* Admitted pro hac vice

1 In accordance with the Court’s August 12, 2009 Order, see Doc. # 141, the Defendants-
2 Intervenors (“Proposition 8 Proponents” or “Proponents”) respectfully submit this supplemental 3 case management statement. The Court has ordered all parties to provide responses to the 4 following questions:

5
6 1. The specific elements of the claims plaintiffs assert and the defenses, if any, intervenors contend apply.

7 Plaintiffs assert claims grounded in the Due Process and Equal Protection Clauses of the 8 Fourteenth Amendment. These claims are foreclosed by the Supreme Court’s decision in Baker v.
9 Nelson, 409 U.S. 810 (1972). Baker notwithstanding, Plaintiffs’ claims fail for the following 10 reasons.<sup>1</sup>

11
12 a. Fundamental liberty interest under the Due Process Clause

13 To establish a fundamental liberty interest protected by the Due Process Clause, Plaintiffs 14 must offer a “careful description” of their asserted interest and show that it is “objectively, deeply
15 rooted in this nation’s history and tradition.” Washington v. Glucksberg, 521 U.S. 702, 720-21
16 (1997) (quotation marks omitted).

17 Carefully described, Plaintiffs assert a fundamental liberty interest in extending the civil 18 status of “marriage” to same-sex relationships. This asserted interest is not objectively, deeply
19 rooted in this nation’s history and tradition. As for plaintiffs’ claims that Proposition 8 infringes
20 upon their sexual autonomy, Proposition 8 does not criminalize or in any way punish private 21 sexual behavior, and thus it does not implicate the liberty interest identified in Lawrence v. Texas, 22 539 U.S. 558 (2003). Significantly, both the majority opinion and the separate concurrence of 23 Justice O’Connor in Lawrence made clear that the liberty interest upheld in that case did not entail
24 a right to same-sex marriage. See id. at 578 (majority); id. at 585 (O’Connor, J., concurring in 25
26

27
28 <sup>1</sup> Proponents do not dispute that in implementing and enforcing Proposition 8, Defendants have acted under the color of state law. But Proponents do not concede that Plaintiffs have (Continued)

1 judgment).

2 b. Standard of review under the Equal Protection Clause for sexual orientation
3 discrimination

4 Plaintiffs claim that discrimination based on sexual orientation should be subject to 5 heightened scrutiny under the Equal Protection Clause. This claim must be rejected under binding
6 Ninth Circuit precedent. See High Tech Gays v. Defense Indus. Sec. Clearance Office, 895 F.2d
7 563, 574 (9th Cir. 1990); see also See Flores v. Morgan Hill Unified Sch. Dist., 324 F.3d 1130,
8 1137 (9th Cir. 2003); Holmes v. California Army Nat’l Guard, 124 F.3d 1126, 1132 (9th Cir.
9 1997); Philips v. Perry, 106 F.3d 1420, 1425 (9th Cir. 1997). Every other federal circuit that has 10 considered the matter has reached the same conclusion. See Cook v. Gates, 528 F.3d 42, 61 (1st 11 Cir. 2008); Veney v. Wyche, 293 F.3d 726, 731-32 (4th Cir. 2002); Johnson v. Johnson, 385 F.3d 12 503, 532 (5th Cir. 2004); Scarborough v. Morgan County Bd. of Educ., 470 F.3d 250, 261 (6th Cir.
13 2006); Ben-Shalom v. Marsh, 881 F.2d 454, 464 (7th Cir. 1989); Citizens for Equal Prot. v.
14 Bruning, 455 F.3d 859, 866 (8th Cir. 2006); Rich v. Sec’y of the Army, 735 F.2d 1220, 1229 (10th
15 Cir. 1984); Lofton v. Sec’y of Dep’t of Children and Family Servs., 358 F.3d 804, 818 (11th Cir.
16 2004); Steffan v. Perry, 41 F.3d 677, 684 n.3 (D.C. Cir. 1994); Woodward v. United States, 871
17 F.2d 1068, 1076 (Fed. Cir. 1989).

18
19
20 If the court nevertheless determines that this is an open question, Plaintiffs’ claim fails 21 nonetheless for several independent reasons.

22 i. Whether Proposition 8 discriminates on the basis of sexual orientation

23 At the outset, Plaintiffs must show that Proposition 8 discriminates on the basis of sexual 24 orientation. See Aleman v. Glickman, 217 F.3d 1191, 1195 (9th Cir. 2000) (“In resolving [an]
25 equal protection challenge, we must first determine what classification has been created by the 26 [challenged] provision.”).

