Just see what he comes back with.

If he questions, we can go from there

I will remove the $200K consultant pay from schedule for the next five years. If Nellie doesn't remember this can I have him email/discuss with you?

Thanks,
Floyd

I might have left it out of the email. But we didn't agree that we would pay the 200k. So lets not pay it

I will see if he asks to keep/pay for the tickets.

On the consultant salary I waited to check my file this morning, but I have an email from you back in March 2005 that states his dollars stay the same and no changes to the contract. This would have us pay him $200,000 per year for the next five years as consultant. Additionally we also are scheduled to pay him previously earned deferred comp of $6,600,000 for the next nine years. This is comprised of $1,000,000 a year for six years and then $200,000 a year for the following three years related to a deferral election we exercised with the 5th amendment in 2003. See attached file to help lay out the numbers.

When we renegotiated in 2003 Robert and I already had removed all benefits post June 30, 2006. Thus all the ancillary stuff will stop effective at the end of the month.

Actually, I think he can keep the tax if he pays for them, and he no long gets the consultant salary if I remember correctly

That was part of the termination deal

We are cutting all of Nellie's benefits effective 6/30/06. He will get the consultant salary and no benefits. One question I want to clarify as the question might come up. He is not entitled to his tickets from this point forward, however, if he asks to purchase them can he?

My personal opinion is to either say no or reduce the quality as we have limited good inventory like the tickets he has.
Thanks,
Floyd
