5 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that the Court deny Plaintiffs’
6 administrative motion for clarification of the Court’s May 5, 2008.
