1 Shortly thereafter, the undersigned attorney for James B. Goodman contact a company to
2 serve the Complaint on Numonyx B.V.. A recent letter from that company indicates that the
3 translations have been completed, and all of the documents have been sent to the Swiss
4 Authorities fro service according to laws. See Exhibit A. The letter projects that the completion
5 of the service and the return of the documents for filing in this Court will be around June 3 2010.

6 Extending the Hearing date to July 12, 2010 from April 12, 2010 will allow for 7 unexpected delays and ultimately save the Court's time. This is the first request to extend this 8 deadline.

RE: James B. Goodman v. Numonyx N.V.
International Service of Process in Switzerland upon: Numonyx B.V.

Dear Mr. Fink:

I would like to inform you that the Central Authority for Switzerland received your Hague Request for the above-mentioned case on March 3, 2010.

Currently, it takes an average of 3 months before proof of service is returned to the applicant. If you wish, for an additional fee, Legal Language Services (LLS) can provide periodic follow up with the Swiss Central Authority and report to you on your case's progress. Such reports normally commence 6-8 weeks after the request is filed with the foreign authority.

Once service has been effected, the Certificate on page two will be completed by the Swiss authorities and returned to LLS, along with a copy of all original documents forming a part of the Request. Proof of service may be in French, German or Italian. LLS will provide you with a bid letter for translation and certification of the proof of service. Please note, the entire packet of documents, including the final translation, is submitted to the court as proof of service.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact our office. It has been a pleasure working with you.

Sincerely,

LEGAL LANGUAGE SERVICES
