12 13 14 15		DISTRICT COURT N DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA Case No. CV-09-03179 SI The Honorable Susan Illston CLASS ACTION Revised Proposed JORDER GRANTING PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR CLASS CERTIFICATION Date :: Time :: Courtroom :: Complaint Filed: June 9, 2009 FAC Filed: July 8, 2009
19 20	SAC Filed: October 8, 2009 ORDER
20 21		untiffs' Motion for Class Certification (Docket No.
22		s, including the moving papers and the Stipulation
23	of the parties concerning the filing of a Fourth A	Amended Complaint and Certification of the Class
24	(Docket No. 50), as well as the Court's Order gra	anting leave to file the Fourth Amended Complaint
25	and the order certifying the class.
26	I. BACK	GROUND
27	The original complaint herein was filed	by Arabella Lemus on June 9, 2009 in the San
28	Francisco Superior Court. Defendant filed its No	tice of Removal to this Court on July 13, 2009. At [Proposed] Order Granting Motion for Class Certification 1 CV-09-03179 SI

this time, the pending operative pleading is the Fourth Amended Complaint (Docket No. __) filed pursuant to stipulation of the parties and Order of this court (Docket No. __).

3 On September 24, 2010, Plaintiffs moved for certification of the following causes of action set
4 forth in the Third Amended Complaint:

The First Cause of Action for Failure to Timely Pay Earned Wages In Violation of Labor Code §204; the Second Cause of Action for Failure to Provide Accurate Wage Statements In Violation of Labor Code §226; the Fifth Cause of Action for Failure to Pay All Wages Due at Time of Termination of Employment In Violation of Labor Code §203; and the Sixth Cause of Action for Unfair Competition in As Set Forth In California Business & Professions Code §17200, et.seq.

Thereafter, the parties entered into a stipulation, reduced to an order of this Court, which permitted the Plaintiff to file a Fourth Amended Complaint which contained the following causes of action only:

First Cause of Action for Failure to Provide Accurate Wage Statements In Violation of Labor Code §226;

15 Second Cause of Action for Failure to Pay All Wages Due at Time of Termination of 16 Employment In Violation of Labor Code §203;

17 Third Cause of Action for civil penalties under the Private Attorney General Act (*Labor*18 Code, §§ 2698 et seq.).

19 Pursuant to the stipulation of the parties, the Plaintiffs' Motion For Class Certification will be deemed to seek certification of the three causes of action set forth in the Fourth Amended Complaint. 20 21 These claims relate directly to Plaintiffs' claims that Defendant allegedly failed to make full, complete and timely payment of earned compensation to its seasonally employed tax professionals at the 22 23 conclusion of employment in violation of California Labor Code §§ 201 - 203¹, as well as claims that 24 Defendant failed to provide accurate wage statements in violation of Labor Code §226, and for civil 25 penalties pursuant to Labor Code, §§ 2698 et seq. Further pursuant to the stipulation of the parties, Defendant stipulates to certification of the causes of action found in the Fourth Amended Complaint 26 27 in connection with the following class:

28

¹All references herein to the "Labor Code" refer to the California Labor Code.

1	Plaintiff Class:
2	All seasonal, non-exempt Tax Professional employees who were or are employed by
3	defendants during the Class Period in California as tax preparers.
4	Terminated Sub-Class:
5	All members of the Plaintiff Class whose employment ended during the Class Period.
6	The proposed Class Period runs from June 9, 2006 through December 31, 2010.
7	II. LEGAL STANDARD
8	Class certification is governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23, which sets forth a
9	two-step procedure. First, the Court must determine that the following four requirements of Rule 23(a)
10	have been satisfied: (1) ascertainability/numerosity; (2) common questions of law and fact; (3)
11	typicality; and (4) fair and adequate representation. Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(a). Once these requirements are
12	met, the plaintiff must also show that the lawsuit qualifies for class action status under one of the 13	criteria found in Rule 23(b). See Zinser v. Accufix Research Institute, Inc., 253 F.3d 1180, 1186 (9th
14	Cir.2001), amended and superceded on denial of rehearing by Zinser v. Accufix Research Institute,
15	Inc. , 273 F.3d 1266 (9th Cir.2001) (noting that Plaintiff "bears the burden of demonstrating that [he]
16	has met each of the four requirements of Rule 23(a) and at least one of the requirements of Rule
17	23(b)").
18	Rule 23(b) requires that the plaintiff establish that either: (1) there is a risk of inconsistent
19	adjudication, or adjudication of individual class member's claims would substantially impair non-party
20	members' ability to protect their interests; (2) the defendant acted on grounds generally applicable to
21	the class; or (3) common questions of law or fact predominate and class resolution is superior to other
22	available methods. Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(b).
23	The plaintiff bears the burden of proving that certification is appropriate. See Hawkins v .
24	Comparet-Cassani, 251 F.3d 1230, 1238 (9th Cir.2001). However, "[b]ecause the early resolution of
25	the class certification question requires some degree of speculation all that is required is that the
26	Court form a 'reasonable judgment' on each certification requirement." In re Citric Acid Antitrust
27	Litig., 1996 WL 655791 *2 (N.D.Cal.1996). "In formulating this judgment, the Court may properly
28	consider both the allegations of the class action complaint and the supplemental evidentiary