27 (Cont’d)
28 satisfied the other elements of their claims that Plaintiffs’ have identified.

1 Plaintiffs cannot make this showing. Proposition 8, by limiting civil marriage to the union
2 of a man and a woman, does not classify individuals on the basis of their sexual orientation.

3 ii. Whether same-sex and opposite-sex couples are similarly situated for 4 purposes of civil marriage recognition

5 Plaintiffs must demonstrate that same-sex couples and opposite-sex couples are similarly 6 situated with respect to marriage. See Nordlinger v. Hahn, 505 U.S. 1, 10 (1992); Rostker v.
7 Goldberg, 453 U.S. 57, 79 (1981).

8 Plaintiffs cannot make this threshold showing. Marriage has always been limited to 9 opposite sex relationships because of the naturally procreative nature of the male-female
10 relationship. Same-sex relationships are different in this relevant respect.

11 iii. Whether sexual orientation is a suspect or quasi-suspect classification

12 As we have explained, rational basis scrutiny applies to laws that classify on the basis of 13 sexual orientation as a matter of binding precedent and is therefore not an open question.
14 Heightened scrutiny, moreover, is reserved for classifications affecting groups that require 15 extraordinary protection from the political process. See, e.g., United States v. Carolene Products,
16 304 U.S. 144, 152 n.4 (1938). To demonstrate that they require this “extraordinary protection,”
17 Plaintiffs must show, among other things, that gays and lesbians (1) are “politically powerless,” 18 see, e.g., Cleburne v. Cleburne Living Ctr., 473 U.S. 432, 445 (1985); and (2) are defined by an 19 “immutable” characteristic, see, e.g. Frontiero v. Richardson, 411 U.S. 677, 686 (1973)
20 (plurality). See also High Tech Gays, 895 F.2d at 573.

21 Plaintiffs cannot show that gays and lesbians meet the requirements for receiving 22 heightened equal protection scrutiny.

23 c. Sex Discrimination

24 To demonstrate that Proposition 8 merits heightened scrutiny as a sex-based classification,
25 Plaintiffs must show that it classifies on the basis of sex. See Aleman, 217 F.3d at 1195.
26
27
28

1 Plaintiffs cannot make this showing, as the overwhelming weight of authority, including 2 every federal court to have addressed this issue, establishes that the traditional definition of 3 marriage does not classify on the basis of sex.

4 d. Rational basis review

5 Because Proposition 8 is not, as a matter of law, subject to heightened review under the 6 Due Process Clause or the Equal Protection Clause, it is constitutional if it passes rational basis
7 review. Under this standard, Proposition 8 is presumed to be constitutional and Plaintiffs bear the 8 burden “to negative any reasonably conceivable state of facts that could provide a rational basis”
9 for the law. Bd. of Trs. of the University of Alabama v. Garrett, 531 U.S. 356, 367 (2001)
10 (quotation marks omitted).
11

12 Plaintiffs cannot meet this standard, as Proposition 8 is rationally related to several 13 legitimate government interests, including, among others:

- 14 • Preserving the traditional definition of marriage as the union of a man and a woman.
- 15 • Promoting the formation of naturally procreative unions.
- 16 • Promoting stability and responsible behavior in naturally procreative relationships.
- 17 • Promoting enduring and stable family structures for the responsible raising and care of 18 children by their biological parents.
- 19 • Promoting the natural and mutually beneficial bond between parents and their biological 20 children by encouraging parents to raise their biological children.
- 21 • Acting incrementally and with caution when considering radical change to the fundamental 22 nature of a bedrock social institution.
- 23 • Acting incrementally and with caution when considering radical change to the fundamental
24 nature of a bedrock social institution.

25 e. Heightened review

26 In the alternative, if the Court determines that either strict or intermediate scrutiny applies,
27 the burden shifts to the defenders of Proposition 8. To satisfy the strict scrutiny standard, a law
28

1 must be “narrowly tailored to serve a compelling state interest.” Glucksberg, 521 U.S. at 721
2 (quotation marks omitted). A law satisfies the intermediate scrutiny standard when it is 3 “substantially related” to an “important” government interest. United States v. Virginia, 518 U.S.
4 515, 533 (1996) (quotation marks omitted).

