	SFI-638763v1	DEFS.' RESP. TO PLFS.' OBJS. TO EVID. ISO DEFS.' MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT Case No. 07-CV-1658 PJH (EDL)

Defendants SAP AG, SAP America, Inc., and TomorrowNow, Inc. ("Defendants") hereby respond to Plaintiffs' Objections to Evidence Filed in Support of Defendants' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment D.I. 682 ("Pls.' Objs. to Evid.") as follows.

4

A. Exhibit H to the Lanier Declaration.

5 Plaintiffs object on relevance grounds to the July 6, 2009 Fourth Amended and Restated 6 Cost Sharing Agreement ("Cost Sharing Agreement") attached as Exhibit H to the Declaration of 7 Tharan Gregory Lanier in Support of Defendants' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment ("Lanier 8 Declaration"). Plaintiffs argue that Exhibit H is irrelevant because the question of whether 9 Plaintiffs may recover damages for nonparties is a purely legal question. Pls.' Objs. to Evid. at 2. 10 They further argue that Exhibit H is irrelevant because it does not "resolve the factual issue of 11 whether Plaintiffs seek lost profits of related nonparties." Id. at 2-3. However, Plaintiffs 12 misunderstand the purpose of Exhibit H. Exhibit H goes to the foundational issue of the 13 relationships among the entities at issue in Plaintiffs' "Oracle organization as a whole" damages 14 theory. It is relevant to show, as a foundational matter, that they are separate entities as well as 15 nonparties.

Plaintiffs also object to related portions of Defendants' motion on the ground that they purportedly consist of speculation and improper opinion. However, Plaintiffs' only specific complaint is that Exhibit H purportedly does not establish any basis for the contention that "Oracle's corporate structure allows it to conduct its operations through various cost-sharing agreements." Pls.' Objs. to Evid. at 3. This clearly is incorrect. Exhibit H, on its face, is a costsharing agreement among various Oracle corporate entities.

The Court should deny Plaintiffs' objections to Exhibit H, and the portions of Defendants' motion to which it relates, because they lack merit. In addition, since Plaintiffs now concede, as a matter of fact and law, that they may not seek damages for the nonparties at issue, the Court should deny Plaintiffs' objections as moot.

Declaration, on the same grounds discussed above with regard to Exhibit H. Plaintiffs' objections to Exhibit I should be denied for the same reasons. Exhibit I goes to the same foundational fact as Exhibit H, and, in addition, Plaintiffs' objections to Exhibit I should be denied as moot now that Plaintiffs have conceded that they may not attempt to seek damages for nonparties.

C. Exhibit N to the Lanier Declaration.

Defendants inadvertently included in their motion a cite to unpublished decision Guy v. 6 7 IASCO, No. B168339, 2004 WL 1354300 (Cal. Ct. App. June 17, 2004). Defendants withdraw 8 that citation. However, Plaintiffs' request that portions of Defendants' motion be stricken based 9 on citation to the Guy case should be denied. Defendants cited Guy as one example of a legal 10 principle that is amply supported by the other authority in Defendants' brief (i.e., that even if 11 some of the complained-of conduct occurred in California, there must be more than a superficial 12 connection to the state). See D.I. 640 (Defs.' Mot.) at 3-4. For example, Speyer v. Avis Rent a 13 Car Sys., Inc., which Defendants cite on the same page, stands for the same proposition. See 415 14 F. Supp. 2d 1090, 1099 (S.D. Cal. 2005). Moreover, Plaintiffs do not dispute that this is an 15 accurate statement of the law. D.I. 677 (Pls.' Opp.) at 6 ("California law still applies where there 16 are adequate California connections, a proposition affirmed by each case SAP cites.") (emphasis 17 added). Thus, Defendants' citation to Guy was harmless, and Plaintiffs' request to strike any 18 portion of Defendants' motion on that ground should be denied.