1	submissions of the parties." Id. at 2.
2	III. ANALYSIS
3	A. Class Period
4	The appropriate class period for the claims raised is governed by a three year statute of
5	limitations in connection with the Second Cause of Action for penalties under Labor Code §203 (from
6	June 9, 2006), and one year for the First and Third Causes of Action (from June 9, 2008).
7	B. Ascertainability
8	A prerequisite to certification is that the class must be sufficiently definite. See, DeBremaeker
9	vs. Short, 433 F.2d 733, 734 (5th Cir. 1970). An identifiable class exists if its members can be
10	ascertained by reference to objective criteria. Id., at 734. The members of the proposed class can be
11	ascertained from objective data, thus resulting in an identifiable class. See, DeBremaeker vs. Short,
12	433 F.2d 733, 734 (5 th Cir. 1970). In response to Requests For Admissions 5 and 6 (Exhibit 5 to the 13	Motion), Defendant admitted that its records contain the names of all potential class members, and last
14	known contact information for each.
15	C. The Requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)
16	1. Joinder Of All Members Is Impractical
17	The proposed class is made up of over 20,000 current and former California H&R Block
	The proposed class is made up of over 20,000 current and former California H&R Block employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's
18
18 19	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's
18 19	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a
18 19 20	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large
18 19 20 21	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees:
 18 19 20 21 22 	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees: The policy at the very core of the class action mechanism is to overcome the problem
 18 19 20 21 22 23 	 employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees: The policy at the very core of the class action mechanism is to overcome the problem that small recoveries do not provide the incentive for any individual to bring a solo
 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees: The policy at the very core of the class action mechanism is to overcome the problem that small recoveries do not provide the incentive for any individual to bring a solo action prosecuting his or her rights. A class action solves this problem by aggregating
 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees: The policy at the very core of the class action mechanism is to overcome the problem that small recoveries do not provide the incentive for any individual to bring a solo action prosecuting his or her rights. A class action solves this problem by aggregating the relatively paltry potential recoveries into something worth someone's (usually an
 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 	employees. Marlin declaration, ¶3. All of whom appear to be equally affected by Defendant's common policy. Individual litigation of these identical claims would not only be impractical and a waste of judicial resources. A class action is the ideal procedure for the resolution of such a large number of claims, on behalf of thousands of employees: The policy at the very core of the class action mechanism is to overcome the problem that small recoveries do not provide the incentive for any individual to bring a solo action prosecuting his or her rights. A class action solves this problem by aggregating the relatively paltry potential recoveries into something worth someone's (usually an attorney's) labor. Amchem Products, Inc. v. Windsor , 521 U.S. 591, 617, 117 S.Ct.