5 If necessary, the Proponents will show that Proposition 8 meets these standards.

6 f. Affirmative defenses

7 The Proponents continue to maintain the affirmative defenses that (1) Plaintiffs have failed
8 to state a claim upon which relief can be granted; and (2) neither the challenged provision nor 9 Defendants have deprived Plaintiffs of any right or privilege guaranteed by the United States
10 Constitution.

11 These defenses will rise or fall with our legal arguments in response to Plaintiffs’ claims.

12 2. Admissions and stipulations that Proponents are prepared to enter with respect to 13 the forgoing elements and applicable defenses at issue

14 Proponents’ response to the stipulations proposed by the Plaintiffs are attached as Exhibit
15 B. In addition, Proponents now propose additional stipulations that Proponents are prepared to 16 enter, which are attached as Exhibit A. The parties are unlikely to agree whether or not these 17 stipulations, if entered, suffice to resolve any of the elements identified above.

18 3. Proponents’ discovery plans

19 Set forth below are Proponents’ current intentions with respect to discovery. We wish to 20 emphasize that our thinking continues to evolve on these subjects, especially as Plaintiffs’ trial 21 and discovery strategy emerges, and we may pursue additional lines of discovery or decide not to 22 pursue issues identified below. Of course, we may also take discovery of plaintiffs.
23
25
26
27
28

1 to government agencies that maintain these records. In California, we understand that the Office
2 of Vital Records, a branch of the Department of Public Health, maintains statewide marriage
3 records and that the Secretary of State's Office maintains statewide domestic partnership records.

4 From the domestic partnership records, we will compile a list of all the individuals in 5 California who have entered a same-sex domestic partnership. We will then cross-reference these 6 names with the marriage records to identify individuals were previously or subsequently married
7 to a member of the opposite sex. We may also obtain additional data by issuing subpoenas to 8 relevant government agencies in other states that recognize same-sex relationships.

9
10 iv. The relative political power of gays and lesbians

11 We will present evidence that gays and lesbians wield substantial political power. Many 12 underlying facts relevant to gauging the political power of gays and lesbians are not subject to 13 dispute as reflected in the detailed stipulations we have drafted on this issue. Those stipulations 14 cover the extensive legal rights that gays and lesbians have attained under state and local law in 15 California. The stipulations also cover the gay and lesbian community's success in blocking state
16 laws that were perceived as adverse to its interests. In addition to this undisputed evidence
17 supporting our proposed stipulations, if Plaintiffs seek to introduce expert evidence on this 18 subject, we may do so as well.

19
20 We do not anticipate any fact discovery on this issue.

21
22 b. The campaign by which Proposition 8 was adopted

23 The Proposition 8 Proponents believe that the subjective motivations of voters and other
24 political participants for supporting Proposition 8 are both legally irrelevant and are protected
25 from discovery by the First Amendment. It is therefore inappropriate to inquire into such matters.
26 The Court should ascertain the Proposition's purpose by reference to the text of the law and its 27 necessary legal implications. If it is appropriate to consider any other evidence, the Court should 28

1 limit its inquiry to objective matters such as official statements and information presented to the 2 voters. Nevertheless, if Plaintiffs are permitted to take discovery into the subjective motivations
3 and strategies of Proponents and other supporters of Proposition 8, then we will likewise take 4 extensive fact discovery into the motivations and strategies of the individuals and organizations
5 that opposed Proposition 8, possibly including the following individuals and groups:

16           c.       Character of the rights plaintiffs contend are infringed or violated

17           Plaintiffs assert a constitutional right to State recognition of same-sex unions as marriages.
 18           This claim is not “objectively, deeply rooted in this Nation’s history and tradition.” As the 19           stipulations referenced above reflect, no state recognized same-sex marriage at the time of the 20           Founding, nor at the time of the ratification of the Fourteenth Amendment, nor at any other time
 21           prior to 2003. We do not anticipate factual discovery on this issue. But to the extent Plaintiffs 22           seek to introduce an expert opinion on this issue, we may do so as well.

24           d.       Effect of Proposition 8 upon Plaintiffs and similarly situated individuals

25           As our proposed stipulations reflect, the parties should be able to agree that California
 26           affords to domestic partnerships the same “core set of basic substantive legal rights and attributes”
 27           afforded to married couples. Strauss v. Horton, 46 Cal. 4th 364, 411 (Cal. 2009) (quotation marks
 28

1 omitted, emphases in original).