SFI-638763v1

D. Exhibit 1 to the Wallace Declaration (Rule 1006 Summary).

20 Plaintiffs purport to object to Defendants' Rule 1006 Summary on accuracy grounds (Pls.' 21 Objs. to Evid. at 6) but fail to identify any inaccuracy with respect to the 39 customers included in 22 the summary. Instead, Plaintiffs complain that the summary omits one customer, Durr, which 23 Plaintiffs contend is an OEMEA customer. Id. However, Plaintiffs are mistaken that Durr should 24 be included on the list of OEMEA customers. Plaintiffs rely on Schedule 31.SU to the Meyer 25 Report for their contention, in which "Mr. Meyer assigns certain Durr AG support contracts to 26 Oracle GB (also known as Oracle Corporation UK Limited) in Oracle's EMEA region." D.I. 679 27 (House Decl.) ¶ 42. However, the contracts that Meyer assigns to Oracle GB (contracts P-JD-M07051-1-000-3 and P-04-05153-000-70) are not the relevant contracts. The contract for 28 products supported by TN (contract P-JD-M00434-000-97) was assigned to Oracle USA, Inc., not Oracle GB or OEMEA. Thus, for purposes of this case and Defendants' motion, Durr is not an OEMEA customer, and Plaintiffs' objection is not well-founded.

Plaintiffs point to no other purported inaccuracy. Indeed, Plaintiffs do not dispute any of the facts contained within the Rule 1006 Summary. Plaintiffs' objection on that ground should be denied.

7 Plaintiffs' objection that the Rule 1006 Summary is based on inadmissible evidence should 8 also be denied. The source documents are not hearsay, as Plaintiffs contend. Pls.' Objs. to Evid. 9 at 7. As set forth in the Declaration of Elaine Wallace in Support of Defendants' Fed. R. Evid. 10 1006 Summary of Evidence ("Wallace Decl."), the information in the summary is derived from 11 three sources: (1) the OKI3 database, in which Plaintiffs record information relating to their 12 customer contracts; (2) commissionaire, undisclosed agency, and other agreements among the 13 relevant Oracle entities; and (3) a spreadsheet in which Plaintiffs listed multiple entities that 14 shared Oracle revenue under certain revenue sharing agreements. Id. at 1. Each of these 15 documents was produced by Plaintiffs. Id. In addition, Plaintiffs' expert, Meyer, has relied on 16 them for his damages analysis. None of these documents are hearsay because they constitute 17 admissions of a party-opponent under Rule 801(d)(2) of the Federal Rules of Evidence. They are 18 also business records under Rule 803(6) of the Federal Rules of Evidence and thus would be 19 excepted from the rule against hearsay in any event. In addition, Meyer's reliance on the same 20 documents precludes Plaintiffs from denying that the documents have sufficient indicia of 21 reliability to be admissible under Rule 807 of the Federal Rules of Evidence. Thus, there is no 22 basis for Plaintiffs' hearsay objection, and it should be denied.

Plaintiffs' sole remaining objection (Pls.' Objs. to Evid. at 7) is to a statement in the Rule 1006 Summary that for four customers, the "territories are assumed" to be in EMEA because, while the customer contracts at issue were assigned by Plaintiffs to OEMEA, Plaintiffs failed to produce the relevant agreements so that Defendants could ascertain the precise territories of the commissionaires at issue. This objection should also be denied. First, by failing to produce the relevant agreements, Plaintiffs have waived any right to object to the fact that Defendants did not

1	include them in the Rule 1006 Summary. Second, Plaintiffs do not dispute that Defendants'
2	assumption is correct, i.e. , that the territories of the commissionaires for these four customers are,
3	in fact, in EMEA. Not surprisingly, for example, Plaintiffs do not dispute that the territory for
4	Oracle Belgium includes Belgium, the territory for Oracle Spain includes Spain, and the territory
5	for Oracle Denmark includes Denmark. See, e.g., Rule 1006 Summary at 3 (entry for Allianz Life
6	Insurance of North America).
7	In short, none of Plaintiffs' objections to the Rule 1006 Summary have any merit. The
8	objections, and Plaintiffs' request that the Court strike the Rule 1006 Summary and the portions of
9	Defendants' motion that cite to it, should be rejected.