1	2. There Are Common Questions of Law And Fact
2	Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2) requires the existence of common law or fact questions among the
3	members of the proposed class. This commonality requirement is less strict than rule 23(b)(3), which
4	will be discussed hereafter. Hanlon v. Chrysler Corporation, 150 F.3d 1011, 1019 (9th Cir. 1998).
5	Here, the following common questions of law and fact are present:
6	i. Under California law, does the Defendant's policy of providing final hourly pay
7	to employees on the contract termination date, despite the fact that employees
8	may have ceased providing services days before, violate the Labor Code?
9	ii. Does Defendant's policy of paying Additional Compensation in mid May each
10	year violate the Labor Code?
11	iii. Do Defendant's wage statements violate the Labor Code in failing to 12	disclose the amount of Additional Compensation earned?
13	iv. If Defendant has violated the Labor Code as noted above, was that failure
14	willful under Labor Code §203?
15	These common questions of law or fact meet the requirements of section $23(a)(2)$.
16	3. The Representative Plaintiffs' Claims Are
17	Typical of the Claims of the Absent Class
18	Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3) sets forth the "typicality" requirement for certification of a class
19	action. "This prong requires that the claims and defenses of the class representative do not differ
20	significantly from the claims or defenses of the class as a whole." In re Activision Securities
21	Litigation, 621 F.Supp 415, 428 (N.D. Cal. 1985). "The typicality requirement should be construed
22	broadly." Id. "The test of typicality 'is whether other members have the same or similar injury,
23	whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique to the named plaintiffs, and whether other
24	class members have been injured by the same conduct." Hanson v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497,
25	508 (9th Cir. 1992) (quoting Schwartz vs. Harp, 108 F.R.D. 279, 282 (C.D. Cal. 1985). Accord,
26	Lightbourn vs. County of El Paso, 118 F.3d 421, 426 (5th Cir. 1998).
27	When a plaintiff's claim is typical, the plaintiff and each member of the represented
28	group have an interest in prevailing on similar legal claims. By pursuing his or her
	[Proposed] Order Granting Motion for Class Certification

5

interests in the litigation, the class representative advances the interests of the class members. This alignment of interest is a necessary consequence of the typicality of the plaintiff's claim. 1 Newberg on Class Actions, Fourth Edition, §3.16 at 378.

4 In this case, there are two proposed representative plaintiffs - Arabella Lemus and Malvin A. 5 Ayala. Each worked for Defendant in California as a Seasonal Tax Professional during several 6 different tax seasons during the proposed class period. Testimony was obtained from Defendant's designated 30(b)(6) witness, JoAnn Atkinson, that the timing of compensation payments to the 7 8 Plaintiffs would be the same as that made to all Seasonal Tax Pros. Each proposed representative 9 plaintiff was thus subject to the same policies and procedures concerning the timing of payment of compensation and the information provided on wage statements so that each has claims typical of the 10 11 members of the proposed class. In addition, Ms. Lemus was terminated prior to the end of the 2009 12 tax season, making her claims for that tax season typical of the claims of members of the proposed 13 sub-class.

14

1

2

3

4. Adequacy of Representation

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(4) requires that plaintiffs be able to "fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class". To establish adequacy of representation, plaintiffs must show that (1) their interests are common with, and not antagonistic to, the classes' interests; and (2) that they are "able to prosecute the action vigorously through qualified counsel." Lerwill vs. Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc., 582 F.2d 507, 512 (9th Cir. 1978).

There is no evidence that any plaintiff has any conflict of interest with any member of the proposed class. Plaintiffs' counsel has investigated the claims of the class through discovery, depositions, etc. Plaintiffs' counsel have filed declarations establishing their substantial experience in the litigation of class actions, and in particular the litigation of employment related matters.
Defendant has not raised any challenge to the competency of plaintiffs' counsel.

25 26

D. Rule 23(b)(3) Requirements

Accordingly, the Court finds that the adequacy of representation requirement is met.

Under Rule 23(b)(3), the Court must find that the questions of law or fact common to the members of the class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and that a

1 class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the 2 controversy. Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(b)(3). The matters pertinent to a finding under Rule 23(b)(3) include: (a) the interest of members of the class in individually controlling the prosecution or defense of 3 separate actions; (b) the extent and nature of any litigation concerning the controversy already 4 5 commenced by or against members of the class; (c) the desirability or undesirability of concentrating the litigation of the claims in the particular forum; and, (d) the difficulties likely to be encountered in 6 the management of a class action. Lerwill vs. Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc., 582 F.2d 507 (9th Cir. 7 8 1978)

9 The objective behind the two requirements of Rule 23(b)(3) is the promotion of economy and 10 efficiency in actions that primarily involve monetary damages. See Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(b)(3) advisory 11 committee notes. When common issues predominate, true economy may be achieved through the class 12 action device, as time, effort and expense can be saved as compared to individual suits, and the 13 confusion over differing outcomes can be avoided. Id.

14

1. Common Facts and Legal Issues Predominate

Rule 23(b)(3) requires that questions of law or fact common to class members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members of the class, and that the class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy. These requirements are clearly met herein.

19 This case revolves entirely around the timing of compensation payments made by Defendant 20 to Seasonal Tax Pros working in California during the proposed class period, as well as the impact of 21 those payments on the pay stub violations sought in the Second Cause of Action. The testimony from 22 Defendant's representative witness is that the policies and procedures concerning the timing of 23 payment are applied to all proposed class members.