2 With respect to the effects of same-sex marriage in the non-governmental context, we plan
3 to take discovery to develop evidence showing substantial equality in non-governmental treatment
4 of same-sex couples regardless of the label the government affixes to their relationships. We also 5 plan to take discovery of the state agencies in California and other states that track the number of 6 couples electing domestic partnerships and the number of couples choosing same sex marriage in 7 various jurisdictions throughout the country. In California, the Office of Vital Records, a branch
8 of the Department of Public Health, maintains statewide marriage records and the Secretary of 9 State's Office maintains statewide domestic partnership records.
10

11 e. Effect of Proposition 8 on opposite-sex couples and others not in same-sex
12 relationships in California

13 Although the Proposition 8 Proponents do not at this time know whether, or the precise 14 effect that, permitting same sex couples to marry would have on traditional marriage, we intend to 15 inquire into and develop evidence on this issue, by, among other things, seeking records relating 16 to the formation and dissolution of marriages and domestic partnerships from relevant agencies in 17 states that recognize same-sex relationships. In California, the Secretary of State's Office
18 maintains domestic partnership records and domestic partnership dissolution records.
19

20 f. Other issues pertinent to the parties' claims or defenses

21 As indicated above, Proposition 8 rationally serves a number of legitimate governmental
22 interests. At this time, however, we do not plan on requiring fact discovery to develop evidence
23 related to these interests, with one exception. Proposition 8 promotes the natural and mutually 24 beneficial bond between parents and their biological children by encouraging parents to raise their 25 biological children. We plan to develop evidence that many gay and lesbian individuals desire to 26 have biological rather than adopted or foster children, and that many satisfy these desires with the 27 assistance of technology or by other means. We will seek discovery of the names of Californians
28

1 in registered domestic partnerships with the parents listed on birth records from the Department of 2 Health's Office of Vital Records (which maintains birth records) and the Secretary of State's 3 Office (which maintains domestic partnership records). We may also seek discovery from 4 companies and organizations that offer assisted reproductive technology and services to develop 5 evidence on this issue.

6
7 4. Expert Testimony

8 Proponents have not finalized the areas as to which they will submit expert evidence 9 testimony. As previously discussed, much of our need for expert testimony will turn upon the 10 nature of the expert testimony plaintiffs offer. In addition to the foregoing discussion, we set forth 11 below our current views on expert testimony that may be necessary:

- 12 • If the Court asks for evidence on the immutability of sexual orientation, we will present
13 evidence demonstrating that homosexuality is not immutable. This evidence may include 14 expert evidence. Proponents' experts will have experience in the field of psychology.
- 15 • Proponents may present expert opinion on the nature of discrimination that gays and 16 lesbians experienced in the past.
- 17 • Proponents may present expert evidence on the political power of gays and lesbians. The 18 expert(s) would have substantial knowledge of California's political landscape. Such an 19 expert would be a political consultant or a professor of political science, or both.
- 20 • Proponents may submit an expert opinion that marriage has always been defined as the 21 union of a man and a woman. Proponents' expert would have extensive knowledge of the 22 institution of marriage.
- 23 • Proponents may submit expert opinion that a child's biological parents provide the optimal 24 environment for raising that child. Proponents' expert will have significant experience in 25 psychology, biology, and/or the analysis of family structures.
26
27
28

- 1 • Proponents may present expert evidence demonstrating substantial equality in non-
2 governmental treatment of same-sex couples regardless of the label the government affixes
3 to their relationships. Proponents' expert will have knowledge as to the factors that 4 influence non-governmental views towards same-sex relationships.
- 5 • As noted above, although the Proposition 8 Proponents do not at this time know whether,
6 or the precise effect that, permitting same sex couples to marry would have on traditional 7 marriage, we may present an expert opinion analyzing the data we acquire regarding the 8 formation and dissolution of domestic partnerships, civil unions, and marriages. Our 9 expert would have extensive knowledge about the institution of marriage and may well 10 have a political science background.
- 11 • We may also present an expert opinion analyzing the evidence we discover regarding gay 12 and lesbian individuals' desire to have biological rather than adopted or foster children, 13 and the number of gays and lesbians who satisfy these desires with the assistance of 14 technology or by other means. Proponents' expert will have significant experience in 15 psychology, biology, and/or the analysis of family structures.