Each of the common questions set forth ante in relation to the discussion of the requirements of Rule 23(a)(2) are also the predominant questions which will drive this entire case. As the answer to these questions will ultimately decide the liability phase of the case, they clearly predominate over any potential individual issues. They raise common factual issues as well as common legal issues that are dispositive of the claims presented on behalf of the proposed class.

Labor Code claims:

The legal and factual issues are common to all the members of the Class and to Sub-Class No. I. The question of whether defendant's conduct was or was not in violation of various Labor Code sections, and whether it was or was not willful in connection with its policies and procedures, as well as with the implementation of the same, is common to all the class members. Questions concerning defendant's conduct predominate in connection with all of the claims under the Labor Code.

With regard to the calculation of the amount of damages, if any, which will be owed to each class member, plaintiffs' have established that the necessary information is available from Defendant's records. The date and timing of "end of season" payments to class members each year is common to all class members employed through an entire tax season. Calculation of damages relating thereto, including penalties under section 203 will be straight forward and readily done. Calculation of damages due any sub-class member who did not work through an entire season are also readily determined from Defendant's records.

Since Defendant's witnesses have testified that its policies and procedures concerning payment of compensation, and the information contained on wage statements, is identical to all class members and applied equally to all class members, the issue of recovery of penalties pursuant to Labor Code§203 is clearly subject to common proof, and is not individual to any plaintiff or proposed class member.

19

1

2. Superiority

20 In this case, the legal and factual issues surrounding policy and practice of Defendant in 21 connection with the timing of compensation payments, and the presentation of what Plaintiffs claim 22 are inaccurate and incomplete payroll wage statements, are uniquely suited to class treatment. It is the 23 only logical manner in which these issues can be resolved on behalf of more than 20,000 class 24 members who have all been treated exactly the same by Defendant. Indeed, individual class members 25 would suffer from individual litigation of these matters. The same issues and the same facts apply equally to all, and class members have no logical interest in personally litigating issues that the 26 27 Plaintiffs are prepared to litigate on their behalf. The benefit of certification of this class is that the 28 evidence which will be presented concerning Defendant's actions, although costly to obtain, is

1 applicable to the claims of all members of the proposed class. 2 3. This Is The Appropriate Forum For Resolution of 3 These Claims The proposed class is comprised of employees of Defendant who were employed in the State 4 5 of California. The claims are based upon Defendant's failure to comply with the mandates of the 6 California Labor Code, and the rulings of the California Supreme Court. Defendant has business locations throughout the State of California, and this Court located in the Northern District of 7 8 California, this is clearly an appropriate forum for resolution of this matter. 9 CONCLUSION 10 Plaintiffs have satisfied the criteria of Rule 23(a) and Rule 23(b)(3). Class certification is 11 appropriate. The motion is GRANTED. 12 1. The Court certifies the following class in connection with the causes of action set forth in the Fourth Amended Complaint: 13 Plaintiff Class: 14 15 All seasonal, non-exempt Tax Professional employees who were or are employed by 16 defendants during the Class Period in California as tax preparers. 17 Terminated Sub-Class: All members of the Plaintiff Class whose employment ended during the Class Period. 18 19 The proposed Class Period runs from June 9, 2006 through the date class notice is mailed. 20 2. The Court appoints Marlin & Saltzman, LLP, the Diversity Law Group, APC and The 21 Law Offices of Sherry Jung as class counsel. 22 3. Class counsel shall prepare a proposed form of class notice and shall meet and confer 23 with defendant's counsel concerning the same. Any agreed upon notice shall be presented to the Court 24 for approval by December 10, 2010 In the event the parties cannot agree upon the form of notice, each 25 side shall file their proposed version for consideration by December 10, 2010. The Notice shall permit 26 class members to opt-out of the class if they so desire within 45 days of notice having been sent. 27 4. Notice shall be provided to the class via U.S. Mail to the last known address of each 28 class member reflected on Defendant's records. Defendant shall cooperate with class counsel in

1	preparing a computerized mailing list as required.
2	5. Class Counsel shall select an experienced Administrator to handle dissemination of
3	class notice and receipt of opt out requests.
4	6. The Administrator shall establish a web-site to assist with communication with
5	members of the class, and to permit members of the class to provide updated address information.
6
7	Dated: 12/6/10 Hon. Susan Illston
8	District Court Judge
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
	[Proposed] Order Granting Motion for Class Certification
	10 CV-09-03179 SI